Kingston society had sponsored an essay contest on "Will Flowers I Have Known." A society is a service club doing something for others, and you get out of it what you put into it, said Mr. Clarke, who offered the services to help enlist interest.

Mr. Clarke had offered beautiful hand-carved earrings and brooch for lady, letter opener and key ring for men, to those securing the most memberships since the initial meeting. These were won by Mrs. C. A. Rublee and Rev. E. Wrighton.

Mr. Clark was introduced by D. A. Taylor and thanked by G. Campbell.

In taking office, President Phil Dodds urged every member to take the lead in starting movements in their own communities to secure improvements.

Only Manitoba Kids Will Get Free Fishing This Season

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Only the kids will get free fishing this year in Manitoba.

For the first time in history Manitoba is charging resident anglers who are 18 and over a $1 licence fee to cast a line in any of the province's 37,000 square miles of water.

But George Butler, supervisor of sport fishing and fish culture, says that won't matter to the province's thousands of anglers. He says they'll be just as many out as ever.

He says there is a great interest in the new licence—so much so that several individuals have come to his office and reported there are no complaints about the new $1 fee. In general, he says, it is approved.

RECIPROCAL ARRANGEMENTS

The amendment to the fishery regulations which created the $1 fee also provides for reciprocal arrangements with other provinces. Thus, residents of Saskatchewan and Ontario wishing to fish in Manitoba waters can purchase a resident angling licence for $1.

Ben Koskey of Winnipeg, who says he works Monday to Friday only because it helps fill time between weekend fishing trips, walked off with a new-model automobile for catching a six-pound 3½ ounce pickerel. The car was the major prize in the second annual fish-o-rama derby sponsored by Winnipeg Branch 141 of the Canadian Legion, and went to the fisherman landing the largest pickerel as compared with the world record. The world pickerel record is 22 with pounds, four ounces; the jack, 47 pounds, two ounces.

Officials closed off entries at 270 and reported a long waiting list for any possible cancellations. The fishermen, who paid an $18 fee which covered transportation, cast their lines in Shoal lake, about 97 miles southeast of Winnipeg, during the one-day derby.

There probably isn't a more tightly-controlled fishing competition in Canada. Its do and don't rules are tough, but the fishermen who competed last year say it's the fairest event they have ever participated in.

SPIN FISHING CHEAP

Fishermen report that since 1952 the output and variety of reels and rods have skyrocketed but cost have plunged. Today, a good spinning outfit, which will outcast the best bait-casting rig, can be bought for as low as $12.

Origin of spin fishing is not certain.

According to legend, a French gallant sat toying with a spool of thread and thus the art of spin fishing was born.

However, many experts credit the modern spin-fishing technique to Holden Illingworth, an Englishman, who got the brain wave while watching the action of spindles in his cotton mills.

Just set a spool of thread on end and pull. The thread unwinds smoothly off the end. Stop pulling and the line stops spooling off. That's exactly how a spinning reel operates.

Many fishermen prefer the system as it does away with the bugbears of the bait casting angler with his revolving spool anti-backlashes and the bird's - nest tangles of line.

Careful Planning for Landscaping

BY FLORA M. SAVILLE

You have made a complete landscaping plan for your new lot, a list of trees and shrubs which you think will complete a good picture. But, will will they be right ten years from now or will they make your land a jungle? Will the trees you planted in your city-size lot grow to forest-size trees? If so, they will dwarf your home, block your drains and provide heavy shade where it is not wanted.

Shrubs too, can become dense, hiding your home, crowding your lawn, drives, and view, and even encroaching on the public sidewalk, which really isn't your property.

Think before you spend money on plants which will quickly outgrow their usefulness. They will be a constant source of dissatisfaction, or you will dig them out and have to start over again, which is a waste of time and cash.

RIGHT FOR YOUR LOT

What then is the answer and how can you know what is right for your lot? If you are a veteran, a landscaping service is supplied to you free by the government. But the rest of us can get our answers in different ways.

The simplest method to draw a scale plan of your lot, the house and any present plant material which is on the lot. Also point out the directions north and south. This is important if plant material is to be selected for shady or sunny positions. Where the front of the house faces south you can choose sun-loving plants. A north exposure will require different plan. Take these to your local nursery, or send them to a reliable mail-order nursery and ask for a planting plan.

You need not buy all your plant material the first, or even the second year. Buy the slower growing material, such as the trees, and larger accent shrubs for the lot corners, or house corners, and the entrance. The rest can be filled in when you can afford them.

In the meantime you can get wonderful effects from quick growing annuals. Many of these will make shrub-sized plants in a few weeks and continue to give you plenty of color and masses of green until heavy frost cuts them down. Castor oil bean, cannas and coleus are a few of the best plants for this purpose.

ORNAMENTAL TREES

When considering trees plan to include one or more of the flowering ornamental fruit trees. They may be used as an accent in the shrub border, or as a specimen tree on the lawn.

Going back to your plan. If you have any preferences tell your nurseryman about them. Also, note if the yard is to be used for a playground for children. If you like to work in the garden a lot allow for space for cultivating flowers and vegetables. For those who like some seclusion for reading and sun bathing, part of the yard can be planted to provide for this. If you do not want to spend too much time with flowers and lawn, plan to use flagstones for part of the ground around the house, and depend upon shrubs for color effects rather than perennials and annuals. A little previous planning can give you years of satisfaction in your garden.

Two Drowned In Choppy Waters Of Lake St.Peter

BANCROFT. — (Special.) — Thrown into the choppy waters of Lake St. Peter, 15 miles north of this village, two people were drowned on Saturday afternoon.

Dead are Bruce Easton, 46, of the Department of Highways, Bancroft and Mrs. Catherine Cecilia Musclow, 22, of 339 Alice Street, Cobourg.

The tragedy came to light about four p.m., Saturday, when Jack Willard, Donald and Cecil Menzies, tourists from Carleton Place and Merrill Villancourt of Ottawa, saw an upturned boat floating in the water of the lake.

They immediately went to the boat and discovered the body of the drowned woman floating on the surface. Nearby was the body of Easton. The quartet recovered the bodies.

Easton and Mrs. Musclow were members of a party which was holidaying at the spot. Mrs. Easton and Hugh Musclow, husband of the drowned woman, had stayed ashore while the other two had gone out in the boat.

Easton was said to be a good boatman and an experienced swimmer. It is believed that the boat overturned while they were filling the gasoline tank and the cap was off.

Dr. G. W. Anderson, coroner, stated no inquest will be held. The tragedy was investigated by Corporal Archie Crayling and Constables Ray Hooker and Lynn Phillips of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Police said the couple's flat showed signs of a fierce struggle.

They said Mrs. Alexander, who threw her husband started to beat her and that he fell against the knife in the struggle.

No charges have been laid.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Colder air approaching Lake Michigan this morning is expected to cover all of Ontario by noon Wednesday bringing an end to the record weather of the past few days.

TORONTO (CP) — Police today said they now believe the bullet which killed employee Alan Hannan, 24, in last week's holdup of a midtown bank, was fired from the revolver of bank manager William Davidson.

The young clerk walked from a downtown lunch room into the middle of a gun fight between the manager and two armed bandits who later escaped with more than $2,000.

Officers today said that although tests on the manager's gun and Hannan's body have been completed in Ottawa, they are submitted for evidence of witnesses to the gun fight that the fatal bullet was fired by the manager.

Mr. Davidson who was back at his job today, said he had not been informed officially of the police theory and did not wish to make any comment on it.

Hannan, 24, is recovering in hospital from a bullet wound in the back and has been charged with armed robbery in the holdup. A second suspect, Arthur Aronson, 21, still is being sought by police throughout the province.

WAIT IN VAIN

Police Monday waited outside the city residence of Aronson's mother in the hopes he might surrender according to a plan made by the mother. Mrs. Hilda Aronson. Their vigil was kept in vain.

Officers said they doubt that the wanted man, whom they describe as "extremely dangerous" will give himself up if he believes he is wanted for murder. They also suggested that the warrant issued for his arrest charges bank robbery.

The Toronto Star and today's has learned that, unless ballistics tests show that a rifle or a missed bank gun was the weapon which killed Mr. Hannan, no charge of murder will be laid against Aronson or Simpson.

It said that, under revisions of the Criminal Code section dealing with homicide, the charge could be laid but it is unlikely the crown will attempt to support a murder charge.

Mrs. Aronson, mother of the wanted man, said today that, if Aronson is not in a treasure her son that he will not face a murder charge, "I feel he would give himself up."

Dr. G. W. Anderson, coroner, stated no inquest will be held. The tragedy was investigated by Corporal Archie Crayling and Constables Ray Hooker and Lynn Phillips of the Ontario Provincial Police.

French Planes Machine-Gun 20 Algerian Rebels

CASABLANCA (CP) — French air force planes machine-gunned at least 20 Algerian guerrillas to death in one of the first air blows stemmed at curbing terrorism in French North Africa, authorities said today.

They said the planes went into action against a band of some 60 rebels attacking a military post at Khenifra, Algeria, and forced the outlaws to flee.

Francois Leonetti, governor-General of the Morocco protectorate, meanwhile, prepared to launch new security measures drawn up at a confegence here Monday to combat mounting terrorism.

Three Moroccans were killed and two wounded in terrorist attacks here Monday night, bringing the death toll in this port city to 36 in the last week.

Dutch Spinster and Twenty Dogs Flying to Canada in Chartered Plane

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—A middle-aged Dutch spinster joyfully announced today that she has overcome the final barrier to flying herself, her 20 dogs and some heavy farm equipment to Canada in a chartered airliner.

Miss J. Bregmann, 47, said she is emigrating to Canada from her cattle-breeding farm at Garderen, the Netherlands, to find "freedom" from Dutch bureaucracy.

Financially, her flight to Truro, N.S., to escape red tape nearly ended.

RECORD NUMBER CANADIANS KILLED DURING HOLIDAY

Drownings, Highways Each Claim 28 Lives

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sixty-nine dead was the count today from Canada's first long week-end of the summer season.

A Canadian Press survey for the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight last Monday (24 hours) showed that drownings and traffic accidents each claimed 28 lives and that fire claimed three more.

Nine persons died from miscellaneous causes and one child died of a boating.

The total was 15 higher than for the same weekend last year. The 1954 holiday weekend was Coronation Day celebration in 1952 when 100 persons lost their lives.

Deaths in the provinces:

Ontario 35, Quebec 16, British Columbia six, Newfoundland and Manitoba three, and New Brunswick, Alberta and Saskatchewan one each.

DOUBLE HOLIDAY

Victoria Day this year was a double holiday. By provincial statute law, Victoria Day is celebrated on the Monday before May 25 but anywhere that date is a Monday, and in accordance with an order-in-council, the Queen's birthday will be officially celebrated May 23.

That was the weekend the weather was ideal for holidaying but rain moved into parts of Quebec and Ontario on Monday, forced cancellation or postponement of several sporting events.

Ontario had 16 deaths from drowning. Four people, Norman Lee King, 24; Robert Acton, 32, Brodrick Marin, 33, and William Hall, were drowned near Niagara Falls. Other drownings were Donald Stirling, 19 months, at Pickering; James Williams, at Ottawa; David Little, 9, at Welland; Marjory Allison, 9, at Whitchurch-Stouffville; Anderson, 14, at Bracebridge; Thomas Alexander Kennedy, 17, at McLaren's Landing; Lee Murphy, 2, Wallaceburg; Robert Gray, 24, Fergusville; Dennis Lee, 10, and Catherine Musclow, 25, at Peterborough.

Traffic accidents claimed 13 lives. M. Jurynec, 67, was killed in a crash at Hamilton; Richard Bromchuck 2, Casselman; Joseph DiMarco, Hamilton; Mrs. Ruth Bayr, Forest; Szczetanski, 23, St. Catharines; Rene Durrals, 21, Sudbury.

Mrs. Ruth Bayer, 30, and her infant son Thomas burned to death in their home in Strathroy.

Bradley Reile, 3, of Toronto, Elmore Jenzen, 21, and Keith Sinclair, 16, four-month-old baby of Mrs. Jean Krieger of Toronto and George Jenzen, of Norval, Peel County from miscellaneous causes. Jenzen and Reile were injured in a plane crash. The Krieger baby suffocated and Recker was killed in a plane crash.

Young Woman Said Attacked

TORONTO (CP) — A young Scarboro woman was said to be attacked by a man wearing a hood when she was walking Monday night near the Scarboro Bluffs in Scarboro.

The woman said her attacker ran off when she started screaming. A woman living nearby described the assailant as "terrible looking."

Police said they are investigating the possibility the man may be the same hooded attacker who assaulted another woman in Scarboro Bluffs more a few weeks ago. The incidents occurred in the same vicinity.

Political Brickbats in Air In Last Hours of Campaign

BY HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—A barrage of political brickbats zoomed to the air today as backers of the two major parties waged a last-minute fight for 48 hours of Britain's dull general election campaign.

The Conservative newspaper Daily Sketch says it has discovered a "conspiracy within the Socialist party which will rock the nation." In the event of a Labor victory at the polls Thursday, it says, more than half the Socialist candidates are ready to dump Placid Clement Attlee as party leader and supplant him with the left - wing Brothers, Aneurin Bevan.

Such an event would make the wild Welshman prime minister—a prospect calculated to chill the marrow of every staunch Conservative. Bevan once called the Tories "vermin."

On the Socialist side, the Labor newspaper Daily Herald declares that the forthcoming Big Four peace talks are "going sour" in advance and can be saved only by Britain electing a Socialist government.

"The Herald says the Russians already are preparing world opinion for a blame on the Democrats when they think the West called for it but to split Britain down the middle as its Conservatives win the election.

In line with that argument, Moscow radio said Monday night that Washington is confident a Conservative victory in Britain will get the United States "a trustworthy partner in conducting an aggressive policy in Europe."

Despite the 11th-hour outbursts, party split lines over the campaign like a London fog. But the Conservatives, overwhelming favorites in the betting, had uneasy visions of Tory complacency sparking a Labor victory like Harry S. Truman's 1948 U.S. presidential victory over Thomas E. Dewey.

Sir Winston Churchill, the party's grand old man, warned a campaign rally Monday night:

"So far I have taken part in 13 general elections but I have never seen one more calm and quiet than this one. Do not be lulled into a false sense of security. Apathy, complacency, idleness, the chatter of indifference are the seeds of defeat. On Thursday, they will be crimes."

The latest public opinion polls indicated the Conservatives might be returned to power with a landslide majority of more than 100 seats. They controlled the last House of Commons with a margin of only 19 seats.

The pro-Labor paper Daily Mirror, however, predicted today that it has all but abandoned hope of a Socialist victory. It has pleaded with its readers to vote Labor in order to keep the Conservative majority down to a "reasonable" one.

"The return of the Tory party with a huge majority would be a disaster. It would shift the power back into the most reactionary hands in the country. It would be the start of an all-out attack on the welfare state and the beginning of struggle for social justice."

One still unanswered question is the effect of Britain's current wave of labor unrest on the polling. It appears unlikely that there will cast their ballots with Britain's Labor government in power. The traditional dispute between two organizations if dock workers. And a big strike is scheduled to begin next Saturday.

Overpayments And Overruns Not Same Thing Says Frost

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost says there is a big difference between an overpay, and an overrun. He made it when the Liberal Opposition to note Thursday.

The premier, campaigning for the June 9 Ontario general election, drew the distinction Saturday when he attacked Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver's charge of waste in the Highways irregularities in which several contract overruns were alleged to be defrauding the government.

Overpayments, Mr. Frost said in a speech at Cayuga, means in fact that. Overrun is the difference between the amount set out in the contract and the actual cost of the completed project.

Mr. Frost said that the previous night that contractors were overpaid by $27,000,000.

Mr. Frost said overpaid wasn't the proper word and that "Mr. Oliver knows better."

It was the first of two riding speeches Mr. Frost was to make during the Victoria Day weekend. He spoke Monday night at Riverside, a Windsor suburb.

Mr. Oliver, seeking to lead the Liberals to their first election victory since 1937, addressed rallies at Arthur and Mount Forest on Saturday and Woodstock Monday. He said a Liberal government would earning public confidence and help regain its former "place in the sun." Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, Conservative leader Donald C. MacDonald, had no engagements Saturday or Sunday. He received a speech for broadcast Monday night over the CBC's Ontario network and spoke to a gathering at Durham, Ont., that attacked the Liberal party's farm policies.

At the Muskoka district town of Bracebridge, Mr. Oliver addressed an outdoor meeting of about 300 persons. Referring to Mr. Oliver's remarks on the alleged $27,000,000 overpayment, the premier said:

"Overpayment means what it says. I think he is an intelligent man, although he shows signs at times of not having learned too rapidly in his 26 years in the legislature."

Mr. Frost said he retracted previous statements that the province will have a $50,000,000 surplus from department of highways "overruns."

He did not. He acknowledged during the last session of the legislature that the use of the word overruns was wrong but he still persists in using it.

"It's completely wrong and it is completely misleading," Mr. Frost added. "We now are getting contracts about 10 per cent, and 15 per cent, which is almost perfect considering the variables in highways construction costs."

He said the percentage of overruns was greater when the Liberals were in power.

The premier was greeted by pickets when he arrived at Riverside. About 20 young men distributed leaflets. They carried signs which said "Ontario needs democracy" and "We need another Tory promise."

Mother of PC Candidate Opens Highway Bridge

CHATHAM (CP) — Mrs. Robert Parry, 92 - year - old mother of George Parry, Progressive Conservative candidate for Kent East in the June 9 Ontario general election, officially opened the Bentpath bridge linking nearby Dover and Raleigh.

The 900,000 bridge will provide through transportation on Highway 6 when it is completed in March, 1956.

Mrs. Parry, assisted by Premier Frost who spoke at the ceremonies, cut a ribbon to open the structure to traffic.

A plaque bearing the name of the new bridge was unveiled by Messrs. Delore Gervais and James Dillon of Dover and Raleigh township, respectively.

RICKED TOT

TORONTO (CP) — Edward McBride, 27, father of five children, Friday pleaded guilty to kicking his three-year-old son in the face. He was remanded to May 27 in custody for sentence, for what magistrate F. C. Cullen called "an inhuman act." His wife, Margaret, said McBride comes home drunk every night.

GOVT. ACCUSED OF HELPING CNR IN NEW BILL

Would Give Unlimited Powers Says Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has been accused of seeking unlimited powers to permit the publicly-owned CNR to operate trucking and airlines services in competition with private industry.

The accusation was made by Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members and three independents during debate in the House of Commons on a bill designed mainly to consolidate into one statute a number of acts relating to the railway's operation.

The opposition members took strong exception to a provision that would permit the CNR to provide bus or truck transport in cases where it proposed to abandon uneconomic, short rail lines. They said the section would give the railway broad powers to enter the highway transport business.

ASKS SIX-MONTH HOIST

Ross Thatcher (Ind—Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) proposed a motion for a "six-month hoist"—parliamentary device for killing a bill. He said the legislation would undermine the authority of the CNR far beyond railroading and permit the railway to engage in trucking, warehousing, dockages and other enterprises.

Mr. Thatcher's motion was seconded by Paul Gagnon (Ind—Gatineau) and supported by George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) and Gordon Churchill (PC—Prince). It was opposed by Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) who welcomed the legislation as a step toward a national transportation policy, a plank in the party's platform.

Four Holiday Anglers Drown In Welland River

CHIPPAWA, Ont. (CP) — Four holiday fishermen, crammed into a new 12-foot plywood rowboat, drowned Monday when it overturned in the fast-flowing Welland River at Chippawa, Ont., Ont. Oliver's Provincial Police said.

Witnesses said they saw the men struggle and then disappear suddenly.

WATER WAS CHOPPY

The boat broke in two in a wave while trying to turn," said one eyewitness. "The water was very choppy."

The boat, purchased by King six weeks ago, was powered by a 25-horsepower outboard motor. The men had set out shortly after the dawn for three fishing. They had had difficulty in launching their craft and had asked for a passerby's help.

The accident occurred about 25 yards downstream from the Michigan Central railway bridge which connects the two halves of Chippawa.

King's body was recovered about 1,000 yards from the bridge. Police and firemen were still searching for the other bodies.

Chippawa is about five miles from Niagara Falls.

Fire At Chapleau Out Of Control On 24-Mile Front

Nova Scotia Forest Fire Burns 28 Liverpool Homes

CHAPLEAU (CP) — Bushfire roared out of control today through a section of northern Ontario timberland five miles wide and 24 miles long.

The 15,000-acre blaze in stands of white pine in the Admiral lake region 40 miles north of here was about 50 miles to the north of the forest fires swept by a disastrous outbreak in 1948.

The Admiral lake fire broke out during the week-end as hot dry weather gripped the north country. Officials of the lands and forests department said it licked through much bush and pine and also destroyed some hardwood and spruce.

Another blaze out of control today covered 900 acres in the Sioux Lookout district of northwestern Ontario.

54 STILL BURNING

Altogether, 3,000 fire fighters were in action in various parts of the province.

They extinguished 33 fires Monday night and this morning, helped by rain in some areas, light rain and a rise in humidity, but continued to fight 54 blazes.

Two helicopters were sent to the lands and forests department by the Ontario Hydro-electric power commission to take men and equipment to major fire centres.

Department officials said in Toronto today 106 fires have been extinguished since May 19.

Meanwhile, fires in the Ramore district, 40 miles southeast of Timmins, were temporarily halted by a combination of light rain and no winds.

These fires were being fought by forest rangers, civilians, personnel from a U.S.-manned radar base and prisoners from the Monteith prison farm.

Cochrane district fires have consumed about 8,100 acres. In the Newt Arthur area the fires have been held to 3,400 acres but the weather there continued warm and clear with strong fire-breeding possibilities.

A heavy rain was reported in the North Bay area. It brought relief to fire chiefs under control.

As yet there has been no loss of life and very little property damage other than the forests themselves. Some lumber camp sites have been destroyed and one ranger, Phil Bellerose, has lost all their possessions when there tower base in the Admiral lake area was burned.

CAN'T REACH WATER

One of the worst problems facing firefighters in the Chapleau area is acute shortage of water. While there are hundreds of lakes in the fire areas, nearly all are surrounded by fire and inaccessible.

Salvage experts from the lands and forests department have already entered the fire area to determine how much usable timber remains. F. J. Wilson, deputy minister of the department said Monday night.

Fire rangers and ranger chiefs are keeping their men close to camp during the daylight hours, when there is danger that rapidly-changing winds might trap some workers behind the flames.

100,000 PAY FOR ALTAR

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 100,000 people have contributed to a £20,000 Commonwealth war memorial fund for a new high altar in St. Paul's Cathedral. The new altar, a memorial to the dead of two German bombs. It will commemorate Commonwealth men and women who gave their lives in the two world wars.

HALIFAX (CP) — Forest fire prowled today at the edge of the main residential district of the Atlantic coast community of Liverpool.

A wrong-way wind, firefighters said, could drive the flames into the heart of the town of 3,500, 75 miles south of Halifax.

Firemen went without rest. There was no prospect of a heavy general rain.

Already the Liverpool district council of loose at 28 buildings, including 28 homes. Some 6,000 acres of timber has been burned black. Damage to other crops and the province runs into untold thousands of dollars.

So far no serious injury has been reported.. But hardship has been felt by dozens of families. Their homes have been burned or their livelihood destroyed by loss of fishing and farming equipment.

DAMP AIR HELPS

Monday afternoon firefighters got some respite as damp air moved in. Spirits of Liverpool and Mount Uniacke, 25 miles north of Halifax, burned over previous gains but were under control.

The Bridgewater fire destroyed 28 homes, caused a power failure and forced radio station CKBW off the air. Today it should be broke-fast afresh. Damp air and firefighters turned it again.

Five pipes raised within 100 yards of the village of Mount Unlacke became a source of worry and potential cut in heavy bush.

BLAME CAMPERS

Most of the fires were blamed on careless campers. Monday the woods were closed to fishermen and picknickers.

Red Cross and Salvation Army canteens moved the firemen with food and coffee. The same teams also distributed clothing and bedding to help people whose homes were burned. Most of the victims were farmers or fishermen.

Celebrant in Stolen Bus Involved In 8 Mishaps Before Trip Completed

TORONTO (CP)—Police say an over-exuberant Victoria Day celebrant Monday night decided to fall a long-held ambition.

He spied an empty bus, sat in the driver's seat and drove off.

Before he completed his trip, police said, he was involved in eight accidents, injured one person and causing more than $1,000 property damage altogether.

Police said the bus sideswiped a parked truck, four parked cars, a taxi and a car which attempted to stop it, and darted between two oncoming cars sending one of them out of control. The uncontrolled car struck another vehicle, bruising a woman passenger.

The bus was found battered and abandoned near suburban East York Township.

Police later arrested Joseph Mackinnes on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

TORONTO PAPER OF 1850 VINTAGE FOUND IN HOUSE

When Ed McInroy tapped the plaster on the living room wall of the Redmerrylie home of Walter Holmes the wall gave up an echo of the century of Victoria.

Beneath the boards, Ed, who boards at the Holmes' house, found a sealed but still definable, piece of newspaper.

Yellowed from age, the clipping appears to have come from part of a Toronto newspaper of the year 1850. Among the readable material are advertisements of steam packet boats plying the lakes, outfitters' announcements and a property sale that lists the auction of a lot on Main and Water streets, Picton.

Tattered news items, set in the reserved, close type of those days mention such names as Lord Palmerston, Gladstone and Louis Philippe, Emperor of France.

TRIPLET TULIPS MAKE DEBUT

The city is becoming known for its tulips and famous for its oddities in the tulip world. Last week Alderman Bram Humphreys, Yeomans street, brought to the Intelligencer office a yellow and scarlet Siamese tulip. This morning, Mrs. Almer Conley, 82 North Park street, telephoned that her husband had a lovely rose-hued tulip with three, perfect blooms rising from one stem, something unique in the tulip family.

FIREMEN BUSY OVER HOLIDAY

Four grass fires, a burning tree, and a picket fence set ablaze by fire-crackers, was the total of activity for city firemen over the long holiday week-end.

Three grass fires Saturday and one on Sunday occupied the attention of fire fighters. Yesterday the reels were called south of Rosemore when a tree at the side of the highway was burning. How the tree got afire was something of a mystery.

Last night the reels were called to West Moira street where a smouldering fire-cracker had set a fence ablaze.

A big cow moose, strolling leisurely across the highway in the vicinity of Beaver Creek was a sight which brought a party of motorists quickly to a halt on No. 62 highway Monday.

Brakes were quickly applied, but the moose was in no hurry and even stopped for a moment before she entered the woods.

Careless Driving Charge is Laid After Accident

One man suffered a broken nose and another sustained a laceration over the eye as a result of the collision at the corner of Front and Bridge streets shortly after midnight Monday.

Driver of one of the cars, Arthur Buller, 27 Lewis street, went to hospital where it was found his nose was fractured. LeRoy J. Brunelle, 14 Bridge street, east, received the cut over his eye.

The accident occurred when Buller, driving north on Front street, attempted to make a left turn into Bridge street when his car was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Robt. W. Morrison, 46 Geddes street. Police said that Morrison was charged with careless driving.

Bowlers Enjoy Jitney Tourney To Open Season

On excellent greens and under ideal weather conditions, the lawn bowling season was opened on the holiday at the Bowling Club. A mixed jitney was played with the one game in the morning and two in the afternoon. Although the bowlers showed the results of a winter layoff, some excellent shots were witnessed during the play and all will soon be back to last year's form.

The jitney was run by Bruce Miller, chairman of the jitney committee and his assistant, Bill Wright, and the games were run off in record time. Jim Hanna and his rink of Bill Holway and Mrs. Nora Kyle, was the only rink to win the three games. Every player of the 42 who took part received a prize and the local tourney was voted an outstanding success.

The opening tournament for the season will be held at Madoc on June 1st, when men's doubles will be played.

The president of the local club, Orlo Smith, named a committee of Percy Graham, chairman; Austin Wright, Claude D. Tice and the president, to conduct the O'Keefe trophy trebles tournament, which will be held on the local green on Saturday, August 13th. The brewing company has donated the trophy and prizes for the first three prize winners in the tourney. Plans are being made to have a representation from every club in the district and also from clubs in the province.

The winners in the jitney were:

Looking relieved that the biggest tarantula seen locally in 14 years is safely contained in a quart sealer, are Joan Gerow and Jack Huffman, employees of the National Grocers Co. Ltd., Pinnacle St., where the spider was found last week. Huffman discovered the spider in a bunch of bananas. Miss Gerow held the stalk while Huffman knocked it into the sealer.

Huge Tarantula On Banana Stalk Startles Warehouse Employees

A tarantula, for the uninitiated, is the original jitter bug. It still gives people who meet it face to face a bad case of jitters.

The largest tarantula seen in Belleville in 14 years was discovered on a stalk of bananas at the National Grocers Co. Ltd., warehouse last week. Jack Huffman was stripping bananas from a stalk when he uncovered what he thought was a ball of shredded paper.

Closer inspection revealed that the "shredded paper" was an eight-legged tarantula. Thanks to refrigeration this hairy monster, which takes up a lot of space in a quart sealer, was feeling drowsy and took no offence at this invasion of his privacy. The bananas came from Ecuador.

When Huffman returned with fruit manager Bill Vesterfelt, the tarantula was still on the stalk. Joan Gerow, an office employee, held the stalk while Huffman knocked the spider into a sealer with a banana knife.

The tarantula was still slightly drowsy but very much alive when seen by an Ontario Intelligencer reporter.

Research reveals that the bite of a tarantula is supposed to produce a frenzy in the victim that makes him dance wildly. The frenzy, called tarantism, is supposed to be akin to the wild musical dance known among the Italians as the tarantella.

The spider's poison was once believed to be fatal.

Chloroform dispatched the tarantula which has been pickled in alcohol and placed on display at the National Grocers office.

Police Required To Untangle Traffic Jam

They didn't have to call out the fire reels, but police assistance to untangle a traffic jam was required last night at the Park Dale community north of College street where the ratepayers' association held an official opening for their new playground and recreation park.

A tremendous crowd was reported for the event. As many cars as possible were parked on the recreation ground parking lot and when cars were lined both sides of the streets the provincial police were called in to untangle the traffic jam.

The Park Dale Women's Institute did a land office business at their booth dispensing ice cream, soft drinks and pop corn; the community residents cheered themselves hoarse but saw their Pee Wee softball team go down to defeat at the hands of Deseronto. And adding to the gloom of the softball defeat, the television raffle prize went to a Shannonville man.

Climaxing the evening's activities was the fireworks display enjoyed not only by the youngsters but by the oldsters as well. The brief shower held off until the fire-works were over. All in all the park opening was a big success.

IS THIS WHY FORD WILL SELL STOCK?

Stock in the Ford Company in the United States will soon be offered to the public for the first time.

General Motors Corporation, meanwhile, has just marked an important milestone in its stock-selling record. A Wisconsin hardware merchant has been feted by the company because when he purchased a few shares of GMC stock last week he became the 500,000th person to invest in the firm, making General Motors the first company in America to reach the half-million mark in the number of its stockholders.

"Those who own any industrial stocks will appreciate what this means to General Motors," writes Norm Hull in the Windsor Star. "Even if one has only a handful of shares in a concern, they automatically switch to using their product if possible so as to boost 'their' company. It is a sensible thing to do because more sales mean greater profits and bigger dividends. So General Motors has a half-million prospective customers every year, because it has that many people who want to see the company have a prosperous twelve months."

And if Mr. Hull should be correct, another good reason why the Ford Company will soon offer stock to the public.

Is that one of the reasons behind the Ford decision? It could well be, for there is sound reasoning in Hull's observations.

Yet some people are so perverse that one might expect the ownership of shares in a company to be enough to send them scurrying to buy the opposition's products. We have all heard about the bartender who does not drink, the boat builder who does not fish and the dairy farmer who cannot bear the taste of butter or the sight of milk. Stories about some of these people need to be taken with a grain of salt, but almost every day we meet examples of a similar attitude established by people who refuse to purchase home-produced goods. Whether it be cheese, a radio, a lock or a bottle of whisky, it has to come from a faraway place before they will admit that it is of high quality and reasonably priced.

It is a pity that so many people, who could easily appreciate the advantage of purchasing a firm's products if they were shares in the firm, do not have the mental facility to comprehend the advantage of buying locally produced articles when quality and price are in line with similar goods manufactured elsewhere.

TEACHER SHORTAGE STRIKES HOME

If any Belleville parents thought that talk about a shortage of teachers in Ontario was over-emphasizing the seriousness of the situation, they must have been surprised and startled by the news last week that manual training and home economics classes in Belleville public schools may have to be discontinued because of inability to obtain instructors.

Most people regard these classes as being of value and it is disturbing to learn that, in a prosperous city with modern schools, it may be impossible to provide our children with instruction in these subjects.

How much more disturbing must it prove to parents in smaller communities when they learn that qualified teachers cannot be obtained to instruct their children in reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling and similar academic subjects.

True, these positions are being filled by persons who, while not fully qualified to teach by standards established earlier, are willing to attempt the task. More power to them.

As for the local situation, it is true that classes in manual training and home economics require teachers with specialized training. But it is also a fact that there are a great many men who have some knowledge of the manual arts and even greater numbers of women who are not unacquainted with the problems of home economics. These men and women may not possess teaching certificates, but if unqualified persons are teaching academic subjects in many schools, could not emergency instructors be obtained for home economics and manual training classes here? That is a question which many parents will be asking. We should not, however, be too quick to answer it in the affirmative. Perhaps the public school board feels that instruction by persons not fully qualified might do more harm than good. Perhaps this may be true. We may rest assured that the board will do its best to discover an acceptable remedy for the situation.

SANDWICHES UNITE WEST AND EAST

When Kipling said that East was East and West was West and never the twain shall meet, he had reckoned without education and the sandwich—especially the sandwich.

Canadian delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce meeting in Tokyo have been intensely interested by Canada's booth at the Japanese international trade fair. The booth features a miniature grain elevator. Rice-eating Japan already buys a considerable quantity of Canadian wheat. The Government favors its use in luncheon sandwiches, which it supplies to all school children.

Where Fish Study Humans

(Christian Science Monitor)

"A receptacle or institution in which living aquatic animals or plants are exhibited," is what we'll take the Britannica's word for it. But it has often seemed to us that an aquarium, thus defined by the encyclopedia, is on the contrary a place where humans are studied by the fish.

We get a little new view of humanity in the aquarium visitor would not only have to learn how to keep fish alive, but he would also set sheer himself by his coattails but also in the matter of observation.

Only thus could he develop a fish's capacity for indifferent amazement at inconsistent humans who though propelling themselves in a horizontal direction, set do this in a vertical position. The fish notes this for what it is worth, but he seems unconvinced that it would be worth-building a terrarium to observe.

Since mankind has provided the fish with this "receptacle or institution in which living (un)aquatic animals are exhibit" themselves, the fish merely takes a glance off now and then from more interesting fish to study human conduct in his scales.

This variety, observed by people who go to aquariums to study other people.

What is it that makes many people seem awkward and slightly on the defensive as they move through the subterranean gloom of squatting passages? Is it simply the feeling of anyone anywhere who, commenting on all about him, suddenly finds himself the object of inscrutably silent observation? A human being can't be sure. And it's no use asking the fish.

Grandpa In Summer

(Hamilton Spectator)

Come to think of it, with all the new lounges, chairs, barbecue ovens and outdoor furniture this summer, will we really be living any more graciously than Grandpa was, sitting on the front stoop in his undershirt?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FLEAS

A curious but widespread old superstition held that fleas slept all winter in the woods and hills, and then upon the towns and entered houses when people could. Prudent housewives were supposed to keep all doors and windows tightly shut on and after May 1, and scrub the threshold with particular care. Various rites and substances were recommended to keep the fleas away, a common one in this country being spiders from a tree that had been struck by lightning.

We may laugh at such an ineffective and unscientific approach to the flea-problem. But many modern parents are about as unrational and unscientific, with regard to other kinds of contamination in their homes today, threatening their children.

Much more sinister than the threat or army of fleas in the spring is the horde of corrupting influences that surround our children as parental vigilance is relaxed. Bad comic books, crime magazines, bad TV programs, ill-chosen movies are just a few; too often they are reinforced by parental examples of drunkenness and immorality, bad companions, and unsupervised recreation.

Science has done wonders to help us control fleas and most other physical aspects of our world. But many of us are still medieval, relative to preparing, in the control of our conduct. A little moral DDT is indicated.

All Low-Pay Farm Groups

(Christian Science Monitor)

Farming, it has often been said, is not just a way of making a living; it is a way of life. It represents, probably, the chief survival of personal business enterprise. Anything, therefore, that takes people off farms does a good deal more to a nation than effect a change of jobs.

Farm population has been dropping in the United States since 1916 (by over 9,000,000 in the last 10 years)—dwindling in its ratio to the total population for 100 years. And White House recommendations just sent to Congress if carried out would accelerate this trend.

If these proposals would result simply in taking families industriously out of farming they certainly should be questioned. But they have to do with farm-equity payments, agricultural soil, climate conditions, lack of capital, or lack of what constitute one of the lowest income groups in the country—less than $1,000 a year.

Such people this program hopes to get off the farm into more lucrative vocations, or else help them on the farm—where conditions justify it—by technical guidance, or by encouraging part-time employment in decentralizing industries.

Such people, says Secretary Benson, are little by price-support programs. Their production is small per farm that price supports add only a few dollars. They are not the ones who pile up the huge surpluses, good deal of price-support expenditures come from so called corporation farming of fairly large consideration farm these—"little people" that have brought a good deal of the humanitarian sicken behind high-support legislation.

Helping the economically abnormal farmers on the dry plains of the Southwest or in other localities would make some contribution to relieving distress in the Dust Bowl. Many of the biggest operators are sufficiently well financed to withstand drought or to cut their losses and get out of the picture.

But the recommendations, as the President's message stresses, are a "last resort." They are, that are not substitutes for things that must be done to meet emergencies.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INTEREST IN LIFE

I earn much from people. God did not make anything so striking-ly interesting and inspiring as people—even a child. I like to see friends who do not look their age—some who could easily pass for younger than they are. Why? Because they have not lost their interest in life. Our Creator meant that we should cling to this!

Yet we all need is something to happily engage our interest—something to do, to create, to discover than anything in which we have ever engaged. It's newness that gives sparkle to one's personality. Note how a child will push aside all his older toys for the latest addition to the new one.

Interests are what add zest, health, enthusiasm and genuine happiness to us all who will but gather them together and keep them active—like a hen with her interests start to fall away we are neglect or begin to forget them, then for us is bound to begin to wither.

Friends lived a long and useful life and was happy largely because of his interests in his work and enterprises. No sooner would he get on started than he would get busy with another. He wanted to try the way and leave the rest to others, but the one thing that absorbed his whole self was the electric light which he finally perfected and which we all now use.

Fewer men would break in middle life if they would but keep alive a love of a wealthy man who, at 70, took up the study of collecting. He lived ten years longer, and his collection was the admiration of many when later it was put up for auction. You don't have to be wealthy, however, to engage in an absorbing hobby. How about stamp collecting? I've been at it for years in a modest way.

Urges Men to Grow Beards

(Timmins Daily Press)

It is difficult to say what would happen if men were to follow the advice of Irvin Studer, member of Parliament for Swift Current-Maple Creek.

Mr. Studer urges men to grow beards to recapture their virility and masculinity. Women, he contends, are helpless in the arms of bearded men.

If the clean-shaven mode continues, Mr. Studer foresees dire consequences. The evolution down-ward will be swift as feeling becomes the same as the male bees in a beehive."

It is quite evident that Mr. Studer spoke with tongue in cheek. He does not wear a beard himself and apparently had no intention of doing so. His weak, but real excuse is that he is "too busy" being a member of Parliament to shave. He says he can't carry a razor and keep the women away."

Despite Mr. Studer's dire warnings, men will probably continue to prefer beardless faces for fishing trips and other jaunts which take them away from their families and women. The fact is that most men are probably scared to grow a beard.

If "scared" is not the word, then perhaps "lazy" would be better. What man can forecast with accuracy what will be the results of his efforts to grow a face foliage. If he is not certain of himself, he is reluctant to risk the disapproval of his male friends. A beard can look a sorry thing.

Beards, like women's hats, come in all shapes and sizes. There are the bushy beards and the stubbly scrawny beards and spotty beards and wow that's a good one! Just what is expected by the widest stretch of the imagination.

Men, confident in their hearts, may have something to say about attire, but their choice is the result of grandfather's time. After all history is full of examples of how male embraces and their enthusiasm for a beard may be far from the wishes of their wives.

From the male standpoint, there is no problem. The person with a beard can leave his razor on the shelf. If his beard is long enough he can probably dispense with a tie and get away with it.

The disadvantages may come from the very source that may hurt the cause of the women, despite Mr. Studer's strong plea, will surely turn thumbs down on such attempts to emulate grandfather, to speak.

It was a deliberate and safe way of showing, in reverse, what they thought of him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Kill a fly now, and you will have halted maybe a billion flies from being born and born by August. Authorities differ as to the number of flies on adult pair can generate in the course of a summer and still count. But it is always a staggering figure, in hundreds of millions. They hatch in twelve hours, and the larvae are full grown in five days, pupate in three days as five days, though usually longer. At least one fly-generation, it can easily be figured what a cloud of flies can be heir to the one you swat.

There are over 80,000 different species of flies in the world. Some are scavengers, breakers-up of organic refuse and offal; others are predators that keep other insects in check; and still others provide essential links in food chains of birds. But flies of different kinds are the carriers of over forty know human diseases. The common house fly, which is an international, universal fly, is known to transmit several diseases including typhoid, cholera and tuberculosis.

The departure of the horse from our streets and the consequent disappearance of stables from our back lanes, has greatly reduced the fly population of cities and towns. because manure was the favorite breeding place of houseflies. But all kinds of suitable breeding places remain with us, such as the contents of garbage cans sitting from our lawns, compost heaps in our gardens and chicken-runs, caretaker in a block of fifty immaculate city houses can provide enough chicken manure in and around garbage pails, in careless tipping of ashes, in sweepings thrust aside around back doors and side alleys to populate with flies the entire block. It is extremely doubtful if disease-bearing flies breed much in well-kept residential gardens.

Screens and sprays and the always handy fly swatter will keep the flies out of well-guarded homes. But there are a dozen or a hundred ways the flies can contact us without our ever knowing it, in shops, delivery trucks, restaurants, or while we are away from home. It is a cold war that has been going on between flies and man for countless ages.

Personal Health Service

By DR. WM. BRADY

Still Too Many Tonsil Operations

A physician who was formerly an officer of national associations and societies of ear, nose and throat specialists submits in defence of tonsillectomy:

1. Tonsillotomy (that is, simply "clipping" or slicing off the protruding portion of tonsil) is in common vogue with the foremost laryngologists at the turn of the century. Since that time it has been almost entirely abandoned by all competent throat specialists as yielding far less satisfactory results than tonsillectomy (that is, radical dissection of the throat in the endeavor to remove every bit of tonsil tissue). Either the opinion of such doctors has dependable validity, or Dr. Brady is right.

2. By far the greater number of tonsil operations are done for the removal of a source of infection, not for mechanical obstruction. Unless the entire tonsil is removed, the source of infection would remain unreached by tonsillotomy.

3. In a later piece we'll print the third, fourth and sixth arguments submitted by the laryngologist.) I must disagree that tonsillectomy is "instantaneous minor operation." Unless one wishes to revert to the pre-anesthetic days of ether, chloroform and tonsillectomy, demands, in children, a general anesthetic. Whence entails an equal, though fortunately rare, risk of occasional cardiac arrest.

If the laryngologist will consent to abide by the above argument the implication that only incompetent specialists do the minor operation, we may continue the discussion. For a quarter of a century specialists have been using such tactics in the attempts to silence me—not without success in some communities. But this laryngologist's "defence of tonsillectomy" indicates, doesn't it, that I'm still in there pitching.

The laryngologist's second argument implies that some tonsil operations are done for a purpose other than the removal of a source of infection, presumably to relieve obstruction of the breathing, obstruction of the Eustachian tubes (a common cause of impaired hearing in childhood), or, obstruction of drainage from or ventilation of nasal sinuses.

If this be true then why insist on blind dissection of the throat in the attempt to "get every bit of tonsil?" I say blind dissection, and I mean just that. If any defender of tonsillectomy questions the validity of my remark, I'll cite authority, provided he or she is courteous enough.

Tonsillotomy is as nearly instantaneous as the dissection of a tooth, and involves no greater risk to life than does extraction of a tooth. I know it's tricky, even it requires chly brief anesthesia, if any.

Whether the laryngologist or other advocates of tonsillectomy consider tonsillotomy a good alternative for the major operation, the fact is that parents or guardians of young children now have the choice of two procedures to take time to think it over. Remember, children's tonsils are usually enlarged in the spring. Leave 'em alone, and by the time school opens in the autumn, the enlarged tonsils will have shrunken to normal size, especially if the child has spent the summer playing outdoors in a minimum of clothing.

Abacus Still Popular

(National Geographic Society Magazine)

Many youngsters today learn arithemetic with the aid of one of the world's oldest calculating gadgets, the abacus.

The simple device—a frame-work of parallel rods or wires carrying sliding beads as counters—is now click-clacking in elementary classrooms all over the country.

In varrying forms and materials, some are made by teachers and pupils as school projects. Others are bought from mass production manufacturers. All serve the same purpose: To teach children the basic principles of mathematics.

By counting beads along rods that represent columns of units, tens, hundreds, etc., the child can see the positional value of numbers. At the same time, dealing with real objects give meaning to abstract figures.

The abacus principle has been practiced for at least two or three thousand years. Something of the sort had to develop to meet primitive societies' practical need for a workable counting device.

An early type of abacus was a flat wooden stone or tablet, marked with vertical lines of graduating value. Bits of metal or stone were moved about between lines to indicate sums.

Greeks and Romans before the Christian era began, the Egyptians figured their accounts by pebbles. They used as much as sixth century B.C., calculated by manipulating counters on lines.

Greeks and Romans also computed by what might be called the loose-leaf-ledger method. Later they turned to trays and boards equipped with bronze-topped pegs shoved along built-in grooves.

China's suan-pan, popular there since the 12th century, and Japan's later soroban are strikingly similar to a Roman model in the British Museum.

The modern abacus, both Oriental computers have a horizontal dividing line, above which counters count as five; all of those in the column below. To add or subtract, beads are pushed up or down to the crossbar where they are read by number and position.

Throughout the Far East the adding machine of the ancients is still the favored computer, chattering away in hole-in-the-wall shops or luxurious hotels. With variations, it is used by children in Russia and the Middle East. Even in the United States some are operated in laundries, restaurants and banks with Oriental patronage.

In the decisionless hands of expert, the abacus is by no means a mere child's toy or learning aid. A contest between the abacus and an electric calculating machine held in Tokyo some years ago, and won by the abacist.

Abacus fanciers point to the stability and reliability of their implement compared with the price and complexities of modern mechanical calculators. The machine operators argue in partial self-defense that abacists must spend years practicing and do much of the figuring in their heads. Moreover, the machine keeps a record of figures and protects against the inept shifting of the abacus counters.

Make Up Your Mind

"Animals won't attack you if you're not afraid of them," Frederick, 4, 22½-year-old Gypsy said on a recent BBC program. "If you see a bull or a savage dog coming for you, tell yourself to love it, and you'll be safe. I know, I've tried it."

FICTON

Percy L. Mallott of Outlet Surprise Liberal Candidate In P.E.-Lennox Riding

FICTON — Prince Edward-Lennox Liberals came up with a surprise candidate at a nomination meeting held here Saturday night. — He is Percy L. Mallott, 63, resident at the Outlet, Athol township, Prince Edward County.

The surprise element lay in the fact that it had been reported that Fred M. McConnell, of Camden township, had consented to accept the nomination. However, he was not present at the meeting and the association secretary, James Madden, of Napanee, announced that Mr. McConnell was unable to attend or accept the nomination, due to doctor's orders, he having been taken ill on Thursday night. President Clinton Green and other speakers expressed regret that illness had prevented a fine potential candidate from opposing the Progressive Conservative nominee, Norris Whitney.

When nominations were called there were five named: Mr. Mallott, W. J. McLean, editor of the Picton Times; Mrs. Fred Perry, R. 2, Napanee (North Fredericksburg); J. Donald Bastier, ex-MPP, Bloomfield, and James Madden, Napanee.

A month ago at a Liberal convention, all nominees withdrew, and the 125 persons present Saturday were pleasantly surprised when three let their names stand: Mrs. Perry, Mr. McLean and Mr. Mallott.

Mr. Mallott was chosen on the first ballot.

Guest speakers were: W. J. Henderson, M.P., Kingston, who assailed the Frost government on several points, and Dick Hanna, M.P., for Edmonton South.

C.P.R. FOREMAN

Mr. Mallott was general foreman with the C.P.R. for 28 years. Born in England, he came to Canada when he. He travelled to 19 countries with the late Sir Henry Thornton in connection with emigration to Canada. For the past several years he has been secretary-treasurer of the Liberal Association and active in the Riding Association. His family includes his wife, a son, Ft. Lieut. John L. Mallott, R.C.A.F., Centralia; three daughters, Miss Gladys Mallott, Montreal; Mrs. Nicky Sargent (Phyllis), Winnipeg, whose husband is in the RCAF; Mrs. T. C. Kelly (Margaret), Montreal is a Flying Officer in the RCAF at Ottawa.

An excellent speaker, Mr. Mallott may trace this ability back to a father of Irish descent and a mother of Welsh descent.

"I am a resident of Prince Edward by choice, not by accident of birth", said Mr. Mallott who purchased a home near Outlet Beach in 1930 and spent summers there, until a few years ago when he retired to make his home there. Admitting he was almost a stranger in the riding as far as its problems are concerned, Mr. Mallott commented "We must creep before we can walk."

DENIED ALLEGATIONS

Mr. Mallott denied that implementation of Liberal Leader Oliver's pledges would mean increased millions in taxes. These could be paid for by raising the surplus and by savings that could have been made through highways administration, he said.

Mr. Mallott charged Mr. Whitney with an about-face on the bridge proposal. Mr. Whitney was quoted at his nomination meeting as saying he favored a bridge at any point the people desired. He claimed Mr. Whitney at another meeting had declared the new ferry service adequate. The Liberals can give anything the Conservatives can give and the CCF promise, he declared.

Mrs. Perry said is she were chosen candidate she would press for a bridge to connect Prince Edward and Lennox.

Mr. Henderson said Gallup polls indicated the Liberals had a good chance of forming Ontario's next government. The Conservatives think they rule by divine right of approval he declared. Governments do not give you anything, they are spending your money, he said.

Suspends Sentence

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Judge Harold P. Burke Monday suspended a six-month sentence and placed Maj. Dennis W. Hilmon, 37, of Fort Knox, Ky., on probation.

The major had pleaded guilty to charges of aiding and abetting his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Goldbeck Hilmon, 28, of Berlin, Germany, in making false statements to immigration officers.

The couple was arrested at the Peace bridge Feb. 25 as they attempted to enter the United States from Canada. They were married here after their arrest.

Mrs. Hilmon, a German citizen, was given a suspended six-month sentence May 3 and was deported to Canada.

District Branch Of OPP Assoc. Enjoys Dance

Approximately 300 persons enjoyed the District No. 9 Ontario Provincial Police Association spring dance held Friday evening at the Club Commodore and came away feeling they had attended a most successful and pleasant social function.

For the district O.P.P. Association might well be proud of their spring dance which was the first public engagement since their inauguration some eighteen months ago.

The manner in which the dance was conducted, the program preparation and the pleasure received by those in attendance, indicated that the boys in blue went all out to make the affair a success. The spring dance, which is hoped will become an annual affair, was a high commendation for the local Provincial Police and there was every indication of the work and effort which went into making it an outstanding success.

The Club Commodore was tastefully decorated with large bouquets. Association crests done in blue and gold made a striking backdrop for the orchestra.

Officials of the Association had a friendly greeting for the guests as they arrived and the ladies were presented with a lovely silver plated ash tray as a memento of the occasion. In addition over 30 miscellaneous gifts were presented as spot dance prizes.

During refreshments served by the Association members, nine further special lucky ticket prizes were presented by branch vice-chairman Ivan Sears and secretary treasurer Ivan Tinkess. Mrs. A. McDougall, wife of Inspector A. McDougall, head of District No. 9 of the O.P.P. drew the lucky tickets. Mrs. McDougall in turn was presented with a lovely floral arrangement.

During the dance Association officials expressed their appreciation to the many business firms whose donation of spot dance and other prizes did much to make the spring dance a success.

Belleville Boy Attends Scout Rally Near Paris

METZ, France — Camping for a weekend in the grounds of the 17th century French chateau, a Belleville, Ont., boy, Ted Ansell, 13, was one of a party of 40 Canadian Scouts who recently attended an internationally rally near Paris.

All the boys are the sons of members of the RCAF stationed in France, and Ted's father, Sergeant R. C. Abbott, is serving with the Canadian Air Division Headquarters near Metz.

The rally, which drew several hundred boys from all parts of France, was the first of its kind, and was organized by French Scouting officials with a view to bringing together the many foreign Scouts resident in France.

Soon after arriving at the meet, held at Jambville, a few miles from Paris, Ted and the other Canadian lads were making friends with their opposite numbers from the United States, Poland, Russia, Greece and, of course, their French hosts.

On the following day, many more friendships were made through the friendly rivalry of Scouting games and competitions, and Ted says he will remember the week-end as "one of the most interesting of his life."

Children Scatter As Car Bounds Across Lawn

A group of children playing on a lawn in front of one of their homes had to scatter for their lives Sunday evening, when a car rounded a corner out of control, jumped a ditch then bounded across the lawn and ended up against a garage.

One of the boys playing on the lawn, William Bowers, 12, suffered an injured foot, when he failed to get out of the way of the car in time.

Police said the car was operated by Morris Forbes, 28, of Trenton, who was operating the car without a driver's licence. — He had purchased the car only the day before.

The accident occurred on the 2nd concession of Sidney just east of the Trenton town limits. The car failed to straighten up after rounding the corner and jumped the ditch onto the lawn where the children were playing.

Provincial Constable A. Beriman of Belleville investigated.

The business period consisted of various reports from the secretaries.

Mrs. Alyea read several letters from members thanking the WA for remembering them during illness and bereavement.

Mrs. Campbell, the treasurer, reported a total of $547.43 on hand. Mrs. Oliphant reported for the buying committee and Mrs. Wilson, for the parcels.

The members are asked to remember Mrs. Clarke, a former member on her 90th birthday May 27. Mrs. Clarke is a resident of the County Home. The WA are asked to cater to two weddings, June 25, and July 15.

Mrs. Welburn was appointed delegate to attend the WA presbytery at Madoc, May 27.

The June meeting is to be held at the summer cottage of the president, Mrs. Dobbs.

Mrs. Wilson, the group convener, for May took charge of the program, Mrs. Wilson read a poem "These things are free". The air, the sunshine and the sea. Our friendships, joys of living. The more we look, the more we see, Let's stop and think that things like these, the smile that bubbles from the heart, It's worth a million dollars and doesn't cost a cent."

Mrs. Wilson thanked her group for the lovely basket of tulips and lilacs that adorned the parlors for this meeting.

MEDITATION

Mrs. Welburn gave the meditation basing her talk on the 4th verse of Mark 14, "She hath done what she could", depicting the mother in the home, in the church and community, illustrating the life and influence of Jesus' mother also the wife and mother of that famous preacher "A man called Peter" the late Peter Marshal.

The speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Lyle Jones was introduced by Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Jim Ketcheson favored with a lovely solo, "Jesus is All the World to Me", with Mrs. S. E. Lerman closed this helpful meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Wilson and her group served refreshments.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD W.A.

The Plainfield Woman's Association was held recently at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hall with 12 members present. The president, Mrs. Charles Treverton, opened the meeting. The Rev. E. J. Kersey offered prayer.

Mrs. Grant Kerr introduced the devotional service with a poem "Mother's Love".

The Scripture lesson from Proverbs was read by Mrs. Fred Hall and a poem "Our Time to Pray"; a reading on "Mother Love", which gave evidence that prayer is more influential in molding a worthy character than mother and child. The closing prayer was read by Mrs. Kerr.

The treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Hall, reported a membership of 30. There were three contributions to the birthday box and it was decided to make a donation to the Quin-Mo-Lac Camp.

PROGRAM

The program was conducted by Mrs. Garnet Denyes, who gave a reading "The Bible".

A reading by Mrs. Brennan "Religion and Home" showed the importance of the home in the present seemed to show a lack of home training and hence poor growth and the material growth. Learning how to live has not kept pace with improvements in science and invention. "Life to many means only the enjoyment of things which should help to make a full life but what will these improvements which include the jet plane and the atom bomb, if we have not that inner opportunity to control these dangerous things."

Mrs. "Higher Ground," by Mrs. Ralph Wilder, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Jack Skelly gave a reading "Spiritual as Well as Practical Art of Gardening"; Mrs. C. Dickens, a reading; Mrs. G. Denyes, a story of "The Most Regretable World's Day of Prayer", written by one who had a sad experience during World War II in a Hungarian community, although there were no luxuries or even conveniences, no means of communication or transportation left in the country, peasants trudged for miles to worship in a wooden church; peasants to whom religion and the Bible were vital things in their lives who felt the Bible was written, not only for the ancients, but for them.

A social half hour was spent with Mrs. Hall and her assistants serving refreshments.

Chatterton W.I. Hears Talk On H-S Objective

The Women's Institute of Chatterton was held recently at the schoolhouse with Mr. R. H. Macklem, school inspector, present. The theme was "Community Activities".

In many ways the Institute has always tried to be co-operative with the school such as 'first aid', lending chairs for meetings and at one time, a Girls' club.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Douglas Prest as pianist. The following program numbers were enjoyed: a girls' quartet, composed of Misses Edith Stone, Freda Barry, Ruth Moran and Grace Stone, who favored with two songs; a reading "An Essay on a Cow", by Klaas Tuhman, a duet by Ronnie and Freda Barry; reading, "Teacher's Prayer", by Mrs. Albert Carson.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Macklem introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. G. Toole, president of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, who gave an interesting account of the way the Home and School Association is run.

"Its great objective should be to interest all people in all children," said the speaker, "and to link in a common purpose, the home, the school, and other educational forces in the life of the child, and to work for his or her highest good.

"It should be concerned with all problems that relate to the welfare of the child in the home, school and community. It enables parents and children to co-operate in the training of the child.

"This organization should not be the means of entertainment, or of fetching in public authority, but a co-operative, non-partisan, non-sectarian, non-commercial effort to produce citizens of character, shall be capable of perpetuating the best in our national life."

Accompanist for the various numbers were Mrs. Bradley and Miss Wansbrough.

BUSINESS PORTION

The business portion of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Mary E. Pugh, who welcomed the members, and expressed the good wishes of the Association to the graduating class. The pupils were reminded that their teachers were also their good friends.

Annual reports were printed in the monthly bulletin so that all members might have an opportunity to study the progress of the Association during the past season. Members were reminded of the B. Comic which will take place during the last week of May and all were urged to take advantage of these facilities. Mrs. Black expressed the thanks of the association to the executive and to the president for their untiring work during the past year.

VALEDICTORY

An extremely well-delivered valedictory address was given by Tommy McMillan of the graduating class.

The principals of both schools, Mr. Prink and Mr. Bateman both wished the class well and spoke of the splendid co-operation between the Home and School Association and the teachers of these schools.

Perfect attendance "Gold Stars" were presented to the following members and teachers, Miss Barber, Mrs. L. F. Burford, Mrs. F. A. Beeby, Mr. and Mrs. K. Chambers, Mrs. R. Ellis, Mr. H. R. Prink, Mrs. G. Fuzzen, Mrs. A. Hume, Mrs. H. Halsey, Mr. W. Ironsides, Mrs. R. Neilland, Mrs. C. May, Mrs. J. E. Pugh, Mrs. R. Woodley and Miss C. M. Wilson.

The attendance banner winners for the year were Miss Wilson's senior class and Miss Walkom's juniors for Queen Mary School and Mr. Prink's Charles School, Mr. Campbell's senior class and Miss Johnston's juniors, were the winners. Cheques were presented to these classes by the association.

EXECUTIVE INSTALLED

The in-coming executive were introduced and installed in their respective offices by Mrs. Taylor Fyenklin, a former president of the Queen Mary Association.,

Following the business session, square dancing under the capable and happy direction of Mr. Fred Dier, was enjoyed by the gathering, and refreshments were served by Mrs. E. F. Smith, Mrs. Doolittle, Mrs. Gelsthorpe and Mrs. Woodley.

A most happy evening, a fitting climax to a full and profitable year for the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association.

Mr. Gardner, a member of the school board, spoke briefly, and thanked the speaker for her splendid talk.

Following the close of the meeting, a social time was enjoyed with the Institute ladies serving refreshments.

Christ Church Men's Club Sponsors 'Dandelion Tea'

Bewigged, bewhiskered, but only slightly bewildered as a result thereof, members of Christ church parish club were accoutred like the distaff side on Saturday to attend the church auxiliary and their annual "Dandelion Tea".

Although few of them were strangers to the inspiration of the world's fashion designer, they at least were proof of the ingenuity of man when it comes to making do with the missus's cast-offs. True, they were attired according to 'Hoyle' insofar as being covered goes, but fashionwise they looked like a little Easter parade that had been trampled underfoot by a bigger one.

There were exceptions of course. Take the hostess for the affair, John Heegan, gowned in a pink evening dress, (no matter that it was early afternoon), that emphatically closed the door on the litter flat look made a glittering figure. This was due as much to the fact that the dress was studded in sequins as anything else. A well-coiffured wig was the crowning ground for huge pink ostrich plume. The entire effect was polished off with a trim black velvet evening bag.

MASSIVE SPRING HAT

Then, there was the reception-ist, Les Lennox, who greeted the guests at the entrance to the tea-rooms clad in, well, it looked like blue and pink. However the whole was dominated by a massive straw hat that defied a touch of Springtime to the room.

Most of the waitresses might have got away with it save for the fact that beneath the pancake aprons and severe black skirt-stick, there nestled trim mous-taches, betraying even the best-dressed.

The men marshalled out in quite a force to serve as waitresses and most of them in 'getouts' that would have made a dumb waiter holler. However, in this case the "dumb waiter" kept the peace, save to carry out its duty.

The waiters usually were kept busy for the attendance was a good one. The guests arrived in a quiet steady stream to be shown to their tables by the hostess.

FRIENDLY TEA TIME

The guest tables were laid with pink, green and yellow table-cloths and figured flowers of divers colors. The tea table was centred by tulips and candles. Plates of cookies also were on the tables and these together with tea, were good excuses for the friendly over-the-table chatter that filled the room. From outside, a glinting sun poured a bright stream of light into the room while soft music was piped over the chatter.

Pouring for the guests was done in relays with such notables as Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Wesley Hastings, and Frank Follwell, MP, South Hastings, supervising operations. Others included the Rev. Arthur Page of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill; Lord Bishop W. Evans and the Rev. William Robinson, rector of St. Thomas'.

KITCHEN DUTIES

The kitchen squad was made up of Harry Hollingey, A. Barker, Lewis Butler and Walter Palham.

Convener for the afternoon, was Fred Harper while as head duty were Gordon Pringle and Gordon Nie.

Other waitresses were Aaron Hume, S. Button, Alf Francis, Will Mill, Harold Owens, Bill Edwards and Ron Godden.

Holloway St. W.A. Holds Monthly Meet

The monthly meeting of the Evening Group of the WA of Holloway St. United Church, was held in the church parlors on Thursday evening with Ethel Knight, the convener presiding.

The business period was followed by the devotional service. The topic was "The Comforter", Eileen Conley read the Scripture. A thoughtful meditation was given by Marion Doxsee followed by prayer by Corona Wannamaker.

Two contests were conducted by Corona Wannamaker.

A plan luncheon took place. Refreshments were served.

The program was in charge of Corona Wannamaker, Marion Doxsee and Eileen Conley.

If you are installing an automatic gas heater in your home, a typical 50 gallon heater can provide you with an adequate supply of hot water for the average small family, including two hours of continuous operation of an automatic clothes washer, while costing less for water heating than any other type of washer.

St. Michael's P.T.A. Discusses Crime Comics

The May meeting of St. Michael's High School P.T.A. was held last Monday with Mr. Herbert Brown presiding.

During the business session, reports were heard from the members of the executive and committees.

Convener, Mrs. J. Gallagher, Mrs. G. J. Trudeau and Mrs. E. B. Lally will attend the graduation banquet to be held later in this month. They reported that the plans are now complete.

A letter was read from the Diocesan Council reporting the highlights of the last recent meeting and asking all the units to be well represented at their annual meeting in Kingston next Sunday.

All members and prospective members are reminded that the final meeting of the year, including election of officers, will be held at the regular meeting night in June in St. Michael's Academy.

The program consisted of musical entertainment by the fathers and a one-act comedy skit by the ladies of Holy Rosary PTA.

An interesting panel discussion on crime and horror comics was presented by the Rev. Sister Mary Leonora, Mrs. A. M. Boyle, Dr. J. Ross with Mrs. B. Burley as moderator, comparing the situation a few years ago when this type of comic book was at the height of its popularity, with that of today, due to the untiring efforts of a few members of parliament and interested organizations, the popular comics bear a seal of approval for which all children and comic readers are urged to watch.

A musical entertainment by the following pupils was much enjoyed by all:

Piano solo, Miss Doris Greenfield; vocal selection, Martin Halligan accompanied by Michael Rashotte; piano solo, Miss Shirley Beaton; reading, Miss Sheila Rashotte; vocal selection, Miss Pauline Lepotre, accompanied by Miss Shirley Beaton; piano solo, Michael Rashotte.

Rev. Father Murphy addressed the members briefly and closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Poirier and her committee.

Mayfair Hairdresser Unveils Latest Array of Hair Styles

MONTREAL (CP) — Genevieve Proulx, a Montreal policewoman who guards the lives of 800 school children four times a day, finds the job tiring "but not too tiring." Top officials of the city's police department have been considering whether the work is too arduous for women. Miss Proulx doesn't want to get mixed up in politics, however but she did have this comment:

"People say policewomen are not strong enough for this job, but that is silly. All we need are the proper clothes."

TRIAL OFFICER

Dressed in dark blue peaked cap, blue trench coat, light blue tie and tan shirt, Miss Proulx is a trim figure guarding the youngsters at the busy intersection of St. Catherine and Dufresne streets.

For the chilly spring weather she wore a heavy sweater under her trench coat because "it is warmer than a jacket." For wet weather she would like a slicker "with hood and strap that would fit better than a trench coat and for the cold weather warmer clothing than that now issued for her type of duty.

Miss Proulx, a brown-eyed brunette, is one of Montreal's 20 policewomen and since 1950 is assigned to dangerous street-crossings.

She likes the job and the children finding them "so used to me now that they wait on the curb until I get the traffic stopped." Some mothers walk with their children from their homes to the intersection, then turn them over completely to Miss Proulx.

One mother said: "Having her here is such a relief. My children are only six and seven and I was always terrified they would get killed at this intersection."

TOUGH ON SPEEDERS

Miss Proulx has been on duty at this particular spot little more than a month. There hasn't been even a near-accident. She credits her speedy eyes... either waving them smartly to a halt or, if they whiz past, reporting their licence numbers.

"People who go through school zones should be punished," she said. "It's a shame the way they drive."

On the average, however, she has found in Montreal motorists "surprisingly courteous and co-operative."

Policewomen on intersection duty work there from 7:45 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.; from 10:45 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and then from 2:45 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. with lunch hours and 15 minutes of handling traffic and protecting the children.

Asked what she does when not on duty, Miss Proulx said: "Mainly I clean my uniforms. The dust blown up and the exhaust fumes don't give me time for much else."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A BOY WHO FACES A CRUEL DECISION

I think that life can, perhaps, do nothing more cruel to a very young person than to force him into making a decision which calls for judgment and experience far beyond his years.

That is why my heart aches for the 15-year-old boy who has put his deep distress and bewilderment into the following letter:

"My parents have been separated for six years, and my father has married again—to a lady who has an 18-year-old daughter.

"I go to high school. I make good grades in all my studies. I go to Sunday school and church regularly and have many friends. After finish college, I want to be a policeman, and will try to make a good one. That is the height of my ambition. I now live with my mother, and I love both my parents with all my heart. My mother owns a nice home, but she says some very unpleasant things about my father almost every day. I am so confused.

"Both my parents want me to live with them, and frankly, I will make a final decision as to which I will live with. Please help me."

He signs his letter just "Robert," and I am going to answer him directly and say:

First, Robert, I hope you are not worried because you are feeling confused, because you could not possibly be anything else. You love both your parents, and you want to be with them both equally. Yet you are being forced to make a definite choice between them, so your feelings are pulling you in two directions at once. Nothing could be older than for a young boy or girl to find that their lives must be divided in any such fashion as you are facing, yet sometimes circumstances are such that it is the only solution.

What occurs to me is that you might consider the possibility of asking your parents if you could stay with your mother during the school months, since you already have all your associations and friends in the town where you and she now live, and then spend summers with your father. Under such a plan, you could carry on as you are now, without having to make a break in your school life. Then, when the time came for you to start college, the whole question would be simpler, since you would automatically be leaving your mother anyhow.

But it seems to me it would be even better if you could still, during college vacations, come back to the home where you now are, and to which you are accustomed, and spend summer vacations with your father. Once you graduate from college, you will be a young man old enough to be on his own, and you can set up your life as you please, independently, perhaps, of either your mother or your father.

Another thing I might suggest is that you have a talk with some older man you know well—perhaps the pastor of your church, your Sunday school teacher, the leader of some boy's club to which you may belong, or a High School teacher you specially like—and tell him just exactly what is troubling you. I believe that such a confidential talk with a wise adult would help you to see your way more clearly.

As for your future career, don't try to decide it too definitely yet. The country does need good policemen, indeed, but you may find that, as you go through college, your studies will open up new fields to you that interest you even more than your present idea. So keep your mind open.

And just one last word. I think you would be happier, and less confused, if your mother would not make unpleasant remarks about your father. The next time she does so, just ask her gently not to do this, as it distresses you. After all, since they have been apart for so long, whatever difficulties there were between them are in the past, and should not be allowed to shadow your present.

Will you write me again, Robert, and let me know how you're making out?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NO RECEIVING IN CHURCH VESTIBULE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

After the church ceremony do we wait in the vestibule of the church to greet the guests, or do we go directly to the reception to greet them. (I am having open invitation.) — W.

Since, I judge, you are inviting to the reception all those invited to the church, there is no need to receive the guests in the vestibule. And the best plan always is not to keep the reception guests waiting at the place of the reception.

ATTENDANTS' DRESSES SHORTER THAN BRIDE'S DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to wear an ankle-length white dress at my wedding. Is it necessary for my matron of honor and my bridesmaids to wear ankle-length dresses, or may they wear ballerina-length dresses? — A.W.

Your matron of honor and bridesmaids need not wear dresses of ankle-length. It is quite correct for them to wear dresses of ballerina-length . . . indeed I think that having your attendants wear the shorter-length dresses would be more effective. .

ASKING FRIEND TO BE MAID OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in several months, and would like to ask a girl friend of mine to be my maid of honor. Will you please advise me as to the proper way to ask her. — A.H.

No formality about this. If she lives near you, have a chat with her, tell her how very much you would like to have the happiness of having her as your maid of honor, tell her the approximate date and the plans you have already made. If you have any knowledge or feeling that her budget may be limited, you might graciously tell her that you are planning to choose very simple and not-expensive dresses for your attendants. If she lives at a distance, you may write her or telephone to her or write her a note.

CUSTOMS OF THE TROUSSEAU TEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The members of our group of women are of different opinions concerning several points about a trousseau tea, and would appreciate your advice.

(1) Is it correct to have a trousseau tea a week before the bride's wedding day? Some of us maintain that a trousseau tea is held after a wedding, not before.

(2) If a trousseau tea may be held before the wedding, what is displayed?

(3) Is a trousseau tea ever held in the evening?

(4) Do guests ever take gifts to a trousseau tea?—H.N.

(1) A trousseau tea takes place about a week before the wedding.

(2) At this tea the bride-to-be has her trousseau on display . . . though not, of course, her wedding dress and bridal veil, and very often not her going-away costume. Also, articles are arranged and grouped, are shown her shower gifts and her wedding presents.

(3) Since it is a tea, and since men are not invited, the trousseau tea is given in the afternoon. However, if circumstances seem to make it impossible for the majority of the guests to attend an afternoon tea-party, there would be no reason, I should think, why it couldn't be called a "trousseau party," and given in the evening . . . but of course men would not be invited.

(4) There is no obligation to take a gift to the trousseau tea, and customarily gifts aren't brought to this party. (Most of the guests have already given shower gifts and or wedding gifts.) However, occasionally a guest does wish to make a gift-gesture.

Tops For The Evening

By TRACY ADRIAN

If you are looking for a dramatic evening hat to make you most alluring over the top of a table for two, here's your answer. This one was chosen by Shawn Smith and she is pictured modelling it.

Made of black velours the toque is decorated with simulated sigrette ends which are delicately jeweled with rhinestones. The plume sweeps the cheek flirtatiously and is held in place by a jeweled pin.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

PEDAL-PUSHERS OR FRILLS?

Ask any high school lad and he will tell you that it is beyond him why girls like to wear pedal pushers or tapering pants. He is all for the fluffy girl. He is intrigued by curls, lovely fluttering skirts and all the truly feminine trappings. And, for that matter, so is his Dad.

Becoming womanly attire makes a boy and man feel like big, strong fellows because it is such a contrast to their own standardized clothes and their magnificent masculinity.

Some teen-agers want to look older than their years and to wear sophisticated clothes. They're batting up the wrong beauty tree. Boys like them young and cute and pretty. They aren't keen about costume jewelry that goes jingle-jangle, for instance. That's for grown up women, they say.

Do girls dress to please the boys? Why, certainly! Mama does not always dress to please Papa, but that's another bottle of fish. Most of the time Daddy doesn't know what she has on even when he tells her she looks adorable. After all, what does he know about the prevailing modes? Mama dresses to please herself.

Now that the time has come when girls of tender years are wearing formals, it appears to most adults that there aren't any girls any more—just children and women.

The pity of it is that the middle-aged woman, dressed in her formal, would forego the privilege of wearing it for the restored freshness and loveliness of her girlhood years.

Dress designers have turned their talents toward producing beautiful clothes for school girls and it is not at all unusual to see small sized women invading the misses' departments, toting away the pretty little frocks that they love to wear.

There never was a time when girls had such opportunities to make themselves lovely to the eye. So way do they wear blue jeans and other ugly garments? Echo does not answer.

A Pineapple Canning Bee

By Mary Moore

Have you recovered from yesterday's holiday sufficiently to think about work? The hard work of canning so early in the season?

There are two home prepared products in the Moore household that are "musts". Come small family, overweight, overwork, or vacation we gather the clan and can pineapple and kernel corn. We do them in tin cans, sealed by hand-seaming machine processing them in the pressure cooker. The pressure cooker is essential for the corn but not for the pineapple.

There are so many ways of canning pineapple it is a problem to choose the ones you people prefer, so I'll tell you what we do.

EMEM'S CANNED PINEAPPLE

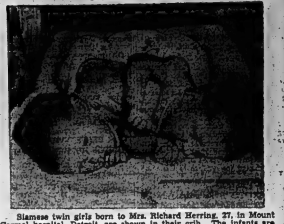
In selecting fruit choose large pineapples that are heavy, very yellow ripe—and if possible with little baby 'pines' on the shoulders around the central pine—these are 'Mother' pineapples and especially sweet—as all mothers should be!

Wash the pineapples, so that your hands will stay clean. Cut off pine including about 1-2 inch slice from the top. Cut thick slice from the bottom, stand pineapple on cutting board and with a very sharp, long knife begin cutting the skin off in downward strips making your cut deep enough to take off all the skin but not deep enough to cut out the eyes. When the skin is off, using a sharp pointed paring knife, remove all eyes. Each pineapple will take 15 minutes at least.

Now shred, cube, or slice, or cut into sticks—discarding the hard core.

To shred—stand pared and eyed pineapple on a platter and using a strong cold meat fork begin scoring the pineapple—at first shallowly and then gradually deeper until shreds begin to fall on platter. This works but well and makes small shreds suitable for fruit cup, pieces and many purposes—the shredded pineapple is required.

Using sterile spoon put the shredded pineapple into sterile jars with sterile rubbers in place. Do Not pack tightly. As each jar is filled to within 1-2 inch of the top fill within 1-2 inch of top with boiling hot syrup. We use a medium thin syrup—1 cup sugar to each 2 cups water. You may want to use a medium syrup; 1 cup sugar to each 1 1-2 cups water.



Pour syrup over—boiling hot—within 1-2 inch of top and immediately seal, then turn screw top back 1-4 inch. If you are using ball-top jars put top on and wire in place over lid but do not put down the clamp or snap—leave it up to allow for contents to expand during the first processing.

You will require about 1 cup sugar to each 2 cups water for quarts.

Process pints and quarts 20 minutes in hot water bath. Tighten seal. Cool out of draughts.

Pineapple No. 2 and No. 2 plain tin cans 25 minutes in hot water bath. Cool out of draughts. Process pressure in pressure cooker. Cool tin cans in cold water bath.

Siamese Twins

Siamese twin girls born to Mrs. Richard Herring, 27, in Mount Carmel hospital, Detroit, are shown in their crib. The infants are joined together six inches along the chest and abdomen. Doctors declare their condition is "fair", though their chances for survival are statistically 100,000 to 1. The Herrings have two other children; John, four, and Warren, two.—Central Press Canadian.

IODE Spent $500,000 Last Year On Welfare Services in World

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire spent $500,000 last year on welfare services at home and abroad.

Convener Mrs. R. C. Latimer of Toronto told delegates at the annual convention here today that work undertaken included everything from maintaining summer camps for children to sending aid and comfort overseas in the form of cigarets and medical supplies.

"Eighty per cent of our budget was spent for welfare in Canada," she said. "The other 20 per cent went abroad."

CONTINUE OVERSEAS WORK

Mrs. Latimer said there had been "reeling lately that aid abroad should be decreased because of strikes and unemployment in Canada.

"But it is essential to continue to send help to those countries where cold, hunger, disease and unrest prevails," she said.

Among the many projects mentioned in Mrs. Latimer's report were institutional aid in Canada; $12,648 for Korean relief; medicines for northern Canadian schools, artificial limbs and dentures for children, food shipments to various parts of the world and recreational aids for children, the sick and the aged.

A report by civil defence convener Mrs. E. B. Osler, Toronto, said that the IODE had been me defence conscious and had started a whole new field of work. The report was read by Mrs. R. M. Walker, Toronto.

She said 422 members took CD training courses at defence colleges and eight provincial chapters have organized CD networks.

ACTIVE CHAPTERS

Most active provincial chapters are British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia. But a shortage of trained workers appeared among members in Manitoba, Quebec and New Brunswick, Mrs. Walker said.

Reviewing IODE work among immigrants, Mrs. G. L. Hamilton, Windsor, Ont., convener of immigration and Canadianization, said the order's most important work is being done at ports of entry.

At Halifax, Saint John, Quebec and Montreal members have met boats, fed newcomers, served as baby sitters and translators and given hours of their time in volunteer work.

"Five provinces reported new Canadians joining their orders," she said. "We are all eager to welcome and help them."

CURRENT AFFAIRS

Reporting on the Empire and world affairs committee, Mrs. John MacRae, Toronto, said great strides have been taken recently to interest members in current events.

Last year the IODE helped finance the United Nations summer school at Mount Allison University in New Brunswick. From a survey of study topics at meetings, Mrs. MacRae found Manitoba IODE interest in studying the affairs of Russia and entertainment of overseas dignitaries last year kept IODE hospitality committees busy, hospitality convener Mrs. Hugh Allward of Toronto, told delegates.

Members were present at receptions for Queen Mother Elizabeth in Ottawa, and the Duchess of Kent and Princess Alexandra in Toronto.

Mrs. Allward, reporting on films, said the IODE emphasized public service through film work last year. A new film "Churchill, Man of the Century" has been bought and distributed.

DUKE'S MOTHER ARRIVES

LONDON (Reuters) — Wearing the grey habit of a mother superior of a Greek religious order, Princess Alice of Greece arrived here by air Monday night from Athens on a short visit to her son, the Duke of Edinburgh. She drove straight from London airport to Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. M. Cooper Only Woman In Legislature

SASKATOON (CP) — Mrs. Marjorie Cooper, only woman member of the Saskatchewan legislature, told recently how it feels to be a "woman alone with 53 men."

"What more could any woman want!" she asked delegates at a luncheon for the National Council of Women of Canada annual meeting here.

"I only wish there were more of us sitting in the federal house and every provincial legislature," she said.

Mrs. Cooper, a CCF member for Regina, is an active worker in the Regina Council of Women. She chided her sex for timidity in political matters.

There is not only a place for women in public life, Mrs. Cooper said, there is a crying need.

"Women have a few weaknesses which can be cured," she said. "We lack self confidence—but that will come with experience. We are also a little timid of criticism."

ASKED REPORT

The National council passed a resolution asking the federal government for a complete report on the effects of atomic radiation. It was requested because of what the council said were conflicting reports and scare articles in the press and on the radio.

Other resolutions asked for: A federal institution for the care and treatment of convicted drug addicts and government stimulation and promotion for development of secondary industries in Canada.

I. O. D. E. Fast Becoming Million Dollar Business

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is fast becoming a million dollar business, national treasurer Mrs. Peter L. Robinson of Toronto told the annual meeting today.

She reported that receipts for 1954-55 totalled $948,496, an increase of $24,018 over the previous year. Disbursements amounted to $940,344. She said however that the finance committee anticipates a deficit next year.

Mrs. Robinson spoke of the Korean projects fund started last year, which provided an x-ray machine, medical supplies and foods for that country. "We want chapters to continue contributing—the Koreans are not going to be forgotten."

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

National organizing secretary Mrs J. G. Spragge of Ashburn, Ont., said the IODE slipped a little in membership in 1954.

"Ten new chapters were organized across Canada but membership dropped by 67 from the previous year," she said. "Unfortunately it does not always follow that new chapters mean more members."

Total membership now stands at 22,098 women belonging to 960 provincial, municipal, primary and junior chapters.

Mrs Spragge requested a concentrated drive for more members.

"We must maintain our ideals and objects," she said.

CANADIAN COUNCIL

In a general progress report from the executive committee Mrs. G. Graham Sinclair of Toronto, reading the report of national secretary Mrs. D. W. McGibbon of Toronto, hammered away at a favorite IODE topic—establishment of a Canadian council—recommended to the Royal commission on national development of arts, letters and sciences.

Mrs. Sinclair reported that Prime Minister St. Laurent is continuing study of recommendations from the commission. "It is the intention of the government to recommend to Parliament that this body be provided for," the prime minister had said.

Mrs. Sinclair announced that the International Union of Child Welfare meeting in Yugoslavia last summer conferred the Order of Merit on the IODE of Canada, in appreciation of IODE work for the save the Children Fund.

SURPRISING INCREASE

Appraising groups allied to the IODE outside Canada, Mrs. Sinclair said the Victoria League in London, England, had noticed "a surprising increase" in the number of Canadians seeking hospitality at Victoria League Houses.

Publicity convener Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr., of Oakville, Ont., said the IODE appeared on television

Judi Evans of Vancouver feeds her three-week's old robin which she has been caring for as a pet since it was three days old. The robin shares a cage with Judi's pet budgie and flies into the garden with Judi as she digs worms. Judi feeds the robin its daily diet of minced worms and bread.

School of Narcotic Education In Prairies Asks for Help

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SASKATOON (CP) — The Alberta - Saskatchewan - Manitoba school of narcotic education, first of its kind in Canada, has asked the National Council of Women for help.

Speaking to the council's annual meeting Thursday, Mrs. Adele Bowman, bursar of the school which trains teachers on the alcoholic - narcotic problem, said it needs the help of nationally-organized women's groups.

"It is our desire to view the twin problems of alcohol and drugs from a factual point of view and not just as a mass of prejudices," Mrs. Bowman said.

The school, which holds a two-week summer course in Saskatoon, was organized in 1948 by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It operates under government grants from the three provinces.

NOT BAD AFTER ALL

Results of a study on the working mother's effect on the family were reported from the various local councils. Most councils found the picture was not as bad as they had expected, said national president Mrs. A. Turner Rose of Montreal.

Mrs. Roy Vail said the number of working mothers is not great in Halifax because the city does not have a heavy concentration of industry. Mrs. H. F. Reusing said working mothers in Montreal seemed to be a minimum because it is contrary to the French-Canadian idea of home life.

History professor Dr. Hilda Neatby made a plea for education of the individual—not the group.

Miss Neatby, on the staff of the University of Saskatchewan, became the centre of an educational controversy in 1953 with publication of her book "So Little for the Mind."

She said parents should expect schools to put an end to "ignorant and barbarous complacency" and dedicate themselves again to the liberation of the mind.

50-Word Flash Broke to World Amazing Story of Dionne Quints 21 Years Ago on Saturday Next

The four surviving sisters of the Dionne quintuplets will observe their 21st birthday on May 28 and simultaneously come into an estate of nearly $1,000,000. The following story was written by the managing editor of the North Bay Daily Nugget, who helped break the story of their birth and has followed their development ever since.

The Associated Press

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP)—It was just another Monday morning, a quiet, sunny May morning. We were down to work a bit early that morning, but that was only because it was a publishing date. In those days we published just three times a week.

But something happened that morning to make it a day of days as far as the newspaper was concerned; something that in time did much to transform us from a tri-weekly paper to a daily, increase our circulation by 7,000, and up the population of North Bay by 5,000 persons.

That "something" was the birth of five baby girls to Elzire and Oliva Dionne in a farmhouse midway between the tiny villages of Callander and Corbeil, about 16 miles southeast of North Bay, Monday, May 28, 1934. Never before in recorded history had five babies been born at the same time, and survived.

A junior reporter then, I remember the day vividly.

A few minutes before 8 a.m. our kindly editor, the late E.H. (Eddie) Bunyan, received a phone call from Leon Dionne, a garage operator at Callander. Leon had just learned he had become an uncle of five girls and he jokingly inquired of the editor whether a birth notice for five babies would cost more than the price of the usual insertion. Bunyan was incredulous and he bantered with Dionne about the story.

Finally, however, the editor became convinced it was no joke and after announcing the event to the staff in rather matter-of-fact tones, he proceeded to pound out a 50-word bulletin to The Canadian Press, a bulletin which broke to the world the amazing story of the Dionne quintuplets.

While he was tapping out his historic message, Bunyan dispatched senior reporter W. H. (Bill) Dunsday and a commercial photographer, the late Richard Rallion, to the rustic Dionne farmhouse. There they found the five whimpering bits of humanity (the combined weight of the quints after six days was only 10 pounds 14 ounces), the mother pale and weak and the father flabbergasted and shaken.

The Nugget's representatives obtained the first interview with the parents and a picture of the mother and five babies together in bed, the only such picture ever taken. It remains one of the most famous news pictures in the world.

Fifteen minutes after Leon Dionne's message the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe telephoned the newspaper to confirm the story. The "little country doctor," who presided at the babies' birth, had called in at Leon's garage to give him the news before telephoning the newspaper. Dr. Dafoe said frankly he did not believe the tales would last the day out.

We gave the story an eight-column banner on page one, but there was nothing spectacular about our coverage. In the following days when the community was invaded by reporters, photographers and newsreel people from many parts of Canada and the United States, we became aware that we were right in the middle of one of the most remarkable news stories of all time.

REGULAR ASSIGNMENT

From that day 21 years ago down up to the present time, the North Bay newspaper has been the news link between the Dionne family and the rest of the world. For about two years before I became editor of the paper in 1940 the Dionne coverage was my regular assignment. And during the last 15 years I have remained a reporter as far as the Dionne coverage was concerned. I have not only had entry to the Dionne home whenever I requested it, but I have also been invited there many times.

For some reason or other Oliva Dionne and I hit it off from the start. He has always trusted me and taken me into his confidence many times.

To the best of my knowledge he has kept only one important secret from me. Many times since Emilie's death last August people have asked me if previously I had known she suffered from epileptic seizures. The answer is no. I was aware Emilie was not well, but I did not know the nature of her affliction. It was a secret the family shared only with the doctors whom Emilie consulted.

Oliva Dionne is an enigma to most people, and many things have been written about him, some of them not very complimentary. He is probably the most misunderstood man in the public eye today; if people understood him, they would like him.

The father of the quintuplets has made mistakes, to be sure, but all things considered, this man, who was an obscure farmer in 1934, has handled himself very well.

Contrary to the opinion of some, he was not a pauper at the time the quints were born. He was never on relief; he owned his own car and his own farm and that was something for a farmer in this district during the difficult 1930s.

Oliva Dionne has developed poise and a vocabulary that would be a credit to a highly-educated person. He can hold his own in conversation on almost any subject.

Nobody will deny that he has made a success out of administering the business affairs of the quints since an act of the Ontario legislature in 1944 made him theirs sole guardian. Their wealth has increased since the father assumed control until it is slightly under a million dollars. Now held in trust, it will be theirs on May 28.

(Dr. Dafoe was legal guardian of the girls during the early years of their life. A fund was established in their name through gifts, appearances and permitting use of their name with manufactured products. Dr. Dafoe and the father became involved in court litigation over the guardianship in the late 1930s. Dr. Dafoe died in 1943.)

Outside of his family, Oliva Dionne has few close friends. In fact, you might almost say he is a lonely man. Because he takes his responsibilities very seriously, he finds it hard to relax. His one great diversion is going into the bush to hunt for fish.

The mother remains the least changed member of the family. She is a quiet figure in the background who seldom ventures into public unless it's absolutely necessary. Her home and her family consume her time. Her great love for her family is evident in her every action.

Her great courage and efficiency were never more evident than when Emilie died last August. She kept her grief under complete control, performing her duties with admirable competence as many hundreds of persons came to the house to pay their respects.

PERFECT MANNERS

Nobody, of course, knows what the future holds for the four remaining quints, but it is my guess that each of them will get married and raise a family.

The quints are not beautiful and they are not brilliant. But they are attractive and of above-average intelligence. They have always done well in their studies. Their manners could not be improved upon.

In public the girls appear to be shy, even timid, but that's simply because they don't like being stared at. They have never become accustomed to being public figures, though they can rise to the occasion when necessary—as witness the night in New York when they stood up and sang beautifully for 2,500 persons who had come to the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria for a $100-a-plate Alfred Smith Foundation dinner.

Their 21st birthday will be the first since Emilie's death, but they may not be together for this important day. Cecile and Yvonne are nurses-in-training at a hospital on the outskirts of Montreal, while Annette is specializing in piano at a convent-college in the same city. Marie, who found the rigors of preparing to become a nun too much for her health, is at home with her parents. It is possible that Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and Marie will go to Montreal to join the other girls for a bit of a birthday celebration, but there is nothing definite about it.

Marie, incidentally, has regained her health. She looks well and seems happy again now that she is at home. She sometimes comes up to North Bay to take in an afternoon movie.

SHELL

Why only TCP gets the full power from High Octane Gasoline

You might expect that all you need to get the full power out of a high compression engine is high octane gasoline. Actually you need more than just high octane—you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

That's because the way most of us drive most of the time—short trips here and there—creates a power-wasting problem that neither engine design nor highest octane gasoline can solve by themselves.

This problem is the increased build-up of certain deposits within the combustion chambers . . . the principal cause of power waste.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Baruch.—Central Press Canadian.

OVERPAYMENTS

During his speech, Mr. Frost said his political philosophy is to work with all men and women of goodwill, with all levels of government, and to recognize the problems of the people. In a brief reference to health and hospital insurance, he said "it is bound to come."

Mr Oliver spoke at Mount Forest and Arthur in support of David Gray of Rockwood, Liberal candidate for Wellington-Dufferin.

He criticized the Frost administration for what he called its failure to obtain and maintain the stability worthy of the agricultural industry in the province. He attacked the government for taking over the Toronto stockyards during the Drew administration. It had paid more than twice what the stockyards were worth, Mr. Oliver said.

The government had said at that time the move would be a help to farm industry, but at the last annual report of the stockyards, an $86,000 profit had been put into the province's consolidated revenue fund.

"That is an indication of the government's love for the farmer," Mr. Oliver said.

CHEESE MARKETING

At Woodstock, the Liberal leader accused Highways Minister Allan of violating the province's cheese marketing legislation by obtaining cheese for his Dunnville dairy direct from factories.

The Ontario Cheese Marketing marketing act provides that cheese rates in Ontario be handled through an exchange and not sold directly. It is essential, Mr. Oliver said, that such legislation be obeyed by both producer and buyer in order that all will benefit.

The Hepburn government before 1943 had put subsidies on cheese, wool, sugar beets and hogs. The Progressive Conservative government had wiped such subsidies out after it gained power in 1943.

"The move sounded the death-knell of farm subsidies in the province." Mr. Oliver said. He pronounced that a Liberal government would do everything it could to organize farmers into bargaining units.

WANTS INSURANCE SCHEME

Mr. MacDonald, 40-year-old former CCF organizer, school teacher and newspaperman, said in his radio broadcast that Ontario cannot afford not to have a government-sponsored house insurance scheme.

"The reason why we haven't a government hospital or house insurance plan at present is because the insurance companies are opposed to it.

"The Liberal and Conservative parties work hand-in-glove with corporations such as insurance companies, so that it is no accident that during the last 10 years, the parties have gone back more and more on their long-standing promises for health coverage."

Mr. MacDonald said insurance companies want to cream off whatever profitable coverage there is in hospital and health plans. He repeated his party's promise that, if elected, the CCF would institute a province-wide hospital plan as a first step towards over-all health insurance.

DURHAM RALLY

He invaded Mr. Oliver's home riding when he went to Durham.

He told a Grey South rally that the Liberals are fighting the election on a 25-point program that is such a "last-minute grab-bag of election promises that there isn't a single point dealing with the desperately - urgent problems of farm prices and orderly marketing."

"There isn't a single point dealing with the particular problems of labor," Mr. MacDonald added. "The two largest groups of workers—on the farm and in industry—are ignored.

"It's not an accident that the Liberal party today is just another so-called free enterprise or business man's party whose chief concern is not the immediate problem of the working people."

GOVT. ACCUSED

There was no objection by the opposition to four other new provisions in the bill. The most important of these would permit the CNR, without the prior approval of Parliament, to build branch lines which do not exceed six miles in length.

In proposing the legislation, Transport Minister Marler said the government has no intention of seeking "broad powers" for the CNR to operate trucking and bus services.

He said persons engaged in these operations are apprehensive that one section of the bill would give the CNR this power. This was not the case and the government was prepared to amend the bill to make this clear.

IN SOME CASES ONLY

Mr. Marler said the government seeks only the power to permit the CNR to provide bus or truck services in cases where short railway lines are abandoned. The railway in the past had been placed in the peculiar position before the board of transport commissioners of not being able to offer an alternate service in seeking authority to abandon a short line.

"They (the CNR) have no power to operate motor vehicles so that they are unable to give a formal undertaking that they will establish a motor service as an alternative to the train service that they propose to abandon," he said.

However, Opposition leader Drew said the minister's statement does not remove the cause for apprehension by private truck and bus operators. The section placed no limitation on the power of the CNR to engage in both types of highway operations.

Mr. Marler had not dealt with the section of the bill that had caused the apprehension. Section No. 27 said the CNR could operate vehicles "in conjunction with or substitution for the rail services . . . and maintain and operate motor vehicles of all kinds . . . on highways in Canada or elsewhere for the carriage of traffic and may charge tolls therefor."

DREW COMMENT

Mr. Drew said the federal government obtained jurisdiction over interprovincial highway transport in 1954 but had tossed this jurisdiction to the provinces under the Motor Vehicles Transport Act. That act contained a "joker clause" providing that the cabinet could exempt any firm from any or all provisions of the legislation.

He saw a link between the act and the CNR bill. The government had given the provinces jurisdiction over interprovincial highway transport but now was asking for power which would let the CNR invade that provincial field.

Mr. Drew said a conference with the provinces "is a reasonable obligation" under the circumstances.

Anything short of this would be "dishonorable."

C. E. Johnson (SC—Bow River) said Section 27 would give the CNR the right to over-ride provincial legislation on operation of trucks and other vehicles. He believed Mr. Marler had been "deceived" when he said the bill contained no sinister changes in policy. However, he did not think Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, had been deceived.

Mr. Thatcher said the main purpose of the CNR is to run a railroad economically. Its executive from Mr. Gordon down should put all their efforts into that before being permitted to go into other ventures.

"Just where is this all going to end?" he asked. "If the money was going to come out of a profit I don't think I would object but such is not the case."

Last year the CNR had a deficit of $25,000,000.

How quickly can I get money?—Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours for most loans.
How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts . . . from 6 to 24 months. And for all people who have uneven income during the year, such as farmers and schoolteachers, special payment schedules may be arranged on loans above $500.
Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.
Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare . . . often you'll "buy" more money at less cost at Niagara.
Is Life Insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. The sum you get is protected when you borrow.
Does a friend have to "back" my loan?—No, seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.
How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara Loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs. 2. Husband-and-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.
Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.
Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.
Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

Body of Beaten, Burned Baby Is Found by Montreal Police After Call to Rooming House

MONTREAL (CP)—The torture-slaying of nine-month-old Susie Timm, as shocking a riddle as this city has ever seen, will be studied on an autopsy table today.

Police found the body of the baby girl—beaten and burned—when they answered a call Monday to a Park avenue rooming house they said was the domicile of an immigrant and a woman.

The man, identified by police as 32-year-old Vladislav Nekrassoff, a native of Germany of Russian extraction, was held as a material witness. Police said Nekrassoff was reported to have been a doctor in Europe but had no license to practice in Canada.

Police said the dead child is the daughter of Mrs. Eva Timm, a German immigrant separated from her husband.

An inquest was scheduled for this morning and a coroner's inquest will follow soon.

WIFE BOARDING CHILD

Detective-Lieut. Henri Francoeur said the child was placed with Nekrassoff and the woman known as Mrs. Nekrassoff about three weeks ago when the mother became ill.

Police identified the woman as Honor Rogers. Lieut. Francoeur said the woman had lived with the proprietor of the rooming house Sunday and left the baby in the child "and they were going to call us in, but now it is too late." He said that when the woman found the child had died from further mistreatment she ran screaming from the room.

Questioning of Nekrassoff continued Monday night. Under Quebec law the procedure no charge is laid until a coroner's verdict has been returned.

New Cornerstone Of Court House Laid by Judge

GODERICH (CP)—The cornerstone of Huron county's new $750,000 court house and county building is being built on the site of the century-old structure destroyed last year by fire, Mrs. Isi O'Donnell by county judge Frank Fingland.

The new, three-storey stone-faced structure of reinforced concrete will overlook the town square in this Lake Huron community of some 5,300 persons. The original building was burned March 26, 1954.

A specially inscribed stone taken from the old court house was laid inside the cornerstone by Earl Cantwell, county warden and reeve of Hay township.

TOWN'S STREETS FLOODED

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Heavy rainstorms and a small tornado battered northern Louisiana Monday. Trees in a 40-foot path were uprooted and streets in part of a three-man communities were flooded. No injuries were reported, but water ran two feet deep in the downtown business section of Plain Dealing, about 30 miles north of here.

Archbishop Says Misreported By "The Press"

LONDON (Reuters)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, alleged Monday night he had been misreported by the press and said "some of the stories" are "enemies of freedom."

"Dr. Fisher, who returned from a two-month tour of Africa on Saturday, was speaking to about 40 newspaper men at a press conference.

He was asked if he would be prepared to clarify reports following a remark attributed to him on Canadian television about Princess Margaret and Townsend.

The archbishop said: "I can clarify that very simply. I was asked if I had anything to say about Princess Margaret and I said 'no.'

"I never said anything, if you can convey to your editors that I made no comment and that my answer was 'no comment,' that is the end of the affair and it will be a good thing all around."

URGES REFORMS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sweeping reforms, including a recommendation that good-conduct prisoners be given a 48-hour pass every three months were proposed in the final report of a three-man committee set up to investigate Headingley provincial jail after a riot there last year. The report, containing 40 findings and recommendations, was made public Saturday.

'Nye' Bevan Is Patron Saint Of His Bleak Native Vale

By MILTON MARMOR

EBBW VALE, Wales (AP)—To the rest of Britain he is Aneurin Bevan, left-winger fireball in the campaign for Thursday's general election. Down here he's known as Nye, and regarded as a patron saint of this bleak mining and steel-making valley.

Bevan strode out of the coal mines into the political wars four decades ago. He is an English farmer now but he still represents the Ebbw Vale division in Parliament.

Today he is well groomed and a man of the world, but in a sense he never has left this grimy valley.

Bevan, 57, may eventually succeed Clement Attlee, 72, as Labor party leader. He is a popular figure with the party's rank and file but is disliked by the leaders of the giant Trades Union Congress financial backbone of the party. His feuds with Attlee have brought him near expulsion several times.

Although many dislike the idea that Bevan might become prime minister, none denies his brilliance. His speeches are perhaps the best entertainment in the campaign.

For Sir Winston Churchill, sometimes an object of strong Bevanite fury, he had only soft slaps on the wrist in his first speech. He told how Churchill once said Britons were listless and lackadaisical in the war.

"What a silly thing to say," said Bevan, and now his eyes twinkled. "All Sir Winston had to do was to go out and take a few of those baby carriages on the streets.

Bevan has one difference after the last war. There's always a high birth rate when soldiers come home. But this time we had more babies born—and we kept them alive. And we kept their parents alive too."

Bevan was health minister for a time in the post-war Labor government but resigned his post before the 1951 election won by the Conservatives over differences with his party over token charges for medicines provided under the state health plan.

Final Approval For Joint Attack On Lamprey Eel

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Monday gave final approval to legislation providing for a joint Canada-United States attack on the fish-destroying lamprey eel which scientists hope will seal the fate of the Great Lakes predator.

The bill implements an agreement to set up a joint Great Lakes fisheries commission for an all-out campaign against the lamprey. It has all but destroyed the lucrative lake trout fishing industries in lakes Ontario, Erie, Michigan and Huron and now is entering Lake Superior.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair said similar legislation is before the U.S. Congress with assurance it will pass this year. It was hoped to get the commission set up this year for the scientific program against the blood - sucking eels which attack lake trout and other fish.

PROVIDES FOR OUTLAY

The measure provides a Canadian outlay of $350,000 for the commission this year and $50,000 for research.

The program will take the form of poisoning the creek beds, where the lamprey eel spawn, before they going out to the lakes for its final year of life, and installing electrical weirs and other contrivances to kill the predator as it enters the creeks to spawn.

Canadian fisheries scientists told parliamentarians earlier the measure was under committee study earlier that they are working on a way to prevent the lamprey eel may kill the eels by sound waves.

Mr. Sinclair said the program first will be concentrated in Lake Superior, where the lamprey is just now entering and where he think we can stop them." It would be extended later to the other lakes.

ASKS HELP IN HURON

J. W. Murphy (P C —Lambton West) said of the trout fishing in Lake Huron means $5,000,000 a year to fishermen there. He urged immediate help to deal with the lamprey in 50 or more spawning streams on the Lake Huron shore. He also asked that trout fingerlings be planted in the lake.

Mr. Sinclair said the plan is to concentrate on stopping the lamprey from getting a foothold in Lake Superior. It would not be feasible to stock Huron until the lamprey had been cleaned from that lake.

He told George Nowlan (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings) that eight American states bordering on the Great Lakes are dedicated their fisheries powers to the U.S. government for the 10-year life of the convention so the commission's orders will be final.

Last Survivor of Nova Scotian Settlers in New Zealand Dies

A hundred years ago six shiploads of Scottish settlers migrated from Cape Breton to New Zealand. On May 6, the last one died of these pioneers died. The following story tells how the Nova Scotian settlers and their descendants retained their identity in their new homeland.

By J.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WAIPU, New Zealand (CP)—The greatest claim to fame anyone could have in the New Zealand district of Waipu was to be a Nova Scotian. For a century the recognized aristocracy of the area have been—the pioneers who arrived in the original six ships. Now the last survivor has died. She was Mrs. Johanna McRae, who died May 6 in a Whangarei hospital, aged 97.

There were 875 Scottish settlers in the migration from Nova Scotia. They came to New Zealand between 1851 and 1858 in ships they built themselves.

The Nova Scotians founded the town of Waipu, in the northland region of the North Island, and they and their descendants have dominated the district ever since. It is a prosperous farming area, but the early families have not been swamped by a great influx of people from other parts as have the original settlers in most New Zealand districts.

As a result Waipu has retained a distinctive Scottish and Nova Scotian character until this day. Old customs and observances survive the people still maintain in close contacts with relatives in Nova Scotia. The migration is remembered in a museum, and official visits were exchanged a few years ago on the occasion of the centenary of the settlement.

LASP OF ELDERS

The pioneers honored founders of the town, have been dwindling rapidly, however. The last survivors are Mrs. Jessie McKenzie, who arrived in the barque Ellen Lewis at the age of seven. She died at 102.

The last Mrs. Johanna McRae was the sole survivor. She was a Nova Scotian by the narrowest possible margin. She was born just to give her the title so widely honored in the district. She was born aboard the ship Brodalbane while the vessel was waiting to enter the Bay of Fundy from Cape Breton, on the voyage to New Zealand in 1851. The event delayed the departure of the ship for two days.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch McKenzie, she was given the name Johanna after the captain, master of the ship. It was not until she went to school that she learned to speak anything but Gaelic. Her earliest home was a palm leaf hut in the wild bush country carved from the wilderness of Waipu.

In 1868 she married John McRae, who died in 1942. Since then she had lived at Whangarei, a few miles north of Waipu, with her daughter. But she remained active in the affairs of prominent guest at Waipu ceremonies.

The proudest moment of a long life came Dec. 20, 1953, when Mrs. McRae and Mrs. McKenzie, the two surviving pioneers, were presented to the Queen during her tour of New Zealand.

A few days after the death of Mrs. McKenzie last month, Mrs. McRae fell and broke her leg. Since then she had been a patient in Whangarei hospital.

Top Diplomatic Strategists Of West Fly Back to Paris After Seeing Defences Here

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Fifteen of the western world's top diplomatic strategists arrive in Paris today, with an on-the-spot concept of North America's role in the overall defence of democracy.

The men, members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council, left Montreal airport Monday after a nine-day swing through the eastern United States and Canada for a look at North American defence installations.

The trip, according to council spokesman Dirk Stikker, Dutch ambassador to the Netherlands, stressed "in what extent the defence of all the NATO countries is inter-dependent."

"It is quite obvious that the great potential of Canada and the United States could no longer be cohsied upon as a source of strength by your European partners if that potential were not adequately defended against attack," Mr. Starkenborgh said in a prepared statement at a press conference shortly before the party left.

MEMBERS IMPRESSED

The council, which has the job of putting member nations' thought into action from its Paris headquarters, is "most favorably impressed" with Canadian and American defence efforts and the "magnificent example" of cooperation they have witnessed, he said.

The council had ample opportunity to see the co-operation at first hand. Canada and U.S. naval complex at Norfolk, Va., to a visit to a radar station on the Labrador mountain area north of Montreal.

It was the first North American tour for the council. It has already considered military preparations by European members.

Former Wife Sues Husband For $15,000,000

NEW YORK (CP)—Vernon G. Cardy of Sie, Marguerite, Que., who once rose from bellhop to millionaire while still in his 30s, has been sued for $15,000,000 by his former wife.

Their marriage was annulled in 1950 after 24 years. They had one son, Bruce. Cardy married a 22-year-old amateur horsewoman the same year as the annulment.

Mrs. Cardy contended in a damage suit in New York state Supreme Court, disclosed Monday, that Cardy defrauded her out of the $15,000,000 in community property when they separated in 1950. She said in an 85-page complaint that when they parted her husband was worth $30,000,000. She said she was entitled to half of this un'ye community property even beclouse he amassed this fortune during their marriage.

ALLEGED AGREEMENT

But, she maintained, Cardy induced her to sign an alleged agreement "by a never-ending campaign of duress spread over 17 years." She was in poor health when she signed the document because of his "brutalities and cruelties," she said.

From 1933 to 1950, she charged, he "brazenly flaunted his adulterous love and lewdness before all of his wife, their friends and business associates."

Mrs. Cardy, the former Hilda Bouvier of Toronto, said she settled for $40 a month "in abnormal alimony when their marriage was annulled.

Cardy the same year married a horsewoman, Edith Ferguson, with whom he now resides in many hunts. Cardy at present is racing thoroughbreds at Belmont Park here. He could not be reached immediately for comment.

SOLD HOTEL CHAIN

Cardy built up a fortune which was wiped out in 1929. But he rebuilt his wealth and became one of Canada's largest hotel and resort owners.

He sold his group of hotels to a Canadian subsidiary of Hilton Hotels Corp., of America in 1950.

New York morning paper tabloids have been filled with pictures and carried names of alleged girl friends. The news caption writers have headline: "Asks 15 Million From Ex-Mate." The Mirror used three-column on page three headed "Hotel Tycoon Sued By Ex-Wife For 15 Million."

Barter Disposal Program Opposed by Liberal Member

OTTAWA (CP)—If countries with non-wood than they can use or don't started giving the surplus to countries without enough, what would happen?

Walter Tucker (L — Rosthern) suggested Monday to the Commons agriculture committee that action along this line could knock the props from wood food prices.

He said the 200,000-member International Farm Union Council has started giving the surplus to such a scheme for Canada.

The council, in a brief, told the committee that a multi-billion-dollar farm economy has been hit by high costs and low prices for earnings. It urged a two-price program for farm products that would lift the price of wheat to Canadian millers by 40 cents a bushel.

FARMER HUSKING

Unless protective measures were taken quickly, it added, "the consequences are likely to include disaster both on farmers and those who depend on agricultural prosperity."

Among the 14 points offered by the council was the suggestion that a world grain bank be set up to make surplus grain available to countries which can't afford to buy through normal markets.

Mr. Tucker said the IFUC has embarked on a barter disposal program in a small way. Trade representatives who observed recently that the U.S. give-away program is disturbing commercial markets.) If Canada implemented a similar scheme, the latter added, then the two could unleash the full force of such a plan. Australia and New Zealand also might start such schemes.

The council, composed of Prairie and Ontario farm unions, plugged for these other proposals:

1. Parity prices for farm products sold to Canadian consumers. Prices would be controlled to return a "fair share" of the price of goods farmers have to buy.

2. Low interest rates. Alberta's farm union president, estimated wheat would rise by 40 cents a bushel if they do.

3. Financing of loans to the Canadian wheat board and other marketing boards through the bank of Canada rather than through chartered banks, to reduce interest charges.

4. Crop insurance paid for by the farmer, province and federal government.

'Royal' Anthem Sung in House

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Commons stood at Prime Minister St. Laurent's suggestion Monday and sang the first verse of God Save the Queen before Mr. St. Laurent referred to as the "royal" anthem.

Questioned later about his use of the phrase, the prime minister said: "Did I say that? He indicated no particular significance could be attached to his utterance. Mr. St. Laurent was at the House opening and reminded members that Canada's ambassador to Britain had only the May 24 birthday of Queen Victoria but observed the Queen's birthday as well. He then asked members to join in a singing of the anthem.

Queen Elizabeth's actual birthday is April 21.

Urges National Organization To Promote Highway Safety

OTTAWA (CP)—Creation of a national organization to provide leadership in the discovery and use of improved methods of reducing highway accidents was recommended today by William Wecker, president of Wecker Motors Ltd.

Giving the keynote address opening the three-day national highway safety conference, Mr. Wecker said such an organization should co-ordinate the efforts of public groups with safety research workers in the automotive industry.

His remarks were contained in a text of his speech released to the press in advance of delivery.

Outlining many advantages that the automobile has brought to the people, Mr. Wecker said it was "the country's greatest single contribution to national development through efficient and economical communication."

However, there has been a failure to develop safety procedures, "to keep pace with the rapid mechanical development of the automotive age," he added.

The industry had improved safety provisions in the construction of motor vehicles to that only three per cent of accidents involved in traffic accidents are mechanically defective.

"It is the opinion of safety engineers, drivers and pedestrians alike that most highway accidents through a "lack of simple courtesy," he said. Legislators and public officials often blocked needed improvements in safety legislation and road construction.

For this reason a national organization is needed whose major task would be to develop and guide public opinion in a program of direct action," Mr. Wecker said.

143 Areas May Hold Key To Conservative or Labor Win

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Some of the hottest battles in the campaign for Thursday's general election are being fought in 143 areas which may hold the key to a Conservative or Labor party victory.

Politicians call these areas "marginal seats" because, in the last general election in 1951, they were won by majority votes of less than 3,000.

Whereas the Conservatives, for example, have little hope of capturing such a constituency as Hemsworth, a Yorkshire coalmining district where Labor in 1951 had a majority of 37,491 votes, they have every chance of winning Preston South where the Labor majority was only 16.

MARGINS VARY

Likewise, Labor has slight hope of succeeding in the upper middle class London district of South Kensington, where a Conservative in 1951 had a majority of 25,696 votes. But it is a different story in Buckingham, a south-of-England market town held at present by the Conservatives by only 54 votes.

Of the 625 constituencies which returned members to the House of Commons in 1951, 63 had majorities of less than 2,000 and 33 of less than 1,000.

In the outgoing Parliament, the marginal seats were fairly evenly divided between the two big parties, Labor and Conservative. In the 1951 election, Conservatives won 77 seats with majorities of less than 5,000 and Labor won 61. The others in this category were Liberals 6, Irish Labor 1, and Irish Nationalists 2.

The Liberal vote will be of great importance in deciding the fate of the marginal seats. The Liberal party, once a power but now fallen on hard times, is putting only about 100 candidates in the field.

Many Liberal voters in the marginal constituencies will have to candidate of their own to support and therefore will have to decide whether to vote Conservative or Labor.

MO EASY WAY

In the marginal seats, the two big parties are making major efforts to swing the vote their way. They are sending their biggest personalities and best speakers to these towns and districts. Local party agents are organizing door-to-door campaigns to make sure that every possible supporter votes.

In a few marginal seats, the issue is complicated by the introduction this year of a third candidate. In the Scottish port of Leith, where Labor had a majority of only 73 in 1951 in a straight fight with a Conservative, Sir Andrew Murray is standing as an independent with Liberal support.

The same applies in the London district of Ealing North, where the Labor majority in a straight fight in 1951 was only 130. In the previous election, in 1950, the Labor majority was 2,404 votes when a Liberal, polling 4,855 votes, made it a three-cornered contest. This year a Liberal again is running.

Deadly Chlorine Gas Spread By Fire in Plant

MUSKEGON, Mich. (CP)—Deadly chlorine gas spread over a wide area Monday after a fire broke out at a chemical plant at Montague, 12 miles north of here. More than 800 school children were evacuated by civil defence organizations when it appeared the wind would carry the poisonous fumes over the city. Preparations were made to evacuate about 1,500 adults if it became necessary.

The danger was averted when the wind shifted, carrying the fumes over Lake Michigan. No one was seriously injured.

Cause of the fire, at the Hooker electrochemical plant, is not known. Estimate of damage was not immediately available.

Fire-fighting units from 40 western Michigan communities were rushed to the scene to fight the blaze, which was brought under control within an hour.

Seven were killed and another 30 injured, four of them gravely. The dead included two women, three men, a 14-year-old girl and a baby.

BAN SHORTS IN SCHOOL

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma City high school principal has ruled that Bermuda shorts are not appropriate classroom attire for young men. "We didn't make an issue of it," Clarence Brathaupt said, "but I doubt if the boys will wear them tomorrow." Three or four pupils reported to classes Monday in the walking shorts.

BCI Wins COSSA Track Meet Gault, Relay Team Set Records

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Belleville Collegiate p'led up a total of 39 points to win the COSSA track and field meet in Peterborough Saturday afternoon for the second consecutive year. They finished nine points ahead of Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School the runner-up. Nineteen meet records were shattered during the afternoon. Albert College did not compete.

Alliston and Pickering tied for third with 18 points; St. Peters (Peterborough), Orillia and Whitby tied with 13; Kenner (Peterborough) had 12, Barrie 10, Brock and Cornwallinos nine, Richmond Hill 8, Oshawa CVI and Collingwood seven each. Points were on the 5-3-1 basis. W. Gault of Belleville set a new senior mark running the mile in 4 mins. 55.4 secs. The Belleville intermediate relay team romped to first place in the 880 yard event in 1 minute 40.8 secs. D. Cottrell of Trenton set two new intermediate marks during the 100 yards in 10.4 secs and the 220 in 23.2 secs.

Other senior records established included C. Miller of Gravenhurst who covered the 100 in 10.8 secs, W. Mollett with 53.1 secs. for the 440, D. MacKenzie of Barrie 40 ft., 9 ins. in the hop, step and jump and T. Wilson of Bruce who tossed the discus 119 ft, 3 ins.

K. Post of Kenner set a new junior broad jump mark at 17 ft. 6 ins. and S. Hutt of PCVS covered 27 ft. 3 ins. in the discus.

M. Roberts of Richmond Hill set a new record in the open two mile in 10 minutes, 45 secs.

Canadian Ski Team Chosen But No Funds

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Canada's Olympic ski team is chosen and all the Canadian Amateur Ski Association needs now is $10,020 to get them to Europe.

The association wound up its annual meeting Sunday by mapping a campaign to raise $820 for each of the 11 skiers who will represent Canada in the winter games at Cortina, Italy, Jan. 29-Feb. 5 and $1,000 to spare.

The appeal, separate from the general Olympic appeal, will be solicited across Canada but the areas that placed most skiers on the team will be expected to pay the most.

The Quebec division of CASA, which has 2,000 members and nine members and will have to raise $7,320. The western division has only, or $1,640, and central Canada and Ontario, none of whose skiers placed, will be expected to raise $300 each.

Major Leagues Managers Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—Out of the mouths of major league managers:

Casey Stengel, Milwaukee Braves: "When I was managing the Chicago Cubs back in 1944, a fellow was batting .340 and I left me in Pittsburgh, brought his son to Wrigley Field for a tryout. We had the boy work out with us for four or five days. I was impressed with his hitting and suggested to the front office that he be signed. The boy's dad wanted a bonus. The Cubs refused to give him cash so Walter Mueller took his boy to the Grounds and Don Mueller signed with the Giants."

Bucky Harris, Detroit Tigers: "The return of Ted Williams not only will help the Boston Red Sox and the American League but it will help the National League as well. A player, or batting so great, so widely known to the rank and file of baseball fans, is back in competition exerts impacts in every phase of baseball. It revives interest where it had lagged and sparks interest where it had not aroused.

In short, Ted Williams' rejoining the Red Sox is a great thing for baseball."

Lou (Bernie) Bavasi, Brooklyn Dodgers: "We signed Roberto Clemente for sentimental reasons. We say he would lose him but we did it because we thought the Pittsburgh Giants from getting him. No other reason. We knew the Giants were after him but not as a bonus player to sit on the bench so we gave him $10,000 and it turned out to be a cheap deal for us. We got back $4,000 when Pittsburgh drafted the boy. All we lost was $6,000 but the Giants didn't get him and that was the big thing."

Branch Rickey, Pittsburgh Pirates: "Walter Alston as a manager is greatly underestimated. . . . He's bossa. He proved it with his handling of Don Newcombe. Alston's taking the bull by the horns, so to speak, and the resultant aftermath, not only established him more firmly as the Brooklyn manager but proved to be a great psychological lift to the Dodgers. The rhubarb has cleared the air. Brooklyn is better off."

Latin Accent On Major Loops' Pitching

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Arroyo of St. Louis Cardinals and Sandy Consuegra of Chicago White Sox, two Latins with excellent control and only one defeat between them, lead the major leagues in earned run averages today.

Arroyo, a rookie lefthander, has given up only five earned runs in 50 innings. He heads the National League with an earned run mark of 1.25, figures compiled by The Associated Press show. Arroyo, a native of Puerto Rico has won four games and lost none.

Consuegra, a righthander from Cuba, tops the American League with a 1.15 average. He has permitted six earned runs in 47 innings while winning three games and dropping one. His setback was by a 1-0 score.

ERSKINE SECOND

Brooklyn's Carl Erskine, the National League's early season pacesetter, is second to Arroyo. He has given up 13 earned runs in 76 innings for a 1.54 ERA. Carl has a 6-1 won-lost record.

Warren Hacker of Chicago, who pitched a one-hitter against Milwaukee last Saturday, is third with 1.62 on nine untainted tallies in 50 innings. He has a 3-3 record.

Dick Donovan, a pleasant surprise for the White Sox, shows an earned run mark of 1.35 to rank second to teammate Consuegra in the American League. Donovan has won three games without suffering a five victories. He has lost one.

Johnny Schmitz, Washington's veteran southpaw, is third with 1.96.

Johnson Stopped By Body Blow Claims Second

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Johnson wasn't dragged but was stopped by a terrific body blow in the first round of his May 4 nationally televised fight with Julio Mederos, the Pennsylvania state athletic commission ruled Monday.

Harry W. Cohen, a second for Mederos, appeared as a voluntary witness before the commission in its investigation of boxing in Pennsylvania. Johnson, Philadelphia light heavyweight manager Tommy Loughrey, three handlers and matchmaker Pete Moran, are charged with participating in a "sham, fake or collusive boxing match."

Gov. George M. Leader banned boxing in Pennsylvania for 90 days after Johnson and Mederos after traces of a barbiturate drug were found in Johnson's blood. Physicians and police investigators reported Johnson was drugged somewhere between his home and the fighter collapsed in his corner after the eighth round and Mederos was declared the winner by TKO.

Cohen, asked by deputy state attorney general, Robert Levin, "Who drugged Johnson?" replied that he didn't know. "No, I light heavy-weight challenger was drugged at all but was stopped by a terrific right to the body in the first round."

Schoolboy Wins Three-Mile Race

GALT (CP)—Billy T. Reynolds Jr., 16-year-old Galt collegiate running star, scored his third consecutive victory here Monday when he won the Galt YMCA's annual three-mile junior road race.

In the last two weeks, Reynolds has won the Lucky Stewart memorial race, and the National Steel Car veteran's race at Hamilton in near-record time.

Reynolds, whose father is a former Canadian 10,000 metres champion, will compete in the Ontario school boys championships at Orillia next Saturday.

Acropolis 10-3 Favorite For Epsom Derby

LONDON (AP) — The English Derby will be run for the 176th time at Epsom Downs Wednesday and the favorite, both actual and sentimental, is Acropolis, owned by 83-year-old Alice Lady Derby. Some family gave the turf classic its name in 1780.

The small-time punters always back a sentimental choice. Usually it's a horse owned by a member of the Derby family. Last year it was Queen Elizabeth's Landau. The year before the Queen's Aureole attracted the small bets. Neither won the 1½-mile race from which an Irish sweepstakes is based.

This year to Acropolis, a good-looking chestnut colt, they have not only a colt racing in the silks of regular member of the nobility but one that has been made the 10 to 3 choice by the bookmakers. And the bookies are men who will not allow sentiment to influence their serious business instinct.

Two American-owned Colts—Solarium and Bryn—are expected to be among the 23 starters.

Our Babu, winner of the classic of the Guineas last month, is second choice at 8-to-1.

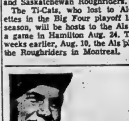
Tunney Picks Three to Whip Rocky Marciano

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy Gibbons, Harry Greb and Jack Dempsey would have beaten heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in their prime, Gene Tunney said, Sunday.

Tunney, who retired as heavyweight king in 1928 after knocking out Tom Heeney, did some famisicing while in Chicago for Armed Forces Day.



"Gibbons was a wonderful boxer who would have knocked Rocky out," said Tunney, "He would have slipped inside Rocky and taken charge.

"I don't believe Rocky would have laid a glove on Greb. Dempsey had everything Marciano has in strength and power and was infinitely a shrewd fighter with tremendous drive."

Yankees Overhaul Tribe, Take Over Top Spot; Giants Gain On Brooklyn

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GLORIOUS 24th!

Years ago when we used to frequent the ole swimmin' hole in that creek along the Bloomfield-Wellington highway, the twenty-fourth of May was the first signal for the first dip. In those days the sunny 24th was as near a British dip. In those days the sunny 24th was as near a British holiday as we ever got. It usually rained just to give the hired man a rest. Them were the days of the "heave races" in Picton when the late Jim Healy, "Doc" Herrington, Ben Payne et al, held harness sway, and the ball game usually used to turn out for the fun. And the young bloods used to hold private meets of their own along that stretch this side of Lockyer's greenhouse with the old man's post driver handy, and his rubber-tired "rig." There were surreys around, too, and the fringe was usually on the top of the old man's head.

However "them days is gone forever." Twenty-fourths of late have produced little sport in local communities. Softball, baseball and other outdoor summer pastime used to tee off on this date, but it appears the boys are satisfied to do a little smooching, fishing or just plain blackmasking on the first spring holiday of the year.

Outside of fishing and cabin and cottage dousing it was "quieter than a cemetery at midnight" in this village over the holiday. The senior baseball picture has been framed for the season at least, and those brave guys of the Belleville District League, who are going to keep the game's flag flying for these parts do not start action until June 1st.

Softball lets off with the Belleville Bobcats visiting Madoc for the opener and the playing host to the new Belleville Orfuns on Wednesday evening. The season opens here on Friday with the Bobcats entertaining Frankford while at Ox Point the homesters are hosts to the Orfuns.

GETTING INTO STRIDE!

With the Yankee bats coming into their own and the Bronx Bombers' pitching arms finding their stride the Prides of Gotham gave their supporters something to crow about over the week-end. The Slaughtmen have won seven in a row and Piper-backed the Cleveland Indians to bowl them first place by a full game. No games were scheduled yesterday. Yogi Berra, the Old Swami, connected for three homers on Monday, helping Ed Lopat to his first win in five starts and young Dick Sturdevant to his first Yankee victory. Early Wynn came up with a one-hitter for the Tribe in their 4-0 shutout over Detroit on Sunday to help the Tribe harbor to become the fifth major league hurler to register one-hit performances. Feller, Newcombe, Hacker and Turley are the others.

Meanwhile, Carl "Oiskin" of the Dodgers, pitched and batted his way to his sixth victory on Sunday but needed help from Ed Roebuck to get back the Philly Phillies. They swept a pair from the Bucks and extended their win string to six games to show nine triumphs against three defeats on their current road trip. They now troll the Braves for six games.

The Toronto Leafs swept three from the Montreal Royals over the holiday. Saturday night, Lou Berberet, Leaf catcher, hit a tremendous home run. The ball sailed over the right field fence at a terrific pace and later was tracked down by general manager Rudy Schaefer. A small boy had the ball and gave Schaeffer the details. The distance was measured, and was found to be 565 feet. The boy was given a new ball and Berberet got the original. It could be a Maple Leaf Stadium record.

NICE GOING!

"Red" Townsend, Fred Bradley and a bevy of Collegiate Institute track and field youngsters found their collective cleats out over the week-end following their sparkling collective victory in the COSSA Track and Field meet in Peterborough on Saturday. The BCI buckaroos, who bowed to Albert in Oshawa, COSSA meet a week ago, came into their own with a neat 28-point win over a field of thirteen schools from the various districts.

BCI paced the pack with the Peterborough CI second. Alliston and Bowmanville shared third spot with the rest of the field strung out to Oshawa and Collingwood, which finished in the cellar with seven points each.

The Belleville crew scored five firsts, three seconds and seven thirds. Bill Gault shattered the mile run with the intermediate relay team also breaking a meet record. Don Cottrell, Trevor Appleyard and Blaine Cossar also registered collective victory in the COSSA Track and Field meet in Peterborough on Saturday. CAHA Seeks Ways And Means To Snip Frills From Costs

BY DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—The winning financial combination may yet be found for developing Canadian hockey at the grass-roots level and at the same time retaining overseas supremacy.

Declining interest in amateur hockey playoffs will snip a heavy batch of frills from the budget of Amateur Hockey Association's operating program this year. And outside financial help may save the association close to $15,000 for further promotion of the amateur game.

One unidentified organization already is reported considering financing a Canadian team to the winter Olympics next year, and an as-yet unnamed insurance firm is ready to foot the bill for printing the CAHA rule book. The first venture would cost more than $25,000, the second roughly $3,500.

When the annual CAHA meeting here considers the 1955 budget—perhaps today—the association is expected to make a firm refusal to again tap its own funds to send a Canadian team to the European tournament.

PENTICTON CÔT

The association spent $10,453 on Penticton Vs trip to Germany earlier this year—more than $5,000 above what was expected, chiefly because the British Columbia team decided after arriving overseas that two player replacements were necessary.

The meeting is faced with a Saskatchewan proposal to send Canadian participation in the overseas tournaments, an independent suggestion to raise the necessary money through a special levy on amateur games, and the report that the commercial exhibition will foot the entire bill for the advertising advantages.

The second idea and the last report came from George Dudley of Midland, Ont., association secretary-manager.

If a decision is made to compete in the Olympic matches in Italy next year, Dudley proposes to raise the money by adding a dime to the price of each admission to one game during the regular season by each club under CAHA jurisdiction.

COULD ACCEPT

The interested organization which he declined to name, was of such a character that the association could accept its offer without hesitation. A final decision by the organization was expected within a month.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Allan Cup titlists, Fort William Beavers and the Intermediate champion Brandon Wheat Kings all had applied to represent Canada at the Olympics.

This year, total cost to Penticton's championship-winning team was $25,294, Dudley said, but the CAHA had $15,000 of this returned by the meet's German sponsors. Still, the association spent $5,453 more than originally intended.

Canadian teams are "more or less exploited" financially during the European meets, said CAHA president W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont.

He said he is "not enthusiastic" about continuing Canadian participation in the tournaments, but suggested Canada will be "obligated" to send a team to the 1956 Olympics, which will replace the world championships.

GET SMALL SHARE

Chief difficulty was that Canadian and American clubs could receive little share of the international competition gate due to monetary controls. Some games might realize $10,000 and up, but the visiting club would be lucky to get $1,000.

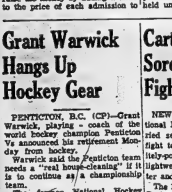
However, Dudley said, the CAHA might be able to name its own financial arrangements for the tournament in Moscow in 1957 because Canada would be the main drawing card. In Europe, the 1954 competition games drew 45 per cent of the total attendance of 125,000 persons.

The association's pailed financial completion was shown in total receipts of $64,000 from this year's Memorial Cup and Allan Cup playoffs. The CAHA showed a total return of $70,000 and its total expenditure went to $70,325. Total expenditure for 1856 is expected to be held under $30,000.

Grant Warwick Hangs Up Hockey Gear

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Grant Warwick, playing — coach of the world hockey champion Penticton Vs announced his retirement Monday from hockey.

Warwick said the Penticton team needs a "real hard-nosed centre" if it is to continue as a championship team.



The former National Hockey player also said he didn't want the job of playing-coach as well as the house-cleaning he recommended.

No successor has yet been named.

Grant, along with brothers Bill and Dick, was the key figure in moulding the Vs into a hockey power. The trio and the Penticton Hockey League club captured the Allan Cup in 1954 and captured the world title from Russia this season.

REPUBLIC BETS

LONDON (AP)—Leading British bookmakers declined Monday night to take any more bets on a Conservative victory in the national election Thursday. They explained that they have taken so much Tory money that they are anxious to balance their books.

2. Ever notice how most star golfers seem almost to lean away from the hole while they are whipping the clubhead into the ball. Actually, their weight is forward. Not only does this leaned-back sort of swing allow you to smack the heck of the ball, but it puts you in such a position that when you do straighten your hands and arms snap through the ball like lightning. As you know from watching star players they get a lot of power in a swing made this way. But I don't want to overstress today's point. If you stay behind the ball with your weight at impact, should go forward on the left leg.

Leafs, Royals In Nip-And-Tuck Battle For Top

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With six of the eight clubs in the International League falling off the pace—only a game and a half today separated the two teams that battled it out for the pennant last year.

Toronto Maple Leafs, the defending champions, and the Montreal Royals swept doubleheaders Monday and continued their nip-and-tuck battle for first place.

Toronto rallied to take the opener 11-6 and then nipped the Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in the night.

Meanwhile, Montreal came from behind to defeat Rochester Red Wings 8-7 in the opener and behind the seven-hit pitching of Don Drysdale blanked the Red Wings 3-0 in the second game.

An unearned run in the hottest half of ninth inning gave the Syracuse Chiefs a 3-2 victory over the Havana Sugar Kings. And the Columbus Jets handed the Richmond Virginians a 3-1 setback in 10 innings.

RABE BANGS HOMER

Loren Babe drove in seven runs including a grand slam in the first game for the Leafs in the first game. Archie Wilson also homered for the Leafs as Jack Crimian got the win. Four Leaf pitchers, was credited with his fifth win against one loss.

Lefty Bill Miller, making his first start for Toronto since being sent down by the Baltimore Orioles, held Buffalo to four hits in the second game. Babe added in one run and Lou Morton homered for the deciding markers.

Two of the hit Miller gave up were back-to-back homers by Ed Sauer and Steve Souchock in the fifth inning.

EXPLODED FOR FOUR

With Montreal ahead 3-1 in the fourth inning, Rochester exploded for four runs on five singles and two doubles, but the Royals came back with three more markings in the fifth and sixth as Glenn Mickens swapped up his second victory of the year. Tony Gonzalez was charged with the loss.

In the second game, rookie righthander Drysdale gained credit for his fourth victory against two losses. Clyde Parris drove in two runs with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Relief pitcher Raul Sanchez threw Jim Command's grounder into the bases loaded past catcher Ray Noble to allow Jim Westlake to score the winning Syracuse run. Ed Mierkowicz drove in the first two Syracuse runs with a pair of singles.

Carter Develops Sore Throat; Fight Postponed

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club started a hurried search today for a prestige fight to substitute for the indefinitely-postponed title bout between lightweight champion Jimmy Carter and Wallace (Bud Smith).

The 15-rounder, scheduled for the Boston Garden and network television June 1, was called off Monday night by a team of doctors headed by Ketchum, who said the champion "is sick with a sore throat."

"The fight has been postponed indefinitely," added Ketchum, "I notified the IBC that Carter's throat had thrust and can't fight."

It was the second big fight to fall through for the IBC's new Wednesday night television program. Starting light at the IBC shifts the weekly Wednesday fights from the CBS television network to ABC-TV.

"TITLE" SCRAP

The Carter-Smith bout was to have been followed on June 8 by a "title" scrap in Los Angeles between Mexico's Raul Macias, National Boxing Association recognized world bantamweight king, and Peter Keenan, the British Empire 118-pound ruler.

Keenan, however, recently was beaten in Australia and the IBC was forced to make a substitute title bout between Macias and Billy Peacock.

In Boston, Sam Silverman, matchmaker for the Callahan AC said Carter had taken a "runout powder."

"I'm going to see the (Massachusetts) boxing commission Tuesday and have Ketchum and Carter suspended," he said.

Betting Shows Increase At Woodbine Park

TORONTO (CP)—An opening-day crowd of 20,000 and $1,000,000 Monday swelled the betting figure to $668,272 an increase of $18,253 over last year's figures.

The daily double pool alone ran to $23,894. So great were the crowds that throat and can't fight."

It was the second big fight to fall through for the IBC's new Wednesday night television program. Starting light at the IBC shifts the weekly Wednesday fights from the CBS television network to ABC-TV.

Victoria Day marked the first time a "hot" machine was used in handling the daily double on a Canadian track. Under the new system introduced for the first and second races have to be made before first-race betting is closed. Previously bettors could make their wagers a race at a time.

ISRAELI DRIVEN OFF

AMMAN, Jordan (CP) — Arab Legion sources reported today that Jordan national guards had clashed with an Israeli patrol near the border in the Jenin area. They said the Israelis crossed the border and cut wire fences around Faktaa village, but retired when the national guard attacked. The Israelis left behind traces of blood, but the Jordanians suffered no casualties, the sources said.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL

Strong wrists are very important to a baseball player. The snap of the wrist puts power into your throw, and at bat powerful wrists enable the great hitters to wait longer to judge the flight of the ball and get that bat around in time to meet it.

The wrist development of relatively small men like Billy Cox and Willie Miranda gives them great throwing arms, and it is an essential factor in the success of most hitters.

When Al Kaline jumped directly from high school to the American League, he sought the advice of Ted Williams on improving himself, and Williams gave him two tips which he could use in connection with his winter work in a sporting goods store. During say lull in business, he could pick up a heavy bat and practice swinging it for long intervals to strengthen his arms and his shoulders and get a snap in his wrists.

Another Williams' suggestion he used was that by carrying a baseball with him. He could take it out at a pocket from time to time and squeeze it, trying to force it to cover all with his bare hands. Other squeeze hard rubber balls in each hand as a strengthening exercise. If Kaline eventually becomes another Ted Williams at the plate, many more players will be seeking and following Williams' advice.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The Olympic Games of 1956 are already giving cause for worry throughout the world democracies, raised by the threat of Russia's governmental mass development and subsidization of athletes.

And we urge this is the time, in Canada as elsewhere, for action.

The British Empire, the United States, among the free countries of the world in which sport flourishes as a natural, and not a forced growth, and all others in the same category, should be deeply concerned. Surely the democracies, Canada included, must send every qualified athlete to have a chance to match Russia.

We will never of course, beat Russian propaganda in the Pravda. There is no official team score in the Olympic Games, and Russia can score as she pleases. Last time she was kind enough to give the United States a tie with computation known only to Russia, a system widely at variance from that unofficially and informally accepted in other nations. This time, the system will be improved to declare a Russian triumph, unless the victory of the democracies is overwhelming.

We, in Canada, need money to send athletes, but first we need athletes to send. Time is short. Men are already in training will need to start an intelligent workout program and campaign immediately to have any chance of being worth anything in Olympic competition.

If we don't get a program going, we'll have few, if any, athletes ready in 1956. And those won't be prepared to compete in November which is normally out of season in our land.

This is something the Amateur Athletic Union should take up immediately in a practical way, with practical men at the head of the organization, men not interested in petty sports politics, but men interested in development of our athletes through the medium of competition. That is the only way . . . competition based on efficient modern scientific training methods.

We have at least one great 1500 metre prospect, Rich Ferguson. We have some fine boxers and wrestlers, excellent swimmers, both boys and girls. Just what we have in Canada we'll never know until a better degree of competition is developed.

Our hockey supremacy is no longer a matter to be taken for granted. There is ample material, but a high degree of selectivity must be exercised here. For other events, track-field, swimming, gymnastics and the like, we believe that a series of Olympic preparatory lads and lasses, with government financing in part, could develop a few athletes worthy to carry Canada's colors, and compete with the best.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bremner Happily Wed For 60 Years

TRENTON: (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. James Bremner of West Street, Trenton, played host to nearly 100 people on Sunday celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary at home on West Street. They were married at the Madoc Presbyterian manse by the Rev. Dr. David Wishart on the 24th of May in 1895. Groomsman Lemuel Wannamaker, brother of the bride and bridesmaid Ida McKnight of Cooper, both deceased, witnessed the ceremony. The day was hot and the couple remembers there was no rain for the week of their honeymoon.

Mr. Bremner is of Scottish descent and Mrs. Bremner's ancestors were Pennsylvania Dutch. They too faced the hardships of pioneer days around the turn of the century in Mayo township in North Hastings.

Mr. Bremner served as postmaster of Hartsmere for 18 years. He held the one mail contract in the locale for 20 years. He first delivered mail on foot, in his barefeet in the summer and often covered the route on snowshoes in the winter. He has a vivid recollection of the time he put a bag of mail arrived at Hartsmere. McArthur's Mills was invited to the 20 mile he contracted to service. Now in the shadow of his 85th birthday Mr. Bremner recalls having to wade knee deep through mud and sometimes falling into holes to his waist. He called on lumber camps operated by the Booth company. Later he delivered the mail on horseback.

RAN GENERAL STORE

The Bremners moved from Hartsmere to Detlor where they ran a general store and boarding house for 11 years. They came to Trenton at the time of the First World War when the munition plant was running full blast. They opened a grocery and Mr. Bremner sold coal and wood as a sideline.

The Bremners raised three daughters. Two of them died in 1944. Mr. Bremner suffered a breakdown then but in the last five years he has enjoyed reasonably good health. Early days in North Hastings and glimpses of Trenton in the second boom period were fresh in the memories of the happy couple. But foremost in their minds were the pleasant surprises and messages of congratulations including letters from Queen Elizabeth of England, Prince Mishael Louis St. Laurent and the Province of Ontario.

Child Found Two Miles Away From Home

TRENTON (Special) — A Trenton grandmother said she never experienced a more terrifying two hours when she told the story today about her two-and-a-half-year-old grandson wandering away from his grandmother's Dundas Street home around noon yesterday.

The tiny tot was finally located waddling along North Murray Street in the vicinity of the C.P.R. station two miles from where he started from. The police officer who brought him home said Robert was not crying but seemed to be awfully scared.

Mrs. Mary Phillips waited anxiously for news of her grandson's whereabouts from 1.00 p.m. until 3.15 p.m., while police and anxious parents searched for the missing child.

Baby Robert Charleton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Charleton of Kingston and was visiting his grandmother during the holiday weekend. He was playing in the backyard with a neighbor's youngster. The little girl decided to go home for lunch and Robert apparently went around to the front of the house looking for the front door. The grandmother believes he became mixed up at this point and continued down the street looking for her place.

In his travels the little boy walked along the traffic jammed main route for a half a mile, crossed two sets of railway tracks. The closest he got to the river at any time however was about 300 yards.

Baby Robert is home in Kingston today and if he can talk has a most interesting story to tell his playmates.

Transport Load Catches Beam Of Town Bridge

TRENTON (Special) — A big Smith's transport, loaded with cattle spools came to an abrupt halt on the town bridge last night when the forward part of the load caught on a cross-beam and smashed one of the spools. Driver Paul Leclair, of Toronto, had to back his truck into CPR property and remove the shattered spool before he could continue west.

NEW DOG STORY

This is a dog story with a new twist. A canine is blamed for causing his owner's car to start up and ram into a car parked car belonging to Wilfred Ellis, 39, of Bay Street, Trenton.

Guy Bradford, 37, of Montreal, parked his car on the North side of Dundas St., facing west, between Greene's and Lange and Peters. His dog left in the car, started jumping around and struck the gear shift knob, throwing the car into neutral. The car with the dog in it rolled ahead into the car in front. Total damage amounting to minor scratches, was estimated at $10.

THROWN TO PAVEMENT

Early this morning a car hit a motorcycle and sped away from the scene of the accident. John R. Pshebilsky, 16, of Mill St., Frankford, was thrown from his new machine and suffered a scraped side and bruises on the leg. His motorcycle was smashed as it slithered along the pavement fifteen paces from the point of impact.

The accident happened on Front Street, near the corner of Elgin. The youth told police he started to pass a car and ran into the rear bumper when the driver turned left without warning. He was thrown from the machine to the pavement.

Five Injured In Collision Near Bancroft

BANCROFT (Special) — Five persons were injured, one seriously in a truck-car crash three miles south of Maynooth on Saturday night.

In Peterborough Civic Hospital, suffering with a broken neck, is Leonard Thibodeau. In the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital are Mrs. Sarah Grant, with a fractured collarbone; Mrs. H. Batelle, head injuries and H. Beauregard, fractured cervical vertebra. Another unidentified passenger was treated at the hospital and sent home. All are residents of Bancroft and district.

The accident occurred when a half-ton truck, driven by Clarence Grant, Maynooth, is said to have attempted to pass a car driven by Harvey Bierworth, Bancroft. The vehicles collided and both crashed into the ditch with the car turning turtle and the truck coming to rest on its side. Mrs. Grant, wife of Clarence Grant, was riding with her husband in the truck.

Police Blotter

Outside of a few motor accidents one of which saw two persons receive minor injury, only routine matters came to the attention of city police officials during the long holiday week-end.

Three instances of theft were reported. The Belle Electric 145A Station street, complained that a quantity of scrap copper wire had been stolen; a Renfrew man reported his car had been broken entered on a local hotel parking lot with a quantity of clothing being stolen, while a Murney street resident complained that someone had entered his home during his absence and stolen a new refrigerator.

And a Lingham street resident complained that 15 feet had been stripped from his new garden hose, while the family was at the park watching a Victoria Day fireworks display.

And finally local boys got the spring fever early this year and was and in doing so caused two complaints to be received by the city police station. Both were to the effect that boys were using private property for their own use. One complaint was that the boys were diving off the platform at the rear of the Sea Cadet building into the inner harbor. Boys were also seen swimming some in the other instances they were diving off the warehouse building at the government dock.

Annual Banquet Is Enjoyed By Albert College Alumni

About one hundred members and guests of the Alumni of Albert College met at Tobe's on Saturday evening for the annual banquet and business meeting of the Hayman as chairman. The proceedings were opened with grace said by Dr. Bert Howard, Principal-emeritus of the school.

A toast to the school was proposed by Tom Yates and responded to by Principal A. E. MacKenzie. The main discourse was given by Ex-Mayor Jack Naylor of Oshawa, who was introduced by Jim Pullen. In the course of his remarks Mr. Naylor, a former student of Albert, said tribute to the late Dr. Bishop as an outstanding man of Christian character, who instilled in the fine qualities of citizenship in his students.

The speaker outlined three steps in the growth of a community. The first of these was physical, when a group of men pushed a city into enlarging areas for their own ownership of industrialization; the second was psychological, which a city grew naturally through development of schools, parks, and cultural attainments. Most important was spiritual growth which was necessary for the best development. Then people realized that they had to have ideals to attain full growth.

Appreciation was expressed to the speaker by Jerry Thompson.

After a toast was paid by Jim Pullen with Mrs. Pullen at the piano, the guests adjourned to Ackerman Hall where a dance and social evening rounded out the festivities.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were, Past President, John Hayman; President, Jim Pullen, Toronto; first vice-president, Tom Yates, Toronto; second vice-president, Rachel Freeman, Wellington; secretary - treasurer, Murray Irwin, Belleville.

SPECIAL SERVICE SUNDAY

On Sunday morning at Albert College chapel, a special service for the visiting alumni was held. A former student, Rev. Lloyd Shorten preached the sermon. Assisting in the service were Dr. Bert Howard, Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, and Mr. John Hayman. The school choir contributed to the musical part of the worship.

At Albert College Manor on Sunday afternoon a tea was served for the Alumni, which was convened by Mrs. Murray Irwin. The guests were received at the door by Mrs. A. E. MacKenzie, Mrs. John Hayman and Mrs. Jessie Gibbs.

The table was beautifully appointed with centrepieces of wrought iron bearing green candles, centered with tulips banking mauve iris and lilacs. Baskets of white and purple lilacs, tulips and blossoms added to the graciousness of the charming rooms.

Those who poured tea were: Mrs. Bert Simpson, Mrs. J. Bruce Thompson, Madeline Young and Miss Jessie Tuite. Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. Norman C. Bristol, Miss Helen Sulman, Mrs. W. Drew, Mrs. O. Sharpe, Mrs. J. A. Bonter, Mary David and Barbara Abramsky.

On Sunday evening a social was held at Ackerman Hall to give the members of the graduating class, many of whom had come from some distance an opportunity to renew friendships and enjoy congenial fellowship. Mr. J. McKay, Dean of the school, showed slides of a number of pictures. A male choir from the school was heard in several numbers. A sing-song and refreshments concluded an enjoyable evening.

On Monday the events included a track meet, and finished with a banquet where awards were given for the athletic events.

The annual business meeting of the alumni group it was decided that the executive be empowered to set up a committee to establish an Albert College Alumni Association Centennial fund. This committee will endeavor to give financial assistance to the school's Centennial campaign.

Highways Jammed as Motorists Take to Road to Enjoy Holiday

Take away a major motor vehicle accident, a tremendous highway exodus and the theatres, and the city celebration of the 1955 "Glorious Twenty-Fourth of May" would have been a comedown look like a Mardi Gras.

Soggy cloudy weather with intermittent splashes of sunshine and showers failed to dampen the spirits of thousands of cars and the traveling public.

Service station operators ad garages did a land-office business. From as early as Friday afternoon the main highways and the roads of the byways were ribboned with motorists homeward.

People sought cable, cottage and the northern and other haunts of the finny tribe where the "first dored" in lakeside abodes. Others went on family picnics. Yet others sought the holiday atmosphere of the metropolitan areas. The rest stayed home.

For the first time in years the "Twenty-Fourth" did not produce any sports spectacles in the city. A large number took to the link and the fairways, but baseball and softball diamonds were unfrequented "runners".

On Sunday and Monday the city slipped back quietly into its holiday drowsiness, went to theatres or caught up with missing sleep.

Dr. Thos. Warner To Be Candidate In Frontenac

VERONA (CP)—Colin A. Campbell, 54-year-old former cabinet minister in the Hepburn government, Monday night charged Premier Frost with confused thinking and action.

Mr. Campbell was speaking here at a Liberal nominating convention in the riding of Frontenac-Addington.

Dr. Thomas Warner, a dentist at Yarker, Ont., was chosen to contest the riding in the June 9 Ontario general election.

Mr. Campbell's remarks were contained in a partial text issued to the press before delivery.

He challenged Mr. Frost to run an official Progressive Conservative candidate in the Renfrew South constituency where Wilfrid Dempster, Progressive Conservative independent, was nominated. The premier withdrew his support when Mr. Dempsey said he did not file the $200 in campaign contributions made to him in 1951.

"If he (PremierFrost) does not do this it would appear that he is content to take a man who he considers is not fit to be a member of the legislature," said Mr. Campbell "and this obviously in the hope that Mr. Dempster will win the riding and possibly be brought back to support Mr. Frost in the future."

The family was provided accommodation and clothing by the Bancroft Red Cross and the Lions Club.

Optimism Is Fading As U.S. Still Waits For Russian Vote

Had Expected Early Reply To Plan For Big Four Meet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States state department is awaiting an official note from Moscow before deciding what is Russia's real approach to arranging a top-level Big Four conference.

Meanwhile it is becoming clear that great difficulties lie in the way of working out solutions with the Soviet Union on the Asian-Far East problems. Even the kind of Big Four meeting which should be held appears to be in dispute.

The Western powers two weeks ago invited Russia to join in the session bringing together President Eisenhower and the premiers of Russia, Britain and France. State Secretary Dulles, who discussed the plan with Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov in Vienna 10 days ago, expected to have a definite Soviet reply by this time.

PRAVDA ATTACK

But last weekend the Communist newspaper Pravda sharply attacked the idea that the meeting should be held at the summit level as the West has proposed. The Russians said that would be too long enough to deal with problems of substance.

The nature of the problems themselves is becoming plainer, and what pressure is exerted to create the sense of quick progress toward better understanding which existed at the time the invitation was issued.

The Russians, for example, have attacked Dulles and Eisenhower for broaching the idea of discussing the Soviet satellite states in eastern Europe. Moscow has gone a long way to emphasize that the domination of those countries is not a subject for discussion.

SOURCE OF TENSION

However, both Eisenhower and Dulles are convinced that the question is the source of East-West tension and must be taken up.

On the other hand, Russia recently achieved one of its most cherished neutrality for Germany. Russia rejected the West's insistence Tuesday any policy of neutrality for that country, whose western portion is allied with the Western powers.

Asked what he thought about neutrality for states to the east of Germany — such satellites as Poland — Molotov answered, the said "anything which increases the national independence of the satellite states is along the lines of United States policy."

23rd Government Of P.E. Island To Be Elected

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The 23rd government since Confederation will be elected in Prince Edward Island next month.

It's a straight two-way fight between the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, each with a full slate of candidates.

The Liberals are led for the first time in a general election by Premier Matthews. He succeeded the late Jean-premier and senator, J. Walter Jones, two years ago.

R. K. Bell, Progressive Conservative leader, is fighting his second election campaign. Liberals have won five consecutive elections, the last two with 24 seats against six for the Progressive Conservatives.

LOCAL ISSUES

The campaign has been hard-fought, centered mainly on local issues with the exception of those affecting the agricultural background of the province.

The Progressive Conservative manifesto promised "good government" with maximum use of the full-time and backed a scheme of long-term, low-interest, loans to establish new farms.

The Liberals went to the people on their record and promised to seek increased federal government subsidies and to establish a new ministry of labor.

TWO MEMBERS EACH

Voting for the estimated 61,000 eligible voters is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EDT in the 15 district which elect two members each. Under the province's unique election law one member is elected by a one-man ballot and one as assemblyman. They have equal power and there is no distinction in the ballot but there are varying qualifications for voting for each.

Twenty-six of the 29 members in the House at dissolution April 27 — there was one vacancy — are seeking re-election.

One Liberal minister—Provincial Secretary William Hughes—was not renominated in Kings 4th.

Premier Matthews is running in Kings 4th and Mr. Bell in Queens 2nd.

Skies were cloudy throughout the province and there was a possibility of showers. Temperatures were expected to be in the 60s.

TO VOTE, THEN SAIL

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (Reuters)—Two troopships here and two in Liverpool have been told their sailings to allow about 7,000 servicemen to vote in the general election Thursday. The ships are to carry the troops to the Far East. Next Said, Singapore and Malaysia.

Today's Chuckle

"I hear Doris is engaged to an X-ray specialist."

"I wonder what he sees in her."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Mild air has reached the lower Great Lakes this morning and will cover the entire province by noon. This cold air will dominate the weather picture for the next 24 hours.

Garbage Can Purchased But Never Used

DETROIT (AP)—Edward A. O'Brien objected at first when Detroit's department of public works commission notified him that as a taxpayer he'd have to comply with city regulations and buy a garbage can.

O'Brien explained he's a bachelor and lives alone. He eats all his meals out. He never uses a garbage can.

But the commission held firm, so O'Brien bought a garbage can and stood it in the front window for city officials to see.

IMMIGRANT SHOT TO DEATH BY UNKNOWN MAN

Service Station Lot In Toronto Scene

TORONTO (CP)—A 30-year-old man who recently arrived from Italy was shot to death in west-end Toronto Tuesday night.

Natale Bigiade was shot twice on a service station lot and a boy told police he saw a car speeding away seconds after the shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. James McVicar, who operate a restaurant near the service station, said they heard four shots about 11:15 p.m.

Mrs. McVicar, 30, said she looked out a window.

CALLED FOR HELP

"I saw a man start to run from the gas pump on the service station. He staggered as he ran and I heard him shouting for help.

"I saw him collapse and then crawl on hands and knees and then fall flat on his face. My husband grabbed a blanket and rushed out. I called the police and got an ambulance."

Bigiade announced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said they questioned by three women wailing across the street for a streetcar. Mrs. McVicar said she boarded the car without glancing at the running men.

HUNT FOR MAN

Police said they are searching for a man who was seen running from the scene of the shooting. He is described as about five feet, 10 inches tall and between 25 and 30 years old. He is dark complexioned and was wearing dark trousers and a white shirt.

It was the second outbreak of violence in the city since last Thursday when two men held up a bank in downtown Toronto and escaped with $2,000 in cash.

Another bank holdup was pulled off Tuesday when a gunman held up a downtown branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and escaped with about $600 in cash.

Police said the gunman's actions were a rapid contrast to the employee in the bank noticed a robbery in progress. Police found the incident downtown Toronto but found no trace of the man.

Police are investigating a theory Bigiade was followed to Canada by police in his native land of his homeland and was in fear of his life.

They said a knife sheath was strapped to his right leg and the shoulder strap knife was found four feet from the point where he collapsed. Officers believe the man had his attackers and had drawn the knife to protect himself.

New Tables Mailed

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department this week is mailing new tables for income tax deductions at source to about 200,000 employers across Canada.

The tables change the deductions that must be made at source on salaries and wages of persons paid after July 1, reflects the tax cut of about 10 per cent announced in Finance Minister Harris in his budget speech April 5.

Some Doctors So Drunk at Hangings They Cannot Determine If Man Dead

OTTAWA (CP) — Some doctors and coroners at hangings are so drunk they can't properly apply a stethoscope to determine whether the condemned is dead.

This claim was made to the Commons justice committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries by the Quebec barrister, one of Canada's two official opinion critics. He appeared before the committee at a second session of the 21 and his evidence was made public Tuesday.

The hangman also said he once hanged a man already dead from a heart attack and that he does not know how to adjust a rope to stress a particular vertebra in the neck of a condemned person.

The five-foot, 200-pound executioner has assisted at more than 200 executions. Nine were double hangings. He has followed his calling since 1929. He and the executioner employed by Ontario are the only ones for executions in other provinces.

He told the committee hanging is the quickest way to execute a person provided it is properly performed. The condemned lost consciousness almost immediately after the trap was sprung, whether from a broken neck or strangulation.

The president-elect, curiosity-seekers being invited to hangings in small communities, also claimed that officials at executions refrain from using intoxicating liquor. He urged a central place of execution in each province. This would lend "dignity" to the operation.

Asked to explain his reference to "drunk" hangmen, Mr. Fauteux said that "the attending physician or coroner could hardly apply his stethoscope to the chest of a dead man."

The body was left hanging on the rope longer than was necessary, and such mistake was imputed to the executioner."

Often the doctor or the coroner "don't know whether the heart is beating or not." Liquor "deafens their ears so they cannot hear the heart-beats."

Prisoners seldom fainted, but they have been carried when they had to be held erect by placing broomsticks under their arms.

Forecasts Favor Conservatives In British General Election

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's fourth post - war general election takes place Thursday, posing a straight choice between state socialism and a Conservative brand of welfare capitalism. Forecasts favor the Conservatives.

In 50,000 polling booths across Great Britain and Northern Ireland, some four-fifths of the 35,- 650,000 electorate will choose among a total of 1,409 candidates for the 630 seats in the House of Commons. Voting will be between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. British time and the first results will be made known an hour or so after the polls close.

The battle of the ballots is between the ruling Conservative party, led for the first time by Primo Minister Sir Anthony Eden, and Opposition Labor party. Both are contesting virtually every seat in this first May election for 26 years as well as the first one held with a chance of forming the government.

The third party, the Liberals, has 110 candidates in the field. It is widely believed that Liberal supporters in other constituencies, deprived of a candidate of their own, may influence the outcome in close contests. In some constituencies, "frustrated" Liberals tended to favor the Conservatives in about a three-to-two ratio.

The election comes as the climax of a three-week campaign marked by as genteel as cricket on the curate's lawn. It was widely heralded in advance as the first "TV election," but the 2½ hours of broadcasting time allotted each three parties apparently did not strike any real sparks in a jaded electorate.

Quietest election in living memory," said one London newspaper. Evidence of electoral indifference was interpreted as a pointer to the Conservatives since Labor had originally mustered its full vote when no burning issues are involved.

Public opinion polls, and the growing band of British election analysts, generally give the Conservatives a good chance of strengthening their majority in the Commons in the House of Lords. They Tory majority ranged between 15 and 20, the necessities for any big legislative program.

A common forecast is that this time the lead may be 30 seats or more, enough for a working majority. Prime Minister Anthony but is fighting the election as an ordinary member of Parliament. Opposition Leader Clement Attlee is a prime minister resigning with his party in power and continuing as an MP.

With the mass vote of the Labor party depending on organized gangs, log each party at least 200 seats, the 1950 Labor victory was by a mere 100 marginal seats, held by tenuous majorities in 1951 or made vulnerable by redistribution. Redistribution has affected 215 constituencies and covered any the

Canada Inoculates 750,000 Children With No Ill Effects

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has inoculated about 750,000 children with the Salk polio vaccine so far —without a single report of a child contracting the disease.

"The double safety check on production is part of it," a federal health department spokesman said, "either one will prevent one report of a child becoming ill with polio after receiving the vaccine. If it was found to have been infected with the virus before getting the shot, it wouldn't."

The spokesman said about 750,- 000 children have received at least one inoculation of the vaccine prepared by the campaign against infantile paralysis.

With a population of 15,000,000, Canada's demands for the vaccine have been small, supplies scarce. There have been few reports of parents balking at the inoculation program.

Mothers have camped for hours on the doorsteps of clinics, demanding protection for their children. One doctor who had supplies for a few persons said he made a number of enemies when he refused to give children the vaccine. He couldn't fill the demands.

Supplies—except for 75,000 triple doses imported from a U.S. commercial firm last month—are produced exclusively one Canadian Course: the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories.

Connaught is one of Montreal's Institute of Microbiology is expected to be in full production by summer, next fall.

The supplies from Connaught are double-checked for safety and effectiveness: First at the laboratories and then again at the federal hygiene laboratories here. Authorities say a few batches have been thrown out, mostly because the tests are very stringent.

They say the double check is the reason there are no reports of illness.

Connaught is producing for the provinces, the federal government and Canada's Red Cross. Imports of U.S. vaccine were halted when the Salk vaccine was produced. emerged in the U.S. No further Americas supplies will be permitted this summer.

Returning Officer Says Canvassing For Funds Legal

SUDBURY (CP)—District returning officer Ernie Cressey has ruled that public canvassing for election funds is legal.

Mr. Cressey made the ruling as a result of complaints about a public appeal for campaign funds made on city streets Tuesday on behalf of Nels Thibault and Robert Carlin, independent candidates for Sudbury city council in the Ont. tario general election June 9.

Representatives of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) made the sidewalk appeal outside a bank at which thousands of employees at the international Nickel Company are paid.

Use of the streets for such purposes is a municipal affair, Mr. Cressey said.

PAID FOR LOST YEARS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Senate voted Tuesday to pay $17,000 to a Chicago Negro who spent 17 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit. Earl Howard was 18 when he was convicted in 1936 of the fatal stabbing of William Heag. Howard said he was beaten and forced to sign a confession. He won his freedom in 1953.

KNOWLES ATTACKS MINISTERS IN COMPANY POSTS

Scandalous Example Of A Bad Practice

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF member Stanley Knowles says it is wrong to have in the consciences of cabinet ministers whether they should hold directorships in private companies while serving the Crown.

The member for Winnipeg North Centre said in the Commons Tuesday that Prime Minister St. Laurent set in responsible for Revenue Minister McCann's continuance as a director of Guaranty Trust Co. of Canada. Mr. Knowles, Commons members who compromised Parliament's independence resigned their seats. They were moved by a statute.

"But today the prime minister says it is all a matter of conscience when he has a colleague who is a director of a company who is administering estates, a director who, according to that company's advertising, gives his guidance and advice in such matters as succession duties."

"A BAD PRACTICE"

The situation was "a scandalous example of a bad practice."

Mr. Knowles spoke in support of a bill to bar cabinet ministers from being company directors.

The bill was introduced after James Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member for Rosedale, Toronto in the last Ontario legislature, lost the support of Premier Frost for not reporting contributions of $6,800 in funds for his 1951 election campaign.

Dr. McCann, federal member for Rosedale South, has been reported as the person who tipped Mr. Frost about the unreported funds. Dr. McCann is a director of Guaranty Trust Co. It handled the estate of the late John Drohan, lumberman constituent who gave Mr. Dempsey the money.

No Committee On Atomic Energy This Session

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris said Tuesday night the government has no plans to proceed this session with plans to set up a committee on atomic energy matters, as requested.

Mr. Harris, government House leader, said he would discuss the matter with the session's end approaching but the government has no plan to proceed this session with plans to set up a committee on atomic energy matters, as requested.

Mr. Harris, government House leader, said he would discuss the matter with the session's end approaching but the government has no plan to proceed this session with plans to set up a committee on atomic energy matters, as requested.

Earlier in the session, J. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West) who had a similar resolution awaiting Commons debate, withdrew his resolution after Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House the government intended to go ahead with its own.

The lawyer had it corrected by Superior Court Master Elmer D. Doyle, she remarked:

"On the basis of the past record, one can't have too much confidence in this latest venture. But I wish her luck and hope she'll have better luck in her relations court again. Who knows? Maybe this one will stick."

Mrs. O'Malley, 44, commented: "I always hope."

French-Bred Colt Phil Drake Wins Epsom Derby

Two Canadians Hold Irish Sweep Tickets On Winner

EPSOM, England (CP) — Phil Drake, a French-trained colt owned by Mme. Suzi Volterra of France, came with a rush in the stretch to win the 176th running of the Derby today.

Panasslipper, from Ireland, was second, and the favored Acropolis, owned by Lady Derby, whose fame will rest on her daughter Vera Lindsay, was third in the field of 23 horses in the famed race for three-year-olds.

Phil Drake, whose sire is Admiral Drake and dam is Philippa, went off at 100 to 8 in the betting while Panasslipper was 100 to 1 and Acropolis 11 to 4.

Each horse carried 126 pounds in the English race, the last six furlongs of which is run uphill.

The Royal Family was out in force for the Derby, on which the Irish Hospital sweepstakes are based.

QUEEN ON HAND

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh rode down the course in an open landau before a crowd estimated at 200,000—short of the 250,000 who jammed the downtown streets Tuesday for the Oaks, another classic race for three-year-old fillies.

Mrs. Volterra became the third woman to own a winner in the Derby and her horse earned £18,- 802 for her. Second money was £2,212 and third £1,106.

The two previous winning women owners were Mrs. G. B. Miller with Blinker Bob in 1937 and Mrs. M. Glenister with Nimbus in 1949.

The time for the race over the horseshoe-shaped track was 2:39 4-5.

Phil Drake, a bay colt, became the third French horse to win the Derby in the last seven years and the first since Galcador won for Marcel Boussac in 1950.

His owner, a 32-year-old vivacious blonde beauty, gasped with delight as Scobie Breasley, diminutive Palmer brought him home with a tremendous drive. Drake hung back until the final furlong when he opened up on the rails to pass Panasslipper, ridden by J. Eddery, in the uphill stretch. Doug Smith was third on Acropolis.

Phil Drake, trained by F. Mathet, attracted thousands of small bets in the Irish Sea-Land Derby Sweepstakes and was the 7 to 1 favorite at Odds shortened from 16 to 1 to 10 to 1.

"It was a bookmakers' race," David Cope, a leading English racing writer, said. "Everyone believed that Acropolis was beaten in the derby.

"The public fastened on to Acropolis, True Cavalier and Hafiz II." EXCITING FINISH

It was one of the most exciting finishes the Irish Derby has ever run in 1780. However, it was six seconds off the record set by the great Ksar's Mahmoud in 1936.

Mme. Volterra said after the race that she didn't "realize what it's all about" on her colt because she never bets.

"Not End of World' Says Controller As Mayor Whitton Plans to Resign

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton says she will resign over what she terms interference with civic administration. Controller says he'll believe it when he sees it. Another says, in effect: So what?

"I'll believe her resignation when I see it in writing," said controller Paul Tardif Tuesday after Miss Whitton announced she'll leave the civic scene July 31, when Ottawa finance commissioner A. H. Ritchie goes.

"It's not the end of the world," commented controller Dan Donaldson. "The king is dead, long live the king."

Mr. Ritchie, 44, said he has been thinking of going into private industry for some time. He declined to tell a reporter whether he may be talked into reconsidering his resignation.

The 59-year-old mayor said Mr. Ritchie's resignation does not stem from interference with his efforts toward maintaining the city's financial stability. Without his counsel, "what's the use—I can't go on."

Amplifying in a statement she said she can't continue in office "under these circumstances" with responsible groups . . . destroy the efficiency of my council."

"I can not continue under this kind of interference, particularly in writing," she said.

But if the mayor locked herself out of office, she didn't have much company.

"If I am going to quit," she said, "unless we are given the financial authority we have to have."

Mr. Tardif said he doesn't think it is understood her charge of interference partly concerns requests from some school board officials for more auditoriums and the like in schools being built. Presumably, if the situation changes before July 31 Miss Whitton's mind could change, too.

She said deputy mayor George Boyce will carry on until she does over Mr. Ritchie's resignation.

Said controller Ernest Jones: "This is terrible."

No Tendency To Change Name Of Party -- Drew

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. George Drew said Tuesday he has seen no tendency toward abbreviating the official name of his national party at the 1945 party convention "from Progressive Conservative."

But, the national party leader added, he is disenfranchising himself—still call it the Conservative party.

Mr. Drew made the statement in an interview while commenting on a decision of the executive of the party's Alberta association to drop the word "Conservative" from the title. Ballots in next month's provincial election will carry the party affiliation of candidates.

Mr. Drew said there is no move afoot to change the name Canada in the "Progressive Conservative" party, adopted by the 1942 party convention which chose John Bracken as party leader.

He said, however, that it is general practice to use the one word "Conservative" when referring to the party. The prefix was simply an adjective.

Mr. Drew noted that Conservatives in Britain don't use their name without the word Conservative and Unionist Association.

City Will be in Market To Purchase Post Office If Govt. Intends to Sell

Frank S. Follwell, MP, for Hastings South, will be asked by city council to petition the federal government regarding the present post office property with the view of its being sold to the city if it goes up for sale.

A recommendation to this effect was tabled Monday night by Alderman Enos David and was passed by council after a brief discussion.

A question was asked if definite word had been received indicating that a new post office was to be built on another site. No one seemed to know and the recommendation requesting action by the sitting member was to let the government know the city was desirous of obtaining the property should it come up for sale.

Council turned down a move to have a special committee appointed to investigate the possibility of setting the nomination date for municipal elections ahead, to decide who was to be eligible to vote at the advanced poll and to consider the re-division of wards in the city.

City Clerk-Comptroller said moving the nomination date ahead would allow more time to get ballots prepared.

The recommendation by Alderman Hyde named three council members for the special committee, but this drew an objection from Mayor Both, who declared that according to the procedure by-law the mayor was to name committees.

"I don't care who is named to the committee," returned Alderman Hyde, "but council minutes will show that special committee members have been named on many occasions by members other than the mayor."

APPEAL RECOMMENDATION

Council approved of a Board of Health recommendation that the municipalities outside the city sending pupils and students to Belleville schools be approached regarding costs of health services provided at the schools. The recommendation had reference to both elementary and secondary school non-resident pupils. The board of health will approach the municipalities concerned.

A request for a change in the zoning by-law to allow construction of apartment houses in the Victoria and Dufferin avenue district was turned down, while a similar request for a change in the zoning by-law for South Front street was referred back to the planning committee.

Alderman R. Graham brought to council's attention the fact that businesses were being operated in certain areas of the city contrary to provisions of the zoning by-law and asked what procedure had to be followed to have the practice stopped.

He was told that verbal complaints of such infractions had to be followed by a written report before any action was taken.

Another request for a traffic light at the corner of Coleman and Bridge streets was made by Alderman Grandaise and was supported by Alderman Hyde. Alderman David as traffic committee chairman said his committee had recommended to the city police that a light was not required at this point, but promised that all such problems would be eventually ironed out.

The city by-law dealing with the grading of female employees in city halls was referred back to the finance committee for further study when it was agreed there would be few "misunderstandings" to be ironed out.

A special meeting of council to discuss traffic, city planning and other problems will be called for next Monday evening.

Loaded Trailer Overturns East Of Marysville

A Toronto transport driver, Gordon Newman, 28, of Lakeshore Road, escaped injury this morning when his loaded tractor trailer went off the pavement on the old Belleville road east of Marysville and turned over on its top in the ditch.

The careening transport, which travelled for 270 feet on the shoulder of the road before turning over, knocked off a hydro pole and cut power in the area for over three hours. Newman crawled unassisted from his overturned transport.

The accident occurred about six o'clock about two miles east of Marysville. Newman told investigating police that he was travelling west and turned out to pass another vehicle and was crowded off the road. The refrigerated trailer with a full load of meat and the tractor had about $3000 damage.

Provincial Constable E. L. Graves investigated.

'Mac' McGaughey of Trenton Named Liberal Candidate For Hastings West Riding

Irving Augustine "Mac" McGaughey, 55, Trenton electrical contractor and appliance dealer, was named Liberal candidate for West Hastings by acclamation Tuesday night at a riding convention in Kiwanis Centre, Belleville. About 100 persons attended.

Mr. McGaughey accepted the nomination when Ben Bleecker, ex-reeve of Sidney township and only other nominee, withdrew.

"This is no token campaign. This is a straight campaign for a win," said Mr. McGaughey in accepting the nomination.

Mr. McGaughey was nominated by Allin Meagher, of Belleville. His nomination was seconded by Mrs. W. A. Inglis, of Trenton.

"I make the statement a week ago that there would be a Liberal candidate in Hastings West" said Mr. McGaughey. "And tonight you have one. I am not going to let the name of Liberalism fall in West Hastings. The campaign starts officially right now," he said as he promised campaign workers that he would devote all the time "to winning this seat for Liberalism".

OUTLOOK BRIGHT CLAIM

"I have been in the northern part of the riding and the outlook is bright. When the outlook is bright up there it should be positively blinding down here."

"I will make no personal insinuations against my opponents," he said amidst applause. "I may have to mention the Conservative party, as it's a name a few times, but I will not say anything derogatory about my opponents."

In promising a fighting campaign Mr. McGaughey said the Conservatives "are so sure of Hastings they have neglected it."

"I need only point out the road between Trenton and Belleville. We were to have a bridge over the Trent. Maybe the highways department lost it."

"We have a very sensible program," he said. "The Conservatives have a record."

"The people in Hastings are not going to have money taken from their pockets and spent carelessly.

In promising to campaign "20 hours a day if it is your wish" Mr. McGaughey promised to do his "very best for you people and I ask you to do your very best for me."

Frank S. Follwell, MP, for Hastings South, and chairman of nominations led three cheers for Mr. McGaughey.

RAISED AT ODESSA

Mr. McGaughey, raised on a farm near Odessa, Ont., joined the 146th Bttn., from Kingston, on March 15, 1916, just five days before his birthday. He is buried at Barrietield and Valcartier but was relected for overseas service because of his age.

He was promoted to the rank of sergeant in 1917 and was stationed in charge of the guard at the munitions plant in Trenton.

He married the former Eva Labelle of Trenton, in 1918, and has made his home in Trenton since that time.

His three sons, Leonard, Charles, and Bernard, 111 electricians and mechanics, are employed in the family's electrical contracting business and its retail store and service centre for oil burners and refrigerators.

Mr. McGaughey has served on Trenton's recreation committees and the town planning board.

In the past ten years he has been president of both the West Hastings Liberal Association and the South Hastings Liberal Association.

He is seeking election to a public office for the first time.

75 Kingston Garbage Workers Out on Strike

KINGSTON (CP) — A garbage-collection strike started here today.

Seventy - five garbage workers and other "outdoor" employees of the Kingston board of works and parks department struck to enforce demands for union recognition, wage increases and other adjustments in working conditions.

The walkout left this Eastern Ontario city of 44,000 without its semi-weekly garbage collection.

However, Police Chief J. T. Truesdell said a number of the Lake leans are permitted to take their own garbage to the city dump.

PICKET IN RAIN

The strikers, members of Local 9 of the National Union of Public Service Employees, turned out in pouring rain to set up picket lines at the dump, at the city yard where trucks and equipment are kept, and at Macdonald Park in the heart of the city. The union is affiliated with the Congress of Labor.

Chief Truaisch put constables on duty at the yard and dump and assigned other officers to patrol the parks. He said he will not interfere with the picket lines provided that citizens are allowed to enter the dump with their garbage.

Only foreman and a few senior parks employees were on work at the yard, dump and park.

COMPLEX DEMANDS

The union's demands are complex. The local wants increases in the hourly wage scale for most of the workers, as well as transfer of some employees from one category to another on a seniority basis, formal recognition of the union as bargaining agent, and an irrevocable check-off of union dues.

Works commissioner Donald Ross arranged with the union for a election now and one week to pick up garbage from city hospitals.

A special meeting of the city's board of works was called for 3 p. m. today.

Frank Kitchen, district representative of the union, said the next move is up to the city council.

EXPLAINS STRIKE CAUSE

Robert Chamberlain, president of the union local, said in an interview that the strike was caused by refusal of a council majority to accept recommendations presented by a special negotiating committee of council and board of works members. He said the aldermen who rejected the recommendations aimed at settlement of the dispute took no part in the four months' discussions.

A previous agreement between the city and the union expired May 1.

City council Tuesday night rejected by a 14-to-8 vote a union ultimatum to "sign a new contract by midnight or take a strike."

Garbage collection strikes are infrequent in Ontario cities. City workers in Hamilton staged one during hot weather a few years ago.

Misconduct in Department Of Highways Greatest Scandal In Ontario Says Sen. Fraser

"The people of Ontario have the first opportunity in this election to penetrate the iron curtain of Tory graft and Tory patronage, which the Tory party has erected between the people of Ontario and the government of Ontario," said Senator W. A. Fraser, of Trenton, at the nomination meeting of the West Hastings Liberal Association in Kiwanis Centre, Tuesday night.

"Premier Frost has said that the people of Ontario wouldn't lose a nickel on highways. Misconduct in the highways department was one of the greatest scandals in Ontario's political history," said Senator Fraser.

"Frost said everything was just lovely. He's spending so lovely why did he get rid of Doucette (minister of highways)? Why did he get rid of the councillors to court? Why did they arrest some men in the highways department?

"The highways department was the worst scandal this province has ever known. The main point is that that kind of thing can happen again.

"Frost said there were overruns under Leo Hepburn (ex-premier). That doesn't answer the question. We know what happened from Hepburn's day. We have a profile map of a 20-foot cut and take out 40 feet. It is a fact and you can deny it."

In speaking of Hydro Senator Fraser said that tenders were first called for the work of covering the 25-cycle area to 60-cycle area.

"They gave the Comstock Company the contract instead. You wonder farmers complain of the high hydro bill but they 'ain't seen nothing yet.'"

CLAIMS COMMITTEE JOKE

Senator Fraser stated that as chairman of the agriculture committee of the federal government for 16 years he had learned something of the public accounts committee of the federal government.

"The committee was always before the Frost government was nothing but a joke," he said. "It was a whitewash.

"The Tory government is fighting for its life," he said. "Their liberals have a great many fine candidates in the field."

Senator Fraser stated that "Bill Nickle will lose his seat in Kingston." In referring to Provincial Secretary William Nickle. He expressed great hopes for the victory of Dr. D. S. McVicker in Hastings East.

"Leslie Frost is one of the most remarkable men I have ever met," said Senator Fraser. "He takes credit for everything that ever happens. He takes credit for ore at Marmora, for salt in the ocean and for the St. Lawrence seaway."

"Whom is he kidding, anyway? To hear him speak is a revelation, I wouldn't miss it for anything."

In returning to the highways scandal Senator Fraser said that "Frost paid consultants $250,000 to tell him how to run the department after the scandals broke. That is ridiculous. I don't know why they don't finish the road through this riding. Don't they care?"

Dr. Ross Brewer, a resident and neighbor of Elmer Sandercock, Conservative candidate in Hastings West, Senator Fraser said, "Tell Elmer if they don't finish the four-lane highway between Belleville and Trenton a few good rains will wash away the road and there will be another job for Tory contractors."

Senator Fraser termed the investigation of James Dempsey, Conservative member for Prince Rupert, a "farce." Dempsey has admitted accepting $6,000 in campaign funds from a former Barry's Bay lumberman without receipts.

URGES SUPPORT

"I can name for Frost the names of a lot of other guys he can throw out of his party," said Senator Fraser.

Senator Fraser concluded his remarks by calling on party workers to rally round Mr. McCaughey and to "spend some time to influence people to vote for your candidate."

Senator Fraser was introduced by Dr. D. S. McVicker, Liberal candidate in Hastings East, and was thanked by Frank S. Follwell, M.P., for West Hastings.

Mr. Follwell spoke briefly urging workers to "give John McCaughey the same support you gave me in the last two federal elections."

Council Approves in Principle Joining Development Assoc.

Belleville city council has "approved in principle" for the city to become a member of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association, but will reserve final decision until after a special meeting of the planning committee to be held later this week.

All members of council are invited to attend the meeting, which will see councils of Sidney and Thurlow townships sit in an effort to decide on the percentage of costs each municipality will bear in the industrial survey to join the organization, the cost to the city to be $1,500.

When the recommendation came up for discussion, Alderman Tice, who was chairman of the committee of the whole, noted that Belleville planning board chairman Alderman Bram Humphreys was unable to be present but had asked that the matter be held over until after the Thursday night meeting.

But Alderman Art Keegan said there was no connection between the development association and the suburban planning board and asked why the industrial committee recommendation should be held over. Alderman Enos Devlin took the same attitude and to a question from a council member said there was no compulsion for a municipality to remain a member of the association.

MAYOR OPPOSES MOTION

Alderman Ralph Graham wanted assurance that the $1,400 assessment was all the council would be asked to pay in any one year. He noted that certain costs had been set up and wanted to know if participating municipalities would be asked to make up the difference if there was not a 100 per cent membership.

He was assured that the $1,400 was all the city would be asked to pay and that the scheme would go ahead regardless of the percentage of municipalities participating.

Mayor Bolh opposed the recommendation declaring the city would not gain much by belonging to the association. He stressed the value of individual effort in securing industry and said an industrial commissioner would get more results.

"We may not gain much by belonging, but we would stand to lose if we did not belong," observed Alderman Hyde as he tabled the amendment calling for the city to approve in principle.

BOROUGHS LIMITS CLAIM

Alderman Tice declared the city had the cart before the horse. He said the city has not outgrown its limits and annexation was necessary if Alderman Graham was to be secured for the city. "We need more land," he said. "I think the annexation arrangement can be worked out with adjoining municipalities."

On a recorded vote Alderman Hyde's amendment calling for approval in principle with the city joining the development association was carried by 7 to 6 vote. Approving were: Aldermen Davidson, Graham, Hyde, Keegan, McCabe, Moxam, Smith and Tice. Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Devlin and Mayor Bolh were opposed.

Council later approved a recommendation from Alderman Argue asking that an official of the planning and development department be asked to attend a council meeting to explain the regional development association.

Subscribers to Hospital Fund Urged To Make Their Payments When Due

An appeal to those whose payments to the Belleville General Hospital's building fund are in arrears has been made by fund chairman A. McLean Haig.

In a radio address, Tuesday night over CJBQ, Mr. Haig outlined construction progress to date and emphasized the need of subscribers to meet their payments on the due date in order that construction may proceed on schedule.

He announced the beginning of a series of delinquent subscribers to bring their pledges to date.

He stated that contracts let to the St. Lawrence Contracting Co. and the Canadian Comstock Co., plus architect's fees total $1,110,553, leaving $140,000 of the original $1,250,000 campaign objective to furnish and equip the new wing.

To date the fund had received $449,100 in cash of which $124,700 has been paid for campaign expenses and as advances to the contractors. Some $224,000 is on hand.

"These figures do not include the government grants, federal and provincial, of which $250,000 is expected," said Mr. Haig.

"Neither do they include the $200,000 granted by the city of Belleville. Some have asked why this has not yet been paid and the reason is that the city council realizes that it 'will have to finance the building to conclusion and therefore when our money is exhausted the city is prepared to make its grant available."

In announcing that members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary will canvass subscribers, Mr. Haig said. "This information is being kept extremely confidential."

"You need have no fear that 'Jones' down beside the one who calls on you and those in charge of the campaign records know anything about it."

"Please give the person who calls on you a good hearing, and arrange to pay the amount in arrears. If your circumstances have changed since the pledge was made please tell the canvasser and we will amend our records accordingly," he said.

Mr. Haig also appealed to those who have made no contribution as yet to make a donation to the hospital building fund if possible.

Tenders For Resurfacing Some Streets in City Will be Called

Tenders for the re-surfacing of certain city streets will be called by the city engineer. It was decided last night by city council.

The recommendation from the city public works department stated that the re-surfacing was badly needed as a preservative for many streets, but Mayor J. Bolh introduced an amendment calling for no such work to be done.

"After last year's experience a say we should have no re-surfacing," the mayor said as he tabled his amendment calling for no re-surfacing to be done with gravel or chips. "We were sold down the river by re-surfacing with pea gravel last year."

Alderman Keegan noted that no harm could be done by merely calling for tenders to see what type of job could be secured.

Alderman Hyde said money had been placed in the budget for a re-surfacing job and noted that according to the engineer many streets were badly in need of new tops.

It is regrettable that the mayor has taken the attitude he has, Alderman Hyde continued, "if he attended public works committee meetings he would get the whole story."

Alderman Graham declared that the public works committee's decision to re-surface streets was not the result of any snap judgment, but came after hours of work and discussion.

Alderman Hyde noted that the committee was aware there could not be another such schmozzle as that of last year. Specifications would be specific and a year's guarantee of the work would be required.

What actually was needed was permanent pavement but until such time as streets could be paved the present roadway must be preserved.

The amendment calling for no re-surfacing to be done had only Mayor Bolh as a supporter, while the original recommendation asking that tenders be called for re-surfacing was carried.

Another recommendation from the public works department asking that petitions for local improvement construction be in by June 15th, was carried. Alderman Smith noted that unless such requests were in by that time the work would not be completed in time for the season.

IS MARRIAGE A SAFETY VALVE?

A recent news report from New York stated that social scientists have reached the conclusion that if you want to live a long time you must get married and stay married. They say married people live longer than single people and the big reason why this is so is that there are not pent-up people among the wedded.

If husbands and wives dislike each other, say the social scientists, they are prone to tell one another off and thereby relieve marital tension. If husbands and wives dislike each other, each keeps it weighing wall, a confessional and a builder-upper, a combination also designed to release tension and make life worth living longer.

In Vienna, recently, an Austrian professor blamed women for modern nervous breakdowns among business executives. Professor Erwin Stransky said that women "drive men to earn more and more money to satisfy their desire for luxury." This, he said, results in nervous disorders among men, with ulcers being one manifestation of the ensuing social strain.

Perhaps if the experts in Europe and America could get together and issue a joint statement it would be discovered that social strain escapes through a man's ulcers.

About all that has been proved by the latest experiments quoted is that men and women get along together in a social way that baffles social scientists—a conclusion that men and women likely reached a long time ago this discovered there were two sexes. Such is progress.

LOVE AT FIRST SNIFF

Marilyn Monroe might as well retire.

When it comes to attracting the male of the species she is strictly an also-ran.

There is a female butterfly which can lead her man around by the nose from a distance of seven miles.

For perfect information we are indebted to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

UNESCO, whether for educational, scientific or cultural reasons we do not know, gives all the credit for the achievements of butterflies the Artias selene species to the male, and that butterfly has the ability to detect a female-of their kind by smell at a distance up to seven miles."

This seems to be slighting the role played by the female of the species.

It is true that a casual observer, watching the strolling throngs on any city street, will discover that females are scarce while males in public places are very responsive to the sight of a pretty girl. But there are also some girls who would contrive to catch a man's eye even if he were so short-sighted that he could not read a neon sign at a distance of ten feet.

Similarly, while due credit must be given to the olfactory nerves of the male butterfly of the Artias selene species, it would seem that this should not overlook the contributions of the little lady butterfly, busily giving forth an aroma capable of being detected seven miles away—and an attractive odor at that.

THE TWO-PRICE THEORY AGAIN

The shade of Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's first woman M.P., must have been nodded approval on Monday, when the Interprovincial Farm Union Council submitted a brief to the Commons agricultural committee. The Farm Union Council urged a two-price program for farm products —a policy Miss Macphail championed long before the level of export prices. This was one of Miss Macphail's pet theories during the depression years.

Miss Macphail left public office in the House of Commons was ended in 1940, when she was defeated by Walter E. Harris, now Canada's minister of finance.

Another Liberal luminary, surnamed Tucker, took issue with the Farm Union Council's resurrection of Miss Macphail's two-price theory. He declared that if countries with more food than they can use or sell start giving the surplus to needy countries the inevitable action could knock the props from under world food prices. Mr. Tucker is probably right. Still, while Miss Macphail was alive few people dared challenge her forthright views in plain blunt language. Her rapier-like tongue would have found a reply of that nature an ideal target.

THIS PUTS HAIR ON YOUR CHEST

In Stoke Mandeville, England, the newest "wonder" drug is doing wonders for 80 men and five women.

The drug, ronicol, is part of a three-month "baldness cure." Its addition to raising chemical gates the drug is reported to be curing cramp, forehead rash, and rejuvenating elderly men and women who claim they feel "twenty years younger."

This is truly wonderful but hardly compares with old Indian herb remedies that used to be specifics for dandruff, pink eye, acne, cough, cold, sore throat, burns, itching, diaper rash, arthritis, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatic aches and pains, charley horses, athlete's foot, corns and bunions. In a crisis these old Indian herb remedies with their "secret" formulas were usually guaranteed to give three more miles to the gallon if smeared nightly on one's garage doors.

OPEN-FACED LETTERS

I don't always know what a letter contains,
Since the envelope comes to me sealed.
The name of a friend who a missive has penned
Is not always plainly revealed.
A postage stamp red for which two cents were paid
Means an ad the large concern has made.
But I know without fail as I glance through the mail
Those open-faced letters are bills.

The hand-written name and address make it clear
That by stranger or friend it was sent,
And life certainly true, that a small stamp of blue
Is the corner three pennies were spent.

The mail that was typed by a modern machine
Is certainly laden with chills,
And I haven't a doubt as I'm sorting them out
Those open-faced letters are bills.

I look With dismay through those window of glass
Since a shock I have frequently had,
And I'm stuck with the thought of "what else has been bought
By my daughters and charged to their dad?"
Too frightened am I on the statements to glare,
Though I'm glad to submit to
I know, then and there, they've been shopping again,
Those open-faced letters are bills.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 23, 1935

The baseball season in the C.O.B.L. was opened here yesterday by a game between the Stewart - Warner team defeated the Kingston Ponies by a score of 1 to 0 at the Agricultural Park. There was a big crowd of fans present; the first ball was pitched by Mayor Geo. O. Tice, with Emile Lemaire as catcher and Newton Thompson at the bat. The umpires were Corrigan of Kingston and Jack Woodley of Belleville on bases. The following composed the Belleville team: Grey, McIlroy, R. Smith, Green, Wilson, Gay, Barclay, Ford and Williams. The game lasted one hour and thirty two minutes. Jack "Chief" Williams was the hero of the contest; he turned in a fine pitching uniform on his first appearance and seems to be headed for his best season in Belleville uniform. "Sonny" Green scored the one run which was the game for Belleville. The Citizens Band under the direction of Reg. Hinchey became a popular institution at excellent and lively music. Following the game the Kingston players were entertained by the local team to dinner at 6 p.m. sharp at the Queen's Hotel; Raymond Carr acted as toastmaster; Sandy Burrows sang the song leader and Leo B. Riggs was at the piano and Harry Mourman rendered a fine vocal solo. Short speeches were made by Mayor Tice, Reeve Anderson, Alex Thompson, Charles J. Symons and P. Howards, president of the Kingston Club.

Will Survey Arctic Isles

(Edmonton Journal)

The great age of exploring new and unknown territory, it seems fair to say, is becoming a memory. Explorers have been to all parts of the globe about which we know very little—for example, the interior of New Guinea and parts of Canada. The latter example, surrounding as it does Canadians, finding themselves unceremoniously dumped with much unfamiliar territory of the earth, but it is nevertheless true that knowledge of our Arctic Islands is sketchy.

The Geographical Survey of Canada, a branch of the department of mines and technical surveys, will seek to rectify the situation this summer when it undertakes Operation Franklin. In this survey, aerial and ground parties, using such instruments as airborne magnetometers, will set out to determine the potential mineral and oil resources of the Queen Elizabeth Islands. Although hints of oil occurrences in this area have come in from time to time, no one yet knows for certain what lies in the rock beneath the snow and ice.

Economically, the islands may be worthless; on the other hand, they may contain great wealth, just itching to be exploited. Arctic empire of the future or Arctic desert—the question must intrigue all Canadians.

Helping to solve this question will be still another valuable contribution of the geological survey to Canada's knowledge of herself. The survey's role in the past, covering extensive work in the Northwest Territories and in the Yukon which has led to many mineral discoveries, has made it widely known as one of the outstanding public services produced by this country.

People Don't Walk Enough

(London Free Press)

Mike Chambers, of Toronto, hale and hearty and in his 76th year, walked from his home there to Hamilton, 45 miles, just for the exhilaration and the fun of walking. "People in this modern world," he says, "is that people don't walk. How can they see the world by sitting in a car?"

That's our own notion. People don't walk enough. Walking has pleasures and satisfaction that go with walking here been lost.

This generation lives in an age when buttons count and legs don't. We would all be healthier and have fewer medical bills if we walked more and drove and sat less.

Lincoln Said It Best

(Milwaukee Journal)

What with one thing and another, many people have been glad to escape the White House.

Being president, said James K. Polk, is "no bed of roses."

"I'm tired of abuse," Grover Cleveland said.

As usual, Lincoln said it best of all. Asked how it felt to be president, he replied:

"I feel like the man who was tarred and feathered and ridden out of town on a rail. To the man who asked him how he liked it, he said, 'If it wasn't for the honor of the thing, I'd rather walk'."

Disappointments

(Montreal Gazette)

One of the arts of life is how to deal with disappointments. For if they are not dealt with in one way or another, they can become one of the pains of life. And very painful they can be.

One of the ways of dealing with disappointments is to pretend they are not really disappointments at all. At the season of graduation and college examinations, it is amusing to recall what the Victorian essayist, Rev. A. K. H. Boyd, (the author of "Recreations of a Country Parson") once wrote on this subject.

In going about his parish after the examinations he visited an old lady whose son had been plucked. She was priding herself, rather, upon what had happened. She was saying that it is almost a credit to be plucked; that all the cleverest fellows are plucked; and that only stupid fellows are allowed to pass. When the examiners find a clever man, they take pleasure in plucking him. And it is those who are plucked who get on best, by their outstanding achievements in later life, how admirably they were treated at school.

Another way of dealing with disappointments is not likely to deceive anyone. Those who adopt it are unlikely to deceive even themselves. They may only succeed in making disappointment ridiculous, which is next awful.

A more Spartan approach was taken by Thomas Hardy. He used to say that the way of facing any situation was to imagine the worst thing that could possibly happen, and then to realize that ever did happen was generally so much less serious that it was to be relief. But he said, made life child's play.

A quick method of dealing with disappointments may have some merit to it. It is the method that helps make believe that few people would really be able to boast of success in advance. What happened in the end might be a real disappointment after all.

A third method is to say that it is impossible to know whether a disappointment would be to our advantage in disguise. Looking back on life most people are glad that they were, at certain times, disappointed. They may be glad they did not get the job they so much coveted for, that they did not marry the woman they might have married. Such disappointments might have been painful at the time, but how much better they have worked out in the long run.

But the trouble with this attitude towards disappointment is that it is so very uncertain. Perhaps a disappointment might prove "in the end a good thing" after all. The consolation in such a thought, if any, rests entirely upon a speculation, a possibility. It is scarcely solid ground.

Sometimes, of course, it may be the observer who is the more philosophical. At the general elections of 1945 Sir Winston Churchill and his wife offered him such consolation at the breakfast table. She said that they might prove a blessing in disguise. And he, being in no mood for consolation of this type, remarked that the blessing was exceedingly well disguised. And yet Sir Winston was to be back in Downing street after all, improbable as it must have seemed at that hour.

On the other hand, there are times when the disappointment is of the slightest moment, because there is no hope whatever of its realization. So it was when Lord Curzon of Keddleston, A man of tremendous distinction in his day, he was convinced that he would one day be leader of the Tory party and Prime Minister of the United Kingdom. When the time for choosing a leader arose, amid dispute and doubts of his own election. To his utter astonishment word reached him that the party had chosen Stanley Baldwin instead.

"That utterly insignificant person" was his unbelieving exclamation. But there had good and, it is said, he died of his life crumbled under the blow. Even so, the world figure of Stanley Baldwin was no blessing in disguise.

Are all the methods of dealing with disappointments equally good? Perhaps not wholly so. For the best method may be the simplest of all, the most obvious and is at hand.

As the Rev. Mr. Boyd remarked, "It is a great consolation in every disappointment to be conscious of greater or less degree, so long as anything remains to be wished for, that disappointment is real," and, therefore, something that can be overcome by increased effort in addition to what is wished or sought there is, surely, reason for taking thankful pleasure in what has been earned and granted.

Disappointment is a protection against disappointment, after all, is the healing spirit of contentment. It does not deny that disappointment is real. But it does not foster the pain. The blessing of life is real also, and this blessing is not disguised.

Critic Faces The Music

(By Winifrede Sargeant in the New Yorker)

Several weeks ago, in reviewing a concert by the Berlin philharmonic, I felt impelled to compare it unfavorably with Toscanini's Karajan's conception of Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony with that of Arturo Toscanini.

I made reference to "a number of extraordinarily fine interpretations" that Mr. Toscanini had given of late, and I wondered several subtle distinctions between the reading and that of Karajan's, pointing out that, with von Karajan's was "lusher, a little slower in tempo, a little heavier, less agile and glittering, and generally more Teutonic."

Since this review appeared, I have received a number of letters containing requests for further information about these performances and a surprising number that Mr. Toscanini had conducted the work. A little subsequent checking on my reading and that of von Karajan's, pointing out that, with von Karajan's was "lusher, a little slower in tempo, a little heavier, less agile and glittering, and generally more Teutonic."

Teen-Aged Scientists

(Des Moines Register)

If the antics of some teenagers become a bit baffling and disturbing at times, take a second look before you condemn. One of those all-inclusive appraisals of the teen-ager is unfair.

The nation winners of a recent science contest chalked up these accomplishments:

An eighteen-year-old Schuyler, N.Y., boy has already identified radioactive samples, measuring their alpha and beta particles to determine the atomic nucleus from which they were emitted. Is that clear?

Another boy built a radar set, is operating it and is studying mathematics with a view to a career in engineer-old senior in the Princeton, N.J., high-school.

SWEET WATER

A man was showing pictures sometime ago that were taken in that great empty space in Arabia which is now intriguing the interest of explorers. The pictures had been taken by one of a few men to penetrate this forbidding region. Here and there at water holes were a few families.

He told of coming upon one of these families, and finding them very friendly. After some conversation with the head of the family-an Iban household, the lecturer asked that he might take a picture of the family closely veiled wives. The host agreed and asked what he would receive in return. "A drum of sweet water," said the lecturer; and the joy of the household was unbounded.

The lecturer reluctantly compelled to drink the brackish acid-filled water which came from a little spring near their tents. "Sweet water," with no bad taste to it was to them the very nectar of the gods.

All over the world people are drinking brackish, acid-filled, bad-tasting water. They are trying to overcome their thirst on bitterness, lust, avarice, resentment, and self-pity. Jesus said, "The water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water, springing up into eternal life."

A Is For Xeroderma

Xeroderma is a $5 word for dry skin.

Xerophthalmia is a $7.50 word for dry eyes—that is, insufficient secretion of tears to keep eyes comfortably moist.

Well, I'll tell you more about these, mixed up with the sensational, but not ailments. You'll realize they are worth every cent of the price.

Xeroderma is otherwise called ichthyosis, ichthyosis (fish skin), toadskin, alligator skin. When the dryness of the skin is extreme, patches of skin do resemble the skin of fish, toad, or alligator.

In some cases of xeroderma, some portions of skin, particularly the outer surfaces of calves and forearms, back of the elbows and front of the knees may feel and look like a mature grater. There may be hard, dry, red papules at the orifices of the sebaceous (oil) glands—that is, they are sometimes called, though of course they never do perspire (sweat) anything). When these papules occur on the face they should not be mistaken for "acne."

Permanent "goose pimples," and the-skin conditions which, if you can afford it, a resourceful specialist will diagnose as keratosis pilaris, ichthyosis follicularis, lichen pilaris — these are all manifestations of abnormal dryness of the skin.

The most common cause of any and all of these various dry skin troubles is vitamin A-deficiency.

Aside from improving your regular diet by consuming more liver, kidneys, cream, butter, eggs, the way to correct vitamin A deficiency is simply supplement your diet with 50,000 units of pure crystalline vitamin A accurate daily. In other words, take two silo-a-let tablets every day.

This doesn't cure anything, remember. It is not medicine. It is a nutritional element which is essential for good health but which many ultrarefined or restricted diets fail to provide in the quantity required. So you can't very well find out whether or not your deficiency is responsible for your troubles until you have used at least 100 of the 25,-000 unit tablets—two a day for seven weeks.

Even if your skin is in the same dry condition at the end of the seven weeks, it will be increased intake of vitamin A can do no harm.

THINGS HARD TO GET

Research—on the look for something that you want very much—perhaps a rare book, or work of art, or some antique, or an accessiation, the more difficult such a thing to find, the more it is sure to be appreciated when finally discovered.

I have been a modest collector of books and pamphlets for many years, but only of such writers as appealed to my fancy. For many years I have searched for some of these things and finally I found a few many of them. Usually the cost has been small. Things we prize highly are discovered in out-of-the-way places.

It took me years to locate that Lacadio Hearn pamphlet, Stray Leaves from Strange Literature, a first book "Maggie, a Girl of the Streets," Crane borrowed enough money from the publisher to print it and put it on sale for 25 cents—but no one expected it. Those who did treasure it today. The copy I had to sacrifice to buy I presented with other Crane items to the Dartmouth College library. My copy of "Maggie" could have been read and the pages were uncut!

It took me years to locate that rare book on Poe, Stephen Crane's first book "Maggie, A Girl of the Streets." Crane borrowed enough money from the publisher to print it and put it on sale for 25 cents—but no one expected it. Those who did treasure it today. In our large cities, telephone books are discarded at seven day its, for example WA74903.

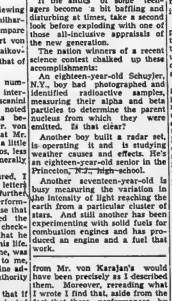
Using fancy psychology, the telephone company persuades us that this is really better. They claim that little dash in the middle. Actually, it is to keep us sane on our dial, nothing more or less than seven digits, 9274803.

Remember that nobody save a genius or one of those awful child prodigies ever could remember that radio and television shows could even dial such a string of numbers. So when they ask you to regled out of the book on a piece of paper and dial right beside the telephone, the company prefers everything up by making it: Walnut 7 dash 4903. Somehow or other, most of us have the mentality to get around that, provided it is often mentioned over weeks and weeks, or else written down before our eyes.

But what happens? You usually have the telephone in a dark corner, under the desk or on the back hall. The telephone book hangs on a nail over the desk, or is in a little shelf on the telephone table. To consult the telephone book, you have to go and get it and bring it out into the lighted room. You open it search carefully through the tiny type, and putting your finger up to the proper line, you get setting the correct number, you say to yourself, "Walnut 7 dash 4903. WA 7 dash 49 03."



You then start back for the telephone "WA 7-" you mutter, "49-03."

"Be sure and tell them," calls your wife, from across the room, "WA 7 dash 4903." "I'm not deaf," I shout loudly, "49 . . . Awith."

And by the time I reach a modern, big city, seven digit telephone number the width of an ordinary room, I've forgotten it.

And even if nobody does speak, it is next to impossible to carry it. You have to write it down on a piece of paper. For if the telephone book is on a hall table, the table is too small and the book slithers or it hangs on a chain, it won't stay still with your elbow on it, long enough for seven digits to be written.

It seems to me the telephone book demonstrates as well as anything that the human race has now reached the limit of its mental capacity.

Aussies Will Produce Salk Vacine Within Few Months

By TONY SYME

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australia will be producing her own Salk polio vaccine within a few months.

The federal health department has been instructed to start an immunization campaign based on imported vaccine while awaiting local supplies.

Health Minister Sir Earle Page has announced that sufficient vaccine will be produced here in the next six or eight months to meet priority demands for women and children.

Australian health authorities consider they have a head start on other countries with the production of the vaccine, since a representative of the federal health department, Dr. P. L. Bazeley, has been working with Dr. Salk for the last two years. Dr. Bazeley is returning home shortly to take charge of local production.

Polio has hit Australia hard in the past. Victoria, the most densely populated state, averages 600 cases a year. In South Australia, the worst year was 1951, when there were 1,481 cases, 61 of them fatal. The worst year for West Australia was 1948, when 311 cases, 34 of them fatal, were reported. In 1951, the worst year, Tasmania had 182 cases, with 11 deaths.

Despite the rush now to get the Salk vaccine into mass production, Australia is not pinning all her hopes of fighting polio on this one weapon. Experiments have been carried out here with locally produced "live" vaccine, as opposed to the "dead" Salk method.

The "live" virus carries a risk of infection if the virus contains any impurity. The Salk "dead" vaccine cannot produce the disease itself.

Sir Macfarlane Burnet, a world authority on viruses, said that the result of the American survey fully justifies claims made for the Salk vaccine. It represents a major advance in the fight against poliomyelitis, he added, but is not the ultimate solution: a living vaccine would prove more efficient than the Salk serum.

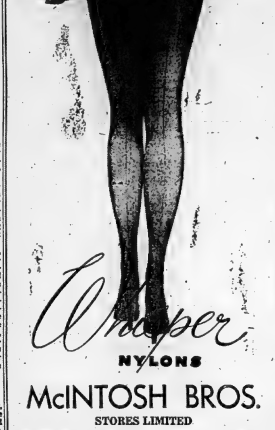
Police Circles Quiet Over Holiday Time



TRENTON (Special) — Crime in Trenton during the holiday week-end was at a minimum. Police however were called upon to check isolated misdemeanors.

Last night a soldier from Barrfield was brought to the station after an officer in the cruiser stopped him after several residents on the east side of town complained that a car was being driven about the streets in a fast and careless manner.

Alex Poulgyen, 21, of R.R. 8, Belleville, was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital in the police cruiser Saturday after he had been thrown from his motorcycle in slight collision with a car making a left-hand turn into 242 Dundas Street, east. The rider suffered no serious injuries although he was treated for minor bruises. The car was driven by M. A. Fogarty, 21, of 33 Spring Street, Picton. Police reported the motorcyclist was passing the car when the driver decided to turn and was unable to stop in time.

Bringing Up Baby

Notes Collected by Miss Jean Carlen (Mother of 3)

With longer days showing stronger sun rays, it's by no means too early to consider tanning sessions (which help the skin to manufacture valuable vitamin D) for your tyke. Matter of fact, it's a good idea to start sun-bathing as early in the season as warmth allows—before the sun is really a-blaze.

More on the sunny side. Let the word "gradual" be your guide when sunning baby. Start with 2 minutes a day, dividing time fore and aft. Increase time gradually. Never expose baby to more than 10 minutes.

And happy basking to both of you.

Summer time or any time here's a treat to tickle your sweet. Gerber Strained Fruit Dessert, a wonderful combination of three favorite fruits of the pastry-cake set: orange, pineapple and apricot—teamed up with a touch of tapioca for a texture to delight a delicate tongue.

2 short-shorts. (1) When baby's overalls get worn at the knees or top short in the legs, snip 'em off for sun-suits. (2) Soakers double-duty nicely as trunks for your sun-bathing beauty.

Golden treasure in more ways than one. Gerber Strained Egg Yolks have a creamy, custard-like texture, a delicate fresh-egg flavor that little ones really relish. They're rich in blood-building iron, vitamin A and a good supplementary source of complete proteins. Last but not least—they're so versatile! Serve "as is"—mix with fruits—or, for toddlers, try a recipe like this:

FRUIT NOG
2 tablespoons Gerber Strained Egg Yolks
1 can Gerber Strained Orange Juice
1 cup milk
2 tsp. sugar

Blend thoroughly with rotary beater. Serve to the tune of blissful sighs. Gerber Baby Foods Limited, Niagara Falls, Canada.

First Japanese Girl Trained At Convent

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—The Ursulins convent here known as The Pines has a new novitiate—the first Japanese girl to be trained at the convent.

Shinzko Hayakawa, 24, is a native of Hakodate on Hokkaido island, and begins formal training at the end of June.

Miss Hayakawa explained her future plans in precise English during an interview. She said her training here, as a postulant and novice before making her first vows and final profession, will require five years. Then she will return to Japan to teach.

Her English and her connection with the Ursulines had come somewhat together. English was taught in Japanese schools from the seventh grade on, she explained. Later when she had finished high school, she went to the Ursuline nuns in Hakodate for further study in the language.

In addition to her high school and Ursuline training, she studied English literature for two years at the Sacred Heart College in Yokosuka.

"Most Japanese boys and girls have a good writing and reading knowledge of English," she said, "but they have much trouble in speaking."

Miss Hayakawa is happy about her stay in Canada, and Mother M. Hilda, mother superior of The Pines, is more than pleased with her new novitiate.

She has been with us for more than a month," the mother superior said, "and she doesn't seem to be a bit homesick."

Miss Hayakawa says there is no reason to be homesick here, since Canada reminds her a great deal of her home. "It is very much like Hokkaido island," she commented. "Besides," she laughed, "I have no time to be homesick.

MOTHER

Mother's form is bent and weak
And her step is slow,
And the roses of her cheek
Faded long ago;
Now her hair, once brown and bright,
Gleams like silver shells,
But her eyes' deep tender light
Love's own story tells.

Though the tender, tireless hands
Show toil's deep impress,
Kindly yet their tender touch
Lingers in caress;
Though her form has lost the grace
Of the years ago,
In her calm and placid face
Faith and hope do show.

You who have a Mother yet
Bent and bowed and gray,
Leave no cause for deep regret
When she's gone away;
Cherish her with all your heart,
Dry her falling tears,
Then how sweet the memories
That will linger through the years.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SECOND HUSBANDS AREN'T SO HARD TO FIND, SHE SAYS

A few weeks ago, a letter was printed in this column from a widower who was lonely and discouraged.

He was, he said, anxious to know "how a man like me gets acquainted with nice women around his own town."

Since his letter was printed, I have received a number of letters from widows who are having the same kind of experience, among them the following:

"I have been a widow for three years, am 43 years old and lonely. How do you meet such men as the widower whose letter I saw recently in your column and who seemed to be in the same lonely situation?

"I am a respected citizen in a fine town, but you just don't walk down the street and meet anyone eligible! And as far as joining an organization goes, there just aren't any unmarried members in my age group, everyone is either married, or too young, or too old!

"I work every day, love my children and come from a good family, but I get discouraged at times, too."

Without question, the social problem of a widow, widower or unmarried person of middle age is an extremely difficult one. Anyone in such an age group is often lonely and discouraged.

But I still believe, as I told the man whose letter this widow saw in my column, that the very best way to drive out the loneliness, and substitute happiness and contentment, is for such people to interest themselves in community activities. Of course, if one's whole attention is going to be centered exclusively on finding someone to marry, to take on new interests is not necessarily going to turn the trick.

But I don't think that becoming active in worthwhile projects is to be undertaken solely to find a new mate. The point is, that this woman will fill her life with just as many interests, and just as many friends, as she possibly can, she is bound to be happy whether married or single. I am not saying for one minute that there is anything that can take the place of a happy marriage. What I am trying to get across is that if marriage doesn't happen to come one's way, there is no need to resign oneself to a lifetime of loneliness and discouragement.

There is an old saying that "Those who bring happiness to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves." That is why I always advise people who tell me they are lonely to get busy in the work of some organization in their own whose purpose is to do some thing for others. And here again, I would quote another saying, to the effect that one gets out of anything just what one puts into it. This means that if you slip yourself with a purposeful project, and don't really put your heart and soul into it, you won't reap the happiness and contentment out of the work that you would get by throwing yourself into it and giving it all you have.

I realize that if this woman works every day, and has children, her time for outside activities is limited. But, even so, if she is interested in trying to meet eligible men, then she must figure she has some time to spare. So why doesn't she begin by spending that time in some such way as I have suggested? Certainly she's never going to meet men by staying at home, in her leisure hours, with her mind made up that there are none to meet. She's got to start somewhere, to carry out this, or any other idea.

If she will begin even in a small way, on the kind of program outlined above, it will certainly lead her to happiness, whether she marries again or not. And, since making one new friend invariably leads to making others, it may well lead her eventually to a new husband. For such things often happen when you least expect them.

Something For "Drop-Ins"

By Mary Moor.

One of my favorite neighbors is the hospitable type who just loves to have cookies on hand for unexpected, drops-in." Right now she's likely to have a large pitcher of ice-cold lemonade or fruit punch also ready in her refrigerator for the same sort of contingency. (Have you noticed that the kind of folk who are so prepared seldom lack for company?) Well all this is leading up to a call she made on me this morning with some samples of a new cooky made from a recipe that I want to give to you. They're very easy to make and sure fire—for they have chocolate and nuts in them—two almost -universal favorites. Dressed up with frosting. They make real party-fare. So I suggest you tuck this away—that is, if you don't want to try it right now, and then you'll make some to serve for dessert with some of the wonderful fresh fruits that are coming in to season. Once tried, I promise you'll add this to your recipe treasures.

CHOCOLATE NUT DROPS

One-quarter cup butter, 1-4 cup shortening, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 egg, two 1-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 3-4 cups sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk, 3-4 cup chopped almonds or walnuts. Cream the butter and shortening and add sugar gradually, beating well. Add the 1 egg and beat again. Stir in the melted chocolate. Sift flour, soda and salt together and add to the mixture alternately with the milk. Add the nuts. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheet, leaving two inches in between. Try and get all the cookies about the same size. Bake in a hot oven—400 deg.—about 8 to 10 minutes. They come out of the oven so plump and such a rich chocolate color and flavor—well, they just won't keep well. If you know what I mean! Slide the cookies on a cooling rack and mix up a frosting.

For the frosting, measure 2 cups powdered sugar (sifted) and add about 3 tablespoons of top milk or cream—just enough to make an easy-spreading frosting. Add a few grains of salt and any desired flavoring (I tried the tinniest drop of oil of peppermint and it was perfect). But, if you're a vanilla addict, a teaspoon of this good old standby is good. On the centre of each cooky, drop a teaspoon of frosting, swirl with your knife, and top each cooky with a perfect half walnut, pecan or toasted whole blanched almond.

As this is such a perfect party cooky, you might like to try tinting the frosting. Creamed up with frosting. They make real party-fare. So I suggest you tuck this away—that is, if you don't want to try it right now, and then you'll make some to serve for dessert with some of the wonderful fresh fruits that are coming in to season. Once tried, I promise you'll add this to your recipe treasures.

FRUIT PUNCH COOLER

One cup sugar, 1 1-2 cups water, 1 cup lemon juice (squeeze the lemons fresh or use canned or frozen juice), 2 cups grape juice, one 26 ounce bottle gingerale. Cook sugar and water together for 5 minutes and cool. Add lemon and grape juice. Chill. Just before serving add gingerale. Garnish with thin lemon or orange slices. Makes 2 quarts.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY WINS IN A WALK

If you want to be a Woman Alive, with a radiant complexion, a reliable digestive system and a cheerful view of life, you must get out of doors every day.

Walking is the ideal exercise, good for both the fat and the thin. It stimulates the circulation, gives a glow to the cheeks, sparkle to the eyes and lifts the spirits if they are down.

Pull up your spinal column, expand your chest, let your arms swing easily. As you proceed along the beauty path, take deep breaths, inhaling for several steps, exhaling for the same number.

Step lightly and briskly. No sauntering, no window-shopping. The purpose of your pilgrimage is to tone your musculature, make every muscle resilient.

You'll swing at your hips, if you are walking correctly—no buckling of the knees that makes for awkward movements. The hip joints should be directly in line with the ankles. Then you are maintaining good posture. If your chest is flattened, and the abdomen protrudes, your whole body is out of alignment.

Among the types of poor walkers is "the waddler". She doesn't seem to be using her legs at all, but lets the trunk, shoulder and arm muscles pull the legs forward. Then there is the girl who walks jerkily swinging her shoulders as she prances along.

The girl who brings her toes down first, instead of carrying body weight on heels and toes, as she should, has a walking walk that is anything but pretty.

The "pounder," whacking her feet heavily on the pavement gains nothing in the way of health or beauty in her walks. And the girl who lopes, taking long strides in a manly fashion, is definitely out of the beauty picture.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

BRIDE'S MOTHER SHOULD TAKE INITIATIVE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married soon. The groom's mother does not live in the city where we live. She has not consulted me about what she is planning to wear to the wedding, but I understand from my daughter that she has decided to wear a long dress. It is not to be a formal wedding, but there is to be a hotel reception. Only the bride and her attendants are to wear long dresses. Would it be proper for me to wear a long dress also? —H.S.

You, the hostess or the wedding, are the one who should have gotten in touch with the groom's mother—either by telephone or by letter—and told her your dress-plans. That is the general type of dress you planned to wear, and the approximate length. Then you should send her a swatch of the material showing the color. The groom's mother is then expected to choose a dress of the same type and approximate length, and of a color to harmonize with the color of your dress. As "the mothers" go up the aisle, and as they receive together at the reception, it is important that there should be a harmony in their costumes, in type, length, color.

Mr. Fred Mitchell called the gathering to order and after appropriate remarks called on Mrs. Robert Atkins to read the address which was signed on behalf of the community by Vera and Manley Mitchell and Doreen and Robert Atkins. The good wishes of all were expressed and mention was made of the fine leadership Bill has given in the Junior Farmers and the various campaigns also community activities whenever called upon.

A sincere welcome was extended to the bride, who is starting a new life in a new land.

Many lovely and useful gifts were received for which both made suitable replies.

Govt. Accused of Weakness In Dealing With Racial Discrimination in Dresden

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's CCF leader has accused the progressive Conservative government of weakness in dealing with racial discrimination.

Donald C. MacDonald, Tuesday night in a campaign speech at Galt for the June 9 Ontario general election rapped the government's handling of reported discrimination in the western Ontario town of Dresden.

At the same time, the 41-year-old CCF leader charged that Labor Minister Daley is not worthy of holding cabinet rank.

Premier Frost, speaking at Woodstock, branded as "silly nonsense" charges by the Liberal opposition that Highways Minister Allan is breaking his own government cheese-marketing regulations. He described Mr. Allan as one of the greatest contributors to farm marketing legislation in the province.

OLIVER ON HIGHWAYS

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver told the legislature at Queen's Welland that the Frost administration violated the basic principles of parliamentary institutions in refusing the opposition permission to call witnesses before the highways irregularities case.

Mr. Oliver was a member of the 11-man select committee of the legislature which sat in last year's highways irregularity hearing. Eight members were Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. MacDonald's charges centred on the fair practices legislation which has been under trial at Dresden, where anti - Negro prejudice has been reported.

QUOTES PAPERS

Mr. MacDonald quoted the St. Catharines Standard as saying May 13 that the labor department moved slowly on the problem of racial discrimination in Dresden. He also quoted the Toronto Telegram as saying last Oct. 30 that Labor Minister Daley blamed a Communist group for stirring up trouble in Dresden.

"Comments like these prove that Mr. Daley is unworthy of the post of minister of the crown," Mr. MacDonald said.

The CCF leader said he felt the government's attitude toward the Dresden cases had been weak, and that more could have been done to show a concrete attitude toward discrimination.

TWO-THIRDS OF WORLD

He said non-whites make up "some two-thirds of the world's population, which fact is to be kept in mind. It isn't a distant problem. In fact, it isn't any more distant than Dresden, and if we are to prevent war and preserve peace we must keep that in mind. Let us remember that this matter has been botched in Dresden and that it can easily be botched in the Far East."

Mr. MacDonald's insistence that the matter of discrimination should be handled by a special commission brought cheers from his listeners.

Mr. Daley, he added, had made the statement that the situation in Dresden was settling down beautifully, but later Premier Frost had to step into the picture and announce that the government would proceed with prosecutions.

Mr. MacDonald spoke in support of Robert Kerr, CCF candidate for Wattrion South.

HITS OLIVER STATEMENTS

At Woodstock the premier showed his annoyance with statements made by Mr. Oliver that Mr. Allan had failed to abide by regulations for purchasing cheese under the Farm Products Marketing Act

Mr. Oliver charged earlier this week that Mr. Allan had circumvented the regulations by buying cheese for resale through the dairy he operates at Dunnville. Mr. Frost gave glowing tribute to the highways minister and the government's farm policy to what was largely a farm audience in the heart of the dairy county of Oxford.

Mr. Frost was speaking in support of Thomas Deat, Progressive Conservative candidate for Oxford. Mr. Deat has held the seat since 1943.

"Hon Allan is a man who has the best interests of agriculture in this province always at heart," Mr. Frost said. "He has made great contributions to Ontario's farm marketing legislation which gives to the producers the right to put a price tag on the goods they have to buy and sell."

The premier also attacked the 51-year-old Liberal leader for his comments on the govegrnment's farm marketing policies. Mr. Frost said his government has done everything possible to aid farmers and has assisted them in innumerable ways.

Premier Frost said he signed a bank guarantee last week for $500,000 to enable farmers to market their cheese in an orderly way. He forecast guarantees of $1,000,000 or $1,500,000 in the future.

The premier then attacked another statement attributed to Mr. Oliver that Hydro frequency standardization is costing double the estimate.

"If the government which he supported and of which he was a member had had any vision at all and had measured up to its responsibilities, your problems and my problems would be far less acute than they are today.

"I wonder what the saving would be if when there was unemployment and anything but expansion they had done the obvious thing, to standardize the frequency."

Premier Frost said such a move would have saved the province hundreds of millions of dollars.

Earlier in the day, the premier met briefly with the Kent county Lake Erie water development committee at Ridgetown. He promised early organization of the southwestern Ontario water conservation commission, established last month to study the problem of water supplies in the area.

At Welland, Mr. Oliver said if the Frost government is returned June 9 it will have confirmed what he called the autocratic, undemocratic and wholly untenable position of the present administration in the highways irregularities case.

RELIEVE GOVERNMENT

The precedent established in refusing to allow opposition witnesses to appear in future would relieve the government of having to endure searching enquiries by members of the opposition.

"No stone should be placed in the path of an opposition which seeks to ferret out the truth," Mr. Oliver said.

Mr. Oliver said Hydro users will pay for years to come for blunders of the present administration in connection with the Hydro changeover. He referred to the present conversion in southern Ontario from 25-to-60 cycle power. The Canadian General Company is under contract with the Ontario government to make the conversion.

"We made millionaires out of Comstock at the expense of the people of Ontario," Mr. Oliver said.

CLAIMS TOO HIGH

The Liberal leader said Hydro had paid the company $67 for converting a refrigerator. Since then the price has been dropped twice, to $52 and then to $32 for the job.

"If you know anything about the electrical business you know that well-known manufacturers allow a private contractor about $10 for the job," Mr. Oliver said.

In 1948 George Drew, then premier, had announced plans for the conversion with the promise it "wouldn't cost anybody a cent."

Mr. Oliver and Mr. Daley are on speaking engagements today. Mr. Frost travels to Galt and Kitchener, Mr. MacDonald is in Toronto and Mr. Oliver goes to Paisley.

Two North Bay Children Die As Train Hits Stalled Auto

NORTH BAY (CP)—Two children died Tuesday when a train struck their parents' stalled car at a level crossing and jammed it against a concrete abutment.

Dead are Edward Roy Miller, 26 and his brother, Kenneth George, 7, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller of Cobalt. Another child, Laurie Joan Miller, 5, escaped with abrasions.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller escaped with a shaking up.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, owners of a tourist camp 63 miles north of here, were driving with their children to nearby Cobalt. It is believed the car stalled on the tracks that cross a bush road from their camp.

The vehicle was struck by a caboose being pushed by an Ontario Northland Railway engine. The car was flung to one side of the tracks and hammered against a concrete abutment by 16 empty ballast cars.

Edward Roy was thrown under the wheels of the train, while his brother died four hours later in Haileybury Hospital from a fractured skull and other injuries. Laurie Jean was released from hospital after treatment for scrapes and small cuts.

changes probably will benefit the Conservatives by five to 10 seats.

Of the 100 vulnerable seats not affected by constituency changes, 38 are Labor and 34 Conservative, leaving the political soothsayer scant room for prophecy.

Two main campaigning points are the cost of living and hydrogen bomb. Labor claims prices have risen to a greater extent under the Conservative regime than in any other country for which statistics are available. But Labor politicians—Aneurin (Nye) Bevan has admitted it — have trouble arousing the full ardor of romantic, revolutionary socialism in a period of full employment and acknowledged prosperity.

The Tories are committed to the welfare state.

Of the 630 seats at stake, 511 are in England, 71 in Scotland, 36 in Wales and 12 in Northern Ireland. Scotland and Wales have a tradition of political stability, leaving England as the focus of attention for the trend that will decide the next government.

Result in 337 constituencies will be announced Thursday night and most of the rest will be made known Friday. Declarations in three Scottish constituencies will be delayed until Saturday.

KNOWLES ATTACKS

Outside the Commons Tuesday, Dr. McCann said "the whole matter" would be straightened out in the House shortly. A question by Mr. Knowles has been on the order paper since May 9, asking whether Dr. McCann told Mr. Frost about the payments to Mr. Dempsey and how the minister learned about the payments.

NO DECISION

The Commons came to no decision on Mr. Knowles' bill. Debate on it occurred during a day otherwise spent on consideration of a number of government measures.

Mr. Knowles said Mr. St. Laurent is responsible for Dr. McCann's holding the outside directorship because the prime minister "said very clearly in the House the other day that he felt the matter should be left to the conscience of each individual cabinet minister."

"That is what I think is wrong. It is that principle which I am attacking."

He said that in 1877 the Speaker of the Commons, Hon. Timothy Warren Anglin, had to resign because a newspaper he owned in Saint John, N.B., published government notices in violation of a law forbidding MPs to do business with the government.

SHOULD APPLY

It was not left to the consciences of members of Parliament whether they abide by the Senate and House of Commons Act. The same statutory provision should apply to cabinet ministers.

Finance Minister Harris said Mr. Knowles' speech was a "historical recitation mixed in with a form of incendo of which I am quite sure the member was quite unconscious."

He said there is a distinction between offences under the Independence of Parliament Act and Dr. McCann's situation.

He noted that Mr. Knowles' bill would apply only to the holding of directorships in federally-chartered companies.

Mr Knowles replied he would be willing to amend the bill to apply to companies formed under provincial laws.

A CENTURY OF SERVICE IN DEFENCE OF THE NATION

May 26 is the anniversary of The Royal Regiment of Artillery throughout the world. It is the "Gunners'" official birthday. This year on that date Canada's gunners celebrate the centenary of their organization under the Militia Act of 1855.

From a small, determined beginning in 1855 Canada's Artillery has grown to a fighting force with a magnificent reputation and a stirring battle record.

They served the guns at Ypres and the Somme; Monte Cassino and the Falaise Gap; in the black hills of Korea. The Royal Canadian Artillery commands the fearful respect of their enemies, the full admiration of their allies.

The Gunner's motto "Ubique"—Everywhere—is more than a word, it is a real attitude. Canadian Artillerymen have been, are now, and always will be ready to go everywhere to do their special job.

That special job is protecting our right to live the way we please.

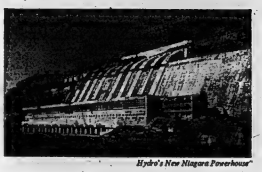
GOOD GOVERNMENT MEANS

More Jobs for More People!

Since the present Progressive Conservative administration took office, FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND NEW JOBS have been created in Ontario. Our population has increased by a million and a quarter. Our production has tripled. SIX HUNDRED NEW INDUSTRIES have been established. FIFTEEN BILLION DOLLARS have been invested by public and private capital. No comparable area in the world can match this accomplishment of our people.

PREMIER LESLIE FROST

THE FROST GOVERNMENT has played a great role in this achievement. As never before in our history your tax-dollars are being re-invested by your government in your individual and family progress and security. Good Government has attracted Good Business to our province. Good Government has created a healthy economic climate in which job expansion is inevitable.



THE FROST GOVERNMENT has sparked our whole economy through its wise and enterprising investments in highways, schools, hospitals, public works and great conservation projects.

THE FROST GOVERNMENT rescued Hydro from the chaos into which it was plunged by the previous administration which added not one single generating plant in 9 years of office. Under the present administration 14 new generating plants have been built. Hydro capacity has been increased from about 2 million to almost 6 million horsepower in a decade. This magnificent achievement has been the chief single factor in our ten-year development.

OUR STANDARD OF LIVING has improved by more than a third. Work hours have been shortened and average weekly pay has increased 113%. Our labour legislation is the most advanced in the world.

THIS YEAR the Frost Government, Hydro and the Municipalities (with the financial help of the Government) will spend $700 million in new capital construction. This will create 175,000 new jobs.

HUMAN BETTERMENT of our people, the great and abiding objective of the Frost Government, is being advanced by leaps and bounds. Almost 50 cents of every dollar the province receives in taxes is paid out for Human Betterment in Health, Public Welfare and Education.

Hydro's New Niagara Powerhouse

HYDRO'S EXPANSION from about 2 million to almost 6 million horsepower in a decade has been a great Progressive Conservative achievement, one of the most spectacular engineering achievements anywhere in the world. This abundant new power has sparked our entire progress.

A new Ontario Highway in the Making

ONTARIO'S HIGHWAYS DEVELOPMENT under P-C administration has been the milestone of a decade of tremendous achievement. Provincial King's Highways carry 80% of all traffic. This year's expenditures will total $175 million, greatest in history.

Foxboro Dam, our biggest conservation project

DEVELOPMENT AND CONSERVATION of Ontario's great natural resources is a major platform of Frost Government policy. Unsurpassed leadership and generous financial support has created millions of dollars of new wealth for our people through increased productivity of our mines, farms and forests.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THEY WERE GOOD!

If you were around these yere parts in the early fighting forties, the thirties and the late twenties and the interim, you would have wended your way nightly to the Bridge Street Armouries—and joined the crowd which surrounded the southwest lawns.

MARIE GENEREAUX

There you would have seen ladies' softball played in an aura of rivalry that while it did not reach reach the hair-pulling stage was as keen as any ever produced by the male of the species. The gals dolled up in colorful uniforms played in organized leagues and battled down to the last bobby-pin for victory. The playoff series was productive of some thrilling softball and there were many exciting moments before the annual champions were finally declared.

The late "Stub" Barrett was one of the guiding lights of girls' softball here at the turn of the thirties. "Stub" coached many championship teams which not only won the city and district honors but toured the outlying places.

One of the better teams of this era was that which produced two of the best players ever to don shorts in Ontario ladies' softball. They were the Generaux sisters, Kay and Marie, who learned their softball here and went on to stardom in the top teams of the provinces. Kay and Marie "graduated" from Belleville, joined the famous 'Sunday Morning Class" of Toronto, and helped them win not a few city and provincial titles. If memory serves us correctly the "Classers" once won the world's ladies' softball crown.

Kay, especially, excelled at the sport besides others and in 1940 was awarded the Norman Craig Memorial Trophy and the title "Ontario's Outstanding Girl Athlete" of that year. Marie is still starring at her favorite sport and was seen in action here last year when a Toronto girls' team played an exhibition game with a men's team at the CNRAA Recreation Park.

The team that was one of the outstanding girls' aggregations in this part of Ontario in the early thirties included the Generaux sisters, Helen Smith, Pearl Tuttle, Laura Meichlor, Babe Lewis a pitcher; Dolly Canning, Eleanor Thrasher, Ina Thrasher, Lily Holcroft and others.

One of the best leagues seen here operated during the early and mid-forties. It included such teams as Zellers, Stewart-Warners, Vikings, Deacons, Corbins, Belle-Sargent, Bristol Gals, Reliance Girls and the Mountain View Juvenile Girls.

Zellers copped the championship three years in a row in 1940-41-42. Reliance captured the title in 1943 and 44 with the starry Bomberettes taking the crown in 1945. Ted Schwab, Ed. Schreiber and the late Ken Colling were the prime movers in starting and furthering ladies' softball here, and the success of the sport was in no small way due to their efforts.

Some of the outstanding players of those exciting days were: pitchers Bessie Doolittle, Thelma Morgan, Mildred Fowler, Evelyn Reid, Norma Cornell, "Fewwy" Colden, and others. Other well known names were Fergy Ronsky, Helen Garrow, Joyce Woodhouse, Lela Nelson, Dorothy Rowbotham, Irene Colden, Gladys Inman, Betty Fisher, Olive Wallick, Maxine McKenna, June McKenna, Helen Richardson, Babe Jackson, Madeline Kelcher, Peggy Allin, Pete Haslip, Twin Langman, Doris Bland, Gene Stewart, June Mattiews, Rita Phillips, Gertrude Burgess, Wilma Clarke, "Lal" Knell and many others.

Now after a lapse of years, ladies' organized softball is coming back into its own. True the city has been represented by a team in the Eastern Ladies' League for the past few years, winning the championship on more than one occasion. The new league is composed of four teams: the Belleville Hospital Nurses, managed by Ken Box; Belleville Girls, Leo Lucchisi; Trenton RCAF, F/O Marie Priest and Trenton Spotless, Charles Drake, manager.

"MR. AND MRS. BOWLING"

Any bowling arguments which may have occurred in three households we know of, have been suspended temporarily at least. Now harmony reigns across the breakfast table and the head of the house and her husband beam happily at each other.

Especially in the domicile of Marjorie and Bill Trumpour who won the title "Mr. and Mrs. Bowling" at the Bowl-O-Drome the other night with a total pinfall of 1085. Dorothy and Cec Anderson took second place with a 1072, and "Babe" (that gal again) and Cec Hardwick winning the place money with a 1046.

The three couples will play in the regional finals at Deseronto against winners from that town, Kingston and Trenton. 18 couples took part in the Belleville tournament.

THOSE MEN AGAIN . . .

Those moujik mavericks, the Kalmikoff brothers are back again come Friday night with Karol matching beards with towering Tex MacKenzie, the human skyscraper from the Lone Star State and Ivanovich, swapping drop kicks with the agile Patrick Flanagan. Tex and Karol are billed for the main bout with the other pair opening proceedings.

But then the meat of this 'rassiln' sandwich" is none other than those four globe pachyderms, the mighty midgets. Little Beaver, who was a sensation here last week, and a one-man war in himself is back again with palsy waley Lord Littlebrook, and opposing them will be the ferocious Fuzzy Cupid and his villainous pal Sky Lo-Lo. Looks like another night of fun and frolic.

Weather Man "Soaked" Umps

CHICAGO (AP)—The heavy downpour which washed out the St. Louis Cardinal-Chicago Cub game Tuesday flooded Wrigley Field's new umpire room and nearly stranded the men in blue.

Umpire Dusty Boggess had to flit about under the stands wearing only a towel as several feet of water flooded the swank new umpire quarters.

Boggess was rescued by umpire Babe Pinelli who borrowed a Cub uniform for Dusty until the umpire civilian clothing was dehydrated.

The new umpire room is below ground level.

Billy Pierce 3-Hits Indians As Senators Edge Bombers

Bucs Barrage Brooklyn 15-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Pierce and Curt Simmons, a pair of southpaws who have known better days, may be ready to set up shop again. If so, you can bet managers Marty Marion and Mayo Smith will be throwing a lot of business their way.

Billy the Kid has been one of the outstng links in Marion's plan to bring Chicago White Sox an American League pennant. Six have been able to hang in there, just a stride or two behind the leaders, without Pierce, but if his arm troubles are over Chicago could really get in on the scrap.

Pierce Tuesday night threw a three-hitter to beat Cleveland 4-1. Chicago home runs ruined rookie Herb Score and pushed Sox an within a half-game of the second-place Indians.

Billy fanned seven while hurling his second complete game.

SIMMONS STOPS GIANTS

Simmons didn't quite match Pierce's performance, but with his Philadelphia Phils mired in the National League basement, Smith won't quibble. Simmons looked his best since 1950 as he went all the way before three. With some nice relief help from Jack Meyer, that was enough to stop New York Giants 6-2.

Simmons, who helped Phils to their 1950 flag but who fell off after losing part of a year to lawn-mower accident two summers ago, fanned five and spaced five hits. It was his first victory in five appearances after shoulder trouble in spring training.

The Giants had their win skein stopped at six.

In the American League, Chuck Stobbs and Washington Senators smashed first-place New York's seven-game string by beating the Yankees 3-2. And Baltimore ended its five-game losing slump by winning 6-1 over Boston while Detroit beat Kansas City 5-2.

In the National, Pittsburgh buried its 11-game losing string by humiliating the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers 15-1.

Rain postponed St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee.

Pierce's third victory against two defeats couldn't have come at a better time for White Sox. Hours earlier they learned that outfielder Minnie Minoso wasn't fully recovered from a bruised arm. New York last week and would need additional rest.

Sox caught up with Score in the seventh, breaking up a no-hit bid with three singles and a run. Then after Ralph Kiner homered to tie it, Chico Carrasquel and Bob Nieman homered for three runs in the eighth.

At Philadelphia, Meyer saved Simmons by getting Dusty Rhodes and Willie Mays on pops with the bases loaded in the eighth. Glen Gorbous sent Jim Hearn to his third defeat against five successes with two doubles and a pair of singles that scored two Milwaukee runs.

With Giants' defeat, Brooklyn retained its six-game lead if not its pride. The Bucs hammered loser Johnny Podres and five relievers for 19 hits. Jack Shepard had four singles. Bob Friend shut out Dodgers in 4 1-3 innings of relief for the decision.

Yanks had three doubles among their five hits off Stobbs, who won his first decision, but paired them only in the eighth. That's when Mickey Mantle got his second two-bagger to tie the score at 2-2. Mickey Vernon's long sacrifice fly brought Slobbs home with the winning run in the ninth. Tom Sturdivant lost it in relief of Bob Grim, but the Yanks held on to their one-game lead.

At Kansas City, Tigers lost Harvey Kuenn for 10 days when the leading American League batsman pulled a muscle while running out a first-inning hit. Three runs in the eighth won it for Detroit after Al Kaline and Gus Zernial matched three-run homers in the sixth. Forty players got into the game—including 11 pitchers, seven for Detroit.

Jim McDonald and Ray Moore got the job done for the Orioles.

CAHA Approves Replacements For Memorial Cup "Weak Sisters"

REGINA (CP)—Player replacements for any three "weak sisters" on a team in the Memorial Cup finals were approved Tuesday by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

But the West lost by a close vote its argument for an actual manpower advantage in the final junior championship series. Instead, by which western delegates to the annual meeting said would help improve weaker clubs shunted in the finals, Last prairie team to win the title was Winnipeg Monarchs in 1948.

Defeated 12-10 was a Saskatchewan amendment asking special exception for western teams to a new regulation forcing player-strength seed clubs to cut their roster to 18 plus the spare goaltender.

The CAHA earlier this year allowed Regina Pats three extra players in their Memorial Cup finals with Toronto Marlboros giving Regina a 23-18 player edge.

NOT FULL

But Pats didn't make full use of the added help. They went through the series—which they lost four—using mostly their original lineup.

Frank Buckland of Peterborough president of the Ontario Hockey Association said the "West made a farce of the strengthening they were given this year."

The association shouldn't give "somebody something and then have them kick it around like a disease" he said.

Ken More of Regina said one of the reasons Pats didn't use the extra players was that it might have damaged the morale and hockey future of the three cast-offs.

Another Western Canada Junior Hockey Association request—that junior players transferred from British Columbia to other junior clubs in western Canada be freed from import rules—was approved by the association.

BELIEVED GRIEVANCES

These two requests were believed among the western association's grievances. Indicated in a report to the CAHA Monday by Ken Mayhew of Yorkton Sask. WCJHA secretary-manager.

He said "some people in the west threaten to tear themselves away from the CAHA" because of dissatisfaction with CAHA rules governing acquisition of players.

Also defeated was a motion by George Dudley CAHA secretary-manager to eliminate East-West alternation of Memorial and Allan Cup finals and leave the sites to be decided by the CAHA president.

CAN, USE HAND

In a move to eliminate a play halting whistle the association permitted a player to use his open hand in knocking the puck out of the air or pushing it along the ice as long as he is the first player to touch it next. If someone else touched it first the play would be stopped.

Delegates approved the NHL's rule to eliminate a player's minor penalty once a goal is scored against his team. This would make it impossible for a team to score more than once while holding a one-man advantage. The rule would not apply when both sides were shorthanded.

Another new rule brings the face-off to just outside the blue line—not in the corner zone circle—after an attacking player stops play by shooting the puck on the back of the defending team's net.

Madoc Edges Bobcats 10-9 In League Opener

By GARRY ALEXANDER

A scrifice bunt in the last of the ninth was the climax in a ball game some men here might and gave Madoc a narrow 10-9 victory over the Belleville Bobcats in the opening game of the Belleville and District football league scheduled in Madoc.

Trailing 9-8 Bobcats had out-hoss, ered the village crew 6-3 and were leading 8-6 going into the bottom of the ninth but Jack Holmes hit the lead-off batter and found himself in plenty of trouble when Ernie Carswell slashed a triple to deep left. Harry Brown followed with a double to centre as Carswell and Bob Schoefield's single put men on first and third. Fred Nickle dumped a single into right field to tie the score and that was all for Holmes with Junior Day, the third Bobcat hurler, coming on to face Jack Black. As with runners on third and second and none out, Black dragged Day's first pitch down in front baseline to send Schoefield across the plate with the deciding tally.

The second to third place batting honors went to both of Madoc's hits, Harry Brown leading the way with two doubles and a homer, Schoefield getting a single, double, and homer, Carswell clouting a triple and a brace of singles while Nickle had a circuit-clout and a single and Jack Hatch claiming a one-base blow.

The city club was held to seven hits with Dave Lockyer blasting two terrific home runs. Ross Emspy went two-for-two with a homer and single, Carl Woods also had a home run while Ken Dussbury and Harry Wardbaugh each singled.

Eric MacInnay was the winning pitcher after throwing to only two men in the ninth, walking one and getting the other on a pop to third base. Wayne Shaw started for Madoc and lasted until the top of the sixth, allowing four hits for 4 runs and walking one while Schoefield was tagged for four singles on three hits and four walks while fanning six batters.

Frank Baldwin opened on the mound for the Bobcats, allowing two runs on four hits in two innings, striking out four and walking three. Holmes was the loser, giving up eight runs on nine hits, fanning six and issuing one free pass while hitting one batter.

Lockyer shot his club into the lead in the second with a .300-foot homer to the highway but back-to-back circuit blow s by Schoefield and Nickle jumped Madoc into the lead in the fourth. The Bobcats took a commanding lead in the sixth, Woods blasting a three-run homer, Lockyer a two-run and Empy a pinch-hit two run blast. Brown had made it 4-1 for Madoc in the fifth with his four-bagger, Sherry on base via an error but the Bobcats' seven big runs made it 8-4. Carswell's single, a throwing error and doubles by Brown and Schoefield tallied two for the winners in the seventh while Temple's nine got one in the eighth on Empy's single and two errors, one a shot hit back at the pitcher by Dussberry who knocked it down but fumbled it twice while trying to toss to first.

Both teams came up with some fine fielding plays for so early in the season with Huberman, one of three junior players used by Madoc, looking good on tough plays at third base.

The Bobcats open the season in Belleville on Friday night when they play host to Frankford at the CNRAA Park at 6.30 p.m.

The teams — Bobcats: Dussbury, H. Wardbaugh, Woods, Bone, Temple, Lockyer, Carswell, Creeggan, Empy, Baldwin, Holmes, Day.

Madoc: Sherry, Carswell, H. Brown, Schoefield, Nickle, Hatch, Hagerman, Tufts, Shaw, MacInroy.

The umpires: Tim Williams (P) and Herb Poinin (B).

Aces Want Bigger Share of Gate; Quebec Coliseum Lost $240,000

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces the main source of revenue for the city's ultra-modern hockey arena are threatening to quit operating unless they get a bigger share of their steadily-dwindling gate receipts.

Mayor Wilfrid Hamel of Quebec City Tuesday made the announcement to a municipal committee on city-owned Coliseum—home of the professional Quebec Hockey League club.

The Coliseum went $240,000 in the hole last year.

The arena's other big source of revenue is the Quebec Frontenacs a Quebec Junior Hockey League entry. In 1951 during an eastern Canada Memorial Cup final game between the defunct Quebec Citadelles and Barrie Flyers a record 16,806 spectators sardined into the 10,000-seat stadium. It is believed to be the largest crowd ever to watch a hockey game in Canada.

By contrast the Frontenacs this year drew average crowds of 500 to 600 on regular season and lost $1,500 on a playoff game against Toronto Marlboros.

Only a few years ago the Aces packed the Coliseum for every game. Last winter crowds of 4,000 to 6,000 were considered excellent.

The Aces say unless they can get a better break they'll give up. Directors of the team will give their decision this weekend at a QHL meeting in Montreal.

Mayor Hamel told the city administrative committee Tuesday the Coliseum's operating deficit was $33,000 last winter and $206,000 went to pay off the interest and capital on the building's construction debt.

Archie Moore Top Contender For Heavy Title

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore today was ranked as the top heavyweight contender in the latest Ring magazine ratings.

The 38-year-old Moore outpointed Nino Valdes then the No. 1 contender in a 15-rounder in Las Vegas last May.

Valdes was dropped to fourth behind Chuhalova's Bob Baker and England's Don Cockell, Cockell had been the No. 2 man and Baker No. 3 before the beefy Briton was blistered by heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano May 16.

GIARDELLO REPLACED

In a reshuffle of the middleweight contenders France's Charley Humez replaced Joey Giardello of Philadelphia as the leading challenger with Rocky Castellani of Cleveland third. Giardello was dropped to third because of illness resulting from his troubles with the law.

Virgil Akins of St. Louis moved out of nowhere into the No. 5 berth in the welterweight ranks on the strength of an nbeaten string for six fights.

Raymo Nichols of Los Angeles took over third place in the welters changing berths with the "grounded" Wilf Marines of Paterson N.J.

Floyd Mayweather beaten Dupas previously moved ahead of Italy's Duilio Loi European 135-pound champion.

Plate Trials To Be Run In Four Divisions

TORONTO (CP)—A record entry of 44 three-year-olds for the Queen's Plate has necessitated today's trials being raced in four divisions of 11 horses each. The previous record of 36 was set in 1953 when Canadiana won the Queen's Plate.

The trials will be the first races of the season for horses being eligible for the 98th running of the Queen's Plate Saturday June 11. They will be run as the fourth, fifth sixth and seventh races at Woodbine at a distance of six furlongs.

A second series of trials at a distance of one mile and 70 yards is scheduled for Friday June 3.

It is expected that Wednesday's sprint tests will cut down the number of prospective candidates for the Queen's Plate. At the present time 32 colts and fillies still are eligible for Canada's turf classic. Ontario Jockey Club officials feel that the field will be eventually reduced to 16 or 18 outstanding contenders.

Present favorite for the plate is Bright Flash a shifty filly owned by R. P. Taylor Toronto sportsman and industrialist. She is being quoted at odds of 5 to 2 to take the major portion of the $30,000 plus purse in addition to the 30 guineas awarded by the Queen.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers Lead Western Box Office League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers didn't win the Western Interprovincial Football Union championship last year but they lead the five-team league in advance ticket sales for the new season.

The club has sold 13,000 advance tickets to each of its eight home games in 1955. Winnipeg Stadium capacity is 19,000.

Edmonton Eskimos, Grey Cup and WIFU champions, have sold 11,300 season tickets with an objective of 12,500. Stadium capacity is nearly 20,000.

In Vancouver, the Lions enter their second year in the league assured of at least 8,800 spectators a game. The club, which finished last in 1954, is aiming for 13,000 season ticket sales. Empire Stadium can handle 25,500 spectators without supplementary bleachers or standing room.

Saskatchewan Roughriders have sold 7,300 tickets, filling half the stadium.

Six thousand have already bought tickets to watch Calgary Stampeders in action at home. Advance sales objective is 9,500. The stadium seats 16,700.

Vancouver is expected to top last year's budget of $435,000 by $100,000 and team officials estimate that if no exhibition games are played, an average attendance of 20,000 is necessary to break even.

Stampeder officials estimate an attendance of 12,500 is needed at each game to break even for the season.

NEED 15,000

Roughrider officials say an attendance of 15,000 a game will be sufficient for the club to break even.

The Eskimos drew an average of 16,900 to league games last year, while their playoff games attracted an average of more than 19,000 spectators.

Smith And Dale Create Laughs Together For Fifty-Seven Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The battling comedy teams of today can take a lesson from Smith and Dale, who have been creating laughs together for 57 years.

Comedians like Abbott and Costello and Martin and Lewis have suffered spills and dissensions which have placed strains on their careers. Smith and Dale can show them how two men can live and work together in a highly competitive business and still get along.

No vaudeville fan needs to be told who Smith and Dale are. But to the younger generation it can be explained that they were the more famous members of the Avon Comedy Four.

Some years ago the trade paper Variety polled veteran stars on which were the best acts of the vaudeville era. The majority placed the Avon Comedy Four at the top of their lists. Their most famous routine is the zany Dr. Kronkite Sketch.

ACTORS RELAX THERE

Smith and Dale are getting belly laughs with Dr. Kronkite nightly at a night club called the Sandbox. Their audience have included such fans as Jack Benny, Dan Dailey, Frank Sinatra, George Burns, Edward G. Robinson and George Stevens.

"I'll tell you why we've never split up," said Joe Smith, who is 71, powerfully built, and hawk-nosed with a dapper moustache. "We've had our ups and downs in the drug room and listeners say, 'Oh-oh, this is the end of the team.'

"But we never carry out disagreements out of theatre. When-ever we argue, it's for the good of the act. There's no jealousy over who gets laughs."

"That's right," added Charley Dale, almost 74, a wry-looking fellow with heavy-lidded eyes and a fighter's nose. "That's what breaks most teams up. One of them wants to be an individualist. You can't think about laughs for your-self alone. You've got to think about the good of the act."

THEY STICK TOGETHER

Some teams, for instance Olson and Johnson, figure they will get along better by remaining apart don't hold to this.

"When we're travelling we always stay at the same hotel," said Smith. "We usually see each other every day. If we don't, we're talk-ing on the telephone.

"He's stuck with me," laughed Dale. "And I couldn't get along without him."

This has been going on since 1898, when they met and com-bined forces in show business. Their long pairing is a record in anybody's book.

Doctor Kills Three

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A Copen-hagen physician slew three persons with an army pistol Tuesday and, after a wild ride in commandeered taxis, shot himself dead on a side-walk in nearby Roskilde.

The physician was Dr. Gunnar Kelstrup, 46-year-old, twice - wed veteran of the Second World War and anti-Nazi resistance movement.

Police described him as obvi-ously insane.

Kay Starr Nearly Steals Show In Max Liebman's Production

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has a new star—in name as well as fact. Her last name is Kay and she spells it like "skies S-t-a-r-r."

Although a comparative new-comer to TV, Miss Starr has been a queen of phonograph records these last seven or eight years. She has done an occasional TV song bit, but has been completely absent from the video screen for the last 18 months awaiting a good role.

She had it in Max Liebman's NBC-TV musical melange, "Prom-enade," last Sunday night, and came near to stealing the show from such headliners as Tyrone Power, Janet Blair, Judy Holliday and Herb Shriner.

By next morning, congratulations and offers were pouring in. One result is that Miss Starr probably will make a pilot film in Hollywood shortly for a proposed one-hour network series in the fall.

One reason Kay hasn't been on TV much is that she can afford to wait for what she likes. Her records have been among the best sellers in the business. She com-mands high fees for personal ap-pearances and, according to her business partner, Hal Stanley, rec-ently signed a five-year contract with a Las Vegas night spot for eight weeks a year at $25,000 a week. That adds up to $1,000,000. She also has signed a new phono-graph record contract with RCA-Victor with a $60,000-a-year guar-antee.

Miss Starr is a native of Dough-erty, Okla., and claims a strain of Indian blood. She's single and lives in Hollywood. She never has ap-peared in the movies because they, like TV up to now, haven't offered much that's attractive. On the basis of Sunday night's performa-nce, the offers should improve.

Great expectations seldom are realized. This was true in a sense with the combination of Theima Ritter starring in Paddy Chayef-sky's newest play, "The Catered Affair," on NBC's Television Play-house Sunday night. Nevertheless, both the play and Miss Ritter's performance were above-average TV fare, even if the script wasn't up to Chayefsky's famed "Marty," first seen on TV Playhouse and since made into a successful movie.

The play tried to develop too much character in the 50-odd min-utes available for the show on the air. Particularly disconcerting was the fact that the early part of the play developed sympathy mostly for the mother, played by Miss Ritter, and then switched to pre-senting the side of the father—por-trayed by Pat Henning—versus the mother.

Chayefsky, after all, can't write a "Marty" every time.

AT THE CAPITOL — Zachary Scott co-stars with Sterling Hayden and Yvonne De Carlo in Allied Artists' Technicolor "Shotgun" opening Sun-day at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Scott now is that of a bounty killer, one of the most de-tailed movies of the Old West. On the same program in Technicolor "Oyster Colt", starring Ward Bond and Don-na Corcoran.

AT THE McCARTHY

Kirk Douglas, co-starring with Jeanne Crain, Claire Trevor and William Campbell in Universal-International's Technicolor action drama, "Man Without A Star," now at the McCarthy Theatre, is a man who believes in "getting in the mood" for his screen roles.

"I am not," Douglas admits, "one of those breezy actors who can walk out of the character the minute the director calls off the set. I have to live the role and study the background to make it real."

Douglas has studied his char-acters exhaustively ever since he can remember. For "Champion," he spent weeks sparring in Holly-wood gyms and associating with prize fighters. For "Young Man With A Horn" he became a pal of Harry James and spent his harried weeks with the trumpeter learning proper fingering. For "Ace in the Hole" he served as a general assignment reppriter on a Los Angeles newspaper.

For "Man Without A Star" Douglas worked a full three weeks to perfect techniques in riding, roping, shooting and trick gun handling. He bombarded Uni-versal-International publicists on cow-puncher psychology, and found it helpful to talk the lingo, wear the clothes and live the character of two-fisted Dempsey Rae 24 hours a day.

"Sometimes it gets a little tough on my wife," said the star of his wife, the former Ann Buy-dens, "and it makes people think I'm a little strange. But it's the only way I can get into a part and do it justice."

The unparalleled success with which Douglas has done his roles "justice" would show that it pays to be strange—Kirk's way.

"Man Without A Star" was directed by King Vidor for pro-ducer Aaron Rosenberg.

All Star Cast Seen Today in 'Battle Cry'

Warner Bros' production of "Battle Cry", in CinemaScope and WarnerColor opens today at the Belle Theatre.

Based on Leon Uris' best-selling novel, "Battle Cry" stars Van Heflin, Aldo Ray, Mona Freeman, Nancy Olson, James Whitmore, Raymond Massey, Tab Hunter, Dorothy Malone and Anne Fran-cis. It is the story of a group of Marines, their romances, training, and the battles they went through during World War II.

The film version of the sensa-tional novel was prepared for mo-tion picture presentation by the author himself, Leon Uris. All the passion of the book is said to be preserved in the film as well as the memorable moments of his-tory in which the marines help pave the road to victory in the war.

"Battle Cry", which has a per-sonal story to tell is considered a graphic example of why produc-ers favor popular novels as pos-sible screen hits.

For Thursday, May 26, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Try not to make too much of irritating situations or setbacks, and you will be able to accomplish a great deal today.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Non-essentials should be by-passed now. But that does not mean "little" benefits; they Do count. There are many valuable opportunities afloat; seek and you will find.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mild influences now. Get after the essentials early; make time to look around, maybe try out a new thought, a better method. A new friend may help you today; be ready.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Watch your words and deeds. Stars caution you to relax your guard or become lackadaisical. You may be surprised to learn of an important matter, a commitment. When called upon, weigh matters well; then act.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may find that what you thought was a good opening is not really to your liking. Don't be afraid or reluctant to make a change. And don't allow yourself to be drawn into questionable or uncertain schemes.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — If you don't expect outside help your day can be a pleasant one. Be cautious but not fearful. If you use your keen intelligence you can always gain some ground.

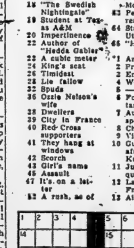
November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Not an entirely auspicious day. Be eager but don't run into the unknown. Make haste slowly.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Do your best in all matters, Work, tasks first; then recreation. Don't be in a hurry to drop matters which are already under way. Show your sense of responsibility.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Those who think logically usually do a job well. Don't wait to be told or directed in activities with which you should be familiar. You have the mind; use it rightly.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Interests and activities generally suitable to you are in favorites under today's planetary outlook. The day won't be entirely easy and you will have to be on your mark, but you can achieve, so try.

You born today are fun-loving, interesting, talented. You are not too fond of tedious details or routine work, but can do both well when necessary. You are well suited to any occupation or activity that brings you in contact with people, to advertising, the theatre, promotion, writing. Control a tendency toward restlessness; it could thwart your success. Don't be adverse to criticism, or having to change your plans. The months ahead offer many fresh advantages. Senate Leader Against Forcing Govt. to Act

OTTAWA (CP)—The government leader in the Senate said Tuesday night he would like to see some of the 22 upper house vacancies filled but not by a constitutional amendment compelling the government to take such action.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, solicitor-general, made the statement in the Senate in opposing a bill sponsored by Senator William Euler, one-time Liberal cabinet minister, which would oblige the prime minister to fill vacancies within six months from the day they occur.

He also said that Senator Euler's bill would be directive rather than effective, that its constitutionality is in doubt and that it proposes an amendment to the wrong section of the British North America Act.

IN FAVOR, BUT—

"I am in favor of senate vacancies being filled," Senator Macdonald said. "I am also in favor of reform . . . but I do not think we would be going about it in the right way by passing this bill."

The BNA Act was the Canadian constitution. It was a sacred document and dealing with it was not lightly. The proposed amendment should not be approved "unless we are absolutely sure that we are doing the right thing and it is vital that the . . . act in question should be amended."

The preamble of the Senate would be lowered greatly by the government taking action to fill all vacancies.

Senator Macdonald said he doubts that public confidence in the Senate was increased in 1935 and 1940 when all vacancies were filled on the eve of general elections. However, he had no doubt that public confidence increased when Mr. St. Laurent refused to fill Senate vacancies prior to the 1949 and 1953 elections.

SOMETHING NEW

"This was something new in the history of our country," Mr. Macdonald said. "Never before had a prime minister left vacant seats in the Senate on the eve of an election except in a few instances occurred between dissolution of Parliament and the election day."

Senator Macdonald said he does not agree that the 22 Senate vacancies has impaired the usefulness and efficiency of the Senate. The Senate was performing all its responsibilities as thoroughly as the Commons.

Senator Euler suggested that Senator Macdonald propose a motion to that effect in the present session. However, Senator Macdonald said this is itself involved the matter has not received mature consideration.

Senator John Connolly (Quebec) also opposed the bill on grounds that the constitutional amendment it proposes would be directive rather than effective. If the constitution was amended by the bill the governor-general could ignore the time limit provision.

Duke of Edinburgh Voted 'Best Speaker in London' By White-Ties-And-Tails Crowd

By ARCH MacKENZIE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh has arrived on the British speech circuit, as familiar these days as the brandy and cigars and every bit as popular.

"The best speaker in London," was the accolade bestowed on him recently by a veteran of the white-tie-and-tails crowd.

Not since the Duke of Windsor was at his zenith as Prince of Wales has the Royal Family had anything like so good a speaker, so forcible or direct," reports the Evening News.

"Nor matter what his subject, (he) speaks with knowledge, sincerity and wit," agrees The Daily Mail. "His words are not those of the official ghost, with flavor of his own and he means what he says."

OFF THE CUFF

Thus the tall, energetic consort is arousing interest—and newspaper play—as much for what he says as the fact that he is the Queen's husband.

It may be off the cuff, delivered in two minutes at a scheduled halt in one of his intensive surveys of industrial or other establishments. It may be based on rough, self-scribbled notes.

Or the duke may draw on a carefully prepared text to deliver technical matters.

He talks taxes with chartered accountants, mining—and Rolled Service poetry — with metallurgists, palace publicity with the press and food values with farmers.

"Taxmanship" is described by the duke as "the gentle art of scoring off the inland revenue department without actually cheating." He supposes that in an accountancy world "half the country would be bankrupt by payment too much tax . . . and the other half would be in jail for not paying enough."

He urges industry to modernize, and deplores the need to build playing fields—with industry one of his pet interests—15 miles out of London. Let this "be a lesson to the planners."

postal pay increase bill—handing him a victory in one of the sharpest challenges he has encountered in Congress.

On a roll-call, 54 senators voted to enact the law over his disapproval and 39 to uphold the veto. Those wanting to uphold the veto thus were short of the two-thirds majority they needed.

It was the first attempt to override one of Eisenhower's vetoes in the two years and four months he has been in the White House. In that period, Eisenhower has received 83 bills.

KANSAS, OKLAHOMA TORNADOES KILL 74

Hold Toronto Man For Manslaughter In Fatal Shooting

Went to Welland Hospital With Knife Wound in Chest

SLAIN

Natale Brigante, 30-year-old Italian immigrant, shot to death on a Toronto service station lot. He died clutching a home-handled stiletto. Pasquale Violi, 49, of Toronto, has been arrested and charged with manslaughter after he went to the Welland County Hospital for treatment for a knife wound in his chest.

TORONTO (CP)—Police today charged a 24-year-old youth with manslaughter in the shooting of another Italian on a west end street Tuesday night.

Police said Paola Violi of Toronto, was arrested in Welland Wednesday when he went to the Welland county hospital to receive treatment for a knife wound in his left chest. Dr. H. O. Singer became suspicious and called police.

Natale Brigante, 30, who police said carried a bone-handled Italian stiletto knife strapped to his waist before setting out in the rain Tuesday night, was cut down by two of four automatic pistol shots fired from a car near a service station.

Brigante came from San Stefano da Spromonte, a village in Italy's Calabria region, recently as an immigrant. Friends said he regularly sent money back to his mother there.

Brigante dropped his knife as he ran from the scene, dropping to the pavement a few feet farther on. He died swiftly after.

Police said today Brigante met Violi on a parking lot and during an argument Violi was stabbed and Brigante was shot.

They said they were called to Welland, in the Niagara peninsula and 90 miles south of Toronto, early Wednesday morning when hospital authorities checked on Violi's story.

They said he gave his name as John Pinnocchio and that he had been wounded accidentally during a family argument. The hospital became suspicious when, on the several Toronto addresses. The wound was not only slight.

Police said they have not been able to establish a motive for the killing. They said Brigante's wife, Brigante might have been killed as the result of a blood feud originating in Italy. His room-mate said Brigante had received a telephone call before going out Tuesday night.

Supervising coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said: "There must have been trouble in Italy somewhere. Brigante went out anticipating trouble because he took his stiletto with him."

Police said they think Brigante may have obtained his stiletto recently about a woman and that blackmail might be involved.

Brigida Brigante, 34, a pretty Gegman immigrant who police said was known to them as somewhere, ituti, 23, Brigante's room mate, are being held in custody as material witnesses.

The first break in the case came when Mrs. Shanahelda phoned police to report Violi missing. She gave a full description of him and said he had relatives in the Welland area. She called later to say he was home and asked to have the police search canceled. Police went to the address and found Violi still missing.

Violi told Italian-speaking Detective Tony Greco he was attacked by 12 hours on the case without sleep —that he never knew Brigante but police said they believe the two met seven months ago.

Govt. Accused Of Forcing Unwanted Law on Yukon

OTTAWA (CP) — The Yukon's only Commons representative, a Liberal, has accused the government of trying to force a law on his constituents which they don't want.

James Aubrey Simmons said he can not support a proposed mine-safety rewriting a 1924 law governing mining in the Yukon.

The 49-year-old former White-horse magistrate said he can't understand why the government persists on making changes distasteful to the great majority of the residents. It had been done against his advice.

The changes had been thought up by officials who didn't know the difference between a frying pan and a gold pan.

LASTS WHOLE SITTING

Mr. Simmons spoke at length during debate on a resolution preliminary to the bill. Opposition members joined in to support him and the debate lasted throughout the half-day sitting. Adjourning without the bill being introduced.

Mr. Speech was punctuated by sharp exchanges with Northern Affairs Minister Lesage, who said at one point that what Mr. Simmons saw the actual bill "you'll withdraw your opposition if they have said."

The Yukon member replied that although he hasn't seen the bill "I could read it off by heart."

Mr. Lesage is sponsoring proposed changes at the outset of the debate, said, part of the administration will be carried on through regulations under the new act.

The act itself would provide for recording of claims, reduce claim sizes to 40 acres from 52, increase to 12 from eight the number of claims an individual can stake, and boost to $200 from $100 the amount of "representation work" a prospector must do to hold his claims.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Frost occurred in northern Ontario during the night but cloudy skies in southern Ontario kept temperatures in the high 40's. A new storm centre developing in Kansas this morning is expected to move towards Lake Michigan and affect the weather over the entire province Friday.

LIBERALS SCORE LANDSLIDE WIN IN P.E. ISLAND

Opposition PC Chief Plans Resignation

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Liberals won the Prince Edward Island election Wednesday with a landslide majority that brought from the Progressive Conservative opposition chief a statement that he plans to resign the leadership.

Liberals under Premier Matheson swept to their sixth consecutive election with 27 seats against Alex Allan his Progressive Conservatives. The opposition standpat was cut by half; the government increased by that amount.

In 1951 and 1947 Liberals won 24 seats and the Progressive Conservatives six. At dissolution April 27 there was a vacancy in a seat formerly held by a Liberal.

BELL RETAINS SEAT

R. E. Bell, Progressive Conservative leader, retained his seat, the only one of six members of his party to run. Former Liberals had to do so.

It was the second election defeat for Mr. Bell as party leader.

He said: "I feel that I should retire."

Premier Matheson, leading his party for the fifth time in a provincial election, said "the majority was out of this world. . . I never expected to have it."

It was the biggest Liberal victory since 1935 when they won 30 seats to blank the then Progressive Conservative government led by Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan.

Dr. MacMillan himself went down to defeat Wednesday, losing the seat in Charlottetown he has held as an opposition member.

NO THIRD PARTIES

It was a straight two-party fight with no third parties entered for the first time in every election.

All members of Premier Matheson's cabinet were returned with one exception. Provincial Secretary William Hughes had lost the Liberal nomination in Kings 5th. The seat stayed in the Liberal fold, however, with victory for S. Hessian, who received the party nomination.

Both party leaders said the campaign—fought mainly on local issues, many of them reflecting the agricultural economy of the province had been clean.

Liberals topped their platform with a promise to seek increased freight rates on potatoes to Ontario and the opposition featured a plank promising a provincial potato marketing out political patronage and with the aim to help full-time, cabinet rank in Canada's smallest province has generally been considered a key portfolio.

Tro trend was indicated in early returns and continued to mount. The government's re-election was decided at 7:45 p.m. AUT, about the time polls closed in most areas.

Prince Edward Island, under an election system that is unique in Canada, elects two members for each of its 15 districts. There are two counties, each with five districts.

Each member in each district is a councillor and one an assemblyman. There are varying qualifications for each of the posts, the distinction in the legislature.

Two Spinsters, 103 And 99, Refuse Lift to Polling Booth Half-Mile Away

KIDDERMINSTER, Eng. (AP)—Jane Badland 103, and her younger sister, Georgina, 99, walked half a mile to vote today in the general election. Conservative and Labor party workers offered the ladies a lift, but both offers were refused.

"We've got to be obligated to anybody," Miss Badland said.

DUDLEY, England (Reuters) — Voter Donald Risdon went to the polls riding a cream and red pony.

He rated the special transportation because of his post as manager of the local zoo.

LONDON (CP) — Conservative headquarters has installed an electronic brain to try to spot early trends in tonight's vote counting. Labor headquarters has put in a big amount which to project this vision broadcasts of the results.

Electric boards went up today in a Piccadilly Circus and Trafalgar Square to flash the news to thousands of Londoners who will gather there.

LONDON (Reuters)—British politics ripped five votes Conservative party leaders cut off the head of the Labor party's official headquarters, Transport House, a few hours before voting in the general election began at 7 a. m. today.

A dangerous operation, he explained, after ripping down a poster which is quite wrong to stick up bills without consent.

DERBY, England (AP) — Conservative party officials today operated aboard a truck outfitted with a walkie-talkie radio. They roamed the streets, and messages received from party headquarters gave them the names of people who had not yet voted. As soon as a name was flashed over the radio, a canvasser was dispatched to ask laggard by vote—Conservatives.

Frost Convinced no Complete Answer to Hospital Insurance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost says he is convinced no one has found the complete answer "to the great problems involved" in an Ontario hospital and hospital insurance program.

Such a scheme is not a question of "magic words but of figuring it solid foundation, Mr. Frost said Wednesday night in a campaign speech for the June 9 Ontario general election.

The 59-year-old premier told 600 persons at a rally in Kitchener that the Progressive Conservative administrations of the last 12 years had been working steadily toward a sound foundation for the plan.

He said, "from the studies we have made of all the plans, we are convinced that no one has found the complete answer."

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver reiterated at Paisley that Highways Minister Allan has violated provincial regulations by buying cheese direct from factories for resale at his Dunnville dairy.

He said Mr. Allan was sidestepping the Ontario Cheese Exchange and challenged Mr. Frost to either refute the charge or get a seat formerly held by a Liberal.

BELL RETAINS SEAT

Mr. Frost said Leader Donald said at Toronto that the flow of immigrants has reached a point where it may become decisive in future elections. He spoke at the opening of a New Canadians Information centre set up to advise immigrants on political and economic matters.

Mr. Frost said his government has created the Ontario plan under which a "common sense" hospital scheme can be based by building up the number of hospitals and hospital beds in the province and by providing money for hospital maintenance.

As basic requirements for such a plan, he mentioned expansion of hospitals, home care and outpatient facilities. The next step was provision for taking care of illness which would be financially disastrous to individuals, families and sometimes businesses.

The province has an all-inclusive health insurance program would add $225,000,000 to the budget. The present budget now is $375,000,000.

He said the situation is different in the U.S. American experience which already have health insurance schemes—Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The economy of the two western provinces was relatively static compared to Ontario's growth.

Experts Predict Conservatives Will Get 51 Per Cent of Vote

LONDON (CP) — Traditionally overcast skies greeted the first voters today as balloting began in the British general election.

But 28,000,000 of the nearly 35,000,000 eligible voters were expected to brave the elements when polls closed at 9 p.m. (4 p.m. EDT).

Beginning at 7 a.m. (2 a.m. morning the votes marked ballot papers be sifted. 630 members of a new House of Commons will be elected.

Last election polls opinion polls showed Labor had pulled up in the last few days of an unusually dull campaign. But the latest samplers still predicted that 51 per cent of the voters would back the Conservatives, to 47½ per cent for Labor.

The rest was credited to the Liberals and smaller parties.

If these are right, if correct, these figures could give Eden's party an edge of about 60 seats. But many observers suspected that the polls were somewhat optimistic toward the Conservatives.

When the old Parliament—of 625 members—was dissolved April 6 a month, the Tories had an edge of 17 seats. Redistribution accounts for the five extra seats in the new House.

In the large cities there were heavy turnouts at many polling stations shortly after the balloting began. The arrivals were slower in the country.

Postal workers voted on their way, to the factories.

No early election incident was reported, and none was expected. Unlike Canada, the United States and many other countries, there was no election day ban on the sale of alcoholic drinks. Instead the law will be relaxed to stay open until midnight—an hour and a half longer than usual. Britons also will be able to attend race forums where the citizens gather to wetch the outcome.

Another Conservative majority in Commons will mean a continuation of the policies accompanied the current prime minister Churchill and his foreign minister Anthony Eden to beater Labor in the 1951 election. Both parties entertained to back with welfare-state overtones and such pieces of socialism as the nationalization of steel and trucking left over from Labor's 1945-51 term.

Labor, if triumphant, intends to move toward more government ownership. It promises to put back under state control the iron and steel industries and the transport port denationalized by the Conservatives in the last 2½ years.

Labor leaders have said they will put nationalize parts of the chemical and road haulage industries, and later may move in on sugar and cement.

The Conservatives have campaigned on the rising prosperity which they say has accompanied their term in office. Eden told the voters that the standard of living in Britain of ours is selling more, earning more, buying more, saving more, exporting more and eating more than it has at any time in the history of the country."

Labor replied that Eden has been lucky, and that only close control of Britain's British economy can keep the nation of importers and exporters from sliding back.

They charge that the cost of living is still too high, and has been matched by wage increases.

DENIES RUMOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Deane Finlay, leader of the Progressive Conservative party in British Columbia, Wednesday denied rumors he would join the Social Credit party by saying the "Socreds haven't got a hake to fit me."

At Least 55 Die In One Town As 13 Communities In 2 States Are Hammered By Twisters

Approximately 600 Persons Injured Many Homes And Factories Levelled

BLACKWELL, Okla. (AP) — A series of lethal tornadoes whirled across Kansas and Oklahoma Wednesday night hammering 13 towns and killing at least 74 persons.

Approximately 600 persons were injured.

The twisters dealt the most punishing blows to Udall, a southcentral Kansas community of 750, and Blackwell, a northern Oklahoma town of 10,000. The towns are 80 miles apart.

At least 55 persons died at Udall and 17 at Blackwell. A twister killed two others at Sweetwater in western Oklahoma. Lightning claimed two additional lives in Oklahoma.

WORST OF YEAR

The twisters, the year's most devastating, also roared into Texas but apparently caused no deaths in that state.

Udall was virtually destroyed. More than 100 persons were injured. In Blackwell where the tornado leveled homes and factories in an east side area of about 36 square blocks some 500 were injured.

NO WARNING

The storm struck this town of 10,000 without warning in late evening, levelling homes and factories in the path of fierce winds and setting additional fires in residential areas into darkness.

Fire Hazel Atlas Glass Co. plant, a two-block factory in the centre of the storm's path, caught fire after being flattened, but 52 workers on the night shift escaped before the big structure collapsed.

With telephone communications wiped out, amateur short-wave radio operators sent appeals for help which brought ambulances, doctors, nurses, firemen and rescue units from numerous surrounding towns.

Cries of the injured could be heard in the darkness by rescue workers who swarmed quickly over the twisted wreckage of demolished homes armed with flashlights. Bulldozers were used to clear debris from the streets of uprooted trees and other debris to make way for ambulances.

LIKE GIGANTIC BOMB

Bread trucks and other commercial vehicles were pressed into service to speed the injured to hospitals.

A temporary morgue was established at the National Guard armory and members of the local Lions Club served coffee to grim-faced rescuers. Some of the injured were treated in churches, which were quick to set up emergency first-aid stations.

Witnesses visiting here for a convention joined local authorities in the rescue work. Medical aid defence units rushed here from as far as Wichita, Kan.

Many of the local reporters to reach the scene said the entire northeast section of the town, about 100 miles north of Oklahoma City, looked as if a gigantic bomb had struck it.

It was the worst tornado to strike Oklahoma since the devastating Woodward storm of 1947 which took 106 lives.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

TWO MILES ROADWAY BEING WIDENED

Widening of the two miles of roadway from Tweed to Stoco is now under way by county road forces, it was stated today by Larry Langlois, county engineer.

The work is being done as a development road project, the cost of the actual grading to be done by the highways department. Little more than widening of the road is being done as the roadway is a former railway right-of-way and was too narrow for today's traffic.

Eighty Different Species of Birds Seen on Trip

The weather on Monday proved ideal for a field trip to Prospect Hill by the members of the Quinte Field Naturalists.

Some of the members were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Nicholls at her cottage "Dunworkin" for the week-end. Consequently they were able to scout around before-hand and were prepared to act as guides to the others and to visitors who arrived on Monday.

All together forty people enjoyed the trips on foot or by car from woods to beach and back again, each seeking something new or rare.

Visitors were on hand from Kitchener, Toronto, Colborne, Marmora and Hilton and were graciously welcomed by Miss Nicholls.

Almost eighty different species of birds were seen. Among the water birds, the white capped orange billed Caspian terns were new to many.

Warblers were scarce and hard to see as they kept to the tree tops. However, a rare species to this area was spotted by Mrs. Eva Brewster's warbler with a yellow head and black throat. As always the scarlet tanager brought cries of delight.

Bountiful repasts were enjoyed at noon and in the evening when everyone had the opportunity of comparing notes and becoming better acquainted.

On the whole it was a very successful outing.

Coleman-Moira Intersection Scene of Crash

The Coleman-Moira intersection, described in city council on several occasions as a congested and dangerous corner, was the scene of another accident Wednesday afternoon when two autos were damaged to the extent of about $500.

Police said that John E. Hawes, 84A Catherine Street, was eastbound on Moira when Jack Embleton, Trenton, proceeding west, Embleton attempted to make a left-hand turn onto Coleman and his car was in collision with the Hawes machine.

On several occasions in recent weeks accidents have made requests in city for a traffic light at the above intersection but police have informed that light was not needed for the corner.

Americans Tell Of Being Cheated In Stock Sales

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Americans have claimed in criminal court they were cheated of a total of $1,850 after being induced to purchase Canadian securities which they never received.

Testifying Wednesday at the preliminary hearing of Walter H. Link of Montreal, charged in connection with an alleged $41,000 oil stock swindle, were Albert Valada of Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., and John Russo of Providence, R. I. Valada said he was bilked of $900 by a "tall, lean" man and while Russo said he was defrauded of $750. Both told how they were approached by men telephoning from Montreal and representing the now-defunct firm of Parker, Inc., securities firm.

Link is one of five men charged with conspiracy, false pretences, fraud and illegal use of the mails in connection with the alleged swindle.

Six others, whose preliminary hearings are scheduled for June 6, are Harry H. Green and Lou Wyman, both of Montreal, and George F. Caldough and William Brady, both of Toronto.

Decision Monday On Appeal Made By Tire-Makers

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Exchequer Court of Canada will decide Monday whether the big rival rubber tire and soil appeal brand tires should be taxed as manufactured goods.

Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson Wednesday reserved judgment until Monday on the appeal of three national tire manufacturers—Goodyear, Goodrich and Dominion—who seek to upset a tariff board ruling that a special brand organization, the T. Eaton Co., and any other company carrying on business in similar fashion are not liable to the sales and excise tax.

These government tolls are levied on the manufacturer's selling price, on a percentage basis. Special brand tires are those produced by a processor for specific customers, the customer's brand or trade mark and other distinctive markings being placed on the tire.

INVITE KITCHENER MAN

TIMMINS (CP) — Town council Wednesday invited an unidentified Kitchener businessman to visit here to discuss operation of a town bus service. The invitation followed a statement by John Dalton, jr., operator of the present town bus service, that he will discontinue operations May 31 because he is losing money.

PETERBOROUGH MAN FINED

TORONTO (CP)—A young motorcyclist, who police said had to be hauled from the path of a streetcar Wednesday was fined $100 and costs or seven days for impaired driving. Donald Bruce, 24, of Peterborough, was arrested while attempting to start his motorcycle.

Rain Welcomed With Open Arms By Farmers

Farmers in the Bay of Quinte district welcomed yesterday's three-quarters of an inch rainfall with open arms as pastures and grain crops were badly in need of moisture.

Peas and spring grain in many instances were "standing still" after showing good growth earlier as fields became parched due to lack of rain. Meadows and garden crops were also feeling the effects of the dry spell.

The rain will also put at least a temporary stop to grass fires, which, during the past week or so have been keeping city firemen busy, while the dangers of forest fires will also be lessened.

And every city householder will get a few days respite from the task of watering the lawn.

McCann Denies Any Illegal Disclosures in Dempsey Case

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann denies he unlawfully divulged to Premier Frost of Ontario information concerning campaign funds received four years ago by a Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature.

Mr. McCann made the statement Wednesday in the Commons shortly after the house voted 131 to 74 against a motion calling for production of photostatic copies of receipts for election contributions made in 1951 to James Dempsey, Progressive Conservative MPP for Renfrew South.

The contributions were made by the late John D. Ivison, Ottawa businessman constituent, and receipts for them were discovered when his will was probated in 1953 by Guaranty Trust Co., of which Dr. McCann is a director.

CONSERVATIVE CLAIM

The motion, by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert), said Dr. McCann showed photostats of the receipts to Premier Frost during the recent federal - provincial conference. Later Mr. Frost withdrew from the Dempsey prosecution of Mr. Dempsey in the June 9 provincial election for failure to report the contributions, amounting to $6,800.

Dr. McCann said he had already told the Commons he gave Premier Frost no information on succession duties. However, he was forbidden by the succession Duties Act from disclosing any such exchange of information to anyone not entitled by law to receive it.

"SECRET PUBLICITY"

He said:

"I therefore cannot be held responsible for recent publicity which has occurred in relation to what is alleged to be information unlawfully disclosed by me." He was referring to reports he showed photostats of the receipts to Mr. Frost.

Mr. Diefenbaker was asked to withdraw the motion but he declined. On the vote the Commons lives were supported by CCF members and Ross Thatcher (Indpendent-Assiniboia Centre).

Liberal, Social Credit and two Quebec independents—Rene Jutras, Chicoutimi, and Raoul Poulin, Beauce, voted against the motion.

There were indications that members may continue to question Dr. McCann further on the matter when his estimates are studied by the Commons. Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) asked whether the government intends Dr. McCann's estimates to be studied before the June 9 Ontario election.

Prime Minister St. Laurent promised to refer the question to Finance Minister Harris, who arranges the Commons order of business with representatives of other parties. Mr. Harris was absent from the House at the time.

Trying to Force Bootlegger to Change Number

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of an Anglican church congregation here are using their spare time to call a bootlegger at the request of Rev. Stanley E. Higgs.

Mr. Higgs asked members of his church to flood the bootlegger with calls and hang up as soon as the phone was answered.

The minister resorted to this method of warfare after he was tricked into a funeral home with "shend me a bottle" calls.

Seems his telephone number and that of the bottle-seller, are almost identical.

Mr. Higgs and his hard-working congregation are trying to force the bootlegger to change his telephone number.

Ballistic Tests Show Manager's Gun Killed Man

TORONTO (CP)—Police today said preliminary reports on tests by the RCMP ballistics laboratory in Ottawa support their theory that a bank clerk killed in the $2,300 holdup of a city bank a week ago was shot accidentally by the bank manager.

Officers said ballistic tests on the revolver of bank manager William Davidson and the bullet taken from the body of John J. Hannan, 24, show the young clerk was killed by a bullet fired from Hannan walked from a basement lunchroom into a crossfire between the manager and two bandits.

The fatal bullet has been established as a .38-calibre. The bandits were using a sawed-off shotgun and a sawed-off .22-calibre rifle to stifle a revolver from the bank. The only .38-calibre gun used in the holdup was that fired by the manager, police said.

Lloyd Simpson, 32, charged with robbery of the bank still is being treated for a gun wound in the shoulder.

A province-wide search continues for Arthur Hannan, 24, wanted on a warrant charging him with taking part in the robbery.

303 Candidates Have Entered For 98 Seats

TORONTO (CP) — Nominations for the June 9 Ontario election close today at 2 p.m. local standard time. Already 303 candidates have entered the contest—for the 98 seats.

The Progressive Conservatives led by Premier Frost have nominated 97 candidates—one in every riding except Renfrew South where James S. Dempsey, from whom party support was withdrawn over an unreported 1951 campaign contribution, is running as an independent Progressive Conservative.

The Liberals nominated 91 candidates, including party leader Farquhar Oliver. The CCF, led by Donald C. Macdonald, named 75. The Labor-Progressive (Communist) party put 30 candidates in the field under the leadership of Stewart Smith. Also in the running are three Independents and two Liberal-Labor candidates who support the Liberals.

Only a last-minute flood of unexpected nominations could bring the total above the record 317 which contested the 90 seats at stake in 1951.

WOMEN CANDIDATES

Eight women have been nominated, three Liberals, one CCF and four Labor-Progressives. The Liberals are Mrs. Wanda Miller, Muskoka; Mrs. Ruth Rees, Hamilton and Mrs. May Webb, Hamilton Centre. Mrs. Thelma Davidson is CCF candidate in York East. Labor-Progressives in the fray are Mrs. Helen Taylor, Toronto-York East; Miss Mary Price, Niagara Falls; Miss Helen Weir, Toronto High Park; and Mrs. Florence Theodore, Port Hope-Cobourg.

The Liberal-Labor candidates are in the extreme western ridings—Albert Wren in Kenora and R. J. Barron in Rainy River. Both have support of the provincial Liberal party.

Two of the Independents are in Sudbury ridings. H. E. Carlin in Nickel Belt and N. Thibeault in Sudbury, and Ted Third, Dundas Romain, is running in the North Bay district constituency of Nipissing.

Redistribution last year created eight new seats, thereby increasing representation to 98 from 90, altered the boundaries of 15 constituencies and changed the names of two.

Standing in the 90-seat House at dissolution: Progressive Conservative 79, Liberal 7, CCF 2, Labor-Progressive 1, vacant 1.

Liberal Mayor Says PC Grants Have Been Fair

GALT (CP) — Mayor William Woods of Preston, Ont., a staunch Liberal supporter, said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario has been fair in its contributions to municipalities.

Addressing a luncheon, attended by Progressive Conservative supporters and Premier Frost, Mr. Woods said he was confident the administration recognized the problems facing municipalities because contributions through grants to Waterloo communities, have been good and fair enough in the past.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver has attacked the government's grant system to municipalities during his campaign tour for the June 9 Ontario general election.

Mr. Woods once contested unsuccessfully the federal Liberal nomination in this area.

Communists Say, Sask. Soldier Has Defected

BERLIN (CP)—Communist East Germany said Wednesday night it has granted political asylum to a Saskatchewan soldier who had come to believe he and his Canadian comrades "were to be misled for a new war."

The soldier, Ralph Bernard Cross of Moose Jaw, Sask., had been absent without leave about eight days. About three months ago he wrote to his wife that he said he wanted a divorce. Married since 1948, the couple has three children.

Cross' flight was reported by the East German Communist news agency ADN which identified him only by a number. Canadian army headquarters here supplied the full identity. He had been in West Germany with the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, since April 19, 1954.

QUICK CHANGE OF VIEWS

Mrs. Cross said in Moose Jaw she had received a letter from her husband Feb. 23 in which he said he was "putting in for a divorce." He was "staying here for two more years at least" and he had hated his wife "for a long time."

The letter was unsigned.

Mrs. Cross said her husband once threatened to kill her if she "ever mentioned the word" and "often beat up on me and the kids."

His second-last letter home came about two months ago. It was also padded pledged fidelity to his wife and said he would never leave her while in the army that led him to believe "he and his comrades were to be misused for a new world war."

KIDNAPPED?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A brother of the Canadian soldier reported to have been granted political asylum in East Germany Wednesday said that "if he's in Communist hands, he was kidnapped."

The Canadian Army has identified the soldier as Ralph Bernard Cross of Moose Jaw, Sask. His brother, Everett Cross, said in an interview at his home that the family is "certain as death that Ralph didn't desert."

"He loved the army, he went because he wanted to stop the Commies. It hardly seems likely that he would go with them now.

"The rest of the family is just as sure as I am that if Ralph crossed the East German border, he didn't do it on his own free will. There have been many items of information in the foreign press to that effect, thus using him for propaganda."

Liberal Leader Says Sask. Soldier Has Been Kidnapped

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson said in the Commons Wednesday that Ralph Bernard Cross, Canadian soldier who has been reported to have defected to East Germany, has been kidnapped.

Mr. Pearson said he had received a telegram from Cross' brother, Everett, of Moose Jaw, Sask., saying that Ralph had been kidnapped.

Tourist Folders For City, County Ready to Mail

10,000 bright, attractive, yellow and brown tourist folders advertising farm and tourist facilities in the Highlands of Hastings came off the presses at the Ontario Intelligencer this week for distribution to tourist information centres in Canada and the United States.

The hightide-fold folder, designed and printed by the Ontario Intelligencer, was compiled by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with resort owners in Belleville and Hastings County.

The folder, illustrated by eight photographs of local recreational facilities and two maps, includes a brief history of Belleville, customs regulations governing exemptions for American tourists, distances from Belleville to various centres in Ontario, and to other cities in Canada and the United States, plus pertinent statistics about Belleville and hints on where to stay in Hastings County.

One of the maps shows Belleville's location in relation to other centres in southern Ontario and in the northern United States. The second map is a detailed map of Hastings County with provincial highways heavily outlined.

The folder, part of the city and county's tourist promotion program, is an up-to-date, comprehensive, yet compact guide, to the wonderful wonderland in the Highlands of Hastings.

Check your oil, Sir?

Everytime you "fill'er up" a good garage attendant will remind you a motor runs on its lubricant more than on its wheels. When the book is up, more than one hot he'll say that everything's O.K. But when he does suggest a quart of oil, you are pleased he looked—before too late.

It's the same when you take a look with x-ray. Most people are 100% O.K. But when TB is discovered—before too late—the cure is easily and speedily accomplished. Your body health is so much more important than your car!

Prince Edward-Belleville Club Visits Home For Blind

In response to an invitation from Mr. P. I. Timmins, field secretary of the Quinte-St. Lawrence Hall, School for the Blind in Kingston, the regular May meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville club was withdrawn and a planned trip by chartered bus was enjoyed.

Leaving the YMCA at 1.00 p.m. with bright skies overhead, and the glamorous glory of rolling green pastures interspersed with varying shades of blossom and foliage, the members of the club enjoyed the uplift which comes with contact with the great-out-of-doors, especially in the beautiful Quinte district.

After leaving Napanee, the itinerary wound into the scenic highway of No. 33, along which the clear, high waters of Lake Ontario lap the rugged rocky shores. Through Bath, which for many years, has been the serene quiet "mecca" for tourists seeking a restful spot but which now is quickly developing into a busy industrial suburb with steam shovel and construction companies paving the way for huge industrial and housing developments, and the quiet farm life slowly passing into oblivion.

QUINTE-ST. LAWRENCE HALL

Quinte-St. Lawrence Hall, situated in the west end of Kingston, in a quiet, residential section, the grounds beautifully landscaped, is built of modern, substantial material, with every detail of modern design and a view to beauty and lasting service.

Entering the hall, which was made attractive with indoor wide-bow-boxes of bloom and greenery, the club was welcomed by Mr. Timmins, the matron and his assistant, Mr. Bob Taddon, formerly of Belleville.

Before being seated in the assembly hall, the club formed a "Friendship Circle" and sang "Blest Be the Tie that Binds our Hearts in Christian Love."

In the address by Mr. Timmins, it was clearly demonstrated that the hall was not only a home for the blind, but a school in which inmates could become educated in various trades, and professions and later, become self-supporting, while leading happy and contented lives.

He explained the later developments of the Braille system in which books and magazines, such as the "Readers' Digest", are readable.

In the recreation room was a Hammond electric organ, owned by Mr. Bronskill of Picton, an inmate; also a piano, which several use, and other musical instruments.

The latest gifts are "Book-Talkies" on which chosen literature is enjoyed as records are played.

CONDUCTED TOUR

The club was then divided into groups and conducted by several, who, blind themselves, described the rooms, the work shop, the kitchen and the beautiful dining hall, every detail of which was modern and sanitary to the last word.

Before leaving, the club met again in the assembly hall and were served with afternoon tea, by the recently formed auxiliary of Kingston ladies, who graciously assisted in the social needs of the institution.

The president, Mrs. Wannamaker, extended thanks, and appreciation was also expressed by Mrs Lent, Mrs. Weese and Mrs. S. Anderson, who, on leaving felt that the furnishing of the room by the club was an effort well worth while.

The success of the trip was largely due to the careful planning of Mrs. W. Baird, and the secretary, Miss P. Hollamell, and to the careful driver, Mr. Percy Lewington.

Emergency Aid Funds Set Up For Fire Victims

HALIFAX (CP) — Fire-ravaged communities along Nova Scotia's south shore are to get emergency aid funds Wednesday while lands and forest officials ordered the start of mopping-up operations in charred timberlands.

The drive to assist 23 burned-out families in the Bridgewater-Liverpool area, hardest hit by four days of rampaging forest fires, was opened with a $10,000 contribution by the Bowater county municipal council.

Damage is estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Federal Works Minister Winters is expected to tour the burned spruce and fir woodlands and meet with relief committee chairmen Friday.

G. W. J. Creighton, deputy minister of lands and forests, said that at present he had no comment to make on rumors that some of the scattered blazes were deliberately set and added "we are looking into the matter but that's all."

All Nova Scotia forests remain closed but officials said they could be reopened if dampened by a fourth shore set up emergency provincial government continues to feel the fire areas.

IS THIS A SAFE METHOD?

At a recent convention of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, held at Kingston, a protest was voiced against the cluttering up of high school classrooms with students who either cannot or will not learn.

A suggested remedy is weeding out such students from our schools.

This is a suggestion which is being heard with increasing frequency.

A strong case can be made out for such a reply.

There are, however, some circumstances surrounding the growing support for such a policy which should suggest caution.

Surely this situation is not a new one? Most of us can remember schoolmates who either could not or would not learn. Most of us can remember that the main efforts of parents and teachers were expended on keeping them coming to school, rather than in persuading them to leave.

Why the different outlook today? In part it may be the result of recognition, perhaps belated, that school does little for them and they little for the school. But there is a suspicious timing about the present outcry. It comes at a time when the number of school pupils is large and the accommodation and school facilities inadequate. Is there any connection between these two facts? Of course there is. The Windsor Star, in supporting the suggestion of the Associated High School Boards convention that "this deadwood" be removed from the student body says that the problem "is common to all schools, but is more keenly felt where classes are large and classroom space at a premium."

Now it is one thing to weed out sluggards and dullwitted students because their removal is the only way to make room for those eager to learn and capable of reaping the maximum benefit from instruction. But it is another thing to follow this course because we are overcautious in pushing for the erection of additional schools and the training of additional teachers.

Almost any person whose school days lie some years behind him will testify that some students who appeared bright or who worked hard have never amounted to anything, while others who seemed dull, or who loafed through school, have gone on to make brilliant records for themselves. Is it not conceivable that the determination of how a student is learning as distinct from memorizing, or to what use he will put this knowledge.

"If dunces and incorrigibles are not to be expelled, they certainly should be segregated," suggests the Windsor Star. "The distractions and annoyance they create are especially damaging to those students who work hard but do not shine readily. No-efficient student should be in a position where he might lose a year just because some roughnecks are being sheltered in his classroom."

But surely the expulsion of pupils which would threaten the progress of a class would be nothing new. Schools have always had this power. The present demand for the removal of "deadwood," if it means anything at all, means much more than this. It means giving some person or persons the power to decide whether "the taxpayer is getting his money's worth" by paying for the education of his boy or that of his neighbor.

Given the powers of prophecy and complete incorruptibility, such a system might save taxpayers thousands of dollars. But if the person or persons exercising this authoritarian control were only human, many injustices would inevitably result. The incompetent teacher who cannot maintain discipline would find a ready method of weeding out the troublesome sheep from his or her class. the school trustee's son or daughter might enjoy privileged status when it came to loafing or being dull-witted. All too often the unorthodox and the high-spirited might be banished.

COMMUNITY PLANNING WEEK

Every week is another week.

Next week is Community Planning week—probably among other things.

The Week is sponsored by the Community Planning Association of Canada, formed eight years ago to foster public interest and participation in community planning in Canada.

In recent years, in Ontario at least, "community planning" has become a familiar phrase. Looking at the results, one is not always so sure that as much progress has been made in fact as on paper.

The answer, however, this is one field where the results of planning will not be evident until some period of time has elapsed.

It is as impossible to please everybody when planning a community as it is to obtain similar results in any other project.

What is necessary is to please most of the people, most of the time and all of the people, at least many times, or so-later, this general approval will not have turned into universal wonderment at how anybody could have been so stupid as to clutter up a beautiful waterfront with factories, or to crowd homes around existing industrial plants, or to leave no space for playgrounds, or to set aside park space in an area which should obviously have been utilized for stores.

To achieve this demands a little foresight—a little planning.

We shall probably never learn how well we are planning today until it is much too late to do anything about it if the planning is wrong—and, alas, too late to give credit where credit is due if events prove today's planners gifted with a prophetic insight into future developments.

Many Uses For Vaseline

(Manchester Guardian)

The news that soaring demands for baby-rearing will check the cost are because this commodity is highly esteemed by some natives as a sandwich-spread or as a condiment is not the first discovery of its kind in the realm of consumer research.

When Robert Chesebrough visited the Pennsylvania oilfields in 1859, and, from the troublesome tool was which combined the pumps, developed a translucent jelly which he marketed as "Vaseline" he had in mind only its healing powers. The present-day sales organization, however, is constantly discovering odd ways in which customers are using the product. In jungle regions small jars of the jelly have served as local currency, as it does not turn rancid under tropical heat; and long ago it was in use and as a substitute for butter. Chesebrough himself ate a spoonful every day and lived to the age of 96. Film stars have found it ideal for simulating tear-drops, while blind people employ it to keep their finger-tips soft for reading Braille.

As for the report that West Africa and Greenland are using it as bait: I with carbolic soap, sportsmen have found that a blob of Vaseline is a winner for taking rainbow trout.

Road Crashes Modern Engines

(Edmonton Journal)

It is a curious reflection on modern society that man, within the last few years, has developed a race of old, should bring upon himself another, largely through his own folly and carelessness. We are referring to traffic accidents, so graphically pictured by Dr. Wilder Penfield, of the Montreal Neurological Institute, at a recent international conference in Montreal. The purpose of the conference was to discuss the growing medical factors have on traffic accidents.

The folly and selfishness bulk large in this plague of the mechanical age. Not externally apparent the edged They are most often exemplified in the reckless driving drivers. At the conference, Dr. G. F. Strong, president of the Canadian Medical Association, declared "it is probably true that intoxication is a factor in as many as eighty per cent of all traffic accidents in Canada." This is not far from the truth, for about 80 per cent of Canada's traffic accidents might have been avoided if drivers had not been foolish enough or selfish enough to drive when they were somehow different from the ordinary mortal and could take the responsibility for their folly.

Figures convey even more startling evidence of this conceit; on the highways in this country last year 3,000 persons were killed and 30,000 injured. "The traffic accident," Dr. Penfield told the conference, "has come to be considered the third deadliest killer. It is surpassed only by tuberculosis and cancer by heart disease and cancer."

The human element, fatality of fate, drivers make up only 6.4 per cent of the enormous number of traffic fatalities. But perhaps being condemned to live with the memory of having killed one's fellow many through self-indulgence would be a greater punishment than death.

Tackling the accident problem on an individual responsibility and privilege and it is only through conscientious effort by each individual driver that the traffic toll appears likely to be greatly reduced.

Freight Shed Holds Lesson

(Montreal Financial Times)

Canada's export trade was nicely illustrated one day this week in the cases of the biggest freight sheds of Canada's biggest port, Montreal, the following casual shipments:

There were piles of electrically-dried manufactured oat of it, from Manitoba. Next there came wooden barrels containing nickel-copper from Sudbury. Further on there were huge piles of logs from a Canadian mill, neatly stacked in 140 lb. bags.

Toward the end of the shed there was finally sawn lumber in all shapes and sizes from Eastern lumber yards, as well as from those in other parts of the country.

Interspersed with these traditional trade goods were the round plywood boxes of cheese, a large and impressive quantities, and over it all, lay the dust of wheat being loaded.

There was not, aside from the cheese, a manufactured or fully processed article in the lot. Canada's export trade, the world's manufacturing industry was not represented by as much as a wooden pin, a gasoline engine, a set of tools, an automobile or what have you.

The evidence of trade goods moving out in the raw state, of course, but they were the same trade goods that moved out half a century ago. This is the second revolution which Canada has undergone since the war. The first, and particularly since that of the second war, is not represented in export trade.

This sort of item was stacked deeply in the loading docks, everything from ball bearings to automobiles.

A short three minute walk these days may be sufficient to show the extent to which this is see, and not merely read press reports, of the change in the Canadian economy; the problem of a land of primary producers who could only ship their raw materials and buy them at high cost, highly manufactured, and still come out with a profit on top.

Punishment Does Not Cure

(Montreal Gazette)

A Montreal narcotics addict appeared recently in court charged with illegal possession of a hypodermic needle loaded with morphine. Before sentencing him, the judge asked the prisoner if he would read his police record; the prisoner said no. It wasn't necessary.

Behind the popularity of our cross-word puzzles is that urge to know and learn. It is almost impossible to read any worthwhile book that does not send some one to look up a word.

All this, the arrests, the charges, the conviction, the sentence are all perfectly legal. But the man's record leaves some doubt about whether the sentence addition should be considered solely a legal matter. The proven need of society definitely; that terms in penitentiary do not cure drug addicts.

And narcotics addiction is not only human destruction in itself; the commission of crime to buy support and operation of the underworld. Society is largely financed by the addict's craving; the high cort of narcotics is far beyond the reach of anyone but a real earning power. The addict becomes a criminal in order to finance his purchases.

The narcotics addict is not the only offender who seems to gain nothing from penal servitude. The automobile accident, for instance, makes no progress, either. Studying the causes of motor accidents reveals that a large number of the guilty had previous convictions for the same offence, or in a nature which pointed definitely with their former outbursts of violence. In some cases, the offenders had even pleaded with police to be imprisoned before they did something awful."

In most superstitious eras, disease and insanity were sometimes thought to be signs of genius, as guilt in themselves. Some of our legal attitude still reflect this ancient prejudice.

Personal Health Service

Throat Specialist Versus Tonsilitomy

Tonsilitomy means "clipping" the tonsils, slicing off the obstructing portion, by means of the guillotine or tonsilitome, an instrument with a ring-shaped guarded blade which one places around the projecting portion of tonsil and then, with trigger pull, instantaneously completes the operation—pitt!!

This was the operation of choice in horse and buggy days. Indeed, in the standard textbooks on throat diseases it was the only tonsil operation mentioned—although one authority, Kyle, 3rd ed., 1904, did say:

"If the tonsil is enormously enlarged, boggy, and with large crypts in which there is a tendency to accumulation, associated with the condition known as caseous tonsilitis, the tonsil should be removed (tonsilectomy) by means of the tonsilitome shown . . ."

Tonsilitomy is a minor operation, involving no greater risk than extracting a tooth. It gives as good results today as it did when tonsilitomy was the only method.

Although I haven't encountered them, I do not doubt that there are throat specialists who practice the extraction of a tooth and from tonsilectomy. I say this because I am extremely rare.

Today I received another newspaper item extracts as readers send me from here, there, and everywhere—an item headed "3-Year-Old Is Dead After Tonsilectomy" —the child died suddenly in hospital, after a tonsil and adenoid operation."

Was that major operation really necessary?

The third argument of a throat specialist in defense of tonsilectomy (his own words)—we printed the first, second, and fifth here on the other day, is this:

3. Partial removal of surface tonsil tissue is frequently followed by the inclusion of the remaining tonsil tissue in a bed of scar tissue, which, preventing surface drainage, may cause more local infection and systemic absorption than if no operation had been performed. This is a fine hypothetical objection to tonsilitomy, but in actual practice I personally have found virtually no evidence to sustain the idea.

The main assumption that the tragic complication of cardiac arrest is attributable to tonsilectomy seems to me unjustified. Cardiac arrest is known to follow a wide range of other surgical operations. . . It has happened when administration of an anesthetic alone, before any surgical procedure had been undertaken.

That is true. However, when the heart is beating (cardiac arrest) in the course of or immediately after a tonsilectomy the doctor who advised or performed the operation, it seems to me, will have to himself ten thousand times!

Was the major operation really necessary?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ANSWERS

We are continually learning something and getting an answer to much on which we had done no more than grope in the past. There is hardly possible to read a book, talk with an intelligent friend or listen to a lecture without learning something that an answer to something we didn't know before.

We early learn how full of answers Nature is! Inventors have consulted her and she has given answers that have made possible an investment, a machine or a discovery. Much of the fun of life lies in its search for answers. The earliest impulse of the child is to learn "why?" As a matter of fact, that waiting for answers is the secret of us. We want to know the answers!

Behind the popularity of our cross-word puzzles is that urge to know and learn. It is almost impossible to read any worthwhile book that does not send some one to look up a word.

All this, the arrests, the charges, the conviction, the sentence are all perfectly legal. But the man's record leaves some doubt about whether the sentence addition should be considered solely a legal matter. The proven need of society definitely; that terms in penitentiary do not cure drug addicts.

And narcotics addiction is not only human destruction in itself; the commission of crime to buy support and operation of the underworld. Society is largely financed by the addict's craving; the high cort of narcotics is far beyond the reach of anyone but a real earning power. The addict becomes a criminal in order to finance his purchases.

The narcotics addict is not the only offender who seems to gain nothing from penal servitude. The automobile accident, for instance, makes no progress, either. Studying the causes of motor accidents reveals that a large number of the guilty had previous convictions for the same offence, or in a nature which pointed definitely with their former outbursts of violence. In some cases, the offenders had even pleaded with police to be imprisoned before they did something awful."

In most superstitious eras, disease and insanity were sometimes thought to be signs of genius, as guilt in themselves. Some of our legal attitude still reflect this ancient prejudice.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The dictionary, which is frequently maladdressed as a down-right prejudiced, says that sardine is the common pilchard, "often preserved in oil as a table delicacy." Only an expatriate is a herring, an infant herring, and then he be mistook for a sprat. For the herring is the most important food fish in the whole north, east and west, dried, smoked, pickled and fresh. No doubt the imported sardines from Spain, France, Spain, Portugal, could be found in the tins of minnow, sprat or pilchard. But the Canadian sardine is a baby herring, and there is no finer fish-eating in the world. The Canadian government scooped up 165,563 barrels of herring in the recorded year, 1937, with the market value of $3,244,000

My mother, thirty years ago, would not have Canadian sardines in the house. Nothing but the imported article was considered stylish. Being myself one of those wanderers who will follow the smell of frying fish, been as a beagle, around a whole city block, I never see a fresh fish on a dish, a salted a fish.

Gnarleder Than Rival

(Indian Head News)

It looks as though we shall have to cross presses or fire an impression with the old Mocassin Spectator, for that sheet, doubtless to gain a dubious notoriety for its Jubilee year, has been laying claims to being the "oldest paper in Saskatchewan," and in Saskatchewan.

Let us examine the facts: according to the story, the Moosomin Spectator celebrated its 70th anniversary last October, which would give it birth in 1884. During the course of years, it changed its name and ownership several times, and when the Riel Rebellion broke, the one-year-old infant became a daily in order to keep up with the times. Now this is all well and good and we acknowledge that the Spectator has been publishing for all of 70 years and six months.

Let us now examine The News of Indian Head to see if its horniness is anything of this order. According to quite authentic proof which we have in this office, our antecedents in the east stretch back not only to October of 1884, but to the 9th of that October, to be precise. The name changed only once, from the Vidette to The News, and we had one change of plant location, a not unseemly promotion in the days of marauding Indian and buffalo.

This, we feel, gives us a venerability quite on a par with the Spectator of Moosomin and if they cannot come up with a date as exact and genuine as the 9th of October A.D. 1884, or earlier, we shall have to fling the at it in case if they persist, and at dawn too. We are not going to be displaced by any infant.

A sidelight is that the Saskatchewan Herald began publication as an offshoot of the Moosomin Spectator or The Indian Head News as the aged and old man of provincial weekly papers. We feel fairly sure we are older. And gnarleder.

Boats Can Be Death Trap

(Halifax News-Chronicle)

There is only one way to regard water when it is being used as means of getting from one place to another and that is as an enemy, an implacable enemy. It is always ready to strike at and claim life the moment there is carelessness. If water is to be safe, then its toll will be lessened, fewer homes will be stricken with sorrow.

In addition to their inland waterways, these islands provide many harbors that open their doors; and for this reason their people should be more skilled and experienced in the handling of boats than many other Canadians, and their boats themselves should be of better quality than those in many other parts of the country.

But, far too often one comes across boats little short of tubs and ponds, waterlogged, leaky and treacherous.

To venture out in such boats is to invite disaster and tragedy.

Indeed, there ought to be said for measures to place such craft beyond the reach of all. Many of them are no better than death-traps.

Not Table Fare

(Windsor Star)

Two Quebec farmers have been awarded $900 because their cabbage seed grew turnips. Sometimes, it seems, even turnips refuse to even further, and turnip seed grows knotty pine.

In Battleford in 1878 but died some years after. He owned the Moosomin Spectator or The Indian Head News as the aged and old man of provincial weekly papers. We feel fairly sure we are older. And gnarleder.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE IS LARGELY ARRANGED

We have often heard that opportunity knocks once. A good many young people in West-Virginia was scheduled to get an inoculation against the anti-polio germ on the last spring. But he missed the bus to the clinic, and just a few days weeks ago he became ill with polio. The last report about him, however, was that he was out of isolation and was making satisfactory progress.

Too bad it had to be a little second grader, for most of us with all of our years behind ourselves are missing opportunities all the time. And it is a strange thing that the great opportunities show up amid apparently insignificant circumstances. Just as a few hundred feet of land constitute the great divide across the United States east and west on the North American continent, so insignificant events and decisions determine the lasting influence our whole lives. We look back and look for over our lives and find plenty of instances in which this was true.

So much of our lives is arranged for us. We don't like to face that fact but it is true nevertheless. This is not a doctrine of hopelessness, but of hope. It is a doctrine of joy and trust; for God arranges the circumstances of life, and all things work together for good if we obey and follow and are guided by certain unyielding moral principles.

In Simple, Moving Ceremony 16 Nurses Receive Diplomas, Pins in Graduating Exercises

Sixteen nurses graduated from the School of Nursing of the Belleville General Hospital, Wednesday evening in simple, but moving ceremony in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium with 500 proud parents and friends in attendance.

Graduates, lauded by the hospital's Board of Governors, representatives of the medical staff, the graduate nurses' association and the faculty of the School of Nursing, received their diplomas and registered nurse's pin with misgivings "for and sadness at having formally accepted the responsibilities of their profession and took official leave of their training school.

The deeply spiritual note struck by many of the speakers in their congratulations to graduates was echoed in the singing of "Holy City" and "The Lord's Prayer" by the 68-voice nurses' choir under the direction of Alfred Evans.

Guest speaker was Dr. W. Douglas Piercey, executive director of the Canadian Hospital Association. Valedictorian was Doreen Elizabeth Dorland of Wooler.

Presentation of pins and diplomas was made by Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, assisted by Miss M. L. Peart, director of the School of Nursing.

Presentation of prizes for proficiency were made by representatives of the Board of Governors, the medical staff and the school of nursing.

A special award, presented for the first time in the history of the hospital, was made to Miss Clara Jane Hannah, of Brownsville, in recognition of her courage, devotion, and perseverance in completing her three-year course of study" after suffering an accident that disabled her for many months during training. The award was made on behalf of the hospital by administrator Kenneth Box.

FILE ONTO STAGE

Graduates, wearing white uniforms and carrying bouquets of red roses, filed onto the auditorium stage to processional music played by Clifford Templer on the school organ.

Following the singing of "The Queen," and an invocation by Rev. S. E. Larman of Holloway Street United Church, J. N. Yanover, chairman of the hospital's Board of Governors, said, "It is a pleasure to honor another graduating class.

"We are proud of our nurses," said Mr. Yanover, "and our nurses can be proud that they have been trained at the hands of those qualified for the task."

"This graduating class has been with us in an historic time," said Mr. Yanover, referring to the hospital's expansion program.

"It is a pleasure to extend to you my sincere congratulations and the congratulations of the Board. We wish you well. Our thoughts go with you and we hope that your conduct will always be a credit to yourselves, the Belleville General Hospital and to your great profession."

Mr. Yanover expressed the appreciation of the hospital's governors to Miss Peart, director of nursing, and to her assistants, for their work in training the graduates.

His Worship Mayor John Both extended greetings and congratulations to graduates from the council and the citizens as a whole.

"It is a pleasure to greet such a fine, outstanding class of girls," said His Worship. "I hope you will accomplish as much as Florence Nightingale did in the past."

In wishing graduates well in their work Mayor Both said, "what is important is not the money you get but the satisfaction you get from serving others."

PROUD OF GRADUATES

Dr. W. Beattie, president of the medical staff, told graduates that "we are proud of you and proud to have you as graduates of our hospital."

He told graduates that while they had seem many new therapeutic agents during training, he wished to emphasize the "therapeutic value of a conscientious and efficient nurse."

He urged nurses to remember that "the patient is a person capable of fears, apprehensions and curiosity," and reminded them that "the fulfillment of treatment is up to the nurse."

"Nothing is so contagious as a smile," he said. "I hope you always have the enthusiasm of a profile, the temerity of a junior, the realization of an intermediate, and the understanding of a senior.

"My wish for you is happiness forever and the same sense of satisfaction and achievement you are experiencing tonight."

Miss M. Kidd, chairman of Chapter A, District No. 6, of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, brought greetings and congratulations of the association.

Miss M. L. Peart, director of the School of Nursing, presented the annual report of the School of Nursing.

Mr. James H. Sprachett, Warden of the County of Hastings, extended best wishes of county residents to the graduating class and introduced the guest speaker, Dr. W. Douglas Piercey.

Dr. Piercey prefaced his remarks to graduates by extending to them greetings from the 830 general hospitals which make up the general hospital family of Canada.

"In a very special way this is your day. It is a day of gladness, a day of achievement, a day of satisfaction and happiness. I would like tonight to talk to you first as nurses, now entering your profession, secondly as individuals, and thirdly as Canadians."

Dr. Piercey told graduates that the foundations of their future success were laid by home, school and church, and that the future would depend upon the welding of knowledge, skill and personality into character.

"Only you, as individuals, know exactly how much this first phase has cost you in terms of effort made and service rendered. Only you know how high the level of your ideals is placed."

"Do not let your nursing become mechanical," he said. "Remember that understanding and sympathy are needed. Never forget each patient is an individual, that each patient is different and that each patient looks to you for help and that often the greatest help you can give may be by a kind word."

"Speaking to you as individuals, I would like to say that it is not sufficient to day to be a good nurse because you are a part of society and society not only expects that you will be an expert in your own field but it also has a right to expect that you will be a well-rounded personality," said Dr. Piercey.

"Therefore to be successful one has to keep abreast of current events and to take part in community work."

"I am sure one of the lessons you have learned, while a student nurse is that there is no royal road to anything—one thing at a time and things in succession is the way we develop."

"In speaking to you as young Canadians I would like to say that you have a date with destiny. Today there is a spirit abroad in the world, which threatens not only our home and our way of life but our very existence as a nation. It is important that we realize it is fundamentally a battle of ideas and ideals."

NEED INDIVIDUALISTS

He told graduates that Canada needs individuals "who have a strong sense of responsibility, who are well read and who have learned to sift the evidence presented, realize that everything that they hear and read is not necessarily true."

"Our nation is derived from two main nationalities and cultures and thus has a splendid opportunity to show the world adventures in citizenship. How can we hope to understand the point of view of other nations, other peoples, other races, if we cannot, and indeed often do not, attempt to understand those other Canadians in our midst."

"Canada needs heads that can think wisely and hearts that can feel warmly," he said.

In speaking of tolerance, broad-mindedness and democracy, Dr. Piercey said, "there has been much loose thinking on what is implied in the term democracy."

"To us[illegible] Canadians I am sure when we talk of preserving our democratic way of life, we mean preserving the Christian institutions in our midst, our Christian way of life and our freedom as individuals."

"Yours is a great privilege to serve humanity in many ways," said Dr. Piercey. "That privilege entails also the acceptance of responsibility to your patient, to your profession and to yourself." "It is my earnest wish that the buoyance and happiness that is yours today will remain with you throughout all your future."

Miss Doreen Dorland, valedictorian, in accepting the honor extended to speak on behalf of the graduates of 1955" said that the class had known "work and play and moments of gladness and despair."

She reviewed briefly the three year training course in the Belleville General Hospital and at the affiliated hospitals in Kingston and in Montreal.

"We have accomplished what we set out to achieve but we are sad at leaving familiar surroundings," she said.

AWARE OF RESPONSIBILITY

"The true meaning of nursing was vague three years ago, but the desire was there. We, as graduates, are aware of our responsibility and deeply appreciative of the efforts of those who have made contributions to our training," she said.

"We owe more to our parents than words can express. We hope we live up to their expectations."

She thanked instructors of the School of Nursing for their kindness and their efforts on behalf of graduates.

"We will wear our pins and the black bands in our caps proudly, knowing we have accomplished something tremendously worthwhile. To my classmates, good luck wherever you go in whatever you do."

The gold medal for general proficiency in the nursing course was presented to Miss Gwendolyn Jean Hart, of Carrying Place, by Mrs. W. C. Mikel, a member of the hospital's Board of Governors.

The silver medal for general proficiency, awarded by the medical staff, was presented to Miss Donna Bateman of Springbrook, by Dr. W. Beattie, president of the medical staff.

PRIZES AWARDED

Prizes for highest standing in medical, operating room and obstetrical nursing, awarded by the medical staff and presented by Dr. R. S. Gibson, were won by Miss Shirley McKeown of Stirling; Miss Barbara Smale of Belleville, and Miss Catherine Brown of Brighton, respectively.

The Head Nurse award, "to the nurse who has made outstanding progress during her nursing course" was presented to Miss Joan Campbell of Cobourg by Miss Mary Byers, nursing supervisor.

The Canadian Nurse award "to the nurse who has indicated the greatest promise of professional development during her nursing course" given by the Canadian Nurse Journal, was presented to Miss Nancy Allison of Dorland, Ontario, by Miss Madge Kidd, science instructor.

Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, presented each member of the graduating class with a special gift from the auxiliary.

Following graduation exercises a reception was held for the graduates, their parents and friends, by the Board of Governors, at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue.

It also was Blackwell's second storm of the day. A 70-mile-an-hour wind overturned trailers, shattered store windows, tore down wires and uprooted trees in this same area before noon. At the same time a twister damaged homes and buildings at Braman, 10 miles to the north and a bolt of lightning killed an oil worker east of Blackwell. A high school boy was unconscious when he came in contact with a high-voltage wire knocked to the ground by lightning.

At this was the forerunner of the twisters spawned by a squall line originating in the Texas Panhandle.

Five persons were injured when a tornado struck a ranch 20 miles northeast of Shamrock, Tex., and blew away a number of buildings.

Residents of Seminole, 40 miles to the northeast of Sweetwater, Okla., near the Texas border, said Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tidwell and critically injuring their 10-year-old son.

In rapid succession, tornadoes then ripped into several other communities, doing extensive damage. Residents of those western Oklahoma towns, warned of the possibility of such storms and wary from past experience, reached their cellars in time to escape death or injury.

Weddings

WALSH—YENTON

St. Charles church, Read, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, May 7, at 10 a.m., when Audrey Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Fenton of Port Perry, Ontario, became the bride of Joseph David son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh of Marysville, Ontario. Nuptial Mass was said by the Rev. T. E. Scioland, attended by Masters Leo and Timmy Enright, who were altar boys.

The wedding music was played by Mr. William Hanley of Read, who sang "Ave Maria", "This is the Month of Our Mother", and "The Wedding Hymn".

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white snapdragons and Shasta daisies.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, in a charming floor length gown of Chantilly lace over nylon net, with lace bodice and a sequin trimmed lace, Juliet cap, holding sheathlike sleeves pointed over the wrist, and a Peter Pan collar. A small lace Juliet cap held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses and white stephanotis.

The bride was attended by Miss Beatrice Walsh, sister of the bridegroom, wearing a floor length gown of mauve nylon taffeta, with fitted bodice and net jacket and with a matching headdress and mitts. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow baby 'mums centred with pink roses.

Also attending the bride were, Misses Helen and Teresa Walsh, as bridesmaids, gowned in blue and green nylon tulle gowns. Both were matching headdresses and mitts, and carried bouquets of white and yellow 'mums, centred with red roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Thomas Calnan of Read, as best man and witnesses were, Mr. Basil Hanley of Read and Mr. Edmund Walsh of Belleville. The ushers were, Mr. Kenneth Eschoe of Read, and Mr. Walter Markaszewsky of Marysville.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a rhinestone set, and to his attendants matching ties.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was gold tie pin and cuff links and to her attendants gold compacts.

Following the wedding, the reception was held at the Club Cadars in Belleville, and then to the home of the bridegroom's parents.

After the reception, the happy couple left by train to points west, and upon their return they will reside in Read, Ontario.

Guests were present from Port Perry, Belleville, Napanee, Marysville, Read, Roblin, and Tweed.

C.W. League Holds Regional Meeting

The regional meeting for Group 3 of the Catholic Women's League of the Archdiocese of Kingston, was held in Deseronto, on Sunday, with a large number present.

The meeting opened with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at St. Vincent de Paul church, Deseronto, which was given by Rt. Rev. Monsigner Byrne, who is the spiritual director for this Archdiocese.

The members proceeded to the parish hall on Green street, where the meeting continued.

Mrs. Gregory Gordon, who was the hostess-president as well as the regional convener, welcomed the members to the meeting. Father Martin offered his greeting on behalf of the Deseronto subdivision, and also introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Father Way, who is the Catholic chaplain at the Kingston penitentiary. He spoke on the Apostolate of the Good Thief and his address was most interesting.

Mrs. Jack Edwards, Jr., gave a beautiful rendition of "Ave Maria" and "The Bonny Bonny Banks of Loch Lomond". She was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. W. Cochrane.

The roll of subdivisions in this group namely, Camden, Marysville, Read, Enterprise, Erinsville, Napanee, and Deseronto, showed a good attendance from each subdivision.

Mrs. James Black of Marmora, gave a recitation entitled "Ireland's Queen."

The members of the executive were asked to address the meeting and a lot of valuable information was received from these speakers especially regarding preparing of reports.

Master Bernard Bennett and Miss Barbara Thervien sang a duet.

Monsignor Byrne was asked to address the meeting and gave a brief and instructive talk. He was pleased with the way these regional meetings were being received.

Mrs. Charles Brennan, who is a charter member of the Deseronto subdivision and has served on all levels from parish council to national executive, moved a vote of appreciation to the speakers and to all who had in any way contributed to the success of the meeting.

Holy Rosary Catholic W.L. Holds Attractive Lilac Tea

Like the touch of a fairy's wand was the magic change from the bleakness of a wet afternoon into a literal garden of lilacs with all the lovely tints of mauve and purple, and softly glowing lights. Such was Holy Rosary hall yesterday afternoon with its lilac archway and hedge of lilacs which separated the entrance from the tea room for the "Lilac Tea" sponsored by the Catholic Women's League.

Everywhere the eye turned lilacs in all their enticing fragrance graced every nook and corner, and centred the tiny, grey guest tables with their white cloths, little crystal containers of pink and white after dinner mints, and plate of dainty sandwiches.

Welcoming the guests was the receptionist, Mrs. Bradden, the convener and co-conveners were: Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. A. Eves, while graciously escorting to the tea room was the hostess, Mrs. H. Brown.

LOVELY AS A DREAM

The tea table, which was just beyond the lilac archway, was as lovely as a dream with its white, linen cutwork and attractive arrangement of sparkling pink and purple lilacs interspersed with golden tulips — the bright note which mingled in the archway, and accented the candy table and the tast of the homecooking. Tall, mauve and yellow candles in tricranched candelabra, flickered a cheerful welcome; the silver services at either end, and the little serviettes completed the delightful picture.

Those who poured during the afternoon included: Mrs. L. Lafond, Mrs. K. Bashall, Mrs. S. Haley, Mrs. M. Walsh, Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. M. Hogan.

Assisting in the kitchen as convener was Mrs. M. Waller, with her helpers, Mrs. Kelders, and Mrs. B. Fox; Mrs. J. O'Grady and Mrs. V. O'Neil; Mrs. V. Baker and Mrs. L. Meeman. Mrs. F. Bedard made tea.

SERVING

Those who served included: Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. J. Eilard, Mrs. J. Colligan, Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. J. Snider, Mrs. Tugnett, Mrs. R. Raizan and Mrs. L. Jarrell.

There were also four other attractions: the home cooking table with its lilac centre, garlands of mauve and yellow, and display of exceptional fine cooking which included cream, cherry pumpkin and blueberry pies; cakes, both white and chocolate with fancy toppings; coconaut tarts, golden gems, tea biscuits, date loaves, pinkspoted cup-cakes, deviled eggs, potato and egg salad, mustard pickles and relishes.

Presiding over these tempting confections were Mrs. L. Donovan, Mrs. B. Thervien and Mrs. R. Lovelace.

The candy table was also adorned with ropes of entwined mauve and yellow, and was in charge of Mrs. E. Schrieder, Mrs. J. Hogan and Mrs. F. Daley. Displayed here were little cups of sponge taffy, chocolate fudge, maple creams, pink coconaut clusters and others, which were also in boxes, nicely assorted, and most tempting to see.

DRAWS

The two draws were those of the "complete dinner," which included a stuffed large-sized chicken, peas, beets, carrots, onions and potatoes, the very eight pieces of which made one hungry. Mrs. M. Walsh was in charge of this, which would go to the holder of the lucky ticket, who proved to be Mrs. J. McHugh, Olive St.; and the pink-iced angel cake, centred by a tiny spray of double, white lilacs, and decorated with white doves. Mrs. J. McHugh was the convener of this, and Mrs. Hales, Olive Street, the lucky winner.

A most attractive and charming tea, getting better and better each succeeding year.

Kiwanis Ladies' Aux. Enjoys Travelogue

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary held its monthly meeting recently. Mrs. Alex. Cooper welcomed the members and guests at the door. The president, Mrs. W. Cook, opened the meeting and called on Mrs. H. Trespanier and Mrs. A. Duffy for the reports of secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Mrs. E. Pinkle read the report of the Welfare Committee, noting the amount of food and clothing which had been distributed to needy families. Mrs. W. Slade reminded everyone of the dance held on May 4, and expressed thanks to all for their co-operation.

Mrs. L. Foxard mentioned the annual Kiwanis Tag Days, May 6 and 7.

Mrs. G. H. Craig called on Mrs. T. S. Franklin to introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. Sharpe of the Albert College staff, who gave a delightful and informative talk on her trip to Europe. The Auxiliary members travelled with her through England, Scotland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France and the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. J. C. R. Punchard thanked Mrs. Sharpe for her address.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. K. Pinder, and her committee.

Bridge Street United Church W.A. Sponsors Charming Tea

Despite leaden skies and sodden streets, a charmingly conversed "Spring Tea" was held yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of Bridge Street United Church under the surpices of the Woman's Association.

Receiving the guests at the door during the afternoon were Mrs. H. Seldon, Mrs. C. Massey and Mrs. A. May, who after a cordial welcome, were later received by the receptionists, Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. E. S. Fairman, president of the Association.

FRAGRANT LILACS

The spacious rooms were beautifully adorned with baskets of tulips and fragrant mauve, white and purple lilacs, and the tea room with its cosy window seat looking out into the sunroom, which was also glowing with more baskets of lilacs and tulips, was most graciously appointed. The tea table was arranged with a snow-white Italian cutwork linen cloth, and centred by a silver holder of rose colored tulips, mauve and white lilacs and sprigs of pale mauve iris. Tall pink candles rising from lace collars in heavy, silver holders, and the gleaming silver services added a delightful touch to a most pleasing picture.

Those who presided included: Mrs. F. S. Deacon and Mrs. H. J. Clarke; Mrs. R. B. Wray and Mrs. J. Marsh; Mrs. H. W. Ackerman and Mrs. J. Wood, while those replenishing were: Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. A. E. Miles, Mrs. H. Morden, Mr. H. C. Nuttall, Mrs. C. E. Meyers, Mrs. H. Mott, Mrs. S. Creelman and Mrs. F. Countryman.

Prinsip, Mrs. H. Fuhs, Mrs. D. Williams, Mrs. J. G. Demeza and Mrs. D. Burr.

The homecooking table was daintily arranged with a centre of lilacs, white spirea and pink syringa, and placed in tempting array were chocolate cakes, cut sprinkled; cocoonut kisses, sugar cookies, taffy tarts, cherry pies, loaf cakes, raisin loaves, Chelsea buns, cocoanut macaroons, Swedish tea biscuits, sweet pickles, and tiny, one-bite cakes with jelly centres, to mention but a few of the alluring confections. In charge of this table were Mrs. R. Denyes and Mrs. C. Hyde as conveners, assisted by Mrs. H. McBurney, Miss Florence Moore, Mrs. R. Grant, Mrs. W. D. Gilbert, Mrs. B. E. Kinnie, Mrs. J. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT'S TO BE DONE WITH A YEAR-OLD PROBLEM CHILD?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

If have a friend who needs help very much.

She is a grand person, but has been one of the lucky ones in life. Her husband drank and ran around all the time for 12 years. Finally she got a separation from him, but gets so little from him to help support the two children that she has been going out to work for six years.

Now comes the bad, thing. Her oldest child, nearly 7, gives her a lot of trouble. For the last year or so she has been almost impossible to live with, and she will not listen to anything her mother says. She practically kills her little sister, scratches her, kicks her and picks on her all the time. She has her mother in such a nervous state that I am afraid she will soon break down and be unable to work. Her mother has been a mother and father and a pal to her two children all this time, but now she does not know where to turn.

Please let her know if she could get some help from a doctor for her girl that could calm her down, or tell her what to do. — M.V.M.

Dear M.W.M.:

I'm sure you realize that, while a child psychiatrist certainly does everything possible for her children, the home background is the girl's early years has probably had much to do with the development of her present behavior problems. From what you say, she is greatly in need of help and should have it before she gets worse.

I think the best thing your friend could do would be to discuss this very serious problem with a family welfare agency. Such an agency would be able to direct her, to, perhaps, a clinic where her daughter's behavior could be analyzed, and guidance given her, or some other place which specializes in the treatment of problem children.

If you will send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, so that I can send you a personal reply, I will be glad to tell you the name and address of the family welfare organization closest to you—plus where your friend lives.

DON'T GET FANCY IDEAS, ABOUT "GOING STEADY"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a 16-year-old high school girl who likes very much a boy who is also in high school. It made me very happy when this boy, whom I had been dating quite regularly, asked me to go steady.

The problem is that while we have been going steady for some time now, this boy acts as though we were still just dating. I want him to tell me that he loves me, but he never does. Is it wrong for me to want this, and am I asking too much of him?

This boy's mother died when he was quite young, and he has trouble at home with his stepmother. Would this have any effect on his feelings and emotions? He is 18, but I am rather old for my age, so I think we make a good couple, but do you think we are wrong for each other?

P.

Dear P.:

Frankly, yes. I do think you are asking too much of this friendship. And, again, frankly, I'm not nearly so sure as you are that you're "rather old for your age," or that you and a young man of 18 is ready to make a "go steady."

Moreover, what's a young man of 18 doing in high school anyway? Shouldn't he have already graduated?

One thing you're right about is that if this boy is unhappy at home, it certainly would have an effect on his moods, and perhaps this general outlook on life. For this reason, he needs a good friend; one who won't upset him further by trying to work on his emotions.

If he wants to date, fine. But don't try to push him into carrying out any fancy ideas you may have about what it means to "go steady." And don't try to push yourself out of your adolescence into adulthood too fast by filling your head with thoughts of being in love. Be content with happy friendships and you'll have lots more fun.

BEAUTY

ROUND SHOULDERS

Teachers of physical education in high schools report that nine out of every ten girls stand and walk with their shoulders thrust forward. This habit rounds the upper back, hollows the chest and in every young girls, causes a wing-like look of the shoulders to jut out from the body. Yet all these girls would give their eye teeth to have perfectly figures.

When round shoulders are not inherited as a family characteristic, or are due to some debilitating disease of childhood, the common cause is shoddy posture.

If this condition is present, properly selected exercises, under the supervision of a trained instructor, will strengthen muscles that have gone slack because they have not been used to support the spinal column properly. It is the erect and extended back bone that makes the figure snappy and vibrant.

Nothing is more irritating to a "Sweet Young Thing" than to have the boy friend tell her to hold her head up and stand up straight. Yet that is just what her mother should have done earlier in the child's life.

Physicians giving medical examinations to children are interested in the small person's stance, the position of her body when standing or walking. They often discover that poor posture is due to some defect in her shoes which are either not comfortable or which do not give proper support.

For the teen-ager who has a sculptor's ideal of beauty—square shoulders forward and her tummy out, the cure may be found in appealing to her family pocketbook. Girls deliberately assume a slouchy pose. Then they snap out of it. One way is to develop greater interest in gym work, to listen to the suggestions of the teacher, to realize that a beautiful figure is as great an asset as a pretty face.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please tell me how to reply to a formal invitation to the graduation exercises at a private school. The invitation is in the third reply. Should I address my reply to the Faculty and the Senior Class or to the school itself?

On the first page of the double-sheet notepaper write:

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Martin accept with pleasure
the kind invitation of
The Faculty and The Senior Class of The Park School to the Graduation Exercises on Friday, the tenth of June at eleven o'clock

If, as is customary, the invitation is worded from the Faculty and the Senior Class, you address the envelope of your reply to them

LONG-POSTPONED BREAD-AND-BUTTER LETTER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Last January I visited some people out of the city. I was very well received by them, people. For no reason whatsoever I neglected to send them a line or send them a gift. My question is: Would it be proper to write them now and should I send them a gift? Would a belated card be proper to send and a gift? What would be an appropriate gift? — P.S.

"Better late than never" is the best of all answers to your question about writing to these kind and hospitable people. And you should write them a real letter of appreciation . . . not merely a "belated card." The most imaginative idea would be for you to choose something which you think, from your visit at this home, would be particularly suitable and welcome.

"WHAT FORM OF NAME SHALL I SIGN?"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When signing your name at any social function, or at a funeral home, and so forth, should you write your formal name ("Mrs. John Allen") or just sign your regular signature? — R.W.

This is an extremely important question . . . and many circumstances demand that we do some quick deciding as to whether we write our formal name or our signature. In general, the rule is that you write (or give) your formal name when the idea is for information or identification; you write your signature when the idea is friendly registration. For example, when at a social function you are asked your name for a names-listing to be published, you give your formal name: Mrs. John Allen. When you are asked to write (or give) your name as a member of a club or other organization, you write or give your formal name: Mrs. John Allen. This formal form of name is for public information.

But when you are asked to sign the memorial booklet at a funeral home, you sign as a friend or acquaintance . . . therefore, your informal name: Roberta Allen, or possibly for more identification, Roberta Stevens Allen; or, if you think really necessary, Roberta Allen and underneath (Mrs. John Allen). Or, for another example, when you sign a Guest Book at a wedding or other occasion, naturally you sign as a friend, and so your informal name: Roberta Allen.

Wedding Reception For Fifty

By Mary Moore

Who ought to know better than me about wedding receptions—unless it's a caterer who is putting them on every day in June!

I've talked about one wedding until I'm ashamed to say any more so will talk about your wedding now— every June brings news of hundreds of them to my desk; I am anticipating that, for I will be away next month and will not be answering your SOS's from May 30th to June 30th.

Here is a menu that will serve 50. If you are ambitious enough to invite more—double or triple the quantities.

WEDDING RECEPTION MENU
(For 50)

Chicken Shortcakes (see below)
Jellied Party Salad (individual or large ring)
Cranberries Whipped
Rich Vanilla Ice Cream with Fresh Strawberries Sweetened
Petit Fours
Coconut and Cherry Macaroons
Wedding Cake
Punch Coffee
Vari-colored Mints

CHICKEN SHORTCAKES

Simmer about five 5-pound stewing chickens in water (allowing 2 cups for each chicken) containing for each chicken, 1 sliced onion, 4 cloves, 4 slices carrot, 2 celery tops, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 bay leaf—for 2 or 3 1-3 hours or until the meat falls from the bones. As soon as possible lift from broth and separate meat from bones and cut into 3-4-inch cubes. Strain and chill broth—then skim off fat. You will need about 16 to 20 cups of strained chicken meat and 8 to 2 1-2 inch thick baking-powder biscuits, 2 quarts strained, skimmed broth, 3 cup chicken fat, butter, or margarine, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons pepper and parsley, or canned jellied or whole-cranberry sauce. Day before: Prepare and refrigerate chicken. About 1 hour before serving: Prepare biscuits for baking. Bring to a boil all but 4 cups broth. In saucepan, melt chicken fat (or fat plus butter); stir in flour; slowly stir in the 4 cups reserved broth. Then slowly stir this mixture into boiling broth; simmer at least 10 minutes, to cook flour. Add chicken, salt, pepper; heat. Meanwhile, bake biscuits.

To serve: Split each hot biscuit in half; spoon hot chicken over lower half; replace top with cut ends up. Spoon more chicken on top. Garnish with parsley.

W.I. Hears Interesting Paper On "Education Past And Present"

MARSH HILL — Pine Grove W. I. met for its May meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Campbell, with 11 members present.

The president, Mrs. Grace Bartindale, presided and opened the meeting.

During the business it was decided to make a donation to the Salvation Army, to make a canvass for Canadian Institute for the Blind during the fall.

An invitation was received and accepted from the Foxboro W.I. to meet with them at their June meeting. It was decided to sponsor for the Extension Service, "Sandwiches for All Occasions."

Mrs. Harold Detlor, district director, reported regarding the district executive held in Belleville. West Hastings district will convene at Sidney Baptist Church on Tuesday, June 7th, at 2.30 a.m. Chatterton W.I. will provide a 50-cent box lunch.

Mrs. Ethel Hayes will represent the department. Mrs. Farley Lindenfield was appointed delegate to the district annual.

The June meeting will be held in the evening, June 15th, at the home of Mrs. John Brown with Mrs. W. Slater as convener.

Conveners of the standing committees reported:

"Currents Events" by Mrs. F. Finkle, Mrs. Harry Coulter, convener for Education, presided over her program. Mrs. F. Finkle read "Is Kindness Harming the Young?" "Learning to Learn" was read by Mrs. A. Tanner.

Several members took part in a symposium, quoting several outstanding persons on education. Mrs. Leslie Finkle quoted Mayor Charlotte Whitton, of Ottawa; Mrs. Fred Campbell, Dr. Hilda Neatby, professor of History at the University of Saskatoon; Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, Gratton O'Leary, vice-president of Ottawa Farm Journal, and Mrs. Harold Detlor, George E. Elliott, a Milton, Ontario, lawyer.

Mrs. Coulter reported that the F.W.I.C. had received the 1955 award for Canadian Adult Education and gave a paper on "Education," prepared by herself.

WHAT KIND EDUCATION?

"We are responsible for the kind of education that is given to our children. We may say that we know what that is, but do we? Are our Canadian schools being turned into a sort of community centre, which hands out shreds of whatever kind of education its average student finds most palatable and easiest to take? Instead of graduating from our schools as civilized, cultured, thoughtful, considerate human beings ready to work hard and to take their place as useful citizens, many of our young people are emerging with just the opposite characteristics. They are not to blame. They have been educated that way.

"Learning is hard work. Learning is built on intellectual curiosity, concentration, patience and constant drill. Progressive educationists are against drill. Nobody is learned by drill. Drill is what differentiates the amateur from the professional.

OLD TIME EDUCATION

"The old fashioned school taught us to read, to write, to figure, to memorize, to analyze and to think, to love books, to talk well, and to know something of what had happened in the years before we were born. Many school graduates today spell badly, are largely incapable of writing a good English sentence are ignorant of simplest facts about their country and are completely muddled about the rest of the world. For example, a group of prospective university students could not name the date of Confederation.

"Certain subjects appear on taught fin.. xiror ETAOI NN day's curriculum that did not appear years ago, and deserve a place in the course of study, but should 35 to 50 per cent of the school day be allotted to these subjects?

"Many of the highly trained teachers, principals, supervisors, inspectors and administrators are fully capable of creating, organizing and administering plans of instruction to the lasting benefit of the youth in their communities if they are given the opportunity, and we, the parents, make it known that is what we want.

Mrs. Coulter conducted two interesting contests.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee and a social half hour was spent.

NOT ALL PLEASURE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Accidents involving small airplanes in the United States averaged more than nine a day last year—and the 392 fatal accidents killed 639 pilots and passengers. Planes flying are counted for about half of the 3,336 accidents, the civil aeronautics administration said.

Premier Douglas Praises Work of Women in Sask.

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SASKATOON (CP)—The women were cultivating minds in Saskatchewan while the men were tilling the soil, Premier Douglas told the National Council of Women here.

Speaking to the closing dinner of the organization's five-day annual meeting, Mr. Douglas praised the province's women for their contribution to the first 50 years of Saskatchewan history. The province is celebrating its golden jubilee this year.

"We have made great strides in agriculture, mining, and development of forest products, but it was the women who fought for and insisted on building the churches, educational facilities and social welfare projects."

He said it is no accident 60 per cent of the provincial budget is being spent on the fields of education, health and social welfare.

"Our women showed us the need."

At the last council session, Elizabeth Long of Toronto announced that Mrs. Cray McGeachy Schuller, a Canadian with a career in professional international service, will be the National Council of Women's observer at the United Nations.

Mrs. Schuller, who worked as Canadian representative for the information service at the League of Nations, was appointed first secretary to the British embassy in Washington during the Second World War. She moved to Toronto last year from Johannesburg, South Africa, where she had been active with the council of women of that country.

Canada will be host to the International Council of Women triennial meeting at Montreal in 1957, for the second time since the international body was formed, national president Mrs. A. Turner Rose of Montreal announced. The first time was in 1905.

The next annual meeting of the National Council of Women will be held at Queen's University, Kingston, next May.

The council also appointed a new corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. F. Worthington, of Ottawa, wife of Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, civil defence co-ordinator.

Rev. H. M. Servage Says 'Strong Drink Subtle Enemy'

The May meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, presiding.

In the opening remarks, reference was made to "Christian Family Week". President Truman said "a good family life is the moral strength of the nation. To fortify or strengthen the home is to fortify the nation." The nation is richer in observing these days.

Miss M. Johns conducted the devotional and in a most interesting way spoke of the life of the famous mothers of the Bible—"Hannah." Her hymn of praise as recorded in I. Samuel, ranks second to the well known "Magnificat" of the Holy Mother. She set an example to all mothers in that she not only gave the child to God, but also gave God to the child.

COUNTY CONVENTION

A closing report of the County convention held in Picton, May 5, was given by Mrs. W. B. Vandervoort. She brought many helpful suggestions and an interesting account of the work of the past year.

Mrs. Beth McKay former Field Secretary, addressed the afternoon session on "A Teen-ager Talks Back". "Teen-agers are working for teen-agers, also at the banquet meeting she gave a challenging message on "Youth Temperance Council Work".

The Rev. H. M. Servage of Queen Street church, Kingston, was the guest speaker at the banquet. He spoke of strong drink as a subtle enemy; always posing as a friend. "Let us take our stand for total abstinence. Those who take the social glass are traitors to our youth," said the speaker.

Personal impressions and highlights of the convention were given by Miss Barnum and Mrs. Calnan.

GIRLS' CAMP

The girls' WCTU camp at Lake Conesepn opens July 5 to 15th. A new building is being added to give more crowding of the girls.

Miss Barnum spoke of the work of the young people in presenting a play "The First Citizen" at the convention. Miss Sulman kindly assisted in the training. A youth "Temperance Council" meeting is being planned for next fall.

PEACE GARDEN

The International Peace Garden of 2,000 acres on the International boundary partly in Manitoba, and partly in North Dakota, is a permanent memorial of the good will of Canada and the United States, and their determination never to take up arms against each other. This pledge of friendship is on a cairn in the garden and was unveiled and dedicated July 1932.

The federal government has donated funds for developing the park. Canada—$15,000 and the United States $100,000. Two Canadian implement companies donated $3,500 of machinery for garden work. This year, the United States and Canadian WCTU are together making plans for two ornamental iron garden benches and a concrete drinking fountain to cost $300.

UNESCO RALLY

The recent UNESCO rally at Massey Hall, Toronto, under the Toronto branch of UNA, was addressed by Mrs. Roosevelt. Gifts of school equipment, books, supplies for domestic training classes, are being sent to Tripoli, Africa. The women of Libya, are emerging from their seclusion, to a new sphere of civic responsibility and must be educated to train their children as citizens of the future. Toronto, white ribbonners will contribute a gift of $100.

ALCOHOL EDUCATION

It has been observed that 33 children starting school, less than one half enter high school, about five graduate from high school, and one goes on to university. Since more and more drinking starts in the teen-age group, perhaps secrcity, it is necessary alcohol education be carried on in the lower schools. Every school grade from seven up should have one teaching period on alcohol education.

PREVENTION VS CURE

Dr. Seath of Chicago, maintains, it is as great a miracle to keep young persons on the road of abstinence from liquor to save him from falling, as it is to redeem those who have lost the way.

In Nova Scotia, Donald Gillchrist, director of Temperance education, said in a survey among 3,260 high school students. "It was found that 45 per cent of students under 14 have had their first taste of alcohol and 23 per cent could be classed as drinkers. The "sparkle" of "head" and "body", so often referred to by the liquor interests are definitely gaining a hold on the thinking of our youth when presented so often to them."

How much are the provincial authorities spending on the training of youth to show them the evils and disaster which result from the use of alcohol. Even one per cent of the money raised from liquor profits in each province, could do much to combat this potent and destructive force among young people.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

Following the national radio network program on "Safety on the Highway", the Farm Forum group voiced its opinion:

"Liquor and speed seem to be the main highway safety problems."

Poor judgment, taking too many risks, lack of courtesy and poor road conditions, were also mentioned, in the forum groups, as causing danger on the highways.

Education is the chief hope for solving the problem. It is suggested by 400 forums: increased penalties for violations and intoxicated drivers, as well as stricter enforcement of traffic laws.

Mother of Three Publishing, Editing Weekly Newspaper

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) —Publishing and editing weekly newspapers are no longer exclusive careers for men. And Mrs. Una Gillespie of Beiseverain, Man., mother of three children, is proving it.

For the last 19 years she has been editor and publisher—each a man-size job in itself, she says—of the Boissevain Air Recorder.

"Women can do a job as well as men," she said in an interview, "being an editor and publisher is hard work but we're not afraid of it."

BEE IN MANITOBA

She is quick to remind anyone who asks about the role of women in the newspaper field that of the 66 member papers in the Manitoba Weekly Newspapers Association, six are published or edited by women.

Becoming head of the Recorder with a circulation of about 1,500 was almost evolutionary for Mrs. Gillespie. The small tabloid was founded in 1898 and her father, W. V. Udall, bought it in 1902.

Ever since she was a little girl she could be found with ink-smudged face in the composing room setting up type. She learned about the newspaper "from top to bottom" and when her father stepped down in 1942 she stepped up to take over the dual responsibilities.

With only two full-time and two part-time workers to help her, Mrs. Gillespie had to do a good part of the reporting, advertising soliciting, feature writing and editorial writing. And she still does her share of composing and lay-out.

WORKS LONG HOURS

"I seldom put in less than 18 or 18 hours a day, and I've welcomed in many a sunrise," she said. "At times I've wished that the 24-hour day was two hours longer."

In policy, the Recorder has concentrated on community problems and projects. A few years ago, Mrs. Gillespie said, the paper crusaded for a water works and sewage system. It was eventually installed.

Last year the Recorder placed second in a nation-wide competition by weekly editors in the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association's community service award. Its submission was the series of articles which made up the water works crusade.

Mrs. Gillespie said women are finding it difficult to get newspaper work, not because they are not capable, but because they do not stay with the job. No publisher or editor wants a person who will work two or three years and then quit to get married.

But for the few women who are willing to combine a married life with a publishing career Mrs. Gillespie is proof that it can be done.

Women's Activities

TRINITY UNITED WA

MADOC.—Mrs. Jesse Reid was hostess to Trinity United Woman's Association for its May meeting on Thursday with a good attendance of members and visitors.

Mrs. R. C. Jackson was in charge and opened the meeting.

Business and communications were dealt with after which Mrs. L. Bennet took charge of the worship service, the topic being "The Comforter". She was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Lane, who read the Bible story as told in "John's Gospel" and the "Acts of the Apostles", after which Mrs. Bennet read comments on the story of the Comforter.

Mrs. Albert Bailey was in charge of the program. With the beauty of the countryside at the present time, she chose "The Beauty of the Earth" and a reading on "Tulips," their origin and growth mentioning the gift of the Holland folk to Canada and at present a scene of beauty at the National Capital, Ottawa.

Assisting in the program were Mrs. W. McCoy, who gave a reading "The Beauty of the Earth", Mrs. F. Fleming, "Grace Before Meat"; Mrs. Bailey, "When Some One Cares", and a humorous reading "Gossip in a Streetcar" by the leader, concluded with a bird contest.

A pleasant half hour with refreshments being served by the hostess and her assistants followed.

Services to Blind by CNIB Outlined by Field Workers

It is estimated of the 6,322 blind in Ontario, one-half would have had sight if they had known and taken advantage of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Service. Miss M. Dupuis told her audience in her address on "Prevention of Blindness" at the Quinte Secondary School on Wednesday evening. The occasion was the annual meeting of the Hastings County Advisory Board with Chairman George Wishart in charge.

Guests sat down to a fine meal served by Mrs. Sherwood and her staff in the spacious auditorium. At the head table were representatives from the service clubs and city council including Alderman Bram Humphreys, Rotarian W. Gault, Kinsman Don Thomas, Kiwanian Ralph Graham and Y's man T. Hutchinson, who all spoke briefly. Greetings were read from the Lions Club.

Mrs. J. Brisbane accompanied by Mrs. Egerton Boyce sang two solos "Two Guitars" and "Down by the Sally Garden."

Mr. J. L. Lambert read the minutes and correspondence, and reports of the local campaigns, welfare activities and Christmas cheer were given by Mrs. H. J. Walker, Foxboro; Mrs. George Hall, Madoc; Mrs. F. R. Wells, Marmora; Mr. A. J. Bourne and Miss Hayes, Trenton; Mrs. George Wishart and Mrs. M. C. Ward, Belleville; Mrs. LeSage, Trenton. Written reports were read from Miss M. Peck, Belleville; Rev. K. F. Blackford, Deseronto; and H. J. Madill, Frankford.

Miss M. Casey who has come from the Kitchener-Waterloo district to be the new home teacher reported that she had given instruction in typing, Braille, knitting and other crafts.

PRESIDENT REPORTS

Clarence Morris, president of the White Cane Club gave an account of the activities of the group which included participation in the booth at the Fair, a summer picnic, assistance with tag day, bowling, Christmas party, a shower for Miss Munro, the home teacher who was married last fall, the annual party, sent delegates to CCB annual meeting at Cornwall. Three new members have joined the club.

Chairman of the campaign H. J. Puke reported that a total of $6,559.69 was contributed, . Miss Elinor Roblin, treasurer, read the financial statement which showed a total of $9,884.69 with expenses of $10,894.31, a deficit of $809.52.

Field secretary F. I. Timmins of Kingston, stated that there were 133 registered blind in the county, with 14 new cases. . The service included visits to discuss problems; instruction in adjustments; loans of books in embossed type and on talking book records from the 30,000 titles in the library; loans of radios and repairs; placement of employable persons in shops, canteens and other work found by placement officers; free bus passes on Rawson buses; supplementary or emergency assistance in cash, fuel, and clothing. Christmas remembrances, eye examinations, glasses, treatment and artificial eyes.

Mr. D. Archibald brought in the new slate of officers who were duly elected: past president, George Wishart; president, T. J Flurey; 1st vice-president, Mrs. George Wishart; 2nd vice-president, Mark Tripp; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. J. Lefebvre; secretary, J. L. Lambert; treasurer, Miss Elinor Roblin; campaign treasurers, H. J. Puke, A. J. Bourne; Welfare convener, Miss Myrtle Peck; Public Relations, Mrs. M. C. Ward.

Miss M. F. Dupuis, director of eye service with the CNIB in Ontario was introduced by Mr. P. J. Timmins, as a graduate nurse, who had studied public health administration and had become interested in the prevention of blindness.

"Our work has a dual purpose," said Miss Dupuis, "the prevention of blindness and the rehabilitation of the blind. Since most of what we learn is through sight it is our most important sense. . The primary thing to consider is maintaining a positive state of health, mental and physical.

SHOULD SEE DOCTOR

"A foreign body in the eye should be removed by an eye doctor. Some eye conditions run in families and children should be watched as they grow up for these tendencies. . At age of forty everyone should have an eye examination as two-thirds of blindness are in people over that age. Accidents account for many injuries in children, and hazards should be eliminated in the home and industry. At play children should have safe toys and not be allowed BB guns, knives or broken toys.

"At one time eye infections in newborn infants was common, but today it is practically nonexistent. Babies born prematurely sometimes have a disease of the eye where the retina is not fully matured, and does not develop properly causing blindness."

In thanking the speaker Mr. Wishart stated that the listeners had a new awareness of what can be done to help in the prevention of blindness.

Through the courtesy of Principal Leslie Reid, a tour of the first floor of the new Collegiate was enjoyed by those present.

The Hastings County Advisory Board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, unanimously endorsed a resolution of appreciation:

To the honorary oculists, Dr. J. H. Forrester, Dr. A. C. Locke, for their continued co-operation in the Institute's work of the Prevention of Blindness and the Conservation of Sight;

To the press and radio for their continued support;

To the Belleville City Council, the Hastings County Council and the Trenton Town Council, for their grants during the year in support of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind work;

To the Belleville Lions Club for the recent gift of three talking-book machines, the Belleville Rotary Club for the annual Christmas dinner for the blind, the Belleville Kinsette Club for their regular assistance to the Belleville White Cane Club;

To all other Service Clubs, Women's Institute branches and any other organizations who have assisted in work for the blind;

To all voluntary workers who have assisted as Board and Committee members, campaign canvoners and canvassers etc., during the past year;

To the people of Belleville, Trenton and Hastings County who have maintained work for the blind with their generous contributions.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1955

Premier Asked to Investigate Liquor-Licence Interest Of Three Conservative Candidates

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. Ben Spence said Wednesday the International Order of Good Templars has sent a letter to Premier Frost requesting him to investigate the liquor-licence interests of three Toronto area Progressive Conservative candidates in the June 9 Ontario election.

Mr. Spence, legislative superintendent of the order's Grand Lodge for Ontario, said the letter asks Mr. Frost to look into the impropriety, if not the illegality, of a member of the legislature being connected with the operation of licensed premises."

NAMES THREE

The letter, signed by Mrs. A Stewart, chief Templar of one of three lodges in Toronto, is the order, named three Progressive Conservative candidates — Premier Frost, Grahame York Centre, Beverley Lewis, York-Humber; and Allan Grossman, Dovercourt, St. Andrew.

The letter said the men were connected with the provincially operated liquor business while attempting to obtain public office.

Mr. Frost said he had not yet seen the letter but would look into the matter immediately.

Mr. Spence, 88-year-old nationally - known temperance fighter, said the order is the largest and oldest organization in the world and once had about 150,000 members in Ontario.

Mr. Spence said the candidates can contest the election but cannot hold office under Section 9, Chapter 202 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario which forbids any person from holding public office while obtaining "any public money . . . for any service, work, matter or thing."

PREMIER'S VIEW

Mr. Frost said he could not see anything wrong with Mr. Lewis' connection with the liquor business. Mr. Lewis is part owner of a hotel licensed to sell beer. The premier also said he felt the same about Mr. Grossman, part owner of a Toronto cocktail lounge.

But the premier said he would look into Mr. Graham's connection with the Ontario liquor control board. A brewery's retail store is located in a "building owned by Mr. Graham and called the "Graham Building."

Mr. Graham said Wednesday: "I am dispossessing myself of the property. I no longer own it."

New Proposition To Get Gas From West Advanced

OTTAWA (CP)—A new proposition that might step up the initial $350,000,000 natural gas project of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., has been placed before federal authorities.

The plan, described by informants Wednesday as tentative, would involve large-scale sale of Alberta gas to the huge Tennessee gas concern in the United States in return for Tennessee gas being fed directly into eastern Canada.

It was learned the plan was discussed with Trade Minister Howe by officials of the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company and of Trans-Canada this week. It has not gone before cabinet.

Trans-Canada's original project called for building an all-Canadian line from Alberta to eastern Canada as far east as Montreal, 2,200 miles. Construction due to start this spring was delayed because of financing difficulties.

Canadian Govt. Plans No Action On Soviet Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government plans no action on a Soviet proposal for East-West visits by parliamentarians. It does not consider the Feb. 9 suggestion a formal invitation and there has been no Russian followup.

External Affairs Minister Pearson gave that information to the Commons' external affairs committee Wednesday as he ranged over international subjects.

He said action, if any, on the Russian proposal will have to be taken by Parliament itself.

NOT NORMAL

He termed the suggestion, issued by the Supreme Soviet, as "not normal invitation to dinner." It had been hung on the end of a "very unfriendly document" charging the West with secretly preparing an atomic war and wh ichwas full of propaganda about peace on Communist terms.

The government felt that if the proposal had been serious there would have been a followup communication from the Russian government. But there had been none.

Mr. Pearson also told the committee he can envisage no early entry of West Germany and Japan into the United Nations. Russia probably would demand that East Germany get membership as well as the West Germans, a condition the West could not accept. Any application by Japan likely would be vetoed by Russia because no peace treaty has been signed yet by the two countries.

88,000 Acres Of Tobacco To Be Planted

DELHI (CP) — Farmers in 10 counties in Ontario's tobacco belt are putting in 88,000 acres of flue-cured tobacco this week. This is expected to be Canada's biggest cash-per-acre crop and will bring growers as much as $60,000,000 next fall.

Voluntary acreage cuts have been made by the farmers to offset stronger competition within the tobacco market. Fred Cumming, chairman of the Ontario flue-cured tobacco marketing board said the cuts would not have been necessary if Finance Minister Harris had cut cigaret taxes in his May budget.

With the strong competition growers must be sure that there will be no overproduction so the 2,500 producer organizations has decided upon the scheme of reducing acreage.

FAVOR BULGANIN'S PLAN

MOSCOW (AP)—The presidium of the Supreme Soviet Wednesday approved a plan put forward by Premier Nikolai Bulganin to split the state planning commission. The presidium said it had nominated First Deputy Premier Maxim Z. Saburov to head a new state commission on current planning. Nikolai K. Baibakov was named to head a new state commission on prospective planning.

Senators Defeat Move to Limit Vacancies

OTTAWA (CP)—An attempt to place a moral obligation on the government to fill Senate vacancies within six months from the day they occur has been defeated by the Liberal majority in the upper house.

The Liberals and one Progressive Conservative voted 37 to 12 Wednesday to defeat a private member's bill which would have written the obligation into the British North America Act. The bill, proposed by Senator William Euler of Kitchener, a former Liberal cabinet minister, was supported by nine Liberals and three Progressive Conservatives.

Voting in favor of the bill were Liberal Senators Euler, Norman Lambert and Arthur Roebuck of Ontario; Thomas Crerar and John Howden, Manitoba; Harry Hodges, British Columbia; A. K. Hugessen, Quebec; F. W. Gershaw, Alberta, and Alexander Baird, Newfoundland. Conservative supporters were Senators John T. Haig, Manitoba; Iva Fallis, Ontario, and Ralph Horner, Saskatchewan.

VOTED WITH LIBERALS

The only Opposition member to vote with the Liberals was Senator Arthur Marcotte of Saskatchewan.

The bill was defeated after Senator Euler made a final appeal for support to Liberal members. It declined to accept a recommendation by Senator W. Ross Macdonald, government leader, to withdraw the bill.

Senator Euler said he accepted arguments that the amendment proposed by the bill would be only a directive that vacancies should be filled within six months. It would not compel the government to take such action.

MORAL EFFECT

However, he said it would have a moral effect which the government would be unable to ignore. Its enactment would end the existing practice of permitting Senate vacancies to exist over a period of years.

A directive in the BNA Act that Senate vacancies must be filled six months after they occur could not be ignored by any Canadian prime minister. The BNA Act now said vacancies should be filled in a reasonable time but this was not being observed.

There currently are 22 vacancies in the 96-seat chamber, of whose members are Liberal and seven Progressive Conservative.

BISHOP SAILS

BREMEN, Germany (AP)—Archbishop Nicholas Ussanowich of the Ukrainian Exile Church Wednesday boarded a Swedish liner for Stockholm to return to Canada. He is due to arrive at Halifax June 1 en route to Winnipeg. He has been visiting settlements of nationalist Ukrainian displaced persons in West Germany, Italy and Switzerland.

Teaching Wife To Drive Proves Rather Expensive

BRANTFORD (CP) — Douglas Pepple says this happened when he was trying to teach his wife, Eileen, to drive the family car. She wheeled into the driveway and struck the curb.

The car glanced off the old red house, shot through the open doors of the garage, smashed through the rear end, roared across the back lawn and careered down an embankment for 200 feet, knocking down a couple of fences. The vehicle stopped on all four wheels.

The Pepples were only shaken up but damage to their late model convertible was put at $1,700.

PIONEER AIRMAN DEAD

EASTBOURNE, England (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Sir John Capper, 83, airship pioneer who earned the nickname "Admiral of the Air," died Tuesday, his family has disclosed. He held Britain's No. 1 airship licence and was the first Briton to fly over London.

360 Persons Expected to Die On Holiday

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A Richmond radio station will air funeral services tonight for the 360 persons expected to die on the nation's highways during the Memorial Day weekend.

Station WRVA said three Richmond ministers will take part in the 25-minute program. It will be unique, station officials said, in that some of those hearing the services may possibly be tuning in on their own funeral.

Officials said the services will be conducted with "dignity and reverence." The National Safety Council has predicted a holiday highway toll of 360.

AIR OFFICIAL KILLED

WEST ITCHENOR, Eng. (Reuter)—Air Vice-Marshal Sir Francis Mellersh, 56, was killed Wednesday when a naval helicopter crashed near him. One of the helicopter's crew of two was also killed.

Man Stamped on Baby's Body Placed Mustard in Her Mouth, Burned Her With Hot Fork

MONTREAL (CP)—The common-law wife of Vladimir Nekrassoff testified Wednesday she saw him torture nine-month-old Suzie Timm the day before the baby died.

Nekrassoff, 32, was arraigned on a charge of murder and remanded to jail pending preliminary hearing June 1. Police waved back a group of hissing women as he was taken from the courtroom.

Mrs. Honor Rogers, 22, testified she saw Nekrassoff maltreat the child last Sunday. The baby died Monday.

"He stamped on her body and said 'I hate her, she's a German,'" Mrs. Rogers said.

Nekrassoff, thin and fair-haired, was described by police as the offspring of Russian parents. They said he claims to have received a doctor's degree in Germany before emigrating to Canada.

He was arraigned shortly after a coroner's jury found him criminally responsible for the death of the infant, left in his care by an ailing mother.

Mrs. Rogers told coroner Richard Duckett that Suzie was brought to their room three weeks ago by the mother.

The mother, Mrs. Eva Timm, 20, a German immigrant, said she had separated from her husband after an earlier tried several agencies in an attempt to find a home for the child, but was told she could only be helped if she wanted to give up the child for adoption. Nekrassoff offered to take the baby in without pay.

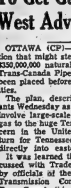
DESCRIBES TORTURE

Mrs. Rogers said:

"He heated a fork with a match, then he burned her buttocks and her feet. He put her on her feet and said 'look at her dance.'

"I saw him put mustard in her mouth, and spit it out.

"He told me to shut up or he'd smash my face in. I had my own little baby, the same age. My baby isn't his child."



DISEASE CLAIMS SISTERS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—An unusual incurable disease killed little Susan Hoeck Wednesday night, a month after taking her sister' alife. Both were victims of pancreatic cystic fibrosis, which causes the pancreas to function improperly. Susan, 23 months old, and Mary Ann, 3, had infections of the lungs. Doctors said the disease is "extremely rare" in two members of a family.

Legion to Honor Hazel Farley For Her Inspiring Service

TRENTON (Special)—A Trenton High School teacher who befriended every local serviceman and servicewoman serving in the armed forces in World War II will be honored by the local branch of the Canadian Legion here on Monday.

Miss Hazel Farley, descendant of one of the prominent pioneer families in Eastern Ontario, penned letters and sent parcels to service people overseas from 1939 to 1945 and kept a scrapbook of newspaper stories telling of their experiences .The scrapbook today is the most complete record possessed by any local citizen.

In making the announcement of the presentation of the Meritorious Service Certificate and an honorary membership to the Trenton branch a spokesman for the Legion recalled that Miss Farley's gifts and messages were received in prison camps, hospitals, training camps, on ships at sea and on the battlefield.

All those taking part in Monday's ceremony will be former students of Miss Farley.

Presiding officer will be Albert Connell, immediate past president. He will be assisted by John Cole, Ed. Davis, Kenneth K. Kenny, and Angus Duffy, Belleville.

The color party will be composed of Jim White and Gerald Currie. They will be escorted by Wayne Simmons, Carney Rosenplot, Jack Legg and Ken Craddock.

At the end of the official ceremony, Mayor Ross Burtt will present the honorary membership card. Branch President Zelie Donaldson will present the lapel badge and Padre A. S. McConnell will present the Meritorious Service Certificate.

Plastic Fenders May Help Wives Driving Cars

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Does your wife tend to take a few informalities with the fenders of your car?

The Cornell Aeronautical laboratory may have the answer to your woes—plastic fenders. They pop right back into shape after being clobbered against the garage door.

Cornell laboratory reported promising results from its experiments with the rumple-proof fender. The research is being sponsored by Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., which had to shell out $12,000,000 in auto damage claims in 1951.

A problem to be licked: the plastic has a tendency to become brittle at low temperatures.

U. S. SWEEPS TENNIS

PARIS (AP) — America's "Big Three" of Tony Trabert, Vic Seixas and Hamilton Richardson swept through their second-round matches without loss of a set Wednesday in the French international tennis tournament.

BETTER LIVING FOR YOUR FAMILY

key to LIBERAL plans for Ontario

IF YOU HAVE CHILDREN AT SCHOOL

OWN OR RENT A HOME

WANT TO BUY AN OLDER HOME...

FIND PROPERTY TAXES TOO HIGH...

WAIT TOO LONG FOR A HOSPITAL BED...

CAN'T BUY HEALTH INSURANCE

FEAR COST OF LONG ILLNESS...

ARE OUT OF A JOB...

NEED A LARGER OLD AGE PENSION...

WANT HONEST HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

...the Liberal plans will make it easier for you

YOU AND YOUR FAMILY benefit in many ways from this Liberal Program. Briefly, it offers you: More hospital beds — help in long-term illness — health insurance for the uninsurable — lower taxes on your home by helping your municipality — increased grants for education — and other important aids to better living.

MUNICIPAL

To help lower the taxes on your home

A Liberal Government will:

Pay all costs of indigent patients in hospitals.

Take over and pay all costs of suburban roads; pay for all costs of highway connecting links through municipalities within the county road system; take over 10% of county roads; increase grants for township and county roads; legislate to cut road taxation in towns and villages by at least 2 mills.

Assume the cost of all county and city jails, as the first step in reducing the cost to municipal taxpayers of the administration of justice.

In addition, hold a Provincial-municipal conference to correct the whole unfair distribution of costs between the Province and the municipalities.

Limit powers of the Ontario Municipal Board so as to give more freedom to municipalities.

EDUCATION

As a first step in assisting the municipal taxpayer to bear the heavy cost of education, the Liberal Government will increase the grant for education by $10.00 per pupil.

Help to reduce the cost of construction of schools by paying grants on the actual cost and not on a lower assumed cost, and by paying all the Provincial share of school debentures at the time they are issued instead of annually.

Improve teacher training and plan for increased school enrolment.

HEALTH

When the Federal Government is able to institute a nation-wide health and hospital plan, a Liberal Government will fully co-operate. Until it is financially possible to institute a complete health and hospital plan, a Liberal Government will take the following definite steps to protect the citizens of this Province from the ravages of accident and sickness:

Provide hospital and surgical insurance at standard rates through existing agencies, including those not presently insurable because of health, age or non-membership in a group.

Provide for insurance against the disastrous cost of long-term hospital or medical care, in excess of normal coverage.

Pay all costs of maintaining indigent patients in hospitals, thus relieving hospitals and municipal taxpayers of this burden.

Will double the grants for hospital construction from the present $1,000 per bed to $2,000.

WELFARE

Increase the amount of old age pensions to the needy without charge to the municipalities.

Pay half the cost incurred by municipalities for all unemployment relief, including relief to employables.

HOUSING

A Liberal Government will:

Enable citizens to purchase existing homes on the instalment plan by means of insured mortgage loans.

Promote low rental housing for low income families.

Pay all the municipal share (7½%) of land assembly cost for government housing schemes.

CONSERVATION

Double grants to local conservation authorities and assist them to set up parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities.

Take active steps to prevent the erosion of lake shores and to control floods.

Set up a water commission to ensure adequate water for all areas suffering, or likely to suffer, from a shortage.

Woman Blocked Call About Fire, Court Is Lenient

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A hot-tempered, talkative housewife has escaped punishment for her rudeness to yield a party line phone line for a fire report.

Mrs. Mary L. Kayes, 43, was convicted by a jury May 17 in the first test of a new state law giving party line priority to emergency calls.

"I believe you've learned your lesson," county judge John R. Schwartz told her Tuesday in suspending sentence. She could have gone to jail for as long as a year and been fined $500.

The state had asked leniency for Mrs. Kayes, mother of four children.

"I hold no grudges against anyone," she told reporters upon leaving court. "I hope this case has served its purpose—bringing everyone's attention to the new law."

Then, she added jokingly:

"I put in a private line and that ought to end the trouble."

Fire warden Donald Townsend complained that last January he was blocked in trying to report a grass fire by Mrs. Kayes' party line chatter. The fire spread and destroyed a barn.

"Let the damn thing burn," Townsend quoted Mrs. Kayes as retorting when he tried to get her off the line. However, when she finished her own call, Mrs. Kayes had some misgivings and told the phone operator of the fire call.

Army's Mobile Striking Force May be Given New Role in North

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A new job may be shaping up for the Canadian Army's mobile striking force: Helping to man northern defences such as a radar network.

The role of the mobile striking force—at least three battalions of paratroopers—has receded in importance in recent months, officials here say.

They have said previously that the coming problem for the government will be to decide whether Canada will shoulder the bigger defence burden in Canada or allow more Americans in to do the job.

This, they say now, is where the mobile striking force comes into the picture. It might be used to help build up North American defences in this country, reducing the number of Americans that would be needed.

At the same time, it would appear that the three proud infantry regiments comprising the mobile striking force would not take kindly to such jobs as manning radar stations.

The force was established originally to counter any Russian ground attack in Canada, especially in the north. It was believed in 1947 that if the Russians decided to launch an air offensive against North America, they would need advance air bases in the Canadian north.

Defence authorities now believe the Russians have bombers of sufficient range to make it unnecessary to attempt to establish jump-off bases in northern Canada for an air assault on North America's industrial power.

Many officials believe the possibility of land warfare in the Canadian Arctic can be ruled out almost entirely. The weather and vast distances are on Canada's side.

The army has enough trained paratroopers to form the jumping component of an airborne division. Only three infantry units, however, form the mobile striking force: the 1st battalions of the Royal Rifles of Canada, the Royal Regiment at Valcartier, Que.; Royal Canadian Regiment at London, Ont., and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Calgary.

Professor Wants Legislation To Protect Doctors

LONDON (Reuters)—Prof. Glanville Williams, a lecturer at London University, Tuesday night advocated legislation to protect doctors who hasten the deaths of incurable patients by drugs.

He was speaking at a meeting of the Voluntary Euthanasia (mercy killing) Legislation Society.

Williams, professor of jurisprudence at the university, said the legislation would provide that no doctor should be convicted of murder, manslaughter or a lesser offence for an act done intentionally to accelerate the death of a person who was seriously ill, unless it were proved that the act was not done in good faith with the consent of the patient and with the purpose of preventing further pain to a person who was believed to be suffering from an incurable illness.

"This would remove from doctors the fear of the law which now hangs over them," said Williams.

No Car in the Low-Priced Field Equals Chevrolet for Steadiness, Stability and Smoothness

There's an easy way to prove the above statement. It doesn't cost a cent and it's lots of fun. Take a demonstration drive in a Chevrolet. You'll find that most of your old ideas about low-cost motoring will be completely changed. If you're curious, your salesman will tell you about the many, many new features that make Chevrolet's ride so superior. But without being told a thing, you will know instantly that Chevrolet has given a tremendous break to the man who wants "lots of car" at a low, low price.

Call your local dealer today. Tell him you want to take a "Pleasure Drive" demonstration in a Chevrolet.

Cubs Claw Cards Twice; Climb Into Second Place As Giants Drop Pair

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A STRANGE WORLD!

Little Beaver, the reasonable facsimile of a full-grown Tuscay Looney, stretched himself to his full four feet and swung an imaginary tomahawk. "Sumaski wawseliwawa, kumaloof," he snarled.

Knowing the diminutive Injun's prowess with fist, tooth, nail and drop-kicks, we inquired politely, "Whatinell are you talking about."

He looked up from the wainscoting.

"Gimme a cigaret, bub."

We visited the dressing room intending to get an interview with these four horsemen of the "U-Clipt-Ix" and found that they only fraternize in pairs. Little Beaver has picked himself an English bloke by the name of Lord Littlebrook, who claims relation to Little Tich, musical comedy star of the days of Kaiser Bill, flappers and Blighty. They want no part of the opposition which in this case is Fuzzy Cupid and Sky Lo-Lo, as ornery a pair of mosquito-size cusses as ever crawled through a keyhole.

Lil Beaver was belligerent. You'd think he had been given the leading role in the original production of "Custer's Last Stand." If Sitting Bull looked half as fierce as did this toothpick size warrior, all the United States cavalry extant in those days would have been licked without firing a shot. They would have died from fright.

"Wawatoohoo, exkitunuhs, sheilah toodeewa quickfreezem toulsweeter. Papaluvsmambo, mamboluvs poppa, whatinell-isthemambo," he growled.

We turned to Lord Littlebrook. The farthing-size replica of Lord Lavion flashed his piano-keys teeth. "Gad, if he had curly hair and purgled "Thangyou ladies and gemen, this is my brother Gawve." we would have sworn it was Liberace.

"What is this bloodthirsty buckaroo talking about?" we asked.

The little bloke did an excellent model job of a Savile Row dilettante and murmured: "Awfly sorreh, old fellow, but we in Oxford did not take up the North American Indian dialects. The only important assistahs were Cameahwahta, the bloated boat race, a bit of soccer, a spot of punting on the Thames, some pahridge shooting on the moors, and a week-end at Hockley-on-the-Pig.

"After all, y'know, this job of muscle-wrestling, biceps-twisting, quoit-pouring, and keeping oneself in condition through, what shall I say, crude, but clevah muscular calisthenics, is a bit of a sideline as you Americans would say (Oops, I made a blooper there, after all this burg is in Canada.)"

This was intended to be an interview with Lil Beaver. We pressed the point. "What did Chief Beaver say?"

"Haw-haw, and a duo of chuckles," came back this Bond Street peeress. "It is a bit of something that I must confess I know little about. I must dispense with that demned secretary of mine."

Mind you, these rasslin' mosquitoes are quicker than your next thought. If you are not a newspaperman, and we remembered discretion was the better part of valor. We ventured carefully. Again we asked "what did he say."

Lord Littlebrook puckered a British brow. "Tis demned funny," he said. "Why would Beaver be worried about the weather. He has his big chiefs in Ontario are going to the mat soon and wants to know if after June 9 there will be a Frost in Ontario."

Gad, how these weather reports get around. But that was dangerous ground. Mebbe wrestlers can read, too.

We countered. "How about this bout on Friday when you tackle Fuzzy Cupid and Sky Lo-Lo?"

Wow. That was like throwing red meat in front of a hungry lion. Lil Beaver did a war-dance, a Blackfoot number. He flew into such a rage that he forgot what the choreographer and director of Toomey's Looneys Varieties of 1935 had taught him.

In fact from recent relations with Art Peever and other Brooklyn fanatics we would have sworn Lil Beaver hailed from the banks of the fragrant Gowanus.

"Dem bums," he shrilled, "We'll molder 'em."

NOW YOU CAN SEE IT

You heard it and read about it, now you can see it for yourselves. Manager Willard Fawcett of the McCarthy Theatre has the pictures of the Rocky Marciano-Don Cockell fight showing on his screen starting Friday through Monday. Now you can officially settle those bets and see for yourself what happened. See that low blow and all the color that featured the affair. It is the first showing in Belleville—so don't miss it. A crashing good show accompanies the fight film. You won't be sorry. Remember, it starts tomorrow at the McCarthy approximately 2.10, 5.10 and 7.10.

Stop Stanky's Stalwarts Cold With Great Pitching, Hitting; Turley Registers Eighth Win

By The Associated Press

Chicago Cubs, put you in mind of the fella who were too poor to paint and too proud to whitewash. They've simply been getting the job done with what little they have.

Manager Stan Hack, making infielders into outfielders, gets hits when he needs them from a bunch of guys hitting only .227 as a team. And without hauling in a load of newcomers, he's been getting great pitching from a staff that was barely adequate in the recent past.

That's the way it was again Wednesday as Cubs swept a doubleheader from St. Louis Cardinals to climb into second place in the National League, one game back of Brooklyn.

Paul Minner, who hadn't worked since May 6 and hadn't won since April 22, came up with a four-hitter and rookie Bob Speake, an infielder now roaming the outfield, chipped in his ninth home run to win the opener 1-0.

TOPS LEAGUE

It was the fifth shutout of the season for the Cub staff—tops in the National League.

Veteran Bob Rush, with just one winning game under his belt, took charge in the nightcap, keeping the Cards blanked for six innings and winning 3-1. He had a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a home run by Eddie Mikan, another converted outvert from the infield) a triple by Gene Baker and a double by Moeller.

That pushed Cubs ahead of New York Giants into second place, a third while losing a pair at Philadelphia 8-3 and 5-2. Giants now have lost three in a row after winning six straight.

Rain stopped Brooklyn at Pittsburgh while Cincinnati made things tougher for fourth-place Milwaukee by trimming the Braves 13-2.

YOGI'S HOMER

In the American, New York Yankees beat Washington 8-2 on Yogi Berra's three-run homer and a three-hitter by Bob Turley, who won his eighth decision in nine starts. The victory widened the Yanks' lead to 1½ games as rain postponed Chicago at Cleveland.

Fourth-place Detroit peppered Kansas City 8-2 and Boston won the nightcap 5-3 at Baltimore after dropping the first 5-1.

Robin Roberts was smacked for four extra-base blows in the five hits he allowed in the Sox nightcap opener, but was tough in the clutch to gain his sixth victory.

The second-game success, which pulled Phils out of the cellar while Pittsburgh dropped into it, was Murry Dickson with the relief help of Jack Sanford. Del Ennis hit a three-run homer as Phils scored four in the first inning en route to Johnny Antonelli in the nightcap.

KEGAINS LEAD

At New York, Turley reclaimed the American League's three-game lead, fanning six to top Cleveland's Herb Score by one with a 7-hit total. The decision gave Bullet Bob a winning life-time record for the first time after coming up with St. Louis in 1952. He's now 24-23.

Yogi was in the big after Berra teed off against loser Maury McDermott in the first. Ed Fitzgerald's loser leaver evaded Mickey Mantle in centre for an lido-the-park homer and both Senator runs.

Baltimore slugged 13 hits—three by Billy Cox and two each by Gene Woodling and Hal Smith—to win the twilight opener from Boston.

BCI Athletes Compete In OSSA Finals

A strong delegation of track and field athletes from Belleville Collegiate Institute Vocational School will travel to the Ontario Athletic Commission Finals at Lake Couchiching, near Orillia, on Saturday to compete in the OSSA finals.

The group, coached by Fred Bradley, qualified in the COSSA meet in Peterborough last Saturday by finishing in the win, place and show positions. The Belleville school won the meet with their starry senior, Bill Gauli setting a new mile record, four minutes, 55.4 seconds. Bill won the run in the mile and the two mile events for the senior boys this week-end.

The intermediate relay team is also expected to make a strong bid for the finals. They won in Peterborough with the time of one minute, 48.3 seconds.

The team consists of Ken Vogelsang, Glen Marsole, Barry Ray, Bill Conrad and Bob Wannamaker.

Glen Marsole will compete in the intermediate 440 and 880 races after winning the former; with a neat 54.3 second last week. Barry Ray will bid for the 220 honors while Graham Sharp is expected to run in the senior 440 and 880 events.

Canada May Not Send Hockey Team To Olympics

REGINA (CP)—The dollar-short Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is expected to wind up its annual meeting today with a decision on whether to send a team to next year's winter Olympics in Italy.

With its budget cut to nearly half of what it was in 1954-55, the association has refused to lay its operating funds to send another team overseas. The CAHA lost more than $3,000 when the world-champion Penticton Vs toured Europe earlier this year.

Although the association ruled out operating funds for another overseas jaunt, its trust fund could provide the necessary money for another trip.

The annual meeting, blaming poor gate receipts from Memorial and Allan Cup playoffs, Wednesday clopped off $28,125 from last year's budget and approved an outlay of $44,200 for the new season. About $35,000 of the total budget is expected to be returned from playoffs.

REDUCES GRANTS

The CAHA reduced to $13,980 from $18,000 its grants to provincial CAHA branches for minor hockey development. The association previously paid each branch $2,000 for minor development.

Delegates also voted to supply last season's playoff clubs with total honours of $14,000. Branch officials will be polled July 1 on whether they want to reduce senior team regularseason as another move for greater economy.

British Columbia representatives proposed a player-cut of any senior A team to 21 before Dec. 1, and to 15 after that date. At present registrations of 25 to 18, respectively, are permitted.

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., CAHA secretary - manager, said some hockey clubs are "killing themselves" financially and "this appears to be the obvious answer to the situation."

NHL Moguls Bow to Minors Grant Protective TV Blank

TORONTO (CP)—Minor professional hockey league teams who previously had to worry about competition from National Hockey League telecasts being beamed into their territory, can rest easy. They now will have a protective TV blackout around them.

Owners of the NHL, bowing to the wishes of the minor leagues, agreed Wednesday to black out telecasts of their home games within a 50-mile radius of any city in which another pro game is scheduled simultaneously. Leagues affected are the American, Quebec and Western.

The new restriction also would help out NHL teams. Next season, when the new TV policy goes into effect, watchers in Windsor would be unable to see the Saturday night telecast from Toronto if Detroit Red Wings happened to be playing at home at the same time.

NOT TO PLAYOFFS

The agreement applies only during the regular schedule. The NHL all-star game and the Stanley Cup playoffs are considered superior fare and these games will not be restricted. "We're not going to down-grade the Stanley Cup playoffs for anybody," president Clarence Campbell of the NHL said after the four-hour closed session.

Amateur hockey teams will not be affected by the blackout although Campbell hinted that some consideration might be given to extending it to the amateurs—if a plan could be worked out.

Campbell gave examples of how the new policy would operate. For instance: A Montreal Canadiens home game would not be telecast in Quebec if a QHL game was being played there that night and, similarly, Winnipeg would be blacked out on a Toronto Maple Leaf game if the pro club in Winnipeg was playing at home.

ONE SOLUTION

The owners also came up with one solution of incomplete games, a problem encountered last March 17 when a Detroit-Montreal game was forfeited after the first period when fans at the Montreal Forum pelted and punched Campbell and set off a tear gas bomb that sent spectators scurrying for the exits. Detroit was awarded the game.

The owners decided that a minimum of 30 minutes of play would constitute a completed game protected from forfeit. It also ruled that no time lost or interrupted by some unnatural occurrence such as happened in Montreal, the referee breaking a leg or any unscheduled development, less than 30 minutes was played before a forfeiture, it would be a suspended game.

First Queen's Plate Trials Indicate Classic Could Be Wide-Open Battle

TORONTO (CP)—There was only one sure thing to note after the first Queen's Plate trials Wednesday. The place at classic could be a wide-open race.

Only one favorite took first-place money in the six Plate trials at Woodbine race track. He was Barnbird, from the Stafford Farms of Toronto.

The chestnut colt won his six-furlong race in 1:14 4-5 and by time, considering the mucky track.

The winner-book favorite, Loyalist, was a disappointment. The brown gelding, owned by Bill Moffat of Toronto, was fourth in the third division.

Despite the sloppy track, the three-year-olds, candidates for the 96th consecutive running of the $20,000-added, nine-furlong Plate next month, registered fairly uniform times.

SHOWS BEST TIME

Baffin Bay, owned by Mrs. R. Y. Graul Jr., of Montreal and winner of the Coronation Stakes last autumn, showed the best time of the trials when she led every step of the route to finish in 1:13 4-5.

Dorcee's Lad, from the stable of Clifford Sendzik, Toronto, won the first division and Ace Marine, owned by Toronto industrialist Larkin Rogers, took the last race.

A crowd of 5,869 braved the inclement weather to watch the three-year-olds.

The fans are expected to get a better idea on the contenders June 3, when the second Plate trials are raced at a distance of a mile and 70 yards.

Terriers Hire New Manager

GALT (CP)—In the throes of a five-game losing streak, Galt Terriers have hired a new manager to replace Bert Puddicombe. He is Bob Milligan of Detroit, who has piloted semi-pro teams since 1946.

Milligan will be in charge of the Terriers when they seek their first win of the Intermediate Senior Baseball League season in Oshawa tonight.

3. Today's player looks a little rigid but he put over the point I want to make. As you start your downswing in that sort of everything-together movement your left arm must be straight — not bent. The straight left arm is the spoke in the wheel. It guides club-head smoothly, accurately into the ball. And think of swinging your club down — not around. Avoid your shoulder - and - hip pivots supply the out-around action. With that straight left arm you'll have no lopped shots. This left shoulder down-pull bunch helps golfers quit trying to figure out tricks for their hips, feet to do. And here's a closing thought: When your club is almost against your left shoulder at the top of your swing you've almost surely brought that long iron or wood club back right.

Braves Sign Windsor Youth

WINDSOR (CP) — Milwaukee Braves of the National Baseball League Wednesday announced they have signed 18-year-old Windsor hurler Johnny Matta to a bonus form club contract.

The amount of the bonus payment was not disclosed.

Matta, a southpaw hurleller, will report next month to the Eau Claire, Wis., club of the class C Northern League.

Farm-Boy Hurler Joins Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—John Bruce Swango, a broad-shouldered farm-boy pitching discovery, joined the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday full of confidence and apparently unafraid of his big jump from high school into the major leagues.

The 18-year-old right-hander flew in from his native Welch, Okla., and immediately established himself as a cross between the fictional Frank Merriwell and a star pitcher of yesteryear, Dizzy Dean.

Swango's high school record sounds like something an author might dream up for a novel. And the way he talks about it smacks of the old Dizzy. But at least he's not overly modest.

When he was signed to a bonus contract last Sunday, it was reported Swango was to receive $20,000 in inducements and salary over a three-year period.

But Swango he prefers to be called—straightened those preliminary figures out in short order, explaining that his pay for the next three years will amount to $36,000.

The playground kid also threatened to correct a slight exaggeration of himself. He said he was not as fast as Bob Turley, the New York Yankees fireball. That's how Swango was described by catcher-outfielder Mickey Mantle of the Yankees when the New Yorkers were dickering for his services.

But Bruce admitted he was "pretty fast" as a grin crept across his square-jawed countenance. "I struck out an average of 17 batters for each seven-inning game, so I guess I might throw pretty hard."

Swango fanned 21 batters in one game and 22 on another occasion "because the catcher couldn't hold the ball and I had to fan an extra batter."

Bruce said he wasn't sure but he thought he hurled "three or four" no-hitters and about four one-hitters. When not pitching he played the outfield and batted a modest .450 as a left-handed swinger. He batted in the clean-up spot—naturally.

Announce New Golf Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Professional Golf Association of Quebec Wednesday announced a new, one-day pro tournament for cash prize money of $3,500. Top prize is $700.

The inaugural will be played July 22 at the Lakeside course, 45 miles west of Montreal, over a 36-hole route.

The tournament, the Quebec professional medal play championship, is for Quebec pros and other assistant pros—the working and teaching assistants.

Mortality Rate High In Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A new Indianapolis motor speedway rule limiting veteran drive relief in the 500-mile race May 30 reflected today the high mortality rate among auto racers.

In the pair's first-year man at the big track has been able to compete only by obtaining a car in the time trials.

He can drive relief next Monday even if his only experience is the driver's test at speeds up to 135 miles an hour.

A shortage of aggressive experienced drivers showed up in the qualifications the last two weekends. Eight rookies made the lineup and seven of them had never even driven a practice lap at the speedway before.

A look at the lineup of the 1951 Memorial Day race, only four years ago, shows how many drivers are getting scarce. Eleven of the 33 starters that year are dead. So is Manuel Ayulo, who drove relief for Duke Dinsmore. Ayulo was killed in a warmup run at the speedway last week.

Lee Wallard, 1951 race winner, was burned severely in a racing accident shortly after the Indianapolis race and hasn't started since. He has recovered, however, and may drive relief Monday.

Detroit Seeks 1960 Olympics

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's super salesmen, the type that made automobiles a necessity almost everywhere, are ready with an all-out effort to bring the 1960 Olympic Games to the United States.

"And I think we have at least a 50-50 chance," declared Jack Tompkins, one of four members of the Detroit Olympic Committee.

This group will appear before the International Olympic Committee in Paris June 11 in an effort to land the games for Detroit. They will be competing against the charms of nine other cities—Rome, Lausanne, Budapest, Brussels, Mexico City and Tokyo.

"It looks like Rome or us," Tompkins said as the Detroit group took the wraps off its exhibit and brochures Wednesday.

Detroit has sought the games actively at meetings of the IOC in 1939, 1946, 1947 and 1948.

A main point in Detroit's favor is that the Olympics have been staged in the United States only twice since they were revived in 1896—in St. Louis in 1904 and Los Angeles in 1932. Europe has had all the rest to date with Melbourne taking over next year.

Nashua Favored In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—If the winnings of all those entered today against Nashua for the $100,000 Preakness on Saturday could be rolled into one, the combination wouldn't come close to the dollars he's taken in little more than a month.

Nashua, oft-accused of being unlucky, passes his $1,000 Kentucky $302,445 piled up in 3 races, 15 of them victories and the other three seconds.

The Preakness first prize for approximately $65,000, depending on the number of entries, would make the Belair Stud's colt the 10th highest money earner of all time at the tender age of three years.

The entry list is to be settled by today. Even if all six of those expected to join Nashua at the $400 window show up, their total winnings are only $386,346.

Eastern Ontario Football League

The Kingston United kept their unbeaten string intact, over the holiday week-end by trouncing the Belleville City squad 11-1 for their third victory in three games. Balawa pulled into a second place tie with Belleville by downing Peterborough 6-5.

N. Gray paced the Kingston club's attack with a trio of goals while E. Clegg, Machin and Mc-Kinnon booted two each. Hoskin and Cooper also scored while Peterson saved the local crew from a shutout.

Eaton and Kuntze led the Balawa attack with a pair of goals each while A. Sneets claimed the odd one. The names of the Peterborough scorers are not available at this time.

Two games are scheduled for this Saturday, May 28th. The Canadian Soels of Peterborough visit Belleville at 3.30 p.m. while Balawa play host to Kingston at 4.00 p.m.

In the individual scoring race, R. Clegg of Kingston sets the pace with eight goals, J. McKenna of Belleville is second with four tallies followed by three Kingston players, N. Gray, McKinnon and Machim, with three goals each.

AHL Requests More Freedom In Player Quest

TORONTO (CP)—A recommendation to allow American Hockey League teams more freedom in buying players on the National Hockey League reserve list will be considered at the three-day annual meeting of the NHL next week in Montreal.

Jim Hendy, general manager of the Cleveland Barons of the AHL, said at a meeting of the relations committee on the NH Land AHL here Wednesday, that under the present agreement there have been cases where a player in the Quebec or Western League was prevented from being drafted into the AHL because he was on the NHL reserve list.

He said: "This is legal, but we'd like to see a change so that AHL clubs can pick up players in either the QHL or the WHL who are not NHL calibre but would fit into the AHL."

Harvey Kuenn Out With Injury

DETROIT (AP)—Harvey Kuenn, Detroit shortstop and leading hitter in the American League, was admitted to Detroit Hospital Wednesday with a pulled muscle in his left thigh and doctors here said he will be out of action probably a week.

Kuenn injured the muscle while running out a hit in the first inning of a game in Kansas City Tuesday night.

Pitcher Steve Gromek, forced out of action in the same game by a sacroiliac condition, also returned to Detroit for treatment. Doctors here were uncertain how long he will be sidelined.

Kuenn had played in 286 games, longest consecutive playing streak among players now in the American League.

Temperamental Actress Who Slipped From Stardom Wins Second Chance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I see now that I was temperamental. I didn't co-operate with publicity. I didn't want to do cheesecake. If I had it to do over again, I would do it differently."

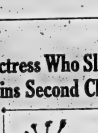
That was what Jody Lawrence said a few months ago. She was the 24-year-old beauty who had slipped from film stardom to being a waitress in an ice cream shop.

Now she has that Hollywood rarity—the second break. She has signed at Paramount for a leading role in "Too Late, My Love." Instead of the $5 a day (including tips) she earned as a waitress, she'll be getting $300 a week.

True to her word, she is doing things differently this time. She was happily posing for cheesecake this week. And the results prove that she had nothing to hide.

At 19 Jody was starring with Burt Lancaster in "10 Tall Men." She was considered one of the most promising players on the Columbia lot. But then she was cast opposite Mickey Rooney in a lightweight musical.

REPUTATION HURT



"It was inadequate and hurt," she said. "I had been co-starred in six important pictures. Now they wanted to put me in a little musical, and I couldn't even sing or dance."

Jody balked. The impatient studio released her. After a fruitless contract with Charles Feldman and a few television parts, she found her temperamental reputation kept her from acting jobs. She became a waitress.

Jody's story was told in this space last January. Good things started to happen to her. She had several offers from TV shows, which she was unable to make because she wouldn't sign a long-term contract.

Then Michael Curtiz happened to see her on a TV film she made many months ago. After inquiring about her, he said ahead of his article which reported she was working as a waitress. He dropped into the Westwood shop to see her.

"He left the best tip he could have"—while the studio would be calling her.

The Bibbler

You can be chatty or dourly obtuse. You can be pleasant or full of abuse. But darling, if you are a good simple overcall partner, be mine.

If your simple overcall (non-jump defensive bid) is only one it promises five tricks. If it must be two, it shows six tricks. If it has to be three, it needs seven tricks.

Tricks enough are the most important ingredients in the making-up of a sound simple overcall. But there are two other features to be promised or denied therein; suit length and biz cards.

Length in your suit is what your partner is entitled to find in your hand when you simple overcall. What length? No less than five cards. Never let 'im catch you with four or less cards.

When you respond to a bid by your partner, a suit containing no more than four cards is expected. But never let it be said that you are a simple overcaller with a suit of only four cards. South opens the bidding with one heart when you have the west hand shown here:

♠A ♥A 8 4 3 ♦K 6 3 ♣K 7

It looks like a pretty good hand in defence. It contains five tricks; the number of tricks you would promise with a bid of only one spade. But avoid such a simple overcall.

—Why should you avoid a simple overcall of one spade? Because the trump suit with which you overcall contains less than five cards. Despite what else you have, it is not enough for a simple overcall.

You are just shy of some of the stuff it takes to make a stronger kind of defensive bid. So it gives you a feeling of frustration is it there and not make a simple overcall.

Are you wondering what you should do about it? For goodness sake! Nobody is holding a gun to your head. Pass.

Margaret Truman to Interview Parents on Ed Murrow's Show

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Anybody might be expected to feel a little nervous about interviewing a former president of the United States on television.

But that isn't what's worrying Margaret Truman.

"The only thing I'm worried about is trying to get Ed Murrow's chair," says Miss Truman of her latest TV role, conducting a first CBS interview with her parents on CBS tomorrow night.

After planning for months to have the former president appear on the show, Murrow had to go to England to cover today's election. So he asked daughter Margaret, now a TV veteran, to take his place as the cameras visit the Truman home in Independence, Mo.

WANTED ALL THREE

"The first time Ed asked dad to appear he only needed a fill in into his schedule," Miss Truman explains. "The next time I couldn't be there because I'm on a concert tour and Ed wanted all three of us together. Then there or four weeks ago he asked if I'd take his place here for the visit Friday night.

Miss Truman has been under contract to NBC the last four years and received partial permission from the network to appear on the rival CBS.

As a president's daughter, Miss Truman has received far more attention and publicity in her career than if she had been just another aspiring young singer and actress. The same factor works in reverse, to a certain degree, with audiences being more critical than they would be of an unknown.

Miss Truman maintains a hotel apartment here and has just returned from a concert tour. Asked about her romantic interests, she commented: "Oh, there's always romance—but nothing serious yet, but always romance."

AT THE CAPITOL — Donna Concorsan and her pet colt provide excitement and heartwarming humor in "Flame Colt" story of a horse and the boy who developed a fierce attachment for him. Starring Frances Dee and Kirby Grant in the Abaco Color picture which comes to the screen today for children and adults alike. It opens tonight at the Capitol with the same co-feature program as last Sunday—"Cattle Drive" Technicolor "Shotgun" starring Sterling Hayden and Yvonne De Carlo and Zachary Scott.

AT THE McCARTHY

Gilda Gray, an artist of the dance who operated in the highly individual field of the shimmy, returned to films recently in an executive capacity with Mickey Spillane's "Kiss Me Deadly," which opens on Friday at the McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release.

Miss Gray's official title was: "Sex Appeal Consultant."

It is by now an open secret that sex, along with buckets of blood, is a vital ingredient in the works of Mr. Spillane, whose books have sold a total of 60 million copies to date. The screen version of "Kiss Me Deadly" contains enough quantity of both. The blood department is handled by Ralph Meeker, as the famous private eye, Mike Hammer. The sex department, presided over by Gilda Gray, includes such toothsome bundles as Marian Carr, Maxine Cooper, Gloria Leachman, Gaby Rodgers and Leigh Snowden. Miss Snowden, the white enterprise, a 2-Parkiane picture, was Robert Aldrich, producer and director of "Kiss Me Deadly."

The first intimation that sex, or the interpretation thereof for public consumption, was not a cut-and-dried matter, came on the opening day of shooting. Four of the five of the beautiful girls in the cast, watching a still photographer pose Leigh Snowden, with emphasis on cheesecake, fell into an academic discussion as to what precisely constituted sex appeal. It developed that each had her own notions, relative to how they should kiss, carry themselves; what conditions they like to walk; what timbre of voice, etc.

Aldrich, overhearing, decided on the spot in view of the widely divergent differences of opinion—it might be a good idea to call in an expert to set forth a uniform code of behavior. Hence the hiring of Gilda Gray, who has been dispensing sex appeal for some thirty years.

Rocky Marciano vs Don Cockell championship fight pictures are a special added attraction. Top thrills in slow motion.

Game Called "No Balls"

COBOURG (CP)—A ball game had to be called off here Tuesday night because the home team ran out of balls.

Cobourg Legionaires of the Lakeshore Baseball League were leading Colborne Dodgers 7-5 in the bottom half of the seventh.

A thunder over the situation forced umpires, who noticed it was starting to rain anyway, to call off the game. They awarded it to the Legionaires, who had a 3-2 record before coming up to bat in the seventh.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Good vibrations for those of you who put forth your best efforts. Remember, too, to "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Keep thinking as you progress.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Apply suggestions to Capricorn. We all need to indulge in occasional self-analysis, to look both backward and forward in order to get a better perspective.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Maintain your good spirits; take advantage of even the smallest opportunity and watch your stock rise. Stay on the rational side; enjoy life's true values. You seldom forget the less fortunate — a great gift.

You born today are versatile, able to adapt yourself to changing conditions. Rather restless, you may be difficult to understand at times but, living up to your best, you are gracious, generous, helpful. Keep developing consistency, ease of action. Don't scatter your efforts, thus exhausting your energies. Concentrate on the main issues for all-round good results. Rest, relax at intervals; you seldom do this until you are too tired, then you become aggravated with others. Religion is your balancer, stabilizer.

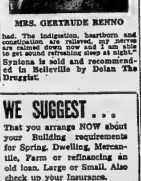
Delighted with Results She Got by Using the Herbal Medicine.

Anyone lookin gfor proof of the good results people get by taking Syntona Herbal Compound need look no further than STORIES told by men and women who have used this medicine.



A Recent Example

Mrs. Gertrude Renno, 1636 Churchill Street, London, Ont., recently sent in the following letter of appreciation with Syntona:

"I was rundown and suffering from nervous indigestion. I would get bad attacks of heartburn with a full, heavy feeling in my stomach after eating a light meal. This often affected my breathing and I would get dizzy spells. I couldn't sleep at night and I'd get up mornings feeling tired-out to start the day. Constipation was a daily worry to me.

"But, since taking Syntona I feel so much better that I must write and let you know of the good results I've had. The indigestion, heartburn and constipation are gone, my nerves are calmed down now and I am able to get sound, refreshing sleep at night. Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

WE SUGGEST . . .

R.W. Nelson P.S.I. Speaks On Education

MARMORA. — The regular monthly meeting of Marmora Chapter IODE, was held recently in the Masonic Hall with the regent, Mrs. J. A. Atchison presiding.

The meeting opened with the prayer of the Order and the presentation of the flag by the standard bearer.

The treasurer's report revealed a favorable balance on hand.

The educational committee reported that the pictures of the Queen for presentation to the schools on Empire Day had been ordered. A new application for membership was accepted.

Miss M. Savage, convener on services at home and abroad, reported that the balance of pocket editions of books had been sent to Germany for the Canadian soldiers there.

Mrs. W. Tupper, wool convener, reported a quantity of wool on hands.

The flowers and gifts report was next given by Mrs. F. Leal, who also reported that cups and saucers had been purchased for the kitchen supply.

Mrs. F. R. Wells, convener for the Empire Day tea, reported that arrangements for the same had been completed.

Mrs. C. Brady gave her report on the educational program arranged for the coming year.

The regent asked the members to keep articles through spring and summer so that a rummage sale could be held in the fall.

GUEST SPEAKER

At this point, the guest speaker of the evening, R. W. Nelson, inspector of Public School for Centre Hastings, was introduced by Mrs. W. M. Regan.

Addressing the members on "Education", he spoke at the outset on the factors in the education of a child. "The course of study for public schools," he said, "is primarily for guidance. There is plenty of scope for originality. It is a necessity to keep some conformity since society demands it. There is freedom on various courses, and the individual teacher is not pushed about to do as every other teacher."

Mrs. J. M. Brownlie voiced the thanks of the chapter to the speaker.

Refreshments were served.

Roslin

ROSLIN.— On Sunday evening the Right Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, visited the Roslin parish and dedicated the new oak chancel floor and carpet in St. Paul's church which had been presented to the church in loving memory of the late Mrs. Seymore Rose.

Other clergy assisting with the service were the Rev. L. A. Pare of Belleville, and the rector in charge, the Rev. Mr. Walker.

CAMPBELLFORD

New Switchboard Needed Soon At Power Plant

CAMPBELLFORD. — The replacement of the present switchboard at the town power plant was the topic of discussion at a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission here, when a representative of the CGE gave plans and specifications for a new installation.

Mr. Al L. Malcolm, a retired engineer, was present at the meeting on the invitation of the chairman, R. J. A. McGregor, Mr. Malcolm, who was a former Campbellford resident, has offered his services to the commission on an advisory capacity.

He stated, as did P. C. Denyes, manager of the PUC and the CGE representative, that the present switchboard is not only inadequate, but unsafe. They advised replacing the board as soon as possible. The present equipment is old, and in need of repair, and according to the manager, is serviced overloaded at times.

After hearing the evidence and viewing the specifications presented by the CGE, the commission board agreed that the gear at the plant was not adequate and that something should be done about it.

Commissioner Meyers and Chairman Robert McGregor said that immediate action should be taken and sponsored a motion to purchase the installation recommended by CGE at a cost of $30,-154. Commissioner Newman was strong in his opposition to such a move, saying that the letting of a contract after receiving figures from only one firm was not good business. He suggested splitting the work and the cost over a number of years, and call for tenders from other companies.

WITHDRAWS MOTION

Commissioner Meyers said he would withdraw his motion to purchase the switchboard installation from CGE right away, but said that he wished to go on record that he would not be responsible for the consequences, if anything went wrong with the present installation.

Mayor R. J. Locke sided with with Commissioner Chris. Newman, saying that the only method of determining the value of the gear would be to call for tenders and compare prices.

After further consideration, Commissioner Newman, Kingston and Mayor Locke supported a motion to ask for tenders for the work and to advise a number of companies engaged in this particular business that price is being sought on a new installation.

There was some discussion regarding the purchase of a new turbine, and the methods that might be employed to increase the potential output at the town plant, but no action was taken.

1 Dead, 7 Missing As Frame Hotel In Nelson B. C. Burns

Five Injured As Guests Escape in Night Attire

NELSON, B. C. (CP)—The body of a child was recovered and seven persons were still unaccounted for this morning as firemen sifted through the smoking ruins of the three-storey Strathcona Hotel, this interior British Columbia city's oldest.

A fire department spokesman said the body of the child had not yet been identified and the names of the missing still had not been determined.

The spokesman said there were about 60 guests in the 35-room frame structure at the time of the blaze.

Five persons were injured as guests fled the hotel in night attire shortly after the fire broke out about 1 a. m.

Firemen fought vainly to control the flames, which at times leaped to 100 feet. Within an hour all that remained standing was one corner of the hotel.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Smoke located on the shores of the west arm of Kootenay lake, is about 250 miles east of Vancouver.

One man was taken to hospital with a broken back and another, with a fractured foot as guests leaped from the windows of the ramshackle building.

E. V. Land and Paul Franck hung by their fingertips from a second-storey window ledge before ladders were put up to bring them down. Their hands were badly burned.

Firemen said wooden staircases enveloped the flames from one storey to the next, making the hotel "a regular tinderbox."

More Interested In Running Than Batting

BEECH BOTTOM, W. Va. (AP)—The two top hitters on the West Virginia penitentiary baseball team escaped Thursday while waiting their turn to bat in pre-game practice.

The prison team arrived in this Ohio river town, about 25 miles from the boundaries of penitentiary, to play a local team.

Warden Orel J. Skeen said the two, Charles Hooks, 35, and Herbert Sowell, 32, fled while the prison team lounged around the bus, awaiting turns at batting practice.

Hooks, serving 11 me n for breaking and entering, is the centerfielder for the prison's Red Sox. Sowell, serving a 20-year term for robbery, had held down first base.

Prison guards found the pair's baseball uniforms a short distance from the bus.

14-Year-Old Girl Killed, Car Hits Tree

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP)—A 14-year-old girl was killed Thursday night when the car in which she was riding went out of control and hit a tree nine miles north of here.

June Rita Levesque, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morrey Levesque of nearby Trent River, died instantly when the car driven by Joseph Rowe, 18, hurtled 200 feet along a shallow ditch on Highway 30 and smashed against an elm tree.

Rowe and Stewart Campbell, another passenger, are in hospital here suffering shock and minor cuts. Police have not yet been permitted to question them.

Campbellford is 30 miles east of Peterborough.

Liberal Leader Only Candidate At Meeting

HANOVER, Ont. (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, Liberal party leader, was the only candidate present at a post - election meeting here on Thursday and what was expected to be a joint debate became a Liberal party rally.

Mr. Oliver, Harry Kress, Progressive Conservative, and Elgin McCutcheon, CCF, were the nominees in the riding—Grey South—for the Ontario election June 9.

The joint meeting after nominations drew a big audience in the riding but Mr. McCutcheon and Mr. Kress were not present. About a dozen persons left the meeting in the town hall right after the 3 p.m. deadline, leaving Mr. Oliver to address a gathering of about 65.

Two Men Killed As Plane Crashes In Railway Yard

EDMONTON (CP) — A 30-ton air freighter with a cargo as explosive as a warhead bowled into a railway yard Thursday in attempting a takeoff from Edmonton municipal airport.

The two crew members were killed as the four-engined aircraft, operated by Arctic Associated Airways Ltd., knifed through a shack at the end of the runway, smashed into three lines of freight cars and burst into flames.

Canadian National Railways said 17 boxcars in its yard were damaged beyond repair. Seven were knocked over by the impact. No one in the yards was injured.

The plane carried two boxes of blasting powder and other cargo to be used in building the DEW radar network along the rim of the Arctic mainland.

The dead were identified as pilot William Highton, 31, of Durham, England, and co-pilot Donald Hinton, 23, of the Winnipeg suburb of Fort Garry.

EXCURSIONISTS SAVED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sixty school children and 47 parents and teachers were rescued Thursday from an excursion boat on the Mississippi after its tug capsized and sank in a thunderstorm. Crew members were picked up safely from the water. The coast guard rushed two motorboats to remove the children and adults from the barge.

Nearly $100,000 Damages Assessed Against Driver Killing Three People

KITCHENER (CP)—A total of $96,721 damages have been assessed against William Stevenson of Brantford, driver of a car which collided head-on with another car last August, killing three people.

The award is believed one of the largest ever made in Ontario as the result of one accident.

Thursday in Supreme Court here, the widow and four children of William Zorotsah of Preston were awarded $46,396 and Joseph Zelenluk, also of Preston, was awarded $18,580.

ASK GOVERNMENT TO REDUCE LETTER POSTAGE RATE

PC And CCF Members Join in Demand

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has been told it should reduce the letter postage rate it increased a year ago.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members made the demand Thursday in a general Commons debate on postal affairs.

The all - day discussion also brought forth: A call for an end to "subsidization" of advertisers through second-class mail rates; the perennial plea for better conditions for mail carriers, and a charge that "indirect blackmail" is involved in unsolicited deliveries of goods and magazine subscriptions.

T. A. M. Kirk, parliamentary assistant to Postmaster - General Vote, started it off with a report that revenues last fiscal year jumped 17 per cent to $151,000,000. The surplus was an expected $5,000,000, not taking into account some $5,000,000 in free postage and $13,000,000 in rentals paid by the public works department.

William Hamilton (PC—Montreal Notre - Dame - de - Grace) said the government showed "woolly-headedness" last year in getting Parliament's approval of a letter-rate increase of one cent an ounce. He said the surplus should be the basis for a revision and reduction in postal rates.

Ernest Hegler (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said the department could reduce the letter rate and still make ends meet by increasing second-class rates on magazines and periodicals.

He said it is an imposition on those paying the higher letter rate to ask them to subsidize magazine postage which does not cover handling costs.

George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) said mail carriers speak up to half an hour daily of their own time in redirecting magazines to subscribers who have moved. Muskets of heavy items also sometimes have to be repaired after they get on their distribution systems.

Claude Ellis (CCF—Regina) said a new directive under which holiday time is deducted for hours lost on the job is "insulting and humiliating" to civil servants. He urged payment of time-and-a-half instead of regular pay rates for special relaying yard Thursday to 40 hours a week.

Other speakers of "indirect blackmail" was made by Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East). He said that publishers of periodicals could be intimidated by demands for payment for delivery of goods and magazines sent them.

Mr. Winch said he himself was billed for $2.60 by Life magazine for copies of the publication which he never ordered nor wanted. The magazines were sent to him despite requests that they be mailed to Israel, Asher saying he didn't want them.

The majority of Canadians, if given the DEW - line building contract, likely would not know they had a part in it, Mr. Hamilton said, "or something they had not ordered.

J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec East-Gaspe) said Canada should be bulwark of "infernal" propaganda by the Communist party.

INJECTIONS CAUSE ILLNESS

TOKYO (Reuters) — About 900 Tokyo school children have fallen ill after receiving injections of anti - dysentery vaccines, Tokyo health authorities reported today. At two primary schools in the capital 1,184 children received the vaccine Monday. Four hours later some had fevers of up to 104 degrees. Others complained of stomach pains.

Russia Accepts Parley Bid, Hits Move to Free Satellites

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia are squaring off for what may be one of the decisive battles of the cold war—a struggle over who is going to pull back.

New evidence of this developing power struggle is found by Washington authorities in Russia's notes to the Western powers Thursday. While accepting a bid to a Big Four conference this summer, Moscow denounced American leaders for talking about freedom for the Communist states of eastern Europe.

The U.S. did not respond in kind to the critical tone of the Soviet message. It said it is "glad" that Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin is willing to meet with President Eisenhower and the British and French premiers.

While ignoring Russia's criticism State Secretary Dulles reiterated in his wording of the invitation Eisenhower's and Eisenhower's intentions of pressing the satellite issue at the meeting.

Freedom and justice are there. Dulles has been publicly demanding for the Soviet satellites.

U.S. officials thought the Soviet notes to Washington, Paris and London had a defensive tone. They interpreted this to mean that Dulles and Eisenhower had stuck the Reds in a sensitive spot when, in a television broadcast 10 days ago, Dulles put forth as a proper conference issue the problem of satellite freedom.

The Russians are following a similar line in the diverse directions Thursday's message was in keeping with their current campaign to roll back American power from its forward positions in Europe and Asia.

In the note, the Soviet Union accuses the U.S. of trying to prevent international settlements, and appealed to France and Britain to break with the U.S. position on the ground that it would not "contribute to an appropriate atmosphere" for the projected top-level meeting.

Total of 314 Candidates In Ontario Election Campaign

TORONTO (CP)—The June 9 Ontario election campaign took final form today with 314 candidates in the field.

When nominations closed Thursday, this was the line-up of candidates for the 98-seat legislature:

Progressive Conservative 97; Liberal 86; including two Liberal-Labor; CCF 81; Labor-Progressive (Communist) 31; independent 1; independent Progressive Conservative 1, Independent Social Credit 1; Socialist-Labor 1.

The number of candidates nominated last June was one of the record 317 nominated in 1945 when there were 90 seats at stake but exceeded the 271 in 1951 and 299 in 1948.

The size of the field reflected an expansion of the legislature itself. Redistribution last year created eight new seats, including representation to 89 from 90, altered the boundaries of 25 constituencies and changed the names of two.

At dissolution this spring the House standing was: Progressive Conservative 78; Liberal 6; CCF 3; Liberal-Labor 1; Labor-Progressive 1; vacant 2.

There were no acclamations; there have been none in Ontario general elections since 1929 when there were eight.

Five-way election battles will be staged in Wentworth, Kenora-Rainy River, Toronto Riverdale, and Toronto St. Andrew. Four-cornered fights loom in 21 constituencies and three-cornered in 47, and two-candidate clashes in 22.

The Progressive Conservative administration, seeking its fifth successive victory in the polls, is led into an election campaign for the second time by 55-year-old Premier Leslie Frost. It is contesting every seat except Renfrew South in that riding, James S. Dempsey, who lost Premier Frost's support a few weeks ago over an unreported 1951 campaign contribution, is running as an independent Progressive Conservative.

Mr. Frost, a lawyer from Lindsay, has been a member of the legislature since 1937. He served as reform minister from 1943 to 1948 and has been provincial treasurer since 1949. He is opposed by a Liberal and a CCF candidate in his home riding of Victoria.

Liberal forces are led by Farquhar Oliver, Opposition leader in the last House and a former Liberal cabinet minister, who has represented Grey South in the legislature since 1926. Mr. Oliver is fighting his eighth campaign, his second as party leader. The previous one in which he headed his party was in 1948.

The CCF chieftain is Donald C. MacDonald, 36, who in the first campaign as party leader. The former national CCF organizer took over Ontario CCF leadership in December, 1953, from E. B. Jolliffe, Toronto alderman. Mr. MacDonald, who has not yet held a legislature seat, is contesting the Toronto area riding of York South, where he faces opposition from a Progressive Conservative, a Liberal, and a Labor-Progressive.

The Labor-Progressive party put 31 candidates into the campaign in ridings scattered across the province. In the last election it nominated six—one was elected—and in the 1948 election 16. Its provincial leader is Stewart Smith, candidate in Toronto Bellwood and a former member of the Toronto board of control.

Death Toll in Tornadoes Lashing Six States Now 115

UDALL, Kan. (AP) — Rubble piles in this smashed town yielded additional bodies as the toll from death - dealing tornadoes which lashed six states mounted to at least 115 today.

More than 700 were injured. They were described as suffering from "broken bones to sticks stuck in their backs." Property damage was in the millions.

As bulldozers and a crane turned over the ruins of the southwest town of 500 where only three business places were left standing, more bodies were recovered overnight.

They brought the total killed here by the furious storm which struck late Wednesday night to 14. Five others were killed at nearby Oxford, Kan.

Blackwell, Okla.; 80 miles south of here, where a tornado demolished 25-35 residences, took a grim ing 18 persons and injuring more than 300, braced today for a possible flood. Police feared the Chikaskia river, swollen by three-inch rains upstream, might overflow would be two feet above flood stage at Blackwell some time during the night.

The river borders the residential and industrial area levelled by the twister.

Oklahoma's worst tornado since 106 were killed in Woodward eight years ago.

The twisting winds brought death to 26 in Oklahoma, 15 in Texas and one in Missouri, and they were still bopping around late Thursday night, striking in eastern Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Iowa. But the new storms spared the lives that the first had taken.

As darkness crept over battered Udall, a 24-hour state police and guard ordered the town evacuated.

Many of the dead were buried in Udall yesterday. Linney Corlow was elated to find his son alive in a hospital at Ponca City. The boy's mother was the body of his wife in a mortuary.

Some were buried in their own once-thriving farming community were unable to find homes where relatives lived.

At her roofless house, Mrs. Harry Stevens, a widow, loaded her remaining household goods into a truck. "I've got relatives in Ponca City, Okla.," she said grimly. "I ain't going to stay here."

Her neighbor, Gus Subich, was sucked out of his house and hurled through the window of a neighbor's home.

Johnny Walker said, "We saw bodies lying along the street and then that was gone (dead) we just left lying. We kept looking for the others (living)."

Personal Triumph For Eden As He Leads His Party To 65-Seat Victory Over Labor

Peace Plans Strengthened

Victorious!

LONDON (CP) — Sir Anthony Eden's Conservatives today routed Clement Attlee's Labor party and gained a commanding parliamentary majority.

With all but a few constituencies still to report results in Thursday's general election, Reuters News Agency said the final majority was expected to total about 65 seats.

This proved to be the greatest Conservative victory in a quarter-century and strengthened Eden's hand to pursue his peace-making efforts abroad and settling industrial disputes at home.

POPULAR CHOICE

It also established Eden for the first time as the popular choice as the nation's leader after having his apprenticeship for years by the brilliance of Sir Winston Churchill.

The sharp swing to the right came as a resounding triumph for the Conservatives' free enterprise economy and was a sharp setback for the Socialist campaign for more nationalization, and a broadened welfare state.

LONDON (CP) — Returns from 623 of 630 constituencies in the British election today showed the leading party standings at 12:50 p. m. (EDT):

Conservatives	341
Labor	276
Liberals	3
Sinn Fein	1
Unopposed	2
Total	630

The Labor leadership conceded defeat early today, many hours before the Conservatives, picking up strength from later-reporting rural constituencies, won their 316th seat for a clear majority in the 630-seat House of Commons.

It was a great victory for Eden who went to the people for a fresh mandate after taking over as prime minister from Sir Winston Churchill in April. In the 1951 election Churchill led the party to a 15-seat victory in ousting the Labor government.

TRIUMPHANT RETURN

Adding to Eden's prestige was the fact that this was the first time in almost a century that the party in power had increased its strength in a general election.

Eden, with a new freedom to base on 10 Downing street, the official residence of the prime minister, returned triumphantly to London today.

A short time later, at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EDT), the counting produced the 316th Conservative seat.

The clinching of a majority was largely a formality in view of predictions, almost from the start of the election, that the government would wind up with a majority of 60 to 70 seats.

The 51-year-old prime minister, with his wife by his side, left his official residence in Admiralty by car after telling his supporters his political victory there went beyond my wildest dreams."

The fortunes of candidates who were born or lived in Canada or have Canadian connections were likewise mixed.

A former University of Toronto student, Bernard Floud, Labor, was in his attempt to oust the sitting Conservative, Hubert Ashton, in Chelmsford, Essex.

Swing To Right Reflects Boom Times, Some Subtle Social Changes

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The swing to the right in Britain's genteel general election reflects prosperous times, thousands-round probably some subtle social changes underneath it all.

Of the many possible explanations for the dear-cut Conservative victory, perhaps the most commonly accepted is that times are good in Britain, better than they have been for at least 40 years. This has rounded on Labor's appeal as a militant left-wing party.

Other factors are the impression of steadiness and confidence given by Conservative Premier Eden at 57½ years of office, the changing discord in Labor ranks and the emergency act seemingly more liberal influences on Conservative policy.

Pre-war Tory governments are remembered with little affection by any section of the population. But they were not, in retrospect, a brand of welfare capitalism, have taken Labor's cradle-to-the-grave welfare state and, some say, made it work better.

Putting it another way, the Socialists may be said to have overreached themselves out of a job.

"Remember what happened to the Liberals?" asked a wealthy English publisher in a pre-election conversation. "They launched a great wave of reform and then went out. The same thing has happened to the Labor party."

The Liberals, a dominant force in 19th century politics, have since executed social changes before the First World War. Their eclipse dates from the 1920s. Now the Conservatives are in the ascendancy over Labor, their great rival of the 1930s.

A difference is that nobody expects the Socialists to suffer so shattering a decline as the Liberals. Over the years the British political system has become firmly set in the two-party mould, with first one party and then the other benefiting by the swing of the pendulum.

Labor, with its mass vote and working - class affiliation, seems bound to remain one of the big battalions for a long time.

Straight Fight In P.E.-Lennox Now Assured

PICTON — Nominated to contest Prince Edward-Lennox in the Provincial election were Norris Whitney, farmer, and Percy L. Mellott, gentleman. They reside in Ameliasburg and Athol townships, Prince Edward County, respectively.

Both filed papers with returning officer Thomas E. Walker. There were no speeches.

Mr. Whitney is a member of the last Legislature.

Official nomination ended a period of uncertainty as to whether Mr. Whitney would be opposed. Monday evening Wednesday announced he planned to resign as leader due to "lack of organization, lack of finances and lack of support by the organization."

Matters were patched up overnight Wednesday and Mr. Mellott announced he would remain in the running.

Few, if any, election meetings are planned by the candidates, they relying largely on the press and radio to reach the public.

Shannonville Man Given 6 Months For Break-In

Roy Pringle, Shannonville, was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Magistrate T. F. Wills in county magistrate's court Thursday morning following conviction on a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

Gordon Maracle, 18, also of Shannonville was charged with the same offence but the case against him was dismissed by the magistrate.

Provincial police said the service station of Reginald Stewart in Shannonville had been entered on May 4th with two blankets and a quantity of cigarets being stolen. The blankets were recovered by police.

Called as Crown witness in the case against Maracle, Pringle at first denied any knowledge of the break-in. Then when confronted with a statement, which he had given earlier to police he admitting being a party to the break-in but said Maracle had suggested entering the garage and had taken the blankets.

Called in his own defence, Maracle denied any knowledge of the break-in.

Crown Attorney, Richard D. Arnold acted for the Crown, while Louis Maraxaza acted as defence counsel for Maracle.

Meter Checked Before Ticket Is Made Out

Motorists who find tickets on their cars for overtime parking may no longer have the complaint "that the meter wasn't working," when they call at the city police station or appear in magistrate's court.

Just to remove all doubt as to the operating efficiency of the parking meters, the exact where overtime parking is noted, police have been instructed to drop a penny in the meter slot before making out the parking ticket.

But the penny, which has recently caused a bit of wondering on the part of residents, who have seen patrol officers writing out parking tickets for cars where the parking meter was still showing parking time.

What these resident did not realize is that the time seen still on the meter was "city time" rung up by the officer before he wrote out the ticket.

Premier Frost To Visit City, District Tuesday

Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Progressive Conservative party leader, will visit the ridings of Hastings East and West, May 31st. and June 1st.

The provincial premier will also stay overnight in Belleville in his five-day swing through eastern Ontario.

The premier is scheduled to arrive in Trenton at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, May 31st. After dinner in Trenton he is slated to meet with workers in the party's committee rooms where he will make a brief address.

A rally has been scheduled for the riding in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium at 8.30 p.m.

After an overnight stay in the city, Mr. Frost will make a brief informal stop at the Indian reservation near Desoronto before proceeding to an afternoon meeting in Morrisburg.

At Morrisburg he is scheduled to meet with the rest of the workers of Ronald Cass of this city, Conservative candidate, and his campaign workers.

During his visit to Hastings West, Mr. Frost will be accompanied by W. Elmer Sandercock, Conservative candidate for the provincial riding.

Planning Board To Again Request City's Share

The Belleville and Suburban Planning Board will make another request to city council for payment of the city's share of the board's costs so that work planned for this year may be carried out.

This was decided at a special meeting of board members yesterday when a committee held last night at city hall. Several members of the council also attended the meeting.

The city's share of $1,950 represents 85 per cent of the years' budget for the suburban planning board. Thurlow's share is 35 per cent and Sidney's 15 per cent.

However, city council made no provision for payment of the $1,950 when preparing estimates earlier in the year, at the time objecting to the 63 per cent share as compared with the percentage paid by the two rural municipalities. Several weeks ago the suburban planning board requested council to pay the $1,950 but no action was taken.

Alderman Bram Humphreys as chairman of the city planning committee, noted that Thurlow and Sidney townships would not agree to any increase in their payments they should pay toward planning board costs, feeling that any planning done would ultimately be of more benefit to the city than to the rural area.

Alderman Humphreys said the feeling of city councillors at last night's meeting was that the city's share of suburban planning board costs should be paid and noted that the board would again make a formal request for the $1,950 to be paid.

Police Court

Convicted on a charge of having unlawful possession of an offensive weapon, Howard McAllister, 24, of Belleville, was fined a fine of $5 with $25 costs by Magistrate T. F. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning.

Testifying in court, Police Constables Kent and Davis said they had checked McAllister's car on Front street last April 18, and had found a shotgun less than 20 inches in length on the back seat.

Appearing as counsel for the accused Malcolm Robb pleaded that McAllister had no criminal record or intention. He said his client had purchased the shotgun during the winter to shoot rabbits and that the damaged barrel had it shortened, to remove the danger.

In assessing the fine and costs, Magistrate Wills noted that the shotgun would be confiscated.

A third offence drunk was assessed $10 and costs or 23 days three months in jail, while a first offender was given 10 days on the hills.

The request of a motorist through his solicitor to re-open a careless driving charge which had been settled out of court with the fine paid, was denied by the magistrate. The solicitor noted the fine had been paid by his client's brother without the accused realizing the fine payment was actually a plea of guilty with cancellation of licence automatically following.

Sen. Fraser Predicts Big Expansion In Trenton in Next Five Years

TRENTON. (Special.) — Senator W. A. Fraser speaking to the annual meeting of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night, told an enthusiastic gathering that Trenton had a good chance of landing two of the three industries now giving considerations to locations here.

Expounding on the theme, of "Trenton", Senator Fraser suggested that the town's industrial wealth was only in its first phase. "In five years planned expansion of existing industries will double, triple and ten times over increase employment in Trenton," he said. Senator Fraser claimed that the town was better off with a diversification of industries rather than attempt to service a large one.

The Senator broke his address into three phases. The first he pointed out that it was the responsibility of the citizens of Trenton to conserve the millions in assets established for them in the last 150 years.

Dwelling on his favorite subject the Senator urged the people to use the town's major source of revenue. "Agriculture in the area surrounding the town cannot succeed," he added. He referred to the "Golden Mile" from the west east of the town and drew attention to its $1,000,000 monthly payroll flowing directly into the community. "Trenton has been extremely fortunate," he remarked.

The Senator unfolded the secret of how industry was decided to locate in a community. "Certain economic factors including nearness to supply of raw materials, labor and transportation facilities are the first factors before the personal element comes into the picture. Personality is another great asset," he explained.

"It is vitally important we continue to induce industry to locate here," he declared. Turning to former Mayor H. J. McFarland he urged the Trenton council to build Trenton a bigger and better place to live in. The Senator ended his head in agreement.

IN FORTUNATE POSITION

Senator Fraser warned his listeners, including Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton and Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton, that it was not easy to convince industries that Trenton can offer more than any other Ontario community. "No one knows better than Ken and myself the competition that exists between communities. He mentioned one community advertising free sites. "Fortunately we have been in a position to give free sites," he reminded his listeners.

Many communities in Ontario and across the people who make up the community," declared. "The responsibility of good citizenship starts with the parents in the home. It's rather how a child is brought up with fundamental principals and respect for property rights. It is necessary that the younger generation to take part in public life. Be forewarned, democracy jeopardized if younger people shirked the duties of public life. Be sure that the young people to forget golf and driving pleasure for a while," Senator Fraser's prosperity builds indolence," he asserted.

"The greatest satisfaction in life is accomplishment," continued the Senator. Satisfaction to me is being able to count 32 cars taking advantage of Trenton's waterfront. He recalled that the federal government had spent $165,000 on harbour dredging that were slough holes until the work of rehabilitation started a few years ago.

The Senator considered that his greatest accomplishment was to watch Trenton advance from a town of 5,300 population in 1924 to a community of over 14,000 now. "Trenton has become more prosperous and the children are better cared for," he commented. He wondered how to develop greater civic pride in the community. He assured his listeners that never at any time had he let personal interest with the advance of Trenton."

NO CHISELLERS WANTED

The Senator made it known that "I am against anybody who chisels on Trenton. I am against anybody who double crosses Trenton. I'll fight back if anybody takes things for personal gain. I think that should be our slogan." Let's have it for Trenton. I'll not at the expense of Trenton."

In conclusion the Senator called for the young men of Trenton to come forward and offer themselves for public service. "I know no people who are more fortunate who got more for less than the citizens of Trenton," was his closing reminder.

Cliff Hubbs, chairman of the Trenton Community Centre general committee thanked Senator Fraser for his address.

In a brief message from the people of Picton Mayor H. J. McFarland said he would step down from the mayor's chair if Senator Fraser would go to Picton and address her. "He'd sit by and watch Picton grow like Trenton is growing he remarked.

Immediate past president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, Jack Goldberg, introduced the speaker at the head table. Mayor Ross Burtt welcomed the guests to Trenton. Former Mayor K. Couch introduced the guest speaker.

Muscote Bay Yields Big Pickerel Haul

There is no hunger strike in the pickerel population of Muscote Bay, Trenton as Lake Ontario's Jerry Coyne's word for it.

The other day Ray and a party of five dipped their lines in the waters of the bay and came home with one of the best hauls reported thus far.

Within an hour and three-quarters they had caught sixteen finny beauties. The largest weighed 8 3/4 pounds, twelve weighed six pounds and the rest in the neighborhood of three pounds.

Pork Consumption In Canada Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The pig, aged by a decline in prices, is gaining on the cow in the race to be the favorite meat spot on the Canadian dinner table.

The agriculture department estimated Thursday that pork consumption increased in the first three months of 1955 to 164,800,000 pounds—a rise of 31,600,000 from last year.

In that same period beef consumption dropped by 4,800,000 to 197,000,000. Veal declined by 1,300,000 to 18,600,00 and mutton and lamb by 1,300,000 to 5,700,000.

Shapely Miss Able to Handle Situation Alone

CORREGGIO, Italy (AP)—Police asked a tall, shapely girl identified as "Anna F." if she wanted to file charges against three youths who tried to assault her.

"No," she replied, "I think they've had enough."

Anna knocked one of the would-be attackers down, broke two of his teeth, cut his lip and bruised his shoulder.

The other two fled before Anna could get around to them.

Famous Labor Member Retains Seat in Bristol

BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—Labor's, Anthony Wedgwood Benn, who has fought to change the law that he must go to the House of Lords—and political oblivion—when his father dies, Thursday held his seat for Bristol Southeast.

Benn polled 25,257 votes to 17,210 for his Conservative opponent, R.G. Cooke. His majority was 8,047 votes.

Benn failed recently in his bid to have the House of Lords rule he does not have to succeed to his father's title. Benn, 29, will be Viscount Stansgate, has backed him in his fight.

If Benn cannot get the change, he will have to leave the House of Commons and go to the Lords on his father's death.

Lost Campaign Against H-Bomb

GRAVESEND, England (AP)—Sir Richard Acland, aristocrat Socialist, one of the most vocal election campaign against the H-bomb today, it coat Clement Attlee's Labor party a seat in the House of Commons.

Acland, who represented this dockside district for the Socialists for 1½ years, quit the party and Parliament last month in protest against Labor's support of British construction of the hydrogen bomb. He campaigned as an independent and appealed to the voters to outvote "this hideous weapon."

The defection of 42-year-old Acland split the Socialist vote and allowed Conservative Peter Kirk to win.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to 50 cents a hundredweight higher this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were actively firm. Hogs were 50 cents higher, while sheep were unchanged and lambs closed sharply lower.

Despite the Monday holiday, the cattle receipts for the week were the same as last week and some 700 head more than the same week in 1954. Included in the fresh run were 340 head of western cattle, mostly stockers. This is nearly 500 head fewer than last week. Shipments to Canadian slaughterers totalled nine cars as compared to seven carloads last week. There were no exports to the United States.

A slightly reduced supply of fresh arrivals, plus improved buyer demand resulted in active trading for most classes and grades of slaughter cattle this week. Steers, fed yearlings, cows and bulls all showed gains of up to 50 cents a hundredweight and more. While the general quality of the total offering was good, it lacked somewhat as compared to last week.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $20-21; choice steers, lots of one weighty steer selling up to $21.25; two fancy choice light steers sold at $22. Good steers were $19-20; also with mediums at $16-19. Common were $12-16. Choice heifers were $18.50-19; with sales up to $19.50. Good heifers were $17-18, with medium selling at $14-17. Commoner were $12-14. Boner steers and heifers were $10-12. Choice fed yearlings were $19-20, with mediums at $17-19. Good butcher cows were $14.50-15 with good light heifers cows selling up to $16. Canner and cutter cows sold from 10 to 85 Cuich 133 cents. Good heavy bologna bulls were $14-14.50 with some sales up to $15. Good light butcher bulls sold up to $16. Common and medium light bulls sold down to $13.

Replacement sales: Demand for this class was fair as compared to last week. Early week trading was active with several straight loads of good stockers selling at 21. One load was turned at this price at western weights. The bulk of good stockers sold at 20-21. Mediums were $18-20 with commons at $16-18.

Calves were about 175 head less than last week. Good and choice vealers sold actively at $23-24 with tops of 25. Common and medium sold slowly with mediums at $15-20 and commons selling at $10-15.

Hogs numbered about the same as last week. Grade A hogs settled 50 cents higher at $27.25 with some sales up to $27.50. Sows were $18 dressed. Stags were unchanged at $14 dressed.

Sheep and lambs receipts were about 100 head less than last week. Despite the fact, prices were lower lambs closed sharply lower to sell at $28-27. Early sales on this class were $28-29. Good shorn ewes and wether lots sold from $20.50-21.50. Good light sheep sold up to $11 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $4.

Farm Marketing Act Not Broken Says Minister

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Highways Minister Allan Thompson denied a charge that he had violated regulations of farm marketing legislation by buying cheese direct from factories instead of from cheese exchanges.

Spruce Gall Aphids Must Be Sprayed Early

In the spring the spruce gall aphid feeds at the base of the needles of new shoots. The shoots become gummy and the needles curl. Eventually the needles each swell at the bases enclosing a single little chambers and protecting them from sprays or predators. The shoot then looks like a cone or pineapple. Infested twigs usually die.

In the spring before the needles open, it is possible to kill young insects with a spray: 2¼ teaspoonfuls of Malathion 25% emulsion, 1½ ounces of real laundry soap and 1 gallon of water. A large tree may take up to 4 gallons. A high pressure spray is necessary and the shoots must be well drenched. Spray again in August when the galls have turned brown and maturing insects emerge to lay their eggs.

If only a few buds are affected on small trees, the buds can be cut and burned. Where older trees are heavily infested it may be necessary to cut them and burn the boughs in order to prevent the insects from spreading to other trees in the community.

TIME ON HIS HANDS

"Anonymous," that prolific author, dashed off one of the most unusual of his many unusual scribblings this week in a note to Montreal's Mayor Drapeau. It was a "thank you" note to Montreal's chief magistrate for providing the author with so little work that he had time to steal $100 worth of children's supplies from a Montreal school.

The note read: "To Mayor Drapeau, you don't give us enough work, so we steal. Thank you, anonymous."

Missing from the school were rulers, scribblers, pencils, crayons, pens, books and erasers.

It is not immediately clear whether the thief intends to use his leisure time to better his education although removal of such a quantity of school supplies suggests a certain degree of interest. It is clear, however, that the thief was conscious.

It is a rare thing, indeed, in this day of juvenile delinquents and adult delinquents to find a thief with a little common courtesy.

It is also rare to find him with the good grace to refrain from stealing school supplies until the school session is almost over. Snatching from the supplies, so to speak. Earlier in the year would have been a serious inconvenience to budding scholars to be without rulers, scribblers and pencils. Obviously the courteous crook in Montreal had the interest of the students at heart when he refrained from upsetting their academic timetable until late in the year.

The unusual nature of the note to Mayor Drapeau, however, points out clearly the truism that "the devil finds work for idle hands."

Making proper use of leisure time is one of the severest tests of character. Reduction of hours in the work week, store money, wider opportunities for travel and more vehicles for entertainment have not produced a happier people. They have produced a weaker, more frustrated people, a more confused people, because, on the whole, the workingman has not learned how to derive the same sense of satisfaction from his leisure time as he derives from his work. Instead of developing his capacity for enjoyment by reading, by doing community service, or by perfecting a hobby, he has deluded himself into thinking that true enjoyment of leisure time can be had only by bodily relaxation.

Why did the courteous thief in Montreal steal $100 worth of school supplies? It was not for profit because children, provided with free school supplies, do not ordinarily spend their own money for them. It was not for his own use because no matter how hard one might like to do extra curricular work in his summer vacation, it is almost impossible to use $100 worth of scribblers, pens and pencils.

Quite likely the only reason the thief in Montreal stole $100 worth of school supplies was, as his note suggested, because "you don't give us enough work."

OVERPAYMENTS AND OVERRUNS

Premier Leslie Frost, speaking at Gravenhurst, has stated that there is a vast difference between an overpayment for a highway contract and an overrun.

F. R. Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, had said the previous week that highway contractors had been overpaid by $27,000,000.

An overrun, said Mr. Frost, is different from an overpayment. There is the difference between the total amount of an awarded contract and the actual cost of the completed project."

Presumably Premier Frost's explanation, at any rate in the form in which it was reported by The Canadian Press, instead of helping many voters to distinguish the difference between an overpayment and an overrun, will make the difference more difficult to distinguish.

Is not the difference between the amount of an awarded contract and the actual cost of the project, which Premier Frost calls an overrun, also an overpayment? The answer is no, because the amount of the awarded contract is not a contract price but the estimated cost of doing the work at a unit price of so much per yard, or ton or similar unit.

Here, as far as we have been able to ascertain, is the cause of all the confusion about the Department of Highways investigation. Many people have been under the impression that contracting firms submitted bids stating the total price they would charge for a project. Actually what firms have done is to submit a price based on the amount of work estimated by Department engineers to be necessary. When these Department estimates prove too low, the error is not that of the contractor but of the Department. The contractor does more work than the contract calls for—and naturally he is entitled to receive more money, at the rates set forth in his bid. Such additional payments are overruns—not overpayments.

In Genoa, Italy, Elmo Barney, a sculptor of New York City, won a fishing contest by keeping when he hauled in two tiny fingerlings weighing two ounces. The only other contestant failed to catch a thing. The winner of the Italian section of the competition caught only one fish weighing two pounds.

This is obviously no place for a fishing contest but it seems just right for a fish story contest.

THE CAREFUL DRIVER

The careful driver understands...
A powerful car is in his hands.
'Twas built for beauty and for speed,
But there are rules that he must heed;
And danger-lines each thoroughfare
Unless he handles it with care.
He knows he must be watchful, too,
Of all that other drivers do.
The careful driver keeps in mind
The old, the crippled, and the blind;
It isn't safe to trust the horn,
Since people deaf it cannot warn.
Twere better far to stop and wait
Than rush upon them just too late.
He knows there is no right of way;
On any street where children play.
The careful driver, being wise,
To save a minute never tries.
For dinner late he'd rather be
Than risk both death and injury.
He never races, day or night;
To beat a changing traffic light.
And out of line he'll never veer
Unless he knows the way is clear.

Railroad Fans

(By R. H. Harrison in the Windsor Star)

No longer does the bon vivant invite his guests to set the ramifications of the brass rail in his banquet room. Gone are the days, or nights, when the old rose inquired of the fair young maiden, would she like to come up and see his etchings? Unless, in the former case, the brass rail is one of the original driving rods from Stephenson's Rocket; or, in the latter instance, the etching is signed by genuine Howard Fogg post-impressionist, depicting a wistful and farewell journey to the Promised Land.

A never-ending source of wonderment to students of psychology is the amazing number of men and women of all ages who come under the general heading of Railroad Fans. They are amateur photographers of railroad scenes and snapshooters of old-time railroad passes, timetables, conductors' punches and other artifacts, passionate devotees of train lists, time or special excursions over obscure or romantic branch and short lines, or serious students of the history operations and folklore of the railroads. Not the least of all is the venerable Third Avenue "El" in other days, the "Third Rail" ranked up in New York's China-town and rode all the way to the Bronx.

Based on available indexes, the United States and Canada can boast of a million non-professional railroaders, who are fascinated by a tangible way by some aspect of the Dagged Iron Horse and the steel track. This figure isn't a patch, of course, on the ranks of professional railroad men, motormotors or dog owners, but considering the difficulties of communication with a Mallet articulated locomotive — a feat approximately as practicable as signalling to a piano store — a million rail fans is a lot.

There are straws in the wind, however, which give observers reason to believe that there is perhaps the loyalty of rail enthusiasts is being diverted somewhat regularly in the direction of automobiles. The fascinations of railroading have always been a matter of antiquarianism. The loyalty of the fanatic has been directed to the steam locomotives and operations in the age of steam. Model builders almost 100 per cent are lovers of steam engines. Rail photographers journey vast distances to worship shining divines where steam still steams. Artists in the field recoil from the type of fan who knows from a coiled puff adder. Most of the habitual regular fans have always had a mixture of loathing, contempt and venomous hatred. They want nothing of such nastiness.

But, for better or for worse, streets are definitely crowding out Puffing Billy off the right-of-way. Experiencing the emotional uplift and sensory excitement of a steam engine is becoming a rare thing, even vicariously, is increasingly difficult, in fact, to achieve at all. Journals of the faithful like "Trains" and "Railroad Magazine" are becoming essentially antiquarian.

And all the while the cult of the automobile, which may itself be approaching senescence, is to become vastly heightening desirability, is spreading like a fever. Most dramatic aspects of it are the urge to sports cars and the fascination of the old and obsolete automobiles as represented by horseless carriages, Model T's, antique collections and cavalcades of the beautiful touring cars and roadsters of the twenties and thirties. Of course, were only yesterday.

Precursors of elegance, amateur and professional road races, automobile shows devoted to sports cars exclusively, a full roster of sedan periodicals beholden to various aspects of the motor car industry and special sections of less specialized publications by the score show which way the wind blows.

Already the automobile has acquired a wistful fragrance of yesterday, a suggestion of the less accelerated life, and automotive buffs within the economic reach of everyone now enjoy the pleasures of possess a Taunton-octahopped American type eight-wheel locomotive from the drawing board of William Mason. Towards run dream, with some possibility of the dream coming true, of owning a McLaughlin-Buick carriage of World War I, brass-lamped Model T or a Metz roadster in mint condition.

No less than the locomotive and the motor car, the pioneer flying machine has its "believers". Men-tion jets, autogyros or V.T.O.L.'s to the Rolls-Royce turbo - prop - powered Viscounts, and they turn up their noses. For them there has been little of interest since heavier-than-air contraptions in which man first gained mastery of the air.

Their ranking patron is Samuel P. Langley, who, in 1896, constructed the first airplane — beg pardon — aerodrome. It performed creditably at sustained flight. Few names bring them more smartly to attention than that of the Wright brothers Orville and Wilbur, who, on December 17, 1903, made their first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. Most precious of sacred relics is the twelve-horsepower, first to cross the English Channel by air in 1909. Its first "hop" was over in 1913.

Almost modern, in their eyes, is the Vickers-Vimy in which John Alcock and Arthur Whitten-Brown (both later knighted by the King) raced the 1,890 miles non-stop Atlantic flight, Newfoundland to Ireland, in 16 hours, 27 minutes. And that was 37 years ago next month — June 14-15, 1919.

Can Now Learn While Asleep

(Milwaukee Journal)

There's the old story about the army recruit who broke a leg during calisthenics and, as he lay there stretched out quietly waiting for the ambulance, learned a lot about his tough first sergeant.

The recruit explained his misfortune by telling friends a spark of sympathy in the sergeant's eyes.

"Broken leg, huh? Well, don't just lie there. Do pushups."

The story, as it goes, has turned inventor. At least someone has devised a contraption called the Dormiphone. It's based on the principle that man learns best when relaxed, stretched out and over into his ears.

The Dormiphone is a small speaker that can be placed under a pillow. Its owner selects what he wants to learn—a speech by a civic club, a poem, lines for a play, a foreign language, or names by actors at umpires—and turns on his Dormiphone As he sleeps the speaker repeats the lesson softly in his ear all night and, presumably, he awakens with his head crammed with new learning.

Modern man is bent on discomfort. He is a victim of boredom. He is one of the few refugees left to whom "Peace, it's wonderful" means—well accompanied by moderate noises. Yet now he would even help him get rid of that, if we can on him!

In the world of the army they can make you do pushups, broken legs or no—but it will take a pretty big Dormiphone to drown out the mechanical tutor off to slumberers. Aspects of civilization, it seems, we're learning to dream in color.

Profit-In Cleaning Up

(Edmonton Journal)

A doctor claims he gets as much business repairing the effects of fad-do-it-yourself diets as the carpenter does cleaning up after do-it-yourself handymen.

Dangerous Combination

(Hamilton Spectator)

It's a truism that you can buy just about anything on the installation plan these days.

A budgeting citizen can buy a car while driving it, a TV set while being appalled by it, a new stove while his wife sweats over it, or even a home under the NHA while his children grow terrible.

Perhaps in India you can buy an elephant on the instalment plan, or in Pakistan a harem.

But, back in this country, it seems to us that two recent developments in the field of instalment buying should be examined jointly by the authorities, probably the federal ones.

The first is the privilege which may be granted by the courts of paying fines on the instalment plan — if the accused appears to be a financially responsible citizen with a good credit rating who would find it rather musty behind bars.

The second is the extension of instalment buying by the airlines whereby Canadians can to "fly abroad now, pay later." For instance, it costs only $27 to fly to Mexico City on a minimum down payment, with the balance payable in seven monthly instalments of $18.44 each.

So it's quite conceivable that an carried instalment buying too far.

Protecting Gullible—

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

Action being taken by a number of local banks to protect the gullible who are tempted by confidence crooks to withdraw large sums of money is long overdue.

How effective will be the precautions remains to be seen.

The idea is that when sums of $1,000 or more are being withdrawn by depositors, the bank will request that a check be accepted.

If the depositor refuses, the bank employee will explain the danger of carrying the sums of money perhaps even the possibility that a big game of some kind might be perpetrated.

If cash is still insisted upon, the depositor will be asked to sign a slip saying he recognizes the danger but is rejecting the bank's advice.

enterprising law breaker — an international swindler type, no doubt — might make a big withdrawal on a fine which he could well have afforded to pay in full, use the money thus saved to make a down payment on a Clipper ticket, and be in Rio, Cipr before you could say John Robinson — who writes a daily column for this newspaper.

MAKE GREAT THINGS!

There are certain books I pick up in my library to inspire and give me a lift the same as I reach out many a friend and seek his or her kindly encouragement and counsel. I have mentioned this book before but want to quote from it again. It is "Self-Help" by Samuel Smiles. Robert Henri—a great artist no longer with us—in his book, "The Art Spirit" will be to thousands in the spirit of so long as a great character lives. The book was published many years ago by J.B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, and has gone into many editions and I hope it is still in print. Robert Henri says:

"This is what Henri told his students: "Go to your work because it is the most important thing to you. Make great things—a great as you can. Don't always ask, 'Is this a masterpiece?' What Henri meant by that was a man was a poor workman who—and lived it—like a painter, carpenter or gardener.

We don't have to have lots of money or be famous to make great things, or be masterpieces and are therefore be known by ourselves but, rather, by putting enjoyment out of the day's work, doing the best we can and trying to live all those with whom we come in contact.

We are successes if we feel success in our heart and soul. We are successful when we can contribute hope, a little comfort and a little inspiring thought to those who have known little of these things before. We should get into the habit of doing more and more from ourselves. Who knows us better than we do ourselves? If you have in such a thing as being a good companion. If we can live peacefully here and grow in love unto him we may learn that in ourselves is that one best friend of all!

Cod Liver Oil Without The Ugh

In a place about vitamin A the other day I said:

"In our opinion an optimal daily ration of vitamin D" (not A) "the year around prevents hypertrophy (enlargement) of lymphoid tissue (tonsils) adenoids, lymph nodes or "glands" in the neck."

I base the opinion mainly on the fact that doctors formerly prescribed cod liver oil for "scrofula," which, I believe, was usually what doctors today call an enlarged tonsils, adenoids and lymph nodes in the neck.

Cod liver oil is probably the richest natural source of vitamin A. It is also one of the richest sources of sunshine vitamin D. And, just to keep the record complicated, so you may not become too self-confident, I beg to remind you that cod liver oil is an excellent source of iodine.

Unfortunately, I cannot recollect having received any cod liver oil when I was a boy on Chapel Island in Canadagua. There was no scrofula or consumption in my family—and there although we were the poorest people in western New York (I haven't been able to get exactly the economic status of people south of the Mason-Dixon line) we could get fresh milk (4c a quart when without our own cow), butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables which we raised ourselves. What I'm trying to tell you is that good nutrition is the best protection against the practically all scrofula or "glands" (kernels) (which the old-timers called scrofula), pulmonary tuberculosis or lung people called "consumption" when I was a boy) and a long list of other constitutional or disabilities, which, I'm afraid, you credulous gentlemen and young ladies doctors will never learn, until too late, can be cured or even much relieved, not by old reliable or modern miracle medicines, but by good nutrition.

From where I sit, here behind a mountain of mail from readers of such fragments of my little lessons as actually appear in print, it is painfully evident that most Americans do not comprehend what good nutrition means.

American children, even children of high school and college graduates, almost inevitably present signs and/or symptoms of malnutrition by the time they reach teens.

Teaching hygiene, which you should know, is the science of preserving health, is becoming more difficult day by day. On many occasions I ask the Father whether I ought to carry on the service I've been attempting to perform for seventy-odd years. And so far I have followed the Apostle and I can echo the injunction of Hippocrates.

Nineteenth-century doctors' greatest service to all to an empirical way—that is, they had learned from experience that it was good for certain ailments.

Doctors today know—that vitamin A, vitamin D and iodine are the elements that account for the therapeutic or remedial effects of cod liver oil.

COURAGE IN BLINDNESS

Here before me as I write is the picture of a blind native boy, Jose Morales, born in a South American tribe known as the Chiriguanos. She lost her sight at birth and when her relatives found that she was blind they wanted to take her child and at last took her into the ambulance and carried her by passing years this Indian girl developed a pronounced religious bent and became a diligent student of the Bible. She now an adult—reads Braille proficiently, has learned English, reads as many books on the Bible as she can find in the Braille system, and has become joy for the best educated picture of a blind girl I have ever characterized by an unusually happy disposition and never fails to attribute credit to testify to the power of Christian faith and the joy which it gives to her and constantly exclaims. "Oh I have so much to be thankful for to Jesus."

Measure this life alongside your own and those conditions with hers. Could you take it as this Indian girl takes it?

Probably not now, you could. Our inner resources coupled to divine power produces miraculous results. Sometimes we disappoint ourselves, but again we often amaze ourselves with our courage.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Long before a city or large town grows out and sucks in its suburbs the suburbs had a character of their own. Suburbs often originated, in the first place, by people who can't afford to live in cities. Poor individualists who, some years ago, went out into the woods, fields and meadows and built their own communities; and there, finding a few others like them, they settled at a crossroads, and maybe a garage and a modest little church, they called it a village. Then the real ground had built themselves a habitation. And they were willing to face the discomforts of having to commute into the city as being a small price to pay for freedom from the rat race.

Imagine their feelings, then, on seeing the slow encroachment, over the horizon, of the city. Imagine their deep shock it must be when some promoters arrive and stake out a whole township, maybe right on top of them!

I was talking with a police chief of one of these suburban areas that have been suddenly populated within the past three years. He has quite a community now, several thousand men women and children where only yesterday, it seems, the cows mooed and the old-fashioned cockerel screamed, pulmonary tuberculosis or lung people called "consumption" when I was a boy) and a long list of other constitutional or disabilities, which, I'm afraid, you credulous gentlemen and young ladies doctors will never learn, until too late, can be cured or even much relieved, not by old reliable or modern miracle medicines, but by good nutrition.

Congregation of St. Thomas' To Observe 100th Anniversary Of Laying of Cornerstone

By GEO. H. CARVER

On May 30, 1855 a procession wended its way from the original St. Thomas' Church to the site of the present imposing edifice at the north-east corner of Church and Bridge Streets.

The procession, consisting of Dr. George Neville Ridley, the Rev. W. Macauley, members of the St. St. George's Society, clergy and ladies of the congregation, in simple yet impressive ceremonies laid the cornerstone of a church that has been a landmark in Belleville since 1821.

On Sunday, May 29, 1955, the congregation of St. Thomas will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone with impressive morning and evening services.

During the morning services, members of Moira Lodge No. 11, A.F. and A.M. Lodge which attended the original ceremonies, will be in attendance. The rector, the Rev. W. J. Robinson will preach.

In the evening a special anniversary service will be held. The preacher will be the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, D.D., D.C.L., Lord Bishop of Ontario. Following will be a liturgical recital of organ and choral music under the direction of Mr. R. H. Bell, organist and choir director.

Situated "on the hill," the grey stone edifice of St. Thomas has seen many changes since Belleville transitioned from a village and town to its present proud estate as a city.

The present church is the second stone structure to stand on its site. The first was destroyed by fire in 1876, when services were held in the city hall during the period of reconstruction.

MEMBERS FORCED TO LEAVE

During that impressive ceremony of the laying of the cornerstone a century ago, Dr. Ridley delivered an address recounting the history and trials of the church during his residence in Belleville. He regretted that members in several instances had been compelled to leave the church entirely for want of room to accommodate them, and rejoiced that the site of the new church would prevent any such necessity for a long time to come.

He then deposited in the corner stone a metal box containing a memorial with the names of the rector, church wardens, and principal subscribers, also coins of the realm and such other tokens of the times as "will show our position and state of forwardness and prosperity as a colony of Great Britain."

Also placed in the box were copies of the Belleville Intelligencer "now in the 22nd year of duration" and a copy of the Hastings Chronicle "now in the 18th year of its duration", together with a copy of the "Churchman".

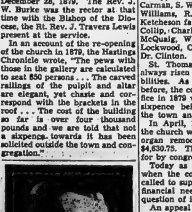
The memorial said, "Should future events lead to the discovery of the memorial, It will be a token to those who follow after, what pious donations have been undertaken for the Church and the cause of religion.

St. Thomas Church came into being after a meeting of a number of the respectable inhabitants of the town and vicinity" was held in December 1818 for the purpose of erecting "a commodious Episcopal Church" in the town. The meeting petitioned the Lieutenant Governor for the authority to erect such a building. The petition was granted.

In February, 1819 at a meeting held in the "town", James A. McNabb, a member of the legislative assembly, stated that Thomas Coleman give a name to the church. "He was then pleased to call it St. Thomas".

The following April a tender to construct the church for a sum of seven hundred pounds was given to Allan Taylor. A book written by Mrs. Suzanna Moody, states the church as being built "partially of wood and painted red."

The records state that the first rector presided at a vestry meeting in the "Episcopal Church of St. Thomas" in 1821. He was the Rev. Thomas Campbell, M.A., who remained rector until his death in 1835. His grave is near the entrance to the present church.



The building committee of the first stone church was composed of Henry Bull, chairman; James Whitford, treasurer; George Benjamin, secretary; Francis McAnnany, William Hope, Lewis Wallbridge, B. F. Davy, Henry Corby, and John E. Badcock. H. H. Horsey was the architect of the builders, John Regal, Andrew and Northcott, all of Belleville.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Three years after the laying of the cornerstone, construction was completed and the church formally opened on Sunday, March 21, 1858. Eighteen years later it was practically destroyed by fire. Only the walls remained standing.

A fatal blaze of proportions went to the rescue and within a period of three short years, the present church was opened on Sunday, December 28, 1879. The Rev. J. W. Burke was the rector at that time with the Bishop of the Diocese, the Rt. Rev. J. Travers Lewis present at the service.

In an account of the re-opening of the church in 1879, the Hastings Chronicle wrote, "The pews with those in the gallery are calculated to seat 850 persons . . . The carved railings of the pulpit and altar are elegant, yet chaste and correspond with the brackets in the roof . . . The cost of the building so far is over four thousand pounds and we are told that not a sixpence remains. It has been solicited outside the town and congregation."

REV. ARTHUR SMITH B.A., L.Th.

Three crowded services marked the re-opening of the church. The rector the Rev. J. W. Burke, the Very Rev. Dean Lyster, took part with the Lord Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Travers Lewis delivering the sermon. The collections were reported "the sums of the day amounted to $110."

The choral services were conducted by Professor Whish. In those times the choirs were not vested and sang from the organ gallery. It was necessary to "point the organ by hand and a sturdy man was an important assistant to the organist.

The church was renovated and the organ rebuilt in 1904 when the building was consecrated by His Lordship Sidney Mills, second bishop of the diocese of Ontario.

Canon Burke, in later years had his curate the Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, who at the time of his death was Bishop of Chicago and presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

The Rev. Canon Burke was succeeded in 1920 by Rev. Canon Ross Beamish, M.A., who later became Archdeacon of Ontario. On Feb. 1st, 1927, the Rev. John Lyons, M.A., was appointed vicar. He was then rector at Picton. In 1931 Mr. Lyons became archdeacon. After four years as vicar of St. Thomas he resigned and was appointed rector of Prescott. In 1938 he was consecrated Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario.

On September 15th, 1931, the Rev. A. Beamish, son of the late parish of Lansdowne Rear, was appointed rector of St. Thomas'. He was inducted by the Ven Archdeacon Coleman of Kingston under the authority of the Bishop on November 3rd. In 1940 Mr. Payne was appointed rector of St. Thomas.

Archdeacon Beamish left Belleville for Toronto in 1929 where he became associated with the Church Society's Extension Fund serving in Trieste. He remained rector emeritus until 1940 when he was succeeded by the Rev. Beauchamp Payne.

Mr. Payne is a former rural dean of Prince Edward County and Belleville. He was chaplain of the First World War.

The present rector of the church until late in 1945 when he was appointed diocesan commissioner for Northern Ontario, is Rev. Following him came the Rev. Arthur Smith who remained rector until 1948 when he was named Rector of Christ Church, Deseronto. Following him was followed by the present Rector, the Rev. W. J. Robinson, B.A., who came from Lansdowne.

NAMED AFTER FIRST RECTOR

Incidentally, Campbell Street was named after the first Rector of St. Thomas Church. The history at that time stood on the Macaulay, Hope, Corby, Campbell and Pinnacle streets. It was decided that when the present rectory was built.

There are some remarkable tombstones in the old burying grounds of the church. One pays tribute to a woman "who in the recollection of her husband, and throughout much affliction, had never given him a cross look or an angry word".

As far as this writer can ascertain the first St. Thomas Church was erected a short distance from the present edifice on the same grounds. Hence the recorded statement of the "procession walking from the former church to the new one."

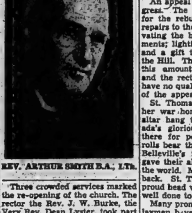
MANY FAMILIES

The well-known Belleville families have been associated with St. Thomas Church throughout the years. Included among many others are W. B. Northrup, M.P.; Henry Carre, W. H. Hamilton, Charles Clarke, Joseph D. Clarke, H. Corby, M.P., E. F. Milburn, H. Mock, James Johnston, S. J. Ball, the Wallbridge Family, the Geen family, the Gorman family, T. S. Anderson, S. Wood, E. G. Dills, John Williams, R. Croft Hulme, the Thompson family, S. S. Kenny, J. D. Collip, Charles A. Bowell, A. F. McQuaig, W. H. Dungerford, F. Dungerford, Captain N. Allen and Dr. Clinton.

St. Thomas' congregation has always risen to meet its responsibilities. As has been mentioned before, the cost of the rebuilt edifice in 1879 was paid "with not a sixpence being solicited outside the town and congregation".

In April, 1905, the interior of the church was renovated and the organ remodelled at a cost of $4,630.75. This amount was paid for by congregation subscriptions.

Today as in those other days, when the congregation has been called to support its church in its financial need, there will be no question of its loyalty.



An appeal for $40,000 is in progress. The money will be used for the rebuilding of the organ, repairs to the church tower, renovating the basement; choir vestments; lighting the east window, and a gift to St. Margaret's-on-the Hill. The greater majority of this amount has been pledged, and the rector and fund officials have no qualms as to the outcome of the appeal.

St. Thomas, too proudly bears her war honors. High over the altar hang the banners of Canada's glorious regiments placed there for posterity. Her honor rolls bear the names of many of Belleville's illustrious sons who gave their all for the freedom of the world. Many of her sons came back. St. Thomas should rear a proud head when it recalls a duty well done to God and country.

Many prominent clergymen and laymen have assisted in St. Thomas Church over the years. These include the Honorable Sir Gilbert Parker, a lay reader, the Rev. C. P. Anderson, who, as was mentioned before, later became the presiding bishop of the United States and the Rev. Albert L. Geen, who served intermittently as a perpetual deacon from 1885 to 1941. The organist Ernest Wallace, a brilliant organist and choir director served the church faithfully for a period of nearly forty years. He retired last year.

The present rector, Mr. Robinson was born in Kemptville, Ont., and graduated in theology from Bishop's University, Lennoxville Que. He was ordained at Kemptville in 1939 and was appointed assistant at St. George's Church, Trenton, under the Rev. Arthur Smith. In 1941 he went to Newboro where he remained until 1948 when he was appointed rector of St. Mary Magdalene's Church at Napanee. In 1953 he was named rector of St. Thomas, succeeding the Ven. Arthur Smith. Mrs. Robinson is the former Miss Isabel Morton. They have three children, Tommy, 7; Nancy, 5; and Elizabeth, 3.

The writer gratefully appreciates the research work of Mr. Geo. N. Gorman, which aided, in no small measure, the preparation of this article.

Facts, Figures On Unemployment Are Rounded Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Facts and figures that are to help shape the formula for federal contributions to unemployment relief are expected to be rounded up today.

Federal and provincial welfare authorities are reported to be conferring here today. Then Thursday in closed discussions under the chairmanship of Kenneth Bryce, federal deputy finance minister.

PERSONAL

Labor conceded the election early today as overnight returns from 263 of 265 constituencies showed close to a two-per-cent swing to the Conservatives.

Political analysts generally agreed that this trend foreshadowed a majority of 60 to 70 seats for the Conservatives in the new House of Commons with a total margin of 17 in the last Commons, elected in 1951.

RESULTS CONTINUES

As the counting of votes resumed today in the remaining 273 ridings, the Tories held their lead once again. Of the first three constituencies reporting, two were from Labor by Conservatives and in the other the Tory candidate increased his majority.

The gains were in Nottingham South, where Dennis Keegan, a native of England who was educated at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., turned the Labor party out-door with 29,145 votes to 29,092 for N. Smith; Labor-Co-operative candidate, and at Nottingham Centre.

However, the gains could not be considered clear cut since the boundaries of the constituencies had been altered since the 1951 election.

In a new constituency, Nottingham South, Tom O'Brien, 54-year-old chairman of the powerful Trades Union Congress, was elected a member of the House of Commons for the eighth, the state of the parties was Labor 379, Conservatives 176 and Liberals two.

TORIES VOTED IN

In the previous House, which had 635 seats before redistribution for this election, the standing was: Conservatives and allies 218—plus the Speaker, who although a Conservative had no vote; Labor 293; Liberals 6; Irish Nationalists 2; Irish Labor 1; and three vacant seats.

The tiny Labor edge as counting closed for the night made a Tory victory certain as the first-listed constituencies customarily favor urban areas, traditionally favor Labor, while the rural areas usually favor the Tory countryside, would show the Conservatives gradually drawing ahead.

Morgan Phillips, Labor party general secretary, conceded defeat late Thursday night.

"It's all over," he said in a statement, "that we shall not reach the poll of 14,000,000 which I regard as being necessary for our victory."

Lord Woolton, Conservative election campaign, said the lower poll —some 76 per cent of the electorate compared with between 80 and 85 per cent in the previous two elections—was significant.

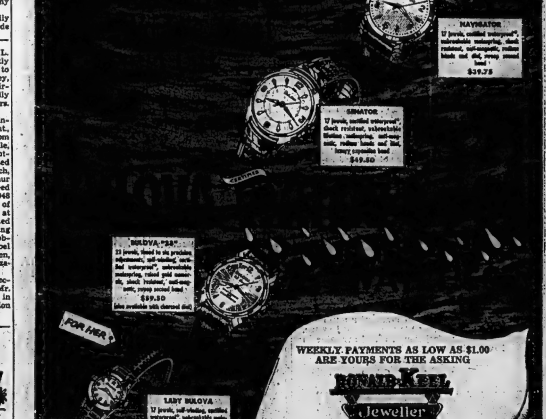
The swing to the right, ending four years of control by the Labor general elections, is considered due mainly to the prosperity Britain has enjoyed under the Conservatives during the last 3½ years. Labor's cradle-to-grave was in his. Welsh stronghold, found themselves with smaller majorities than ever.

Former prime minister Churchill will continue to sit in the House of Parliament, where he will sit as an ordinary Conservative member.

RULE OF VOTES

Though first returns showed all Bevan's chief supporters on Labor's national executive committee being re-elected, the swing against them during the week was less than that against moderate Labor candidates.

Smaller party and trade union chiefs had feared that recent feuds between the left and moderates would antagonize many voters. They now may feel that the polling figures bear him out and may elect Labor theelection—and this may produce a more moderate inter right between the right and left wings of the party.



Britain's third biggest party, the Liberals, suffered heavy defeats in the election. Their candidates were the power they once wielded. In 42 out of 110 constituencies where their candidates by this morning had lost their deposit.

The Communists, who contested 17 seats, were even more shattered, for all their candidates have been declared by this morning, lost their deposits.

In Northern Ireland five of the 12 Sinn Feiners (extreme Irish nationalists) were also the same fate.

CHURCHILL CHEERED

At Woodford, a thousand persons gave cheers when Churchill was declared the winner. Churchill has represented the district since 1924. His eyes moist the 80-year-old Conservative thanked his supporters. The defeated Labor candidate, 44-year-old Harold Millner, reminded Churchill that "this was your 19th political campaign, while it was my first, and the result "was not altogether unexpected by me. 4"

Weddings

REID — BLAIR

Granum United Church, Granum, Alberta, was the setting for a pretty spring wedding at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday, May 14, when the Reverend Arthur Blain, pastor of the church, united in marriage June Helen Blair, of Granum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Blair, to Robert Orlo Reid, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson C. Reid. Vases of pink snapdragons and yellow carnations, flanked by lighted tapers on the altar formed a lovely background for the ceremony.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by the organist.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Russell Blair, the bride was gowned in white nylon net and Chantilly lace over satin with opal sequin trim, featured in redingote style with bolero having lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a white, floral headdress, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and white stephanotis.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in a grey tone ensemble with blue accessories, and rose corsage. The bride's grandmother was also present.

Purple and white lilacs interspersed with tulips were used in decorating the hall and tables.

Brownie place cards, made by the girls themselves marked each seat at the table.

Guests at the head table were District Commissioner Mrs. R. D. Arnott, the Rev. Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy, the Rev. Sister Mary Gonzaga; Mrs. B. Hurley, president of St. Michael's subdivision of the Catholic Women's League; Mrs. W. Meagher, secretary of the local Girl Guide Association; Brown Owl Cleary and Tawny Owl Gist.

A delicious supper was enjoyed by all.

The toast to the mothers was proposed by Brownie Linda Jarrell. Mrs. J. Walshe voiced the response and Brownie Janet thanked mothers.

The welcome to the guests was extended by Brownie Elizabeth Burley. Mrs. J. Belgin thanked her in the name of the guests.

BROWNIE WARRANT PRESENTED

Commissioner Arnott gave a short talk on what it means to be a Brownie, and explained the steps necessary to becoming a warranted Guider and climaxed her remarks by presenting to the Tawny Owl Gist her warrant as a Guider in training.

The Brownies formed their 'Fairy Ring' around their toadstools and entertained their mothers just what they do at a regular meeting.

Each six played a game in competition with their respective mothers. Which was much to the delight of the audience. A good laugh was enjoyed by all.

A Brownie sing-song around the toadstools brought to a close a most enjoyable evening.

Arrangements for this delightful event were in charge of conveners, Mrs. G. Power and Mrs. G. Coulson.

Many thanks go to them and to each Brownie mother for their fine co-operation.

Many Models Are Mothers, Housewives

TORONTO (CP)—There are 30 or so models in this area who are mothers and housewives. They admit that "dialpan doldrums" flip out the window as modelling assignments come in.

Mrs. Stan (Gloria) Frosick, mother of four children, is one of these. Her first love is nurse but a modelling agency, then started filling assignments and has since been on television.

"The fuzzy part is, our house is cleaner and the children better fed than ever before," she says.

Her family—two boys and two girls—range from 10 to four years old.

HOUSEWORK DONE EARLY

When she didn't model, she explains, she perhaps spent all day dusting the furniture. Now she has her housework done early, and by noon is ready for modelling engagements.

Mrs. Jean Ellard, mother of four children, is another model who is a nurse part time. She says she finds modelling "fun" and a welcome change from nursing.

Mrs. Ellard's husband is a medical student and she says he is very helpful around the house.

Mayfair Hairdresser Unveils Latest Array of Hair Styles

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Below 1,000 guests in a plush night-club atmosphere, Mayfair hairdresser Raymond unveiled his latest array of hair styles. Basically, these are a variation of his established "echelon" cut, with the emphasis on short hair.

Brandishing a foot-long cigaret holder, the top showman among British hairdressers introduced a series of swan-necked young ladies, British models moulded into sleek backdipping helmets, at the fashionable Cafe de Paris in Leicester square.

He said his theme is Britannia. "Waves come rolling into fashion," he said, "and will be washed away from the crown to tide at the nape-line."

TOUR IN RHYME

Ditties by the maestro himself on printed programs told the audience what to expect. This was a sample:

"Jeannie, Jeannie, don't be blue, your hair is your hair light brown? Peacock blue and sap green too, would go so well with your gown."

And the models glided down curving staircases to show off some novel colorings, with such lush titles as pink shell, Caribbean blue, burnt sienna and for those who fear romance on their mind—love lilac. Then the older woman with backlit hair who occasionally has a blue rinse, Raymond thought sap green would be ordering green—would make a pleasant change.

Models representing Dresden dolls were wheeled in by an African "slave" wearing a turban and Arabian nights clothing—and the "dolls" wore multi-colored hairdos in extreme styles topped with fairy dresses. The hair-coloring was applied by a spray and guaranteed fast.

TIME FOR CHANGE

"These are the colors that deliberately do not imitate nature."

engagements.

There's the occasional emergency when a hairdo-of-the-day assignment comes up on the spur of the moment.

"But I don't throw away my apron and run for the streetcar," she says. "I just put on a clean nose."

Red-haired Shirley Basset of suburban Port Credit, mother of an 11-year-old son, says: "Meeting new people and seeing my picture in magazines did make a difference, and it's fun, too."

Her husband, a meteorologist at the weather bureau at Malton, says Shirley's new career "has given her confidence."

Victoria Baptist W.M.C. Meets At Moira

On Tuesday evening, 30 members of the Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist church went to Moira, where they held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. George Post, who was for many years a faithful member of the Circle.

The president, Miss E. Nurse, presided and led in the worship service which opened the meeting. After the call to worship, Psalm 89 was read in unison and a season of directed prayer followed.

Mrs. C. Campbell gave a brief meditation on "The Window of Choice".

A duet was sung by Mrs. Post and Mrs. Welbanks, who have sung together so often through the years, and this was particularly enjoyed by everyone present.

"THE CHOICE"

The topic for the evening was given by Mrs. I. Stephenson, chapter 2 of the study book, 'The Choice', which deals with the struggle for the minds of India's millions of people. Mrs. Stephenson had made careful preparation of all the interesting material contained in this chapter, and was assisted in presenting it by Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Hales.

A brief business period followed the regular portion of the meeting. Plans were given by the various conveners and Mrs. J. E. Madill, White Cross convener, had on display articles and layette which will be sent to Toronto for the work among the Canadians, there.

The president, Miss Nurse, and vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Berry, were appointed as delegates to attend the convention in Montreal, May 31 to June 2.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction and refreshments were served by the hostess and the social committee.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE THOUGHT SHE WAS IN LOVE; NOW KNOWS SHE ISN'T

"When I was four years old," writes a girl now 15, "I was put in a foster home, where the people had nothing in mind except the money my real father paid for me."

Then she goes into the sorry details:

"I was never a happy child and, as I got older, I snatched at any bit of affection I could find. As a result of this, I have now got myself into a predicament.

"My steady is 19, and when I first met him I just had a crush on him, but he fell deeply in love with me, and believes I am going to marry him. On my side, I made myself believe that I loved him, too, because someone at last loved me and he was all I had, and I didn't want to lose him.

"Now I have begun to realize what a terrible situation this is, not only because I have promised marriage and love, but because I have given my affections a little too freely.

"Please help me, because I do not want to hurt this boy who has treated me so fairly."

I wonder just what is behind this girl's reference to "real" father? I wish she had been clearer on this point, as the facts might throw much light on her situation.

Whatever the facts may be, however, it is wholly understandable that a girl so abandoned by her parents as she has evidently been, should cling to the first person she felt really loved her, and that she should interpret her longing for security and protection as love.

But now that she realizes the truth—that she has promised something she is not yet prepared to give—she should set the young man straight on the matter without delay. For what she has not come to realize, evidently, is that she is doing him no kindness to let him think she loves him and wants to marry him when, one gathers, she really doesn't. She says she does not want to hurt him, and, of course, she doesn't. But the longer she delays in telling him the truth, the worse he will be hurt when he finally finds it out, which will certainly happen eventually, in one way or another. And it would be infinitely better for him to hear the truth from her than to be told it by some outsider, or to discover it little by little, for himself.

The only right thing for her to do is to be completely honest with him. She should tell him that she has come to realize that she is much too young—as she most certainly is—even to think of marriage at this time, and that, unfortunately, she has been letting her emotions run away with her. She should say that she wants very much to keep on being friends with him, if this can be done on the right sort of basis. And this is very important, for she must know what I think she means when she says she has "given her affections a little too freely," then, if this friendship cannot be placed on the right basis, it should be ended at once. For her to keep right on giving her affections "too freely" will not only involve more and more deeply in a situation that is wrong already, and from which it will be harder and harder to extricate herself, but it will place her in serious danger of finding herself in a far worse predicament. To put it plainly, she might become pregnant.

I strongly urge this girl, also, to try and find ways to make new friends so that she will not be spending all her time and thought on this one young man. If she had told me a little bit more about how and with whom she lives now, I would be better equipped to make specific suggestions about activities she might take up. So I suggest that she write me again and give me as many details about her life as she can. If she will do this, together we may be able to work out the best plan for her immediate future.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

DRINK WATER FOR YOUR COMPLEXION'S SAKE

Every seeker after good looks—and what girl isn't—should be a "water baby."

Water moistens tissues, regulates the body temperature to a certain degree, aids in the formation of digestive fluids, helps the blood to carry nutrition to every cell of the body and washes out the excretory organs.

A prominent physician who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp says that many ills of the complexion, hair and finger nails may be due to lack of water in the system.

Here is what Dr. Charlotte G. West, in her interesting book "Age Don't Youth," has to say on the subject:

Women whose tissues lack water look dried up, and they are dried up, for the functions of the system are feebly performed. The face is usually thin, shivered or wrinkled. These individuals lack the sparkle and transparency of clear water.

Water is refreshing, gives easy, full comfort to jittery nerves and tired muscles. It helps to rebuild energy through its refreshing qualities. Those engaging in vigorous exercise, outdoor life and hard work especially need it.

Water has a definite effect upon the circulatory system. Upon arising in the morning take a glass of water, hot or cold as you may prefer. It freshens the tissues of the mouth. Have another glass at midmorning, another in mid-afternoon, one after dinner.

If you are a demon tea or coffee drinker, don't fancy that you are getting enough fluids. Neither one takes the place of sparkling cold water.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Having read a letter in your column a few weeks ago about preparations to keep clothes fresh and new looking, I hope I may be of some help. I ran across this article in a bunch of clippings I had forgotten I had.

I can't guarantee the results as I haven't tried it myself as yet. Also could you help me fix a recipe for Rhubarb Custard Pie and do you or any of your readers have a recipe for a tart filling containing raisins, nuts, and a custardy filling with a butterscotch flavor. The ones I tasted were delicious but didn't know the lady well enough to ask for the recipe.

I find your column very helpful as I have seven children, ranging in age from 9 months to 11 years and have four lunch boxes to make up every day. Thanks for all your wonderful help in your column and keep it up. Mrs. C. M.

ANSWER:

Thanks for hint about bringing back the freshness to linen curtons. Here are the recipes you asked for—

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

Pastry for one-crust pie. Three cups rhubarb, cut in 1 inch pieces, 2 eggs beaten, 2 tablespoons whole milk, 1-2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Line 9 inch pie plate with pastry. Place rhubarb in bowl. Combine beaten eggs with milk, sugar, flour salt nutmeg and mix with rhubarb. Pour into unbaked pastry-lined pie plate. Dot butter or margarine over top. May be covered with lattice top, or leave uncovered, or top with crumb topping. Bake in a preheated oven at 400 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 60 minutes. Serves six.

BUTTER TARTS

One cup sugar, 1-4 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup currants or seedless raisins, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans. Cream the butter, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Add well-beaten eggs, fruit and flavoring. Line patty tins with pastry, fill with mixture and bake in a moderate oven. Note. Have oven quite hot at first, then reduce heat, 450 deg. Fahr. then reduce to 400 deg.

REJUVENATE SHEERS AND COTTONS

(Courtesy Mrs. G. M.)

". . . If you have had the disappointment of a lovely crisp cotton folding up on you with that droopy wilted look, wash the garment gently in a mild, lukewarm suds. Rinse thoroughly. Then, instead of the usual procedure of dipping the garment in a starch to make it look crisp, dip it in a gentle gelatin solution. This method gives the material "body" or, in other words, a filling that is much the same in effect as in that of a new garment.

To make the gelatin solution: Soak one tablespoon of plain gelatin in one half cup of cold water. Then, dissolve the soaked gelatin mixture in boiling water. This amount makes enough "filler" to give body to one gallon of water for use in thin, sheer materials. Organdies, voiles, lawns and even washable rayons respond beautifully to this treatment.

To stiffen heavier material such as butcher linens, slubs, chambrays and other favorite cottons, dissolve the gelatin in only two quarts of water.

After each garment has been dipped into the gelatin solution roll it immediately in a turkish towel to take out the excess moisture. Iron while slightly damp. The garment will be restored to its original crispness and will look as good as new. . ."

GOOD MANNERS

RECEIVING LINE WITH SO FEW GUESTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. At our wedding reception there will be only 30 guests at the most. With so few guests, all of whom know one another, should there be a receiving line?

2. Also at the reception is it necessary to have both groups of parents at the head table? — B.

1. My suggestion is that you do have a receiving line . . . your mother the hostess, should be first in line to greet and welcome the guests; then the bridegroom's mother, woman guest of honor; next bride and groom (you at the right of your groom); on your right, your honor attendant; and last, the bridesmaids, if any. It would not be necessary to have the fathers stand in the line. Receiving the wedding guests is a charming part of the festivity and I wouldn't want you and your groom to miss it or the memory of it.

2. By "the head table" do you mean the bride's table? If so, at this table there usually are only the bride and groom and their attendants. All the other guests might be seated at the parents' table. Your mother, the hostess, at the head of the table, with the head of the table, with the groom's father (man guest of honor) at her right and the officiating clergyman, if present, at her left. Your father, the host, opposite your mother (woman guest of honor) at his right, and the clergyman's wife, if present, at his left.

SENDING ANNOUNCEMENTS . . . AND PIECES OF WEDDING CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Just when is the proper time to send the announcements of the marriage? Following the ceremony, on that very day, or a day or so after the wedding?

2. I am planning to send all my faraway relatives (who can't come to the wedding) a piece of my wedding cake in a little box. Should the announcement accompany the cake, or should the cake be sent separately? — Bride-to-be

1. The marriage announcements should be all ready—engraved, addressed, stamped—so that they can be mailed as soon as possible after the ceremony has been performed.

2. Send the announcement separate from the cake.

The Queen's Motor Hotel Showing General Plan, Landscaped Grounds and Car Parking Areas. A. ELKEN and R. W. BECKSTED, Architects

No Expense Has Been Spared to Make Queen's Motor Hotel Best in Its Line

The new Queen's Motor Hotel has grown out of the necessity to provide quality hotel accommodation for the automobile traveller, free from the parking problems found in the downtown commercial areas of our modern cities.

Located only a few minutes distance from downtown Belleville, this new hotel will substantially add to the visitor's impression of this beautifully situated city on the scenic waterway of the Great Lakes.

The architects, A. Elken and R. W. Becksted, of Toronto, have employed principles of contemporary design, calculated to serve maximum convenience and privacy for each visitor to the hotel. Motor car traffic and parking is confined to the rear of the hotel buildings whereby disturbance is decreased to a minimum.

South and east orientation and substantial roof overhang protect each room from hot sun and inclement weather.

The centrally located restaurant and office building acts as a noise baffle against highway traffic and its colorful exterior attracts the passing motorist. The free-standing sign was incorporated as a feature of the architectural design, providing dignified identification of the motor hotel.

The modern kitchen is furnished with complete equipment to serve high quality full-course meals. This year-round, air-conditioned restaurant will be able to satisfy the most discriminating customers.

Queen's Motor Hotel Has Every Convenience For The Touring Public

One of the most modern motor hotels beside any highway is the magnificently, furnished Queen's Motor Hotel which has its official opening on Saturday.

The 24-unit structure, located on the north side of No. 2 Highway at Herchimer Avenue, is the last word in tasteful, spacious accommodation for the travelling public.

Three separate buildings arranged in a U-shape with the open end facing east, comprise the motor hotel units. The building nearest the highway houses the motel's fashionable restaurant and offices.

Two separate 12-unit buildings on the west and north sides of the compound provide the most luxurious accommodation available between Toronto and Montreal.

Halls running the full length of each building provide easy access to rooms and adjacent parking space.

Each building has its own heating and air conditioning units. Each room is radiant heated from pipes imbedded in the concrete floor which is overlaid by rubber matting and wall-to-wall broadloom.

Appointments in each room include two double beds, floor-to-ceiling windows and drapes, exhaust-type air conditioning, free 17-inch RCA Victor television, comfortable lounge chairs, overall lighting and special bed and desk lamps.

Attached bathrooms, finished in colored tile, include bath and shower. A large closet in each room is equipped with a luggage stand that can be used as an extra chair. Dressers are topped by a full length vanity mirror. Cots, available for children, make each room capable of accommodating an entire family.

Rooms at each end of the building have connecting doors for conversion into suites. Pictures include colored prints of Dutch and French paintings and an illustrated tourist map of Ontario.

West wing units have been done in a warm brown motif featured throughout the furniture, walls and drapes. North wing rooms are done in grey. Interior decorating has been done by Eaton's and all furniture has been custom built for the Queen's Motor Hotel.

A television mast located in the central court serves all sets in the rooms.

Landscaping of the entire grounds from the highway to the centre court of the compound will be completed later this spring.

The new Queen's Motor Hotel was designed and supervised by A. Elken and R. W. Becksted, Toronto architects.

BANCROFT

Thor C. Hansen, Gives Fine Address on 'Creative Imagination'

BANCROFT — The encouragement of development of localized crafts with the object of stimulating cultural advancement in Canada and, promoting the tourist industry was the subject of an address given by Thor C. Hansen, art director, B.A. Oil Co. Ltd., at the North Hastings night school open night in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Hansen's theme was the necessity for using creative imagination in every walk of life. He stressed how favorably its application could benefit the fields of mental health, cultural development and the Canadian economy.

REGRETTABLE ART TENDENCIES

The speaker began by pointing out certain regrettable tendencies among the arts today. The effects of boredom and unhappiness were, he said, apparent in much modern art, which was symptomatic of the spiritual frustration of mankind brought on by the machine age.

Despite this factor, Mr. Hansen felt there was no cause for defeatism. He believed man had considerable control over his own happiness, which had its roots in what he termed "creative imagination." "The great common denominator for all people," said Mr. Hansen, "was the quest for happiness. Progress should be measured in terms of happiness. If some development, material or abstract, made people happier, it could justly be called progress. On the other hand, if it caused them to be less happy, such a development constituted a regress.

"Failure to exercise one's creative imagination," Mr. Hansen claimed, "was one of the chief causes of frustration and boredom. People down the ages had been endowed with the desire to create and to discover beauty. This latent desire was often halted or frustrated by our modern industrial society. Individual creative imagination had little chance to blossom in an atmosphere of "hurry up"-living and assembly line production.

CREATIVE OUTLETS

"The principal outlet for creative imagination," the speaker continued, "is through one's hands. Hands, directed by the imagination, can create beauty in the form of objects or by writing and painting. Creative imagination can also find expression through singing, speech, drama and rhythm.

"Just as modern man has found in sport an antidote for the office-desk existence, so he has at his disposal for the mental inactivity that is necessary the condition of many jobs. This remedy," Mr. Hansen said, "lies in the arts and crafts.

"Running counter to the strong evidence that we were well on the way to becoming morons was a definite urge to get back to the creative use of hands which the machine age had banished from man's working life. The important thing is that, regardless of any degree of skill, a person experimentis creatively through these channels.

GOOD EXERCISE

"Working from a pattern is good exercise and will increase efficiency, but creative imagination really has full play when we are not quite sure what the new stroke or word or movement will do to make what we are creating a harmonious whole. We use our minds to conjure up images to guide us, and that is creative imagination at work."

In support of his thesis that a nation-wide renaissance in the crafts field would put an end to the boredom and unhappiness of the average citizen, the speaker quoted an eminent doctor who claimed that a general recourse to handicrafts would cut down admission to mental hospitals by 50 per cent.

"Since the therapy that would be applied to many cases in the hospital would rely on handicrafts, it is this form of expression that can be expected to keep people mentally healthy in the first place. In fact," Mr. Hansen said, "it was surprising and encouraging how many professional people already used this form of relaxation. School teachers seemed dedicated to the loom as a pastime and business men found contentment in the basement workshop, which the speaker unhesitatingly called "the greatest blessing of the 20th century."

CANADA'S ARTS—CRAFTS

Mr. Hansen was confident that in the arts and crafts world Canada was on the move. In time he hoped to see community art centres established and art galleries in every town.

He urged adults to promote the arts and crafts if only because young people depend for their guidance on the example of their elders. Taking Canadian cultural standards to task, Mr. Hansen said, "that in this country we have what is essentially a 'receptive' rather than a 'productive' culture. Our popular entertainment is piped in from other lands or imported in the 'package.' Our orchestras play music for the most part composed in other lands, books by authors from outside Canada are most widely read and publicized, and so on.

TAKE PART

This situation can be changed only by having people take part in development of folk arts. That, continued the speaker, was where small groups and associations can play an important part. A nation's culture and folk art originate with the people themselves, and art originating in that manner is the only kind that retains vitality and harmony throughout the ages. He contrasted this with the over-refined cultures which have produced beautiful craftsmanship but ostentatious products.

Summing up, Mr. Hansen pointed out how the healthy and vigorous development of Canadian folk arts contribute to the national economy and the tourist trade in particular.

NO SUITABLE SOUVENIRS

When he came to Canada 28 years ago, Mr. Hansen had been appalled at the lack of souvenirs for tourists and the poor quality of those that were available. The situation, he thought, was not much better now. Instead of specimens of indigenous crafts the tourists had to content themselves with machine-made knick-knacks usually originating outside the country.

The remedy for this situation was the development of "a small army" of skilled Canadian craftsmen who would make souvenirs distinctive of their town or region as craftsmen have done in Europe. It may take years to fashion a proficient craftsman, but meanwhile there was no reason why machine-made articles should be of atrocious design. Arts and crafts can provide an income and a reason for living for elderly unemployables. The average life expectancy for retired persons was at present only two years, owing Mr. Hansen thought, to their feeling that they had lost their usefulness.

The speaker supplemented his address with a display of colored slides of his designs for rugs, quilts and other articles that were the fruit of his long study of "Canadiana."

Mr. Hansen has created patterns and pictorial designs which all spring from Canadian wild life, plants and legends. As pioneer of distinctive Canadian design, he told his listeners that their heritage contained "the raw materials for a nationwide artistic flowering."

Through the means of other colored slides, Mr. Hansen demonstrated how the B.A. buildings in Toronto and Vancouver have been decorated by skilful adaptations of folk art themselves. Mr. Hansen himself is responsible for the designs and motifs.

Sunday School Lesson:

A Greater One With Us

By ROY L. SMITH

In the midst of all the threats of war, of atomic devastation, of guided missiles and the suicide of civilization, let us remind ourselves of at least one simple fact. The good King Hezekiah, of ancient Judah, put it into the best possible word: "There is one greater with us than with him." (II Chron. 32:7, R.S.V.)

FACE TO FACE WITH RUIN

The city of Jerusalem was entrapped in a life-and-death struggle. Invested by the hosts of Assyria, with its food and water supplies limited, and with no hope for mercy in the event that their defences failed, the people were nerved to their great effort by the wise and brave words of their king. "There is one greater with us than with him."

Let there be no concealing of the facts. The forces of communism have overrun a large part of Asia. Soviet propaganda has fooled three-fourths of the world. By connivery and diplomacy the Kremlin has been able to persuade the puppet states to do all the fighting and bleeding while they have husbanded their own resources and saved their own blood.

But there is one greater with us than with them.

THERE HAVE BEEN OTHER CRISES

Let any timid person go back no more than a single decade and recall how the forces of Nazism seemed to be triumphant everywhere. Asia was under the heels of the Japanese, the Germans held the entire Atlantic coastline, and an allied army of Germans and Italians were in possession of North Africa.

Great statesmen were confessing to the world that "our backs are to the wall." Nations were being called to pay for their preservation in "blood, sweat, and tears." A terrible chill had struck at the heart of freedom-loving men the world around. But we came through!

"There was one greater with us than with them."

GOD MADE INVESTMENTS TOO

Hezekiah, his court, and every family in Judah had a tremendous stake in the issue of the battle before the walls of Jerusalem. But God had made investments also, and He did not propose to see all His interest in, and concern for, the Hebrews squandered and wasted by a nation of pagans.

Scientists sometimes speak disparagingly of the fact that the human race is so young, relatively speaking. In comparison with the age of the planet man is only one we two minutes old. God has been working on the problem of man for millions of years and He is not going to abandon His drawing board now, just because someone cracked one of His atoms.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for May 29: "Hezekiah Meets a Crisis," II Chronicles 31—32; Isaiah 36-39.

For the length of one life-time God lived among us in the person of a Nazareth carpenter whom we have called Jesus. In those years He made the supreme investment of all "the ages in mankind. And He will not abandon that investment.

LET NO MAN BE DECEIVED

The struggle in which the world finds itself may be a long one. It is quite possible that all that has transpired up to this moment is no more than preliminary skirmishing. The great and decisive battle is yet to be fought. But this is the great faith of the religious man — especially the Christian. The issue of that battle has already been determined. The forces of righteousness can never be expelled from this world. The darkness will never be able to put out the light.

"There is one greater with us than with them."

Ont. Labor Relations Act Under Attack as Election Campaign Goes Into High Gear

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's CCF leader Thursday night described the Progressive Conservative administration as a big-business government with anti-labor leanings.

Donald C. MacDonald, moving into Windsor on his campaign tour for the June 9 provincial election, repeated his party's stand against the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

Mr. MacDonald said the act is administered so that "it will be a weapon in the hands of management." He added:

"Union after union in Ontario has actually seen its contract run out for two years running. When a contract is negotiated it becomes effective from today, not when the contract ran out."

CARRIED CARDS

His comments brought cheers from 200 persons, among them placard-carrying labor group.

Premier Frost was in Hamilton, where he said the dominant issue is the growth, development, prosperity and increased productivity of Ontario.

"We come to you with a program that is in progress, not just a bundle of promises," the premier said in support of five Hamilton and district Progressive Conservative candidates.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said at Goderich that the Frost government is approaching before the electors with hands dripping in guilt from the many improper practices case which broke last year.

"The things that have gone on underneath the surface and a tidal wave of his hand have made his government smell as the other government has in Ontario."

CLAIMS ACT NEEDED

"Mr. MacDonald's self-confidence need an act that spells out the rules so that when trade unions enter negotiations they go in with even odds.

"The act is administered so that it will be a weapon in the hands of management. Basically this government is anti-labor. It's a big business government."

The CCF pledged that it would institute an act to "provide the basic rights that the people of this province deserve in the year 1955."

Mr. MacDonald added that after 12 years of post-war prosperity normal times now have returned to the province with a record unemployment and failing farm prices. Only a program such as that the CCF offered could deal with this situation.

CO-OPERATIVE SPIRIT

Mr. Frost said his' government has brought a spirit of co-operation to all levels of government and has contributed a spirit of friendliness to consideration of problems.

"When I say to you I come on a platform of co-operation and development that is exactly what I mean."

He mentioned the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, unconditional grants to municipalities, huge public investment program, new mining assistance to education and hospitals.

The 59-year-old premier spoke at Toronto earlier in the day on a free-time broadcast over a CBC television network. He was joined with two of his cabinet colleagues—Agriculture Minister Thomas and Highways Minister Allan.

PROVINCIAL ACHIEVEMENTS

The premier said some of the province's greatest achievements were the direct result of what he said was the government's spirit of friendly co-operation. The administration's "homely philosophy" of getting along with people has been carried into relations with the federal government, the governments of other provinces and the United States.

Mr. Allan spoke in support of James Scott, Liberal candidate for Huron. Mr. Oliver likened the actions of the government in regard to the highway investigation to those of a criminal trying to cover his tracks.

He said the government had refused the Liberal opposition the right to a select committee or legislature committee investigating the highways case because it was afraid of what the witnesses might say.

"FEAR AND TREMBLING"

"They made their plans carefully and with fear and trembling tried to hide the evidence. What emerged from the sessions of the committee was a new brand of democracy in Ontario."

Mr. Oliver said a Toronto newspaper had described as a landslide that Premier Frost has promised a health plan for the province when in reality the province has had such promise at all.

Mr Oliver referred to a headline in The Globe and Mail which he said bore no relation at all to what was underneath.

"Mr. Frost was quoted in the story as saying the health plan is bound to come and in his next breath he refused to live it to you because Ontario hasn't enough hospital beds," Mr. Oliver said.

Salk Vaccine Maker's Agree To Safety Test

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States surgeon-general announced today that all Salk polio vaccine manufacturers have agreed to put into effect at once regulations for safety control. He said these standards "represent the best that science can give us."

Dr. Leonard Scheele's statement confirmed word given out earlier by representatives of the six pharmaceutical firms now licensed to make the U.S. public health service scientists.

Acceptance by the manufacturers of the new government standards for making and testing the vaccine cleared the way for the manufacture of new supplies.

NEW CLEARANCES NEAR

Scheele's statement, announcing the new standards, also indicated re-clearance was on the way for manufacturers cleared by Pitman-Moore, Zionsville, Ind., and Wyeth, Inc., Marietta, Pa. Those plants were visited some time ago by public health service teams, but the agency has not announced any government officials passed for another look at the vaccine situation.

Scheele said his new advisory committee met on Thursday night on-ition "there is no question about the ability of the major manufacturers to produce an excellent vaccine."

CLEARING PROGRESS

The surgeon - general said his scientific advisers had made "substantial progress" in their review of data on lots of vaccine now under reappraisal and that they hope to be able to make recommendations on their release "within the next few days."

Scheele also disclosed that the Cutter laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., will come back into the program on an active basis under the revised standards. The Cutter vaccine has been kept out of use for the past month because a steady flow of American youngsters who had been injected with the Cutter-produced later developed polio.

Senator Will Support Bill On Veterans

OTTAWA (CP)—A government bill changing the law with respect to discipline and courts martial in the Canadian forces was described in the Senate Thursday as a "step in the right direction" by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—British Columbia) also said the bill "goes quite a long way indeed."

OPPOSITION PROMISED

He made the comment on a section which provides that the common-law wife of a Canadian serviceman who has lived with him for three years would be eligible for pension if both were unmarried. If one was married the "treasury board would decide on the question of cohabitation necessary for pension eligibility for the woman after the serviceman's death.

Senator Roebuck, a lawyer, questioned a section under the bill which advocate general the sole arbiter of the validity of a court martial.

Senator J. J. Connolly (L—Ontario) explaining the bill, said the courts martial appeal board would over-rule the judge advocate general in the event.

He said tho-measure also makes technical changes around the Canadian forces subject to civil law.

Soldier Defected Still Loved By His Wife

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Mrs. Edith Cross, wife of 23-year-old Pte. Bernard Cross who was reported Wednesday to have asked for political asylum in East Germany, says she still loves her husband and "would take him back."

In an interview Thursday, Mrs. Cross said she had always been able in "forgive and forget" her husband's shortcomings.

"I've never met another man I could take in," she said.

A Communist East German news agency said Cross, stationed with the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in West Germany since April, 1954, asked for political asylum.

Wednesday Mrs. Cross, shocked by the news, recalled the many unpleasant experiences during her six years of married life.

Thursday, calm and refreshed after a night's sleep, but still puzzled, she said "I definitely do not believe he deserted the way for the manufacture of new supplies.

NEW CLEARANCES NEAR

Scheele's statement, announcing the new standards, also indicated re-clearance was on the way for manufacturers cleared by Pitman-Moore, Zionsville, Ind., and Wyeth, Inc., Marietta, Pa. Those plants were visited some time ago by public health service teams, but the agency has not announced any government officials passed for another look at the vaccine situation.

Former Labor Chief Resigns

Zilliacus, 60, was expelled in 1949 by Labor chiefs for left-wing criticisms of Labor government policy.

Hong Kong Police Hunt Saboteurs Of Indian Plane

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Police today hunted the byways of this British colony as the front door to China searching for possible saboteurs of an Indian airliner which crashed last month killing 15 Chinese Communist officials and correspondents.

Usually reliable sources said they strongly have arrested a number of Chinese," but government spokesmen refused to confirm or deny reports.

The police began their-hunt soon after an Indonesian government investigating commission announced that the April 11 crash was caused by a bomb hidden in the well of a retractable wheel in the airliner's nose.

Police believe the bomb must have been put on the plane before it stopped off here to pick up the Communist officials en route to the Bandung conference at Bandung, Indonesia.

PROBE ALL ASPECTS

The Hong Kong government said all arrangements for servicing and refuelling the airliner and for the transport of the plane's passengers have been investigated.

"Though it would not be in the public interest at this stage to publish the results of Hong Kong police investigators so far made, the Hong Kong government is determined to make every effort to ascertain the facts," the statement said.

More than 100 persons were interviewed by police and statements were taken from all of them.

The airliner, Air India's Kashmir Princess, crashed into the South China sea off Sarawak on April 11. Three Indian crew members survived the crash.

CHARGE NEGLIGENCE

Immediately after, the Chinese Communist government charged that it was the result of sabotage.

Hong Kong's American and Chinese Nationalist agents. It accused the colony's government of negligence and claimed Hong Kong officials had received a warning that there was a possible trouble.

The Hong Kong government denied this charge. It said the Chinese Communists warned that trouble might be made by anti-Communists, and precautions had been taken to protect passengers from molestation.

The Indonesian government appointed a commission to inquire into the crash because it occurred in Indonesian waters.

TLC Windsor Convention Monday Will Likely Be Last

OTTAWA (CP)—The 70th—and almost certainly last—annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada opens at Windsor Monday with the historic TLC ready to sink its identity into a new and expanded congress.

Merger with the Canadian Congress of Labor to form a 1,000,000-member body called the Canadian Labor Congress will be the chief question before 700 or more TLC delegates in the Ontario automobile city.

Top-ranking TLC and CCL officers have agreed to detailed terms of amalgamation and—barring an unexpected rank-and-file revolt, will carry their membership into this new labor movement in Canada in labor in many years.

The 400,000-member TLC, with its headquarters in Toronto, This session will be followed by a joint founding convention to be held early in 1956.

For the Windsor convention, of the 600,000-member TLC, there will be a special impetus towards ratifying the merger agreement in that its president will head the unified congress by decision of the merger committees.

The president now is Claude Jodoin, in his first term.

Jodoin expects no difficulty nor indicate any strong attempt to unseat him and he is virtually sure of heading the merged setup.

He is the secretary-treasurer of the AFL and CIO in the United States, the present president is to be George Meany of the AFL, which corresponds to the TLC in that country.

Besides the merger, the TLC will face its usual heavy annual agenda. More than 200 resolutions have been proposed by affiliated bodies for action at the week-long convention.

Unemployment will have a top spot in debates. The convention is expected to renew demands for an enlarged program of public works, measures to increase foreign trade and other action to provide work.

Old-age pensions and social security will be sought, including inauguration of a national scheme of health insurance on a contributory basis. It also will seek improvements in unemployment insurance and protection be given to a government bill now before Parliament which would include a higher range of insurance benefit and extend its coverage.

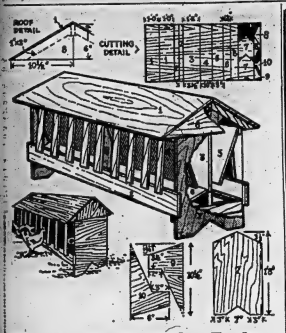
Federal action to assist in housing and changes in immigration regulations are concerns of the TLC—will be discussed. The TLC wants immigration shifted to the labor department. It now is under a separate portfolio. The convention also seeks establishment of an immigration commission including representation from organized labor.

Special speakers at Windsor will include William F. Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer of the AFL; Tom Yates, Windsor mayor, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

CMA Speakers Take Fighting Line on Exports And Tariffs

By BOB JOYCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Thomas a Becket of Hamilton steps in today as chief of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the management group that groups some 6,500 industrialists from coast to coast.



He does not take office formally until after today's general business session of the CMA, but as first vice-president for 1954-55 he is the chosen candidate and there are no dark horses.

Mr. Becket, 52 and vice-president in charge of manufacturing for International Harvester Company, is a Quebecer by birth. He succeeds John A. Calder of Montreal who Tuesday night forecast increasing times ahead for Canada in his last major address as president.

Mr. Calder, vice-president of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Ltd., also has little patience with "economic morticians" who "are constantly at the front door to a funeral oration over the coffin of prosperity."

In a slashing attack on those Canadians who "walk around muttering defeatist words," Mr. Calder said there is "no reason to be alarmed over the business bill" Mr. Calder said there is "no reason to be alarmed over the business bill" Mr. Calder said there is "no reason to be alarmed over the business bill"

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

Handy Automatic Chicken Feeder Sawn From Fir Plywood Panel

Here's step by step how to make an automatic chicken feeder. Built easily with only a hammer and saw, it is designed to handle two kinds of feed at once and cuts down on the number of filling visits.

This continuous feeder is cut from one 1-2 inch fir plywood panel. Fir plywood is used here because it stands up to weather and the sheets are easily cut to exact size. In addition to the 4x8 foot plywood panel the builder needs 13 feet of 1-2x1 inch lath and 24 feet of 1x2 inch lumber.

Cutting lines are marked on the panel as shown and all parts are sawn to size. Cut roof pieces (1) and side rails (3) a full 4 feet. Pieces (3), (4), (5) and (6), however, are 4 feet long less 4 thicknesses of the plywood used. For example, cut off 8 inches from each if 1-2 inch thick plywood is used. Sizes of other fir plywood pieces are shown.

ASSEMBLY EASY

Here's how to assemble the feeder. To each end section (7), screw a 1x2 inch cross piece cut 13 inches long. This cross piece is attached 4 inches from the bottom. Screw side rails (2) to the end sections. Next nail 1x2 inch boards to the ends. These are secured at the top of the ends so that they are parallel to the side rails. The best way to attach these 1x2 inch boards is to notch the top of the ends (7) to receive them. To these and the side rails will be nailed the lath slates through which the chickens feed.

The 1x2 inch lengthwise piece is next cut and set upright on the centre of the 1x2 inch end cross pieces. It is attached to the ends in the same way piece (3) is also set upright and nailed and glued to the ends. Pieces (4) are set in and form the sloping floors. Attach (9) and (10) upright in the middle.

SIDES NEXT

Sides of the feed bin (4) and (5) rest on pieces (9) and (10). Next fasten lengths of 1x2 to the ends at the correct angle to support (4) and (5) and nail these bin sides in place.

The removable roof is simple to make following the roof details shown. Cut 1x2 inch rafter pieces and attach to the gable ends (8) so that they butt against a lengthwise 1x2 inch piece fastened between the gable ends. Attach the roof sections (1) with nails. With roof removed, filling of bins is easy.

SPRAY PAINTING TIP

A distorted spray from a paint gun is a sign of a dirty air cap. Take off the cap and wash it carefully in clean solvent. If the air holes need reaming, use a broom straw or a matchstick splinter. Never use a metal instrument.

WORK BENCH TIP

A good way to prevent a work bench from wobbling is to install rubber heels on the legs. These will compensate for uneven floors or bench legs and lessen power-tool vibrations.

BRIGHTEN COPPER SCREENS

Copper screens that have become black and lustreless after long exposure to the weather can be restored to their original sunny look by rubbing with a solution of salt and vinegar.

LIGHT IS RIGHT

Light colors for houses, like light colors in clothing, are good for warm weather. The ideal roof has a smooth, white surface. Such a roof will reflect as much as 85 per cent of the sun's heat.

PLAYROOM CONVENIENCE

A child's playroom should be so outfitted that it requires little housekeeping. A clay tile floor is suggested, because it needs only a quick mopping, using hot, sudsy water.

To Be A Hero: Build A Playhouse

Kids Love It, Neighbors Toast It, But You Pay

By SAUL PETT

I know not what my valet may think, but my kids are now convinced I'm a hero. So are the rest of the kids in the neighborhood.

After only five years of being reminded that a promise is a promise, I built our girls a playhouse in the backyard. They love it. Their friends envy it. Their friends' fathers think I'm a dangerous troublemaker and there's even some talk I may be blackballed from the car pool.

You, too, can be a hero in your nursery for about $190 in materials, about 250 working hours, six cases of skinned, knuckles, eight assorted contusions, a dozen Monday mornings when you feel more like going to an osteopath than your office and 643 reminders from your wife that, after all, even a professional master carpenter takes some time for his family and if you think she's going to keep dinner waiting every single Saturday and Sunday night, you've got another . . .

These are the hardships but don't let them faze you. The rewards are great. A playhouse is better than a playroom in the main house (see how grand you begin to sound!). It saves wear and tear at home. It removes the noise a safer distance.

But more important, you'll feel like a hero yourself. Making end tables or finishing off a basement is one kind of ego food. But building a house—creating a solid floor, making a wall that stands, nailing in the last roof rafter—and observing that they hold your weight and more—this, friend, is real building.

HOW THIS PROJECT GREW

When I first thought about a playhouse, I thought about something small, simple and inexpensive. But then my kids played a dirty trick on me. They grew.

The result is a house eight feet long, six feet wide, six feet high at the eaves and seven and a half feet high at the peak of the roof, the under side of which, by gosh, is the latest thing, a cathedral ceiling.

Amy Pett, 11, and Kathy Pett, 9, are not really that big but as I got to thinking about the house, I thought maybe I'd want to get in some night with the dog. Also it'd be a good spot to store garden tools in the winter. Also (oh, you dreamer!), if you ever get that swimming pool built in the back, this would make a nice cabana.

I worked without plans or blue prints simply because I don't understand plans or blue prints. I just knew in a general way that I wanted a house so many feet wide, long and high. Beyond that, complete ignorance and only a few tools — hammer, saw, tape measure, level (borrowed), 50-cent square, saw horses (borrowed) linoleum knife and a miter box (borrowed).

HERE'S SIMPLICITY ITSELF

The "foundation" is simply four cinder blocks at the corners. Each block rests on a big flat flagstone on level ground. This may be unprofessional and you may prefer to dig cement footings but so far my house is still standing erect and level.

The rest of the job, if I may say so, is completely professional. That's because I had a professional coach.

It was done in installments. I went to the lumber yard and told the man I wanted to make a floor so big. He told me how and I bought the lumber. Later, I came back and asked about the wall studding. He told me, and I bought more lumber. And so on, up through the roof. For some reason I can't figure out, every time I went to the lumber yard I spent about $18, no matter what the purchase.

Still, I recommend this method of building. The cost becomes less painful. You have less lumber cluttering up the garage or yard and you have less information cluttering up your brain all at once.

HERE'S THE PROCEDURE

My floor is a box made up of 2 by 6's 12 inches on centre (everything, I was to learn, is made 16 inches on centre — floor joists, wall studs, roof rafters) and covered with tongue and groove sheathing (or roofers, as some call it).

The floor was made out front, on the driveway. A big mistake. When finished, it curiously had acquired enormous weight. I needed five neighbors to help move the thing to the backyard. Which reminds me, there's another item I forgot to include in the total cost—about $8 worth of Manhattans. Neighborhood help doesn't come free.

The walls were framed together on the ground, of 2 by 3's. On the advice of the man at the lumber yard, I remembered to provide for windows. He said, why not basement sash — they're only $2.90 each. I said, you're on. So I made room in the studding for windows 20" by 32".

A CONCESSION TO TRADITION

I decided on a peaked roof because a shed roof, while easier, looks so much like a shed. The rafters are 2 by 4's. First, came the ridge pole, 10 feet long, which gave me overhang. Then one roof rafter was fitted up, the angle of the cut and the place where the rafter had to be notched to fit on the ridge pole was drawn. This one piece was used as a pattern for all the rest, and they were cut.

The ridge pole was put up, supported by two short vertical pieces standing on the top of the end walls. (I needed a neighbor to help hold the stuff but this time the Manhattan bill was less than $3). Then each of the rafters was nailed to the pole and notched and nailed into place on the top of the walls.

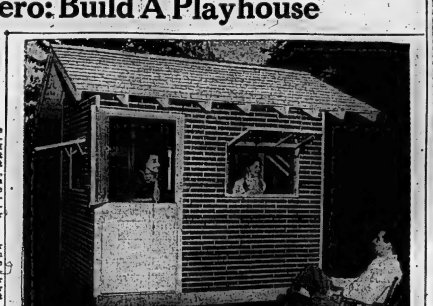
Then came tar paper and about $15 worth of roof shingles. The man at the shingle place will tell you how. After that, I went back to the lumber yard. I wanted some exterior covering for the walls that would be cheap, easy to put on and would require no paint.

He recommended asphalt brick siding which, of course, is not real brick but looks like the real thing. It comes in sheets 43 inches long and the edge of one overlaps the top of the other. No water can get in. Also, the sheets have an insulating quality.

The only difficulty with this stuff is cutting it. I tried shears and ruined them. About the only thing that really worked was a linoleum knife, which had to be cleaned and sharpened often.

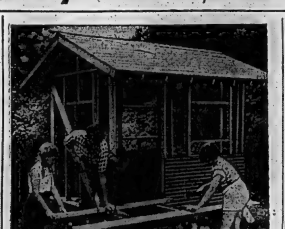
I made Dutch doors out of left over roofers and, incidentally, did not know that in Holland Dutch doors are known as Singapore doors? Anyway, each half door was made of the roofers, measured to fit the door opening. Roofers were also used for cross pieces to lend strength. Add a little molding here and there and it looks like the real thing.

For the corners of the house, you can buy corner pieces of that brick siding. I found it cheaper and easier to use wood corner guards. After the windows were planed down to fit (oh, I forgot to mention I also borrowed a plane), they were hinged on from the top. Then the man at the lumber yard told me about a 75-cent set of brackets by which you can push the window open and it will remain open at any given angle. These work fine on all four windows.



A little paint on the trim and the house was finished. At first, I resented seeing the kids bounce around in it because so much of my soul went into the making. However, I've since developed a bigger attitude about it.

Now there's only one rub. It looks like I may have to invest $400 for high fencing all around the yard to keep out every other kid within a 10-mile radius. But look at it this way: If I build a pool, I'll need the same high fence for the same reason.



PROTECT YOUR HANDS

Before you start painting, rub a light coat of raw linseed oil on your hands. Dab off any excess oil.

When finished, just wash your hands with soap and water, and all the paint, grime and dirt will be gone.

NOW THE KIDS are happy. They have a playhouse Pop put his soul into

Right And Wrong Places For Trees

Choosing the right location for a tree can be as important as selecting the right tree.

A tree that sheds its leaves for winter can be used in places where summer shade is wanted without sacrificing winter warmth —around the south and west sides of house. Evergreens, on the other hand, can be used for dense windbreaks or screens for privacy.

The litter created by some trees should be considered. Acorns, catalpa pods, useless fruit from certain flowering trees, are problems when lawn care is involved.

CONCRETE SEPTIC TANKS
STEEL REINFORCED

These tanks are made from a special mixture of cement very similar to the formula that is used in the manufacture of our concrete burial vaults and are fully reinforced with a steel wire mesh. The baffles are cast into the tank and no special or any fittings are needed to connect the tank to the sewer lines. Being a horizontal type of construction the above tank has a much higher rate of digestion than tanks poured into the ground.

All tanks are guaranteed waterproof as this is done in the batching of the cement, it is therefore not necessary to plaster or coat tanks as in the case with poured tanks.

THE SMALL HOUSE DESIGNS —This smartly styled three-bedroom bungalow lends itself particularly to a sloping lot. Architects Vershaluat and Vershaluat, of Toronto, have achieved a distinctive exterior appearance through the use of full height windows at the front of the house and a planting area bordering the wide walk leading to the entrance.

One of the long windows provides side-lighting for the front entrance, another gives natural light to the basement stairway while three others are combined to make one large window in the living room.

A hallway separates the living and sleeping areas. The large kitchen with its U-shaped working area has space for dining and the lower hall below the window adds a cheerful note. A side entrance leads directly to the basement while the front entrance is handy to both kitchen and living room.

The total floor area of the house is 980 square feet while the cubic measurement is 19,600 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 33 feet by 28 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 363, are available from Houston's as a minimum cost.

Royal Canadian Artillery Celebrates Its Centennial

BY DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—When his 21st army group stood victorious in Germany in 1945, Field Marshal Montgomery sent this message to the artillery:

"I think all the other arms have done very well, too. But the artillery has been terrific . . . Canada's gunners will probably look back to this message today when the Royal Canadian Artillery celebrates its centennial. It is the oldest military formation in Canada.

The ceremonies will begin here officially at 12.30 p.m. when Major-Gen. D. O. N. Rivendell of Rockcliffe, Ont., honorary colonel commandant of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, will inspect a guard of honor drawn up by the Army in front of the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill.

The display will be a collection of artillery weapons ranging from muzzle - loading/ nine - pounder cannon used in the war of 1812-14 to the Nike, the new ground-to-air guided missile.

SPECIAL PARTIES

Canadian gunners everywhere have planned special parties and parades. Every one of the 8,000 regular soldiers serving in 12 artillery units. The 2nd regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, is part of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany.

"Artillery Day" actually marks the centennial of five units—the 2nd Field Battery of Ottawa, 7th Field Battery of Hamilton, 22nd Heavy Battery of Brockville and 30th Locating Battery of Kingston city.

Cannon fire echoed across the forest clearings in Canada as long ago as 1636 when French settlers in Quebec prepared themselves for defence against the Indians.

The history of the Canadian artillery remarks that "the small cannon, if they did little to reduce the British population, at least impressed it."

Militia units manned some 23 guns in the defence of Quebec against Sir William Phips' attack in 1690. Volunteer gunners were in action at Fres de Ville, Que., in the revolutionary war of 1775-76 and Canadian gunners saw action in the war of 1812-14.

MILITIA ACT

In 1855, the Militia Act was passed by Canada's united Parliament (Quebec and Ontario only). Part of the 5,000-man authorized force included seven batteries of field artillery.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Strange, who commanded B-battery at Quebec city from 1871 to 1887 and later became dominion inspector of artillery, is known as the "father of Canadian artillery."

Gen. Strange used to turn out his gunners for sudden exercises at night, to the wrath of the sleepy citizens of Quebec.

The two regular batteries and many militia artillery units took part in the 1885 northwest campaign.

In 1895, the Canadian artillery received the designation "royal" from Queen Victoria. Six years later, three batteries were dispatched to South Africa to fight in the Boer war.

Some 38,000 of the 44,000 gunners who enlisted in the First World War served overseas. A total of 3,031 gunners were killed and another 7,563 wounded. Two battleries served in each Canadian division in Siberia.

The artillery took part in all the big battles in which Canadians were involved—Ypres, the Somme, Passchendaele, Amiens, Arras, Cambrai, Mons and Vimy Ridge.

In 1936, the RCA's motto was adopted officially. It is "ubique, quo fas et gloria ducunt" ("everywhere, either right and glory lead").

The sad day arrived in 1939 when the regiment—gunners refer to the RCA simply as "the regiment"—was informed it was to become mechanized but it was not until 1937 that it parted with its last horse, the same year that the first peacetime anti-aircraft battery was formed.

CASUALTIES HIGH

In the Second World War, the gunners suffered 5,388 casualties, 1,223 of them fatal.

The 1st RCHA was in France for a few days in 1940 and elements of the 2nd divisional artillery landed at Dieppe in 1942. Guns of the 1st division supported infantry and tanks in Sicily in 1943.

Gunners of the 3rd division fired their 105-millimetre Howitzers from landing craft before they set foot in France June 6, 1944. They were joined later by the 4th division and 2nd Canadian Corps Artillery.

Canadian gunners have also served in Korea. The 2nd Regiment, RCHA, was the first on the scene, followed by the 1st, 4th and 3rd regiments in that order.

In 1952, King George VI became first captain-general of the Royal Canadian Artillery, a distinction accorded no other corps in the Canadian Army.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BOBCATS—FRANKFORD

The softball season will be officially ushered in tonight at the C.N.E. Recreation Park when Bob Temple's Bobcats of the C.O.H.A. Senior Intermediate A league entertain Frankford Merchants in the loop opener starting at 6.30. Meanwhile, Peter Kaye pets of the Ed and will play host to the Orioles on the Ox Point Diamond.

The Bobcats, still smarting from that 10-9 reverse handed them at Madoc the other night will be gunning desperately for their first win, and with the Merchants reputed to be stronger than last year a tidy tussle should result.

While no official announcement has been made, it is likely Manager Kenneth will "throw" Al Adams at the Merchants in an effort to obtain an all-important victory.

WRESTLING

The rassling moujiks from Russia and the mighty muscular midgets from other points furnish the "rassiin" bill-of-fare in Memorial Arena tonight. Big Tex Mackenzie and agile Patrick O'Connor take on the Kalmikoff Kutles in separate bouts while the pint-size pachyderms mix it in a merry medley of foursomes in between bouts. The "big brother" bouts lead better be good or the economy-size runabouts will steal the limelight from them. There should be plenty of action in any event.

NATIONAL GOLF DAY

This year for the first time, the National Golf Fund Inc., has allocated a portion of National Golf Day proceeds to the defeating of cancer, in turn will donate the money to their favorite charities. Ed Furgol and Babe Zaharias, playing against American and Canadian golfers at Xenia, have each allotted a per cent of the total amount raised by the tournament. Both have announced the institutions to benefit from their play at the Olympic Club in San Francisco on Golf Day.

Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete of all time, says that her share of National Golf Day proceeds will be used to establish a tumor clinic at L'Hotel Dieu in Beaumont, Texas—the hospital where she was operated upon and received treatment for cancer in 1953. Just four months after the operation she entered the Tam O'Shanter tournament in Chicago and scored a first. A few months later she went on to win the Serbin Invitational, the Sarasota Open, the National Capital Women's Open, and last fall the U.S. Women's Open.

In explaining her choice of charity, she said: "After my operation I realized that many cancer patients were looking to me for inspiration. I wanted to return to golf to show others that they too could resume their normal lives. My share of the year's National Golf Day proceeds will go for that same purpose—to help victims of a dread disease take up their lives again—and to make it easier for those who cannot afford expensive treatment and check-ups. I hope that everyone who plays against me on June 4, will remember that her 1st 9 is also going to help someone in a fight against a most tougher opponent—cancer."

Furgol said: "National Golf Day has become the biggest public participation event in golf's history. Last year 134,-000 people turned out to play—and that $134,000 benefited a lot of good causes. It is particularly gratifying to me that I will be able to turn over my share of the proceeds to the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled. Golf Day entry fees will be helping children and adults obtain proper care and treatment so the overcome many a 'disability.' I hope every golfer gets out to play against me on June 4—it's doubly important to me."

Despite a crippled left arm, U.S. Open Champion Furgol, through a combination of pluck, determination and unrelenting perseverance, has become one of the country's outstanding sports figures. He has also received an impressive number of honors: "Golfer of the Year" for 1954; the 1954 "Ben Hogan" award from the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association, and the "Handicapped Oscar," an award from the Institute for his outstanding contribution to understanding of the disabled and their problems.

Ed and the Babe will play their rounds at the Olympic Club, San Francisco. Golfers will full handicaps will pay $1 to play each round at their own public or private courses. Men's scores will be matched against Ed's, women's against the Babe's. Winners will receive medals reading: "I Beat Ed Furgol," or "I Beat Babe Zaharias." National Golf Day, an annual event, is co-sponsored by Life Magazine and the PGA, with the co-operation of the USGA and other local and national golf organizations. In addition to benefiting the champions' charities the event benefits worthwhile golf causes through the National Golf Fund. This year the Red Cross is also a major beneficiary.

Thousands of Canadian golfers will take part in the affair. And, it is reported a large number of Bay of Quinte Country Club and other players intend trying for one of the medals. You can play as many rounds as you like providing you pay a dollar for each round. The Country Club golf staff will be around bright and early June 4 to accommodate the entries.

Hand Senators Twin Setbacks As Tribe Splits With Chisox; Cards Blanked, Giants Lose

By The Associated Press

This was supposed to be the year the Braves finally cooked up a National League pennant, but with their speed, speed, pitching and all. But as of now, the only thing brewing in Milwaukee is beer.

Bobby Thomson, Joe Adcock and Eddie Mathews were to supply the power. Warren Spahn was to lead a classy pitching staff to greatness. Even manager Charlie Grimm's ulcers were in great shape.

So what happened? The Braves aren't even playing .500 ball. And after Thursday's 5-4 defeat by Cincinnati, they're barely ahead of the fifth-place Redlegs.

Thomson, whose injury helped cripple, is 6-for-21 after a fine start. And Mathews has been sidelined by an unpronounceable virus and was starting to get the range. In his last four games he had 7 of his 16 hits and batted in seven runs. Without his bat, the Braves had a total of seven—three by one run.

Thursday's defeat left them 10½ percentage points back of the first place Brooklyn Dodgers, who beat Philadelphia 5-2.

The runnerup Chicago Cubs kept up their surprising pace, dropping Lou Burdette a 4-3 decision. Rookie Pollet spun a six-hit shutout for his 3rd win against 2 losses. The York lost 3-2 in 11 innings to Philadelphia, which has won four straight after snapping the Giants six-game string.

YANKS TOP AL

The New York Yankees gained a 2½-game American League lead, beating Washington twice 8-4 and 7-3 while Cleveland split with Boston 2-0. Rain stopped Detroit at Kansas City.

Ted Kluszewski took the NL home run lead with his 12th and 13th to get Cincinnati rolling on its eighth victory in nine games, a four-run fifth inning did it up. The Braves rallied for two in the eighth, but it was too late as Gerry Staley won his fourth with help from Buster Freeman. Lew Burdette (3-3) lost.

The Cubs rocketed their 11th victory in 15 games while Pollet gained his 125th major league victory and the sixth shutout of the season by the Cubs' staff—matching their 1954 total. Bob Speake's third home run in five games scored two runs in the third to ice it.

Brooklyn stayed six games up on the Cubs by scoring four in the ninth. Don Newcombe, unbeaten, won his seventh, tripling and stealing home in the rally against loser Ken Kline.

Marv Blaylock, an ex-Giant, doubled against Hoyt Wilhelm to break up the game at Philadelphia. Richie Ashburn scored once, drove in a run with a fly of the Phils' eight hits. The winner was Bob Miller, who relieved Bob Kuzava when the Giants tied it at 3-all in the sixth.

The Yanks made it 13 out of 14 as rookie Johnny Kucks went the distance a second time for a 5-1 record in the opener. Eddie Robinson hit a three-run homer and drove home four. In the nightcap, Yogi Berra homered with two on as Jim Konstanty won 12-inning relief of Bob Wiesler. Mickey Mantle stretched his hitting streak through 13 games.

Bob Lemon, who lost his third straight by walking home a pair of runs in the opener, won the second game for Cleveland with a pinch single in the eighth. Jim Harshman won for Chicago, nursing a shutout until the ninth. The Tribe had seven doubles in the nightcap that kept them in second place, a half-game ahead of the Sox.

Red Wings Clip Leafs 'Win String' Royals Gain

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs, looking over their shoulders to keep an eye on the closely pursuing Montreal Royals, tripped over little Tony Jacobs Thursday night.

The 130-pound Rochester righty held the league-leaders scoreless over 2 1-3 innings of relief pitching to gain a 4-3 victory, his third against one defeat. For the Maple Leafs, it meant the end of a six-game winning streak and allowed the idle Royals to pick up half a game, cutting the Toronto lead to one game.

Jacobs came in to stop a seventh inning Leaf rally after the champs had tied the score at 3-3 on Ed Stevens' two-run homer. He then proceeded to aid his own cause in the bottom of the seventh, singling and eventually scoring as the Red Wings rallied for a pair of runs.

In the eighth Jacobs struck out the dangerous Archie Wilcox with the tying runs on base. From there on it was smooth sailing for the former St. Louis Cardinal. Johnny Hetki, the second of three Toronto pitchers, picked up the second loss without a victory.

Some big pitching was also uncorked at Syracuse where the Chiefs split a two-night doubleheader with Buffalo. All four starting moundsmen wept the distance, Jack Farrell burling a two-hitter in the Chiefs' opening game 3-0 victory and Richmond's Bob Habenicht tripping out on one-hit in winning the afterpiece, 5-1.

Farrell gave up two singles after two were out in the first inning and then retired 21 batters in order.

In the only other contest scheduled, Havana triumphed over Columbus in a free swinging 7-5 affair, highlighted by a bases-loaded double by second baseman Jackie Moralez during the Cubans' four-run ninth-inning rally.

Young Briton Had Seixas on Run

PARIS (AP) — Roger Becker, Britain's 20-year-old Davis Cup hopeful, had U.S. champion Vic Seixas on the run Thursday when rain ended the day's play in the French international tennis tournament.

Becker won the first set 9-7 and at one point was only a point away in the second although the Philadelphian had won 5-4 when a heavy shower halted play. The young Briton twice saved set point in the opening game of the second set.

If those advancing to the fourth round of the men's singles were Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Art Pate, Argentina's Enrique Morea, Kurt Nielsen of Denmark and Belgium's Davis Cup duo of Philippe Washer and Jacques Brichant.

Will Enter Team in Olympics If Private Concern Or Public Foots The Bill, Says CAHA

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will enter a team in next winter's Olympic tournament at Italy only if some private concern or the general public pays the bills.

Delegates to the CAHA's annual meeting were told Thursday a solution to the stringent amateur qualifications and financing problem will be found within the next six months. But unless Olympic organizers attempt to harmonize their regulations with the Canadian standard, the basic situation probably will remain unsolved.

The Canadian hockey player who hasn't accepted at least some small token of his services was described as a rarity. The CAHA indicated some could collect considerable clamor in Canada" if it decided against sending a team overseas, yet there remains "the hypocrisy" of amateur standards.

Olympic rules were also slugged by their "hide-bound Victorian ideal" of amateurism and that become "divorced from the realities of sport."

On the financial side, he said help may come from a national non-commercial lottery. "Failing that, there's no trouble whatever" raising the necessary $25,000-plus to sponsor the team for advertising benefits.

As an alternative, the CAHA could appeal to fans to pay something extra at the gate toward financing the trip.

LEAVE TO EXECUTIVE

The entire question has been left to the CAHA executive.

Financial matters dominated the home front. The CAHA budget was set at $44,200, only half the amount spent in 1953-54 and roughly $11,000 less than last year. Declining playoff receipts caused the cut.

Next month, provincial branch officials will be asked to approve another step toward economy—a reduction in team representation. British Columbia proposal would reduce an amateur club's roster to 21 before Dec. 15, and to 15 after that date.

Under present regulations, a team can register 25 players before Dec. 15, and 18 after. A unanimous vote is needed for the change.

Dudley said some teams "are killing themselves financially and this appears to be the obvious answer in the situation."

SUGGESTS LEVY

Saskatchewan presented this idea for raising money: Put a special levy on junior, intermediate and senior players, or send to the CAHA 25 cents for each registration card made out by provincial branches.

Last year, 96,000 players registered with the association. On that basis, the scheme could realize close to $17,000. Each branch will table a report on the proposal at the next annual meeting—probably in Montreal.

For the Memorial Cup finals, opening next month in eastern Canada April 21, each team will be allowed three replacements, but must cut down to 18 players. Only a spare goaltender before the series begins.

The Allan Cup series will open in the West, starting April 19.

Williams Makes Regular Start For Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, toughened and ready, is expected to make his first regular season appearance tonight against Washington — a birthday present for manager Mike Higgins of the aging Boston Red Sox.

General manager Joe Cronin said he would wire American League headquarters in Chicago today to have Williams shifted to active player status from the restricted list. Such notification is all that's necessary to make the 36-year-old slugger eligible.

"I'll be ready to pinch-hit anytime," Williams said Thursday after a brief conditioning workout at Fenway Park.

"I don't know whether Ted will just pinch hit or be able to play," Higgins commented before the team left Baltimore Thursday night. "I'll have to wait until I talk with him."

If Ted can play," Higgins added "he'll hit third in the batting order and I'll give Gene Stephens the

"If Ted can play," Higgins added

CLEAR THE WAY

The way was cleared for Williams Thursday when the Sox optioned righthanded relief pitcher Russ Kemmerer to their Louisville affiliate. The team has been operating at the legal player limit.

Williams, on 346 lifetime batter with a flair for the dramatic, returns on Higgins' 57th birthday.

Ted, still "The Kid" in his endurance though his legs have lost a little of their spring, repeatedly said last year he was through with baseball once the '54 season ended.

But May 11, the day his divorce settlement was handed down by a court, Williams phoned Cronin from Miami he was coming back. Two days later he arrived to sign a contract for the balance of the year at an estimated $75,000 and has been training daily since.

128 Golfers Enter Tourney

HAMILTON (CP) — Rudy Horvath, Windsor golf pro, Thursday fired a three-under-par 68 at Hamilton Caledonia in preparation for the Ontario pro-amateur tournament.

Horvath shot an even par on the first nine and added three birdies on the second nine for a 36-32—68. Horvath's partner in the Friday tournament will be Bill Hodgson of Chedoke.

Clare Chinnery, Chedoke pro, said Thursday that 128 golfers, including defending champion Lloyd Tucker and Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway, are entered for the 36-hole, one-day tournament.

If you lift your wrists and lift the club it is impossible to get up to the top of your swing in good position. And if you're out of position and feel awkward at the top, you will if you can start your club back by lifting it, you haven't much of a chance to really put a powerful, smooth stroke on that ball. When you are at the top of the swing your right leg will be braced so that you have a feeling you shouldn't actually do the of leaning the back foot. Then, when your left leg straightens in your downswing you will be set just as though you were on a firm, inverted V, foundation.

Nashua Faces Eight Rivals In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—A surprising number of eight horses, including one from Chicago that has earned less than $1,000 in costs to start in the race, were signed up Thursday to run against hotshot Nashua in the Preakness Saturday.

The size of the probable nine-horse field for the 80th staging of the classic for three-year-olds in the face of Nashua's imposing record of 10 triumphs in 13 races was unlocked for in itself.

But the virtually last-minute decision of a couple of owners, particularly the B and G Stable of Chicago to put up $500 to enter Sticks with another $500 due Saturday to start, caused even more wonder.

Besides Nashua and Sticks, the race for $116,600 of which $66,050 will go to the winner if all start includes Kenny E. Ward's Fleet Path, Montpelier Stable's Saratoga, Gen Cobey's Dutch Thompson, Roslyn Farm's Go Lightly, Everglades Farm's Nance's Lad, W-L Ranch's Hosays Alibi and Clifford Moon's Traffic Judge.

Sticks has collected only $580 this year in fourth-place money in six races. The Preakness, a stiff run for a mile and three sixteenths, will be his fifth race in four weeks.

Bannister Forsakes Amateur Ranks After Writing 'First Four Minutes'

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Bannister, the first man to break the magic four-minute barrier in the mile run, has apparently renounced his amateurism and sealed his decision never to run again.

Advertisements appeared Thursday in New York newspapers stating that Sports Illustrated would publish his story on how he conquered the four-minute mile. Any such capitalization of athletic fame for pay would make the British runner a professional.

Last December Bannister announced his retirement in order to devote his full time to his medical career, but many followers of sport believed he would compete in the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne.

John Tilby, news editor of Sports Illustrated, said the weekly magazine is "buying the magazine rights from the publishers of Dr. Bannister's book, 'The First Four Minutes,' which is coming out this fall in conjunction with his running career, is for fall publication.

Bannister electrified the sports world when he ran the mile at Oxford, England, in 3:59.4 on May 6, 1954, for a world record—the first time anyone ever broke what was considered the toughest of all barriers in track and field. A little later John Landy of Australia lowered the mark to 3:58, but in the British Empire Games at Vancouver last summer Bannister beat Landy in 3:58.8. Landy was timed in 3:59.6.

"If Dr. Bannister writes a book or a magazine article for pay capitalizing on his athletic fame, then he is a professional," said Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union. "Apparently he has definitely decided against further amateur competition. Naturally we all regret losing him, as he was a great amateur, and his was a great achievement."

Dodd-Mead is publishing Bannister's book in the United States. It will be titled "The First Four Minutes." Publishing circles said he had signed a contract to receive pay for the book.

Aces Owners Would Rent Team For Dollar

QUEBEC (CP)—Owners of Quebec Aces Thursday offered to rent the team to Quebec City next season for a flat fee of $1 if they don't win a bigger share of gate receipts.

The team's home games are played at the city-owned Coliseum.

The offer was the latest move in the battle between the city, which claims the Coliseum lost money last winter and can't afford to give the Aces any more, and the Aces — who say they lost money last winter and can't afford to play at the Coliseum any more.

The Aces threatened to pull out of the Quebec Hockey League at the league's meeting in Montreal this weekend unless a settlement is reached before then.

Mayor Wilfrid Hamel Thursday read to the city administrative committee a letter from former Aces president Jack Latter offering the rental.

A cook at an R.C.A.F. station woke up late and had ten minutes to prepare a scrambled egg breakfast for 2,000 men. With some volunteer help he had enough eggs to go around broken into big kitchen pails. Then he had a pilot friend taxi a jet aircraft to a spot behind the kitchens. All the cook had to do was to pour the pails of eggs into the jet engine intakes and have a man at the back catch the scrambled eggs as they emerged, nicely cooked.

One Interview Made Fonda Foe of Hollywood Publicity

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Most of the Hollywood press corps would agree that Henry Fonda is an excellent actor, a fine fellow and a swell interview.

Fonda himself would be the first to admit the latter. Like many Broadway-trained actors he does not go along with Hollywood conception of publicity. Unlike other actors, he resists conforming to the mold.

He expressed his ideas with unusual frankness during a break in rehearsals for "Petrified Forest," which he is performing with Henry Silvey Bogart and Lauren Bucall next Monday over NBC. The play is a repeat of the Leslie Howard production, but the cast obviously places it in the "spectacular" classification.

"When I first started on Broadway, Fonda related, "I turned down the offers to go to Hollywood. They wanted me to come out at $175 a week or so.

They offered me big money to do the film version of 'Farmer Takes a Wife,' so I came out.

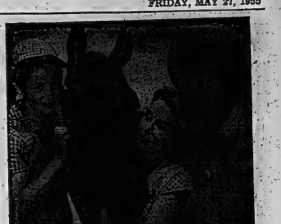
"Because I was so fascinated by it all, I went along with the publicity routine. But one interview changed all that.

"I came into the publicity department and met a fan magazine writer, a large woman who set her notebooks on a table and said, 'Now my diary is called 'The Love Life of Henry Fonda.'

"I was taken aback, but I tried to answer her questions. Finally I was so appalled that I said, 'I'm sorry, I can't go on with the interview,' and I fled.

"This made the writer so angry that she made up her own story and printed it under my by-line!"

ROOM FOR DIGNITY



Fonda was under contract to Walter Wanger at the time, and the producer agreed with his views about fan publicity. The actor has not done any since.

"It seems to me that it appeals to the lowest segment of the movie public," he observed.

Fonda is equally adamant about gossip columnists, who he feels feed on other people's misfortunes. He believes there is a place for publicity, but on a dignified level.

"Spanky" McFarland Is Only One of "Our Gang" Missing

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of "Our Gang" is missing.

He's Georgs (Spanky) McFarland, a chief liar of the ancient "Our Gang" comedies that have been revived to become one of the hottest kiddie attraction on television.

Allied Artists has accounted for virtually all other key members of the cast of the comedies filmed a quarter-century ago, and has had no luck yet locating Spanky, who was the chubby, wide-eyed cherub of the gang.

The mushrooming popularity of "Our Gang" comedies that have been revived to become one of the hottest kiddie attraction on television.

Allied Artists has accounted for virtually all other key members of the cast of the comedies filmed a quarter-century ago, and has had no luck yet locating Spanky, who was the chubby, wide-eyed cherub of the gang.

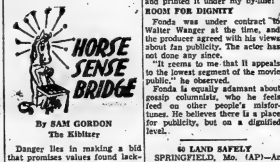
The mushrooming popularity of the old movie series, now shown on TV in 56 cities, has brought floods of requests from viewers to know what members of the gang are doing now.

SOME EASILY FOUND

Allied came up with the answers on the other former kid stars without too much difficulty.

It was easy for instance, in the case of Nanette Fabray who plays opposite Sid Caesar on NBC-TV Monday nights. Also for Jackie Cooper, who has frequent TV, stage and film roles, and Eddie Bracken, currently playing the lead in "Seven Year Itch" on Broadway.

Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer had dropped out of pictures and become a hunting guide in California, but now is getting movie roles again. Scotty Beckett is a regular on the TV film Space Ranger.



Others still in entertainment include Darla Hood, now with Edgar Bergen, and Baby Jean Darling, a regular in the CBS radio serial "Hilltop House."

FOUR LEFT BUSINESS

Allen (Farina) Hoskins and Matthew (Stymie) Beard no longer are in show business. Neither are Joh Cobb, now an aircraft worker, and Mary Kornman, married to a rancher.

The old "Our Gang" comedies are enjoying a TV revival like that of Bill Boyd's ancient "Hopalong Cassidy" series a few years ago. The lingering oldies were so successful that Boyd subsequently went into production of anew series filmed especially for TV.

The Kibitzer

Danger lies in making a bid that promises values found lacking in your hand. It upsets trust-ful partner. It puts him in an upset to his disposition but also to his plan for future defence.

Your topple overcall promises a minimum of five tricks if the bid is not six. If your bid must be two; seven, if your bid had to be three. With less tricks your bid is too high.

Your simple overcall promises a minimum of five cards in the trump suit you have named. If it contains less than five cards in the trump suit, you are sticking your neck out in that suit.

Upon these values does partner depend in his attempt to help in the defence bidding of your pair. But there is a third set of values upon which your partner has a right to depend.

This third set of values is in the nature of big cards; the kind known as aces, kings, aces and kings and queens. Of these, your partner must promises a minimum of two.

Among this minimum of two high cards one is guaranteed to be a sure trick. This means a trick in a combination or alone, that will be able to take a trick fast in defence.

South opens with one club when you have this west hand:

♠K 5
♥A Q8 4 2
♦9 7 5 3

As a defender you would like to know if your hand has what it takes for a simple overcall of one heart. It has a count of five probable tricks. Number one essential is there. At least five cards are in the trump suit. Essential number two is there. The ace is a sure trick and at least one other high card is in the hand. All three requirements have shown up.

Therefore, you have what you promise with a simple overcall of one heart. It may not do you any good. But you have done right by Nell; if Nell is your partner.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN "Bright Road"
Dorothy Dandridge, a Negro grammar school teacher, faces the challenge of a new class in a school for Negroes in the South. She is confronted with the defiance of 11-year-old Philip Heyburn, a backyard, ragged kid, proud and rebellious, but with a keen appreciation of beauty. Dorothy tries gently to become his friend, encouraging his talent in art drawing, and his confidence grows during the passing months. During rehearsals for a class play, little Barbara Ann Saunders, who is to portray Sleeping Beauty, is stricken with virus pneumonia. When she dies, Philip—who had been fond of her—again turns rebellious. However, as boys will, he transfers his love to his teacher, who commendation for quick thinking in an emergency, and finds himself at peace with the world.

"The Big Frame"
Mark Stevens, a jet pilot, journeys to London to lead a reunion of the RAF squadrons with which he served during the war. Drunk and quarrelsome, John Harvey provokes a fight with Stevens, but the latter is patched up and they have a drink together. Stevens awakens hours later, realizing he has been doped, and learns Harvey has been murdered. Stevens' fiancee, Jean Kent, and a friend, John Bentley, try to aid him in his desperate quest to clear himself, since the watch has been found by the dead man's body. The trail leads to two former fellow-fliers, now in the import business, but there are two more murders before Jean discovers that Bentley is the real killer. With Jean as a hostage, Bentley tries to escape in his private plane, but Stevens and the police catch him in time's nick, and Stevens is exonerated.

AT THE McCARTHY — Leigh Snowden and Ralph Meeker get comfortable, but not too comfortable judging from that revolver in his hand, in Mickey Spillane's "Kiss Me Deadly", which opens today at the McCarthy Theatre. Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Saturday, May 28, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Solve problems carefully before acting. P. M. could be irritating for personal and business affairs but you can weather such storms by steadiness, logic and not permitting yourself to become upset.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You are in a top-notch position for advancement and can get a tremendous lot out of new leads, jobs now. Take things serenely but not too seriously. Push hard but reasonably, fairly.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A day for emphasizing talent, a useful pastime; for fulfilling social obligations, correspondence. Pitch into necessary business, duties; be content with moderate gains.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't expect a fairy godmother to swoop down and lighten your tasks. This day calls for exacting effort and hard thinking if you expect real profits.

July 24 to August 22 — (Leo) — Familiar matters, sports, activities in which you are trained will advance most now. Work with a will, don't be mercenary and your blessings will be many. Romance favored.

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — Heed warnings, indications of the way "the wind blows." Be guided by what is properly expected of you. There is no need to strain but do be systematic and don't fear the unexpected.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — A free conscience and happy disposition are much to be thankful for. The A. M. could be upsetting, but you aren't going to let it, nor are you going to incur trouble by being careless. Be philosophical.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You can do a good job, get reasonable compensation if you strive hard and live up to your fine assets. Don't seek the impossible, nor expect more than reasonable; thus you can gain more.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Mixed vibrations. Be sensibly slow to act on important matters; let others talk; listen awhile.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Stimulation high. Don't overdo but do enter competitive work and pursue matters of interest, value. A good day for good deeds, charity affairs, reviewing family needs, pleasures.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Things may not be as easy as you expect. Avoid being vulnerable to others' unwise schemes, rosy promises. Look sharply for reasons before acting. Personal affairs can be improved.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You are generally a smart observer and quickly distinguish between right and wrong. Today is a time to stress this ability. Keep a high standard of living first in mind.

You born today have varied talents, can adapt to situations readily. Do not try to do too many things at one time; concentrate on one or two matters and let others go temporarily; then you won't become rushed and overtired. You enjoy good fun; travel; can recuperate quickly from setbacks, losses; are a practical, quick thinker. Don't misuse good health, be patient. Birthdate of: Thos. Moore, famous Irish poet; Wm. Pitt, Eng. statesman; Louis Agassiz, Swiss naturalist.

Abandons Bow Tie

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson created a stir Thursday night by abandoning his habitual bow tie at a reception for 20 journalists from 14 NATO countries.

He appeared at the party wearing a blue polka dot four-in-hand tie given to him by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Geoffrey Pearson, while he was in Paris for the recent NATO meeting.

Mr. Pearson is known as the cabinet's bow tie man. He has been wearing bow ties since 1920 and only rarely wears the conventional necktie.

Times Have Changed

OTTAWA (CP)—There was a time, Progressive Conservative Harry O. White told the Commons Thursday, when it cost 3c per letter mailed in London, England, during late afternoon to be delivered in Toronto the following morning.

But times have changed, the member for Middlesex East said.

A friend recently had carried out an experiment, mailing two letters simultaneously in London. One went airmail, the other airmail special delivery.

The airmailed letter arrived in Toronto two days later, the other three days later.

Britain, Germany Grappling For Shipbuilding Orders

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain and Germany are again grappling in a shipyard struggle of chattering rivet guns and flaring welders' torches.

The fight is for shipbuilding orders and the German yards, leveled by Allied bombers and rebuilt in post-war years, are chewing down Britain's long - established lead.

The United Kingdom still turns out more than three times the tonnage of the German yards but the gap is narrowing. British builders are particularly worried about Germany's success in winning export orders.

Some observers say the German industry may this year pass Britain in export tonnage. About 2,142,000 tons of merchant shipping are under construction in Britain with only 35 per cent for export. Germany is working on 663,430 tons, of which 60 per cent is for customers abroad. Of 330,000 tons booked with German yards in the first three months of the year, some 300,000 tons or 90 per cent is for export. Britain has received orders for 273,000 tons in the same period and only a small proportion from foreign customers.

Part of the reason for Germany's current success lies ironically in her wartime defeat. Britain has been the bombed and dismantled German yards completely rebuilt in recent years. Equipped with the latest machinery, they are building ships by new methods.

Britain had to build around berths continually in use and the switch to modern methods—from riveting to welding and prefabrication—has progressed slowly.

With a large labor reserve, German yards can operate a two-shift system everywhere and a three-shift system in some yards while Britain can manage only a single shift.

German workers 45 a 48-hour week compared with a 44-hour week in Britain. In some German yards, one trade union represents all the workers and in no yards are there more than three trade unions. In one British yard there are 19 different trade unions.

For these reasons, Germany can build ships more quickly and more cheaply. Because her order book is not so large as Britain's, she can promise shorter delivery dates and firm prices.

BIGGER ORDER BOOK

Germany can turn out a tanker in 13 to 15 months compared with 15 to 18 months in a British yard, or a large tug in eight to nine months against 11 to 12 months. And in each case the German vessel will be 13- to 15-per - cent cheaper.

Today the German order book amounts to 1,581,000 tons, about 30 per cent more than at the same time last year. About 10,000 workers have been added to the payroll in the last year and employment is at a peak of 90,000.

Britain has orders for 787 ships of 4,300,000 tons, valued at £310,000,000. This represents a drop of almost 1,000,000 tons in a year and about 3,000,000 tons since the peak of mid-1952.

The British picture is not so black as it might appear, however. An increased tempo in United Kingdom production is steadily cutting down the order book and British yards may soon be able to quote earlier delivery dates.

On the other hand, German domestic orders have slumped badly since the beginning of this year, when tax concessions were withdrawn on loans for shipping companies. Deliveries have dropped too and with swollen order books, German yards may have to extend their delivery dates.

THREE RUNNERS BREAK 4-MINUTE MILE

Four Die As Bus Hits Car Near Toronto

3 Bodies Burned So Badly That Sex Cannot Be Learned

Bus Driver States Car Stopped at Green Light

TORONTO (CP)—Four persons were killed early today when a bus rammed into the rear of a car, stopped on a green light at a suburban West Hill intersection.

The dead—all passengers in the car—were not immediately identified. Three died in the crash and the fourth, a woman, died later in hospital.

Police said the' three bodies later recovered from the car were so badly burned it was impossible to say whether they were men or women. Extra police were called to the scene to hold back hundreds of onlookers who blocked the highway and hampered rescue crews.

The car was owned by Colonial Coach Lines Limited, escaped with a shaking up. They got out through an emergency door before the bus burst into flames.

ON GREEN LIGHT

Ray Hinan, 32, of Toronto, the bus driver, said the car stopped on a green light in front of his vehicle.

"I hit the brakes," Hinan said. "When I swerved over to the right front caught the back end of the car—then everything went out of control.

"The car was wedged tightly between the front of the bus and I knew the people inside had no chance of getting out alive."

Hinan said he was travelling at about 40 miles an hour after just emerging from a 30-mile-an-hour zone some 30 miles northeast of the city. He could see nothing why the car driver stopped at the intersection when the traffic lights turned green.

WAS NORMAL

"It beats me. I followed him for a few minutes before we got to the lights—the light and everything was normal."

Joseph Zeltanecky, who lives near the intersection, said he heard a crash like thunder and saw a ball of flame.

"I grabbed a fire extinguisher and ran toward the burning bus," Zeltanecky said. "I saw a woman half out of the car. I dragged her out and away from the car—I think she was still alive.

"Then I went to the car and saw a man's arm hanging out. The upper part of his clothing came away in my hands.

"Then it got so warm I knew we could never get him out."

Truman Believes End of Cold War Is Now in Offing

NEW YORK (AP) — Former president Truman said Friday night he thinks the world is "approaching a peace settlement and the end of the Cold War."

He made the statement as he sat with Mrs. Truman in his den in Independence, Mo., while chatting with his daughter, Margaret, on the CBS-TV program, "Person to Person."

Miss Truman handled the interview with her parents from New York. She substituted for Edward R. Murrow.

With Mrs. Truman at his side, first on their porch, then in the parlor and finally in his den, the former president said:

The recent signing of the Austrian peace treaty was a step in the direction of the "approaching peace settlement and the end of the Cold War."

Still Endeavoring To Settle Strike At Fort William

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Union-management talks continued here Friday in an effort to settle the 12-day strike, of 1,400 employees at Canadian Car and Foundry Co. Ltd.

Officials said nothing concrete has emerged from the second day of conciliation board proceedings under the direction of Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, and his assistant, R. V. Bradley.

The workers, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) went on strike May 16. Chief point in the dispute is a pension plan instituted by the company.

POSTAL SERVICE DECLARED LAX IN THEFT CASES

Charge Nothing Done In 328 Recent Thefts

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's postal service has been accused of laxity in preventing thefts and of saying nothing about the 328 thefts it has experienced since the start of 1953.

William Hamilton (PC—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) said in the Commons Friday that official figures reveal a "frightening situation." But when conclusively the post office is not doing anything about it.

Court action had been taken in only 46 of the 328 cases, he said. It was small wonder that four out of five people who stole from the post office got away scot free.

Most convictions were for sums under $50.

"I would suggest that anyone thinking of stealing money from a post office should not take only, say, $5 but $20,000 or $44,500. He would then have a good chance of getting away. . . ."

PICKERSGILL REPLIES

His statement brought a prompt retort from Acting Postmaster-General Pickersgill, who asked whether Mr. Hamilton intended to suggest any deliberate attempt by the department not to perform its duty.

"I want the members to know there isn't a bit of tittle of truth in this," Mr. Pickersgill said.

Every case was reported to the police. But the department did not carry out its own police action or inquiry; he said sometimes they are prosecutions.

As for the number of unsolved discovered only after a lapse of time. The type of crime was hard to track down.

Mr. Pickersgill said where money is lost because a postmaster does not follow regulations, the postmaster must make up the loss.

He was referring to the case of the postmaster at Port Moody, B.C., whose pay is being cut by $100 a month to make up a $500 theft from his post office in 1953.

The issue was one of many debated in the Commons until nearly two days of discussion by approving postal estimates of $325,000,000.

THE TURNBULL CASE

Charles Pickersgill entered the postal debate at another point to criticize a statement Thursday by Jean Turnbull, Liberal (PC—Quebec West) that the department's deputy minister, Col. Dufresne, was the "grand master" of the mails and the postmaster - general a "figurehead."

He said members would recall the Turnbull case, absent most of the session through illness, was not carry out his duties.

Mr. Dufresne replied he had said that Mr. Turnbull was deputy minister's power Mr. Cole did not have to account for the deputy minister's behavior in the department. He added:

"I was not elected to burn incense for the Liberal party administration."

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) questioned the new decision to dock holiday time for laterers by postal workers.

With Only 2 Seats in Doubt, Eden's Overall Majority 57

LONDON (AP)—Buoyed by their smashing electoral triumph, Prime Minister Eden said his big Conservative ministers sought ways today to avert the chaos expected to follow a threatened rail strike.

With results from only two of the 630 races still to be announced, the Tories gained an assured overall majority of 57 in the new House of Commons. Their old margin was a slim 17.

The two outstanding results were from districts that are usually heavily Conservative.

Even in the last results of Thursday's election were being counted, thousands of Britons rushed by train from London and other cities to the seaside for their annual three-day Whitsun weekend. They ignored the prospect that the nationalized rail lines may be operating only a skeleton service during the holiday period.

Eden's government faces the task of keeping essential supplies moving and somehow easing the confusion when these people try to get back to their homes and jobs Monday night.

In thanking the people for the victory which confirmed him in office with a tripled majority, Eden warned Friday night that industrial disputes . . . are already causing a great anxiety."

In addition to the threatened rail strike, a sputtering dockside walkout that has slowed cargo handling in four of Britain's biggest ports for a week is still going on.

But the possibility of a rail lleup is far more serious. It was called by a union of locomotive engineers and firemen to enforce demands for pay raises to preserve their traditional differentials over less-skilled workers.

The 100 railway men rejected as "too late" an offer made Friday by the labor ministry to set up a conciliation board to hear the dispute. Union secretary, J. G. Bayfield said "I think a strike is inevitable."

Eden met with cabinet ministers Friday night in a 70-minute emergency session called to consider the strike crisis.

The crisis clouded the joy the Tories felt at their election victory, a triumph that broke the near deadlock between Britain's two main political parties.

Unlike the 1951 balloting, the Conservatives also got a larger share of the popular vote, a factor that strengthens their mandate to speak for Britain at home and abroad.

The triumph means that Eden's cabinet can work unhindered during its five-year term—the type of strengthening British-American relations and the Western defence structure. At home, the Conservatives have promised support for their anti-inflation economic system and a government administered on progressive lines.

The defeated Labor party, meanwhile, began a period of soul-searching. The pro-labor newspaper, Daily Mirror, asking why the Tories won, answers its own question this way:

"Because its leaders are too old, too tired, too worn out. Because the Labor movement has been baffled, bewildered and betrayed by internal feuds.

"Because its organization is rusty, inefficient and generally inferior to the slick Tory machine."

Labor lost, but it was not routed. With only a few exceptions, all the party's leading figures will be back in their accustomed places when the new Parliament convenes June 7.

But the basic split between Aneurin Bevan's left wing and the moderates led by Clement Attlee still exists. A bitter intra-party struggle for power can erupt soon over whether the Socialists should go further left.

It is thought that the car bearing the four airmen ran into the rear of an eastbound transport truck which had swung out to pass two cars and another transport in the south ditch.

Londoners See Hungarian Soldier Beat Two Britons

Chataway Second Again, RAF "Unknown" Is Third

LONDON (Reuters)—Three men running in a single race here today all shattered the former four-minute-mile barrier, the great athletic achievement which until recently had defied distance runners since organized sport began.

They were Laslo Tabori of Hungary and Britons Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson.

Tabori, a 26-year-old army man, won a tremendous struggle in heavy conditions in three minutes, 59 seconds flat—one second off the world record set by John Landy, of Australia last year.

Chataway was second and Hewson third—both clocked in 3:59.8.

ON HEAVY TRACK

Today's dramatic finish electrified the crowd of 25,000 at an international track meet at London's White City Stadium, the annual British Empire Games.

The track was heavy and the temperature was about 60 degrees but there was appreciable wind.

Tabori finished five yards ahead of Chataway and Hewson with track and field's fifth, sixth and seventh four-minute miles.

Dr. Roger Bannister of Britain ran the first four-minute mile May 6, 1954, at Oxford. His time was 3:59.4. John Landy of Australia lowered the record to 3:58.0 in Finland in June.

Bannister and Landy met in "the mile of the century" in Vancouver in the British Empire Games and both ran four-minute miles. Bannister won.

Today's extraordinary event was even more remarkable in that the favorite, Sandor Iharos of Hungary, withdrew from the race because he was airsick Friday flying to London.

Tabori is considered Hungary's No. 2 miler. His best previous mile was in 4:02.2.

Alan Gordon of Britain took the early lead and was followed by Hewson, Chataway, Tabori and Rolf Aammers of Germany through the first lap. They were in the same order at the half which was timed in 2:00.8. On the third lap Hewson took command with Chataway and Tabori on his heels. The others faded back.

Hewson finished the third quarter in 3:02.8. The three were still together.

About 300 yards from the tape Tabori drew away from the pack. Hewson and Chataway held him off. Then Chataway made his short turn and third time began edging ahead.

He kept forward over the last yards to finish with a comfortable five-yard lead.

Dr. Bannister was in the stands and saw the race. He was the first to congratulate the three four-minute milers.

Prime Minister praised Tabori's run. "He ran a wonderful race," he said. "He was marvellous."

The Duke of Edinburgh finished fourth in 4:09.0, Ralph Dunkley of Jamaica was fifth in 4:11.0 and Lammers was sixth in 4:12.4.

Victoria Is Against More Things Than Any Other City In Country

VICTORIA (CP)—Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, says Victoria is against more things as on a per capita basis than any other city in Canada.

The city may not know what it is for, he said, but it should get credit for knowing what it is against.

Mr. Keate, who also is president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said in a new address to 350 British Columbia and Yukon members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce that he hopes they have reversed their opinion of Victoria.

"I am sure that you will go back home decrying the lazy carefree life in the City Cemetery in Canada with a business section.

"And I am sure you will discount that legend to the effect that Victoria is a place where 'everybody's back yard" and the opposition blocked the project.

Creighton, Ont., Miner Kills Policeman, Then Shoots Self

CREIGHTON, Ont. (CP) — A young miner who wanted to be a peace officer seized his gun on the law today, killing a policeman and wounding two other men before putting a bullet through his head.

Police said they found 22-year-old Henry Sikala fatally wounded on a side street about three quarters of a mile away. He had fired four bullets into town constable Ernest Paul, 40-year-old father of four whose name Sikala had often visited.

Later, as he ran the streets of this northern Ontario mining town with gun in hand, he also wounded the other men and fired at another.

"Paul was sitting in a chair," said Frank Cassidy, who witnessed the shooting. "My back was to Sikala. Then I heard the shots. I saw over the shoulder of the deputy mine.

MAIL-ORDER DETECTIVE

"As the policeman fell on the floor Sikala ran outside, firing bullets into him."

Sikala, who lived in his room' a mail-order private detective's diploma from a correspondence school in Toronto, worked for Paul at a miners', residence known as the Inco Hotel and operated by Cassidy.

Cassidy said constable Paul in uniform, walked into the kitchen of the hotel and sat down to chat with him. He said Sikala had just come down from his room earlier and asked him whether another policeman, Bob Dufresne, 25, had been around. When he was told he had, the police left. When he returned, Paul was there.

NO WARNING

Cassidy said that without warning, Sikala shot Paul with what was later identified as .22 calibre target pistol. As the policeman slumped to the floor, he fired three more shots into him.

Cassidy said the youth muttered some words but he couldn't understand what he was saying. Hours after the shooting no firm motive had emerged.

Cassidy dashed for a telephone and then decided it would be fastest to run to the police station. On the way he met a motorist and told him to get the police.

Sikala had run out a back door, police said, and then, gun in hand, to a corner restaurant.

There, he wounded owner Henry Sutter with one shot which passed through his hand and into his side and wounded a man identified as Arbo Kiskannen in the stomach.

He also fired at another man but missed before running down the street to the home of Mrs. Matti Kotanen, identified by police as a close friend of the slain policeman.

GUNMAN SUICIDES

Mrs. Kotanen said he arrived carrying the pistol and with a handful of shells in view but that she didn't believe him when he told her he had "shot a cop."

She told him to go home. He went out the back door for a short distance and fired one shot into his own head.

This community, scene of one of several International Nickel Company mines in Northern Ontario, is about 15 miles west of Sudbury. Its population is approximately 2,100.

Think Barber's Tip Erroneous

TORONTO (CP) —A report from a barber that he thought he had cut the hair of Arthur Aronson, sought in connection with a bank holdup in which a clerk was shot and killed, was "highly fanciful of fa police hunt Friday at Aurora, Malton.

However, chief of dtectives Archie McCabe said later the barber's tip was erroneous. Mayor Warrey was mistaken in his identification.

CLEARED OF CHARGES

LONDON (Reuters) — A jury took only 20 minutes Friday to clear shipbroker Caroll Levis of Toronto and the British Broadcasting Corporation of charges by showman Hughie Green that they had conspired to defraud viewers to keep his amateur hour show off the air. Green was ordered to pay an estimated £30,000 to £35,000 in costs.

Tape Record of Heart Beats Stolen, May Retard Medical Research Job

NEW YORK (AP)—A tape recorder-with an eerie but invaluable collection of heart beats was stolen Friday from a Park avenue specialists' office. The research data had taken 10 years to collect.

The thief, if he plays the tape, will hear a second-long mumbling drum beats. But to the trained ear the tape holds an irreplaceable record of heart sounds, some from hearts that long since ceased to beat.

So important was the data that the Medical Society for the County of New York announced this public plea to the thief who invaded Dr. Arthur A. Brisker's office:

"An unsuspecting burglar may be the cause of a serious setback in the world-wide battle against heart disease. Ten years of intensive work on cardiovascular research may be whisked into oblivion if the person who stole a tape recorder and reels of tape from a Park avenue office carelessly discards or destroys the tapes.

"These tapes are irreplaceable records of heart sounds and murmurs of congenital or acquired cardiac conditions — abnormal hearts, hypersensitive hearts, blue babies and the heartbeats of unborn babies.

The society said the tapes have proved invaluable in education and research.

Decide Shooting Was Accidental

BRANTFORD (CP) — Coroners jury Friday decided the death of Cameron Sidney Hill, 15, of Shawinigan, was accidental. He was killed by a ricocheting bullet during a police chase.

Police officers gave chase after they spotted Hill outside a home which had been broken into. Bullets fired warning shots when the fleeing man ignored their commands struck him. One of the bullets bounced off a house wall and penetrated Hill's body.

May Be Enough Selkirk Wheat For 1956 Seeding

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Friday night if western farmers produce a good crop of rust-resistant Selkirk wheat this year there should be enough of it for spring wheat seeding in the Prairies in 1956.

He made the statement as he launched a debate in the Commons on his department's $76,400,000 spending program for the 1955-56 fiscal year. Mr. Gardiner outlined the work of his department shortly before the House adjourned for the week-end.

Mr. Gardiner also disclosed that his department is investigating the possibility of export markets for Canadian butter. He said one small sale had been made but did not name the buyer.

His speech was devoted to a defence of the government's policies in the field of agriculture. He said activities under various acts of Parliament related to farm products "have maintained and stabilized prices on wheat, livestock, potatoes, apples, beans, honey, dry skimmed milk powder, cheese, creamery butter and shell eggs at higher levels than ever before."

BLOOMFIELD BOASTS QUADRUPLET TULIPS

Tulips are again in the news. This time Miss Grace McGee, of Bloomfield, brought in a quadruple clustre of perfectly formed yellow, tinged with scarlet tulips which she grew in her garden. Miss McGee says she also has tripled tulips in red, as well as twin tulips in other colors. It has been suggested that the damp weather has been responsible for the multiple flowers. Perhaps some horticulturist might enlighten tulip fans as to this.

Rain, Lightning Do Little Damage As Furious Storm Smashes District

A furious electric storm raged over the city for nearly two hours last night, illuminating Belleville and district like daylight and lashing the area with torrential rain.

The storm broke around 10 p.m., reached a peak about a half-hour later, subsided, then struck with renewed fierceness. During that time, street lights failed in different sections of the city. Huge pools of water formed in some thoroughfares where overburdened drains were unable to cope with the rush of water; unpaved streets in the newer city subdivisions were turned into a near-morass and traffic signals on the Four Corners failed.

After preliminary threatening the storm broke over the city about 10 p.m., when most families were preparing for the bed-time snack. Sultry weather and a slow wind gave indications of the slimmering storm earlier in the night.

SHEETS OF RAIN

When it broke, sheets of rain swept down under intermittent blue flashes of lightning that bathed the entire district while loud rumbles of thunder exploded overhead, were echoed in the hills, slightly then energetically renewed itself.

The monsoon-like downpour made driving difficult; motorists found windshield wipers were insufficient for clearing the glass.

Shortly after the storm commenced the traffic signal lights at the city's main intersection, the Four Corners, suddenly dimmed and became useless as movement indicators. Constables on the night beat in the area took over the direction of traffic vehicles while a police lineup wrestled with the problem of righting the failure from the signals' control box.

At the height of the storm, about 11.15 p.m., a cruiser was sent to the intersection of Highland Ave. and Bridge St. W. where two cars tilted each other.

Involved were Alice McAdams, Trenton, and William L. Gee, 14 Geddes St., Belleville. Damage was reported at about $75.

NO REPAIR CREWS

Ontario Hydro reported it did not find it necessary to call out any repair crews. Street lights failed in different sections of the city for several minutes but were quickly attended to.

In all about 1/2 inch rain was registered as fallen on the city. This morning, in the quiet after the storm, indications were for a bright, sunny week-end.

Weather bureau for the week-end forecast scattered thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight. Sunday may see showers with temperatures in this area hovering around a high of 70 degrees.

TRENTON

It appears that an eastbound car on Hwy. 2 Saturday had slowed to make a left turn into the 6 R.D. road and was struck from behind by another car. A following transport swerved to the right into the ditch but did not overturn. A second transport swerved to the left and was struck by the car bearing the R.C.A.F. men.

Driver of the transport was not injured.

Traffic congestion caused by the accident made it difficult to move the airmen immediately to the RCAF hospital and they were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital by Weaver ambulance.

Parents of the R.C.A.F. men, notified of the accident by RCAF officials, arrived at the air station Saturday morning from their home in Rockport, Ont.

OPP Corporal Ray Howal investigated.

Heavy week-end traffic headed in both directions was stalled at the scene of the accident as provincial police officers arrived to keep vehicles moving.

The car driver and the Direct Winters transport with which it collided came to rest at the north edge of the pavement, while another transport was partially in the ditch on the south side of the road.

OTHER ACCIDENTS FOLLOW

The traffic tie-up resulting from the fatal accident was indirectly the cause of two other crashes involving five vehicles.

Police said that at 1 a.m. a car driven by F/O Lawrence O'Donnell, RCAF, collided with a highway transport driven by Stephen Gregan of Brantford, while in another mishap, three cars were in collision as drivers failed to get their vehicles stopped in time.

Unemployment Insurance Group Holds Meeting

Approximately 115 members of the Quinte Local of the National Unemployment Insurance Association met at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton Friday evening for their annual dinner meeting.

Locals from Cobourg, Campbellford and Peterborough and delegations from Port Hope, Trenton, Belleville, Picton and Lindsay were represented.

Guest speaker for the dinner meeting was Leo J. Curry, executive director of the Unemployment Insurance Commission at Ottawa, who spoke on district offices and staffing problems as they affected individual employees and administration. The speaker was introduced by Jack Russell, manager of the Trenton office with being seated on his left by H. H. Reed, Belleville office manager.

Oliver J. Shaw, director of staff relations, also spoke briefly at the meeting.

Arrangements for the dinner meeting were made by members of the Trenton office, the meeting being presided over by Eric Naylor, district investigator of Peterborough.

The Quintones quartet of Belleville, headed by Alf Evans, provided the entertainment with several vocal numbers being much appreciated. A lively sing song was conducted by Frank White, Association vice president, assisted by Don Graham of Belleville. Draws for prizes added to the interest of the meeting.

Lightning Starts Garage Fire Near Fuller

Fire, touched off by lightning during last night's severe electrical storm which swept through the Bay of Quinte district, destroyed a garage, two cars and a number of power tools in the Fuller area 10 miles north of Belleville.

The garage, owned by Borden Redcliffe, was a complete loss and damage is estimated at more than $2,000. Mr. Redcliffe stated his own car, a tractor and a truck from the burning structure.

The fire started about 11.45 p.m. during the height of the storm. The family was roused during embers and the nearby house was in no danger.

Either as a result of the storm or the fire, both the phone and hydro were out and Mr. Redcliffe had to drive to Thomasburg to call the Hydro to notify that office of the power cut-off.

WHERE TWO MEN DIED

Two men were killed when a four-engine Avro York cargo plane crashed into this railway yard at the end of a runway at Edmonton's municipal airport. The plane, loaded with blasting powder, overturned the boxcar on the right and crashed into a line of cars. Plan wreckage is draped over the cars. The aircraft, owned by Associated Airways Limited, was flying supplies for the DEW (distant early warning) radar line in the Arctic. (CP Photo.)

Textile Firms' Plight Outlined To Y's Men Club

"The Textile Industry Today" was the topic of an address heard by the Belleville Y's Men's Club on Thursday evening. The speaker was Jim Utley, managing director of Downs - Coulter, Trenton, Coming from Yorkshire in 1934 Mr. Utley set up a branch plant of the Downs-Coulter Company of Leeds, Yorkshire. Since then he has lived in Trenton, where, besides operating a textile business, he has taken a very active part in community affairs.

An advocate of degrading an ocean of prosperity is how Mr. Utley describes the textile industry in Canada to-day. The reason for this, he says, is imports. These imported textiles can compete with domestic products because of higher Canadian labor costs and smaller volume of production. Another factor which works against Canadian producers is the wide spread opinion that imported textiles are superior to those made at home. Dollar for dollar Canadian textile products are as good as the imported articles says Mr. Utley. In fact, in some cases, they are better.

The outlook is grim and many mills are closing. The seriousness of the situation for this old industry was stressed by the speaker in the fact that he says it is when wage cuts are used to keep it going.

The speaker was introduced by Jim Pearson and thanked by Ross Booth.

RICH ORE DEPOSITS

One of the world's largest lead-zinc deposits is located at Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories. The area is marked by an X on this map by the Northern Affairs department. Northern Affairs Minister Lesage told the Commons that he hopes the government and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company will be able to reach an arrangement to develop the deposit. The company estimates the area contains approximately 80,000,000 tons of lead-zinc. Federal mining engineers say the deposit is much larger. (CP Photo).

Reuther Invites Ford to Attend Union Gathering

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, has invited Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Co., to stop into the critical Ford-UAW contract negotiations.

Reuther extended the invitation in a telegram Friday night after a UAW international executive Board meeting. He asked Ford to attend a meeting of the union's national Ford council.

The Ford council meeting was called after negotiators Thursday rejected a five-year, half-billion dollar contract "package" from Ford. The Ford offer ignored union demands for a guaranteed annual wage.

WORKERS TO DECIDE

Although union negotiators were bitter in their denunciations of the Ford package, Reuther said in his telegram that the final decision to accept or reject the offer "is one only Ford workers can make."

Employees in the United States already have voted by a 96.2-per-cent margin in strike if necessary to win the year-around wage.

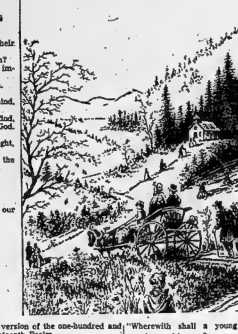
Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



HOW SHALL THE YOUNG SECURE THEIR HEARTS?

How shall the young secure their hearts,
An guard their lives from sin?
Thy word the choicest rule imparts
To keep the conscience clean.

When once it enters to the mind,
It spreads such light abroad,
The meanest souls instruction find,
And raise their thoughts to God.

'Tis like the sun, a heavenly light,
That guides us all the day;
And, through the dangers of the night,
A lamp to lead our way.

Thy word is everlasting truth;
How pure is every page!
That holy book shall guide our youth,
And well support our age.

Dr. Isaac Watts, distinguished eighteenth century English churchman and author of such hymngems as "When I Survey The wonderous Cross", "O God, Our Help In Ages Past", "Joy To The World", The Lord Is Come!" and "We're Marching To Zion", sat down one day to produce a metrical version of the one-hundred and nineteenth Psalm.

He finished with a work in 18 parts and the hymn cited above was made from several verses in the fourth part of his masterpiece. Bible lovers will recognize in the opening lines of the hymn the message of the ninth verse of the Psalm:

"Wherewith shall a young man cleanse his way?
By taking heed thereto according to Thy word".

Watts published his metrical masterpiece, in 1119, in a volume entitled "Psalms of David". He gave the poem the title, "Instruction From Scripture".

A Lift For Living

Fooling Ourselves Is Easy

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We of this scientific era pride ourselves on being wiser than our more primitive ancestors. We cannot be taken in by ghosts and myths, by superstitions and legends which fooled the people of an earlier day.

But with all our increase of learning one wonders how far we are becoming fool-proof. The late P. T. Barnum used to calculate his profits on the number of people who could be fooled, and he made a fortune.

Yes, despite all our boasted wisdom we are still the victims of deceit. And of all man's deceivers, the worst is himself. The ancient charge of the prophet Jeremiah still holds good: "The heart is deceitful above all things, and it is deceitful above all things, and it is exceedingly corrupt; who can know it?"

And then the prophet asserts that God helps to cure us of self-deceit. He interprets the Lord as saying: "I, Jehovah, search the mind: I try the heart."

No doubt some will say that religion is one of the channels through which we are most prone to deceive ourselves. Well, let us look into our tricks of self-deceit and see what effect a belief in God has on them.

OPTICAL ILLUSION

One way in which we deceive ourselves is by distorting our vision. Modern photography has made us familiar with optical illusions. By skilful photographic tricks a Hollywood studio can elongate an ordinary room into a long, narrow vista of a gallery, by placing the camera at the foot of a building, give the impression of great height.

Likewise the deceitful heart can create its own illusions. When we come to consider the rightness or wrongness of a proposition, we have a way of saying, "Well, it depends on how you look at it." And too often we have a way of looking at it so that we see what we want to see.

We focus the camera of our conscience from our angle of self-interest and thus we deceive ourselves, seeing situations not as they really are, but as we wish them to be. God keeps us from thus fooling ourselves by helping us to get our facts in proper focus. He wakes us to see situations from the angle of those who disagree with us. He helps us to "see life steadily and see it whole."

TWO REASONS

It has been said that there are two reasons for everything we do—a good reason and the real reason. We can give a good reason to others. But God we have to give the real reason.

Another way of fooling ourselves is by trying to see too much at once. All of us who have watched a magician fool the firing squads, the fluttering of birds, the calling of various individuals to the platform. These features serve to distract the audience's attention and contribute to its mystification.

Similarly, the deceitful heart diverts our attention and there-by plays tricks in our minds. It does so while it is making us think we are broad-minded. We say that we want to consider all sides of a situation. And in this very effort to take in all the factors, we, like the magician's audience, are sometimes taken in.

Broad-mindedness is a most valuable virtue, when genuine. But there is a lot of lazy thinking which passes for broad-mindedness. There are may persons, too, who think they are broad-minded when they are only scattered-brained.

CENTRAL POINT

When we say, "what's the big idea?", we imply usually that something is being put over on us. Alas, too often it is so. But really we should look for the big idea in every situation. However many issues may be involved, there is always one central point to be noted. God helps us to simplify situations and reduce them to their basic principles.

We are not centipedes who have to take a hundred steps at once. We're bipeds and most of us, with God's help, know what is the next step to take. If we do the duty next and then the duty next to that, we are on the road to the truth.

CLAIMS TALENT DRAIN

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Telegraph said Thursday that Canada and the United States are draining Britain of scientists, engineers and technicians. The paper said in a news story it is estimated "between 400 and 500 experts have emigrated to Canada alone" in the last year and many others have gone to the United States.

Bulletins From Birdland

SPIRAL SINGER

Just as each member of a human family may resemble the others yet have his own characteristics, so each member of the thrush family wears the badge that shows its lineage yet has the distinct marks of its own species. Of seven kinds that regularly nest in settled Canada east of the Rockies, much the most familiar is the robin. Another is the bluebird.

Few of us are aware of their ancestry. But the shape of their heads, their eyes, and their bills are unlike, and their young ones carry the thrush distinction in their breast. A hermit, grey-cheeked, olive-backed, wood, and wilson's are easily put into the correct group, but hard to tell apart.

The last mentioned, usually known as the veery, gives the bird watcher the least trouble.-Its back and tail are an even, tawny brown, and its underparts not so much spotted as streaked with faint, reddish brown. These juveniles are unique in having all upper parts speckled with tawny olive.

Most of us consider the hermit the best singer amongst these wonderful musicians, but others are often ranked higher.

WEIRD NOTE

The voice of the veery holds a magic all its own when, at evening, its spiral song floats up to us from the border of some lake. It is weird. The unruffled notes start loud, then die away, With a downward slur, the word "wheeu" is repeated half a dozen times, each "whee" beginning lower than the previous one.

Most kinds of thrushes reverse this, getting higher as the song proceeds. The veery's insistent "phew" call also fails in pitch.

The site for a home is carefully chosen in a wooded patch where ferns grow thickly. Willow and alder swamps are preferred. Thrushes as a family are ground birds, and the veery is an exception. Nesting takes place from a low branch or even the ground; its insect food is found chiefly by scratching the forest floor amidst the leaf mould; and its nest is usually built though not always- built on the ground. Sometimes the foundation of the home is a clump of ferns; then leaves, moss, and fibres (which are finer in the centre than at the rim) are not only woven together but right into the surrounding vegetation to form a bulky cup. In that case you may try in vain to pick up the nest. The eggs, as those of other thrushes, are greenish blue, or as we may say, "robin-egg blue".

For Parents Only

Failure Is Part of Life

By NANCY CLEAVER

A father or a mother who has a "Perfection Pattern" for a son or daughter to strive to follow is hard to live with. Such a person is likely to be inflexible and irritable. The child growing up in a home with too high a standard of behavior is apt to be nervous or sullen.

How can there be a relaxed, happy atmosphere if a youngster is always being prodded to excel or being nagged if he acts in an undesirable way?

"Junior is no star student like you . . . and why can't he get on the baseball team?" father asks irritably, "When I was a boy I pitched on our school team!"

"Can't you cure Margaret of her horrible habit of biting her nails?", another man asks his wife.

"Helen doesn't seem able to play happily with other children. She just won't take turns or share her playthings with other little girls. I am ashamed of her when she snatches her doll from her little chum," a mother complains.

"John just won't keep clean. I dress him in clean clothes every morning and every afternoon after he sleeps, and still he seems to be dirty all the time," another mother says regretfully.

BEYOND ABILITY

Have you listened to remarks like these? They are often made by parents who expect perfect behavior of their children—sometimes far beyond the child's ability at the stage he is at. These "perfectionist parents" are more apt to be stricter than fathers. They create a discontented, upset family circle. They would likely be surprised if they were told that it is a mistake for parents to set up a standard of perfection for a child—or expect a youngster to excel in athletics or school work because they did.

Children go through various stages of development. Habits, such as biting nails are outgrown in time by most children. It takes practice and patience for a little child to learn how to get along with other children, and share possessions happily. An active child is not naturally concerned over cleanliness, and a mother who expects her son to keep his hands and clothes clean while he playe is doomed to disappointment.

STIMULUS PRAISE

A child needs encouragement in order to succeed in the formation of habits which are possible and desirable for him at his age. Praise is a great stimulus for successful effort. If provision is made for the basic needs of a child, he is likely to be successful in learning new ideas and skills and in developing a happy relationship with his playmate- and older people.

Failure is part of life as well as success for a child as well as for an adult, and both young and old can learn from their mistakes if they are willing to do so. A child who accepts the fact that he cannot always be the winner in the game, that he will not always come first in his class, that he will not always succeed in all the attempts, will not be crushed by disappointments and failures in later, life.

Frequently adults are not able to achieve what they would like to accomplish! It is strange that so often they expect so much from their children! So seldom are they willing to make allowances for youngsters when they do not measure up to a "perfect pattern"!

A BASIS FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

From the standpoint of practical politics, the great majority of Britons, regardless of their party affiliations, will probably agree that the composition of the new House of Commons will be eminently satisfactory.

A majority of some thirty or more will give Sir Anthony Eden a firm control over the House of Commons without permitting the government to disregard the opposition, providing it matches in vigor and vigilance its numerical strength.

The statement that Thursday's election provided the Conservatives with their biggest triumph at the polls in a quarter of a century is quite true, may lead to the incorrect inference that Labor's fortunes are at the lowest ebb in more than two decades. This is far from correct. Clement Attlee commands a large following in the new House and if he can compose his differences with Aneurin Bevan should be able to discharge his duties as leader of the opposition just as effectively as Sir Anthony will be able to discharge his.

The important point about the fact that Thursday's election marks a peak in Conservative support for the past 25 years is that the government is not a coalition.

When Ramsay MacDonald led a large section of the Labor Party into a Nationalist Government in the early thirties, he temporarily ruined the British Labor Party. The Government, which included Conservatives, enjoyed a much larger majority than it will for the next five years, but this majority was not closely united.

National Liberals and National Labor men, as well as were National Laborites and National Liberals, as well as Conservatives, made the coalition. The Opposition, on the other hand, was weak and bitter. The Labor Party has recouped its strength in the intervening years and appears well able to muster a long siege in opposition, providing it is not torn by new schisms. The Independent Labor party has vanished. The Liberals, in the thirties divided into supporting and one opposing the National Government, have practically vanished from the political scene. Britain has returned to two-party government, with every indication that the years ahead will see the two political forces so closely balanced as to assure the nation of an effective opposition, as well as a government not dependent on coalition and compromise.

The crushing defeat suffered by the Conservatives in 1945 was unquestionably due to special circumstances. The Conservatives had been in power during the years of the London blitz and the woeful lack of preparedness at the outbreak of the Second Great War. The leaders of the Labor Party had served with Churchill in wartime Cabinets and men such as Attlee, Herbert Morrison and the late Ernest Bevin had proved themselves capable administrators. There were the pent-up resentments of the war years coming up a head of steam against the regime. There was an atmosphere of change, a dream of a new world. Conditions like this are unlikely to be repeated. Thus another sweeping Labor party victory does not appear likely in the foreseeable future.

Labor, on the other hand, has come within some sixty seats of the Conservatives in spite of a period of prosperity under Conservative rule, following on disillusionment at the failure of the welfare state to fulfill the post-war dreams of the voters. One British observer remarked recently that it has been years since there was such a general agreement on fundamentals as that which today exists between the British Conservative and Labor parties. This may sound like pretty weak tea to a nation where socialism is held in the gravest mistrust, but the socialism of the British Labor party is a very mild concoction, while the Conservatives' devotion to free enterprise does not include that distrust of the so-called "welfare state" which is common on this continent. · True, there are Tories and Laborites who scream in alarm at each others' policies, and refer to their opponents' ideas, but the "floating vote," which decides elections, appears to disregard these warnings.

The result could well be a return to the stability of two-party government such as is all too rare in many European countries.

A NEW PERSPECTIVE

There is nothing like going to church to change one's perspective.

In the shadowy quiet of church or chapel one hears voices and sees visions that are drowned in the noise and glare of everyday life and activity.

In church, the mind that is chained to material things is asked to look inward on itself, outward on mankind, and upward to God. The body concerned with the necessities of everyday existence is subordinate to the soul and its necessity to gain eternal life.

In church fathers and mothers concerned about their children are brought right into the presence of an Almighty Father and are urged to seek His aid through His Son and the wisdom of the Holy Spirit. Children are taught that respect for their parents and obedience are Divine commands not irrational whims.

People of differing political beliefs are taught that all just authority comes from God and that those in authority are responsible to Him for the way in which they exercise that authority. Care of the sick, the weak, the helpless are not chores to be done grudgingly but works of mercy that can earn Heaven's Paradise.

In church, charity becomes a virtue and not an income tax deduction; your neighbor becomes a joint heir, with you, to heaven, and not just a crank with a difficult personality.

In church, morals become more important than manners; virtue exposes vice; charity replaces contempt; and good works, not good wishes, measure the value of our citizenship.

Going to church takes man off the beaten paths of this world. Going to church for an hour can change the habits of a lifetime because that is what going to church should do.

Manilla may soon be in competition with London for a diversity of clubs. In the Philippine city there is already a Bachelor club, a Tall Peoples' club, a Widowers' club and clubs for the short, the bald, the bold, the shy, the fat, the skinny. Latest addition to the Filipino roster is the Ugly Ladies' club.

GOLFER AND CADDIE

Mr. Golfer, I would warn you
there's a youngster at your side,
And if you are fit to be with he will very soon decide.
He must watch the ball you play with. That is what he's paid to do,
But as long as he's your caddie
he'll be also watching you.

You're that growing boy's example. You will not have journeyed far
Before you will have shown him just the sort of man you are.
If you break the rules he'll know it. He'll exactly keep the score
And he'll know the hole just finished was a "five" and not a "four."

He'll go home and tell his mother, "I had So and So today
And I liked him, or I didn't."
Mothers learn of men that way.
You may think it doesn't matter what you say or what you do
But that youngster, Mr. Golfer, has both eyes and ears on you.

Should Save Motoring

(New York Times)

The motoring season is here, again, and if there are any changes since last fall all seem to be along the then indicated lines. A cursory look around suggests that the writer's men-at-work have been reducing grades, clearing obstructions to the vision and rendering less acute the hazards of sharp turns. This for some time has been a trend, and it is quite possible that due to work in the course of '54-'55 the safe speed rate in a good many places may have risen a couple of miles per hour. There is nothing against this, of course. A man who has a business appointment 200 miles distant is entitled to reach it in the shortest conceivable time, without wear, tear or wreckage. It also is good to think of trucks speeding on through the night, bringing the pink, new potatoes that will be on the table for dinner. Speed and commerce go hand in hand and no barrier should be put in their way, especially if it would delay the arrival of those potatoes. But it is another thing to imitate a truck, is it pleasure to go on a picnic as though it were a business appointment? And that happens on the high-speed highways.

* * *

Motorists, as such, should be a trifle without a formal fixed destination. Agreed that some time during the week-end they should cross the Raintow Bridge at Niagara Falls and enter Canada. The bridge is a destination, but once under the old rules of motoring the route would be mapped out with the car visited Canada by way of the Thousand Islands. Under 'life-old rules a stop would be made somewhere — for a meal, for the night, for gas, for a look at the river now, not on the high-speed highway. This highway carries a restriction that it must be traveled by set law, with a gas station available every fifty miles, food service on sale every sixty-eight. And it carries, in the number considered by the board: C. A. Hart, John Elliott, A. E. Bailey and H. Freeman Ketcheson.

Two Sides To Question

(Windsor Star)

An English woman magistrate calls for a law to compel men to help their wives with the money they earn. She believes many men are robbing their wives by concealing their actual income.

There are men who naturally are secret providers. They prefer to spend sizeable proportions of their income on their hobbies, such as gambling or in other such ways. If they have strong-minded wives they have trouble keeping aside enough money to satisfy their insatiable desire for knowledge of the sort of fraud by telling lies about how much they earn. In fact, the deceiving husband deserves sympathy.

It isn't always one-sided, however. There are women to whom it is impossible to entrust the earnings, One such is the extravagant type who will spend all a man earns regularly, leave nothing except for a few shekels his wife allows him for the most essential purposes.

Most husbands and wives work out a happy compromise between sharing the funds, whether they are large or small. The exceptions of either sex, cause the trouble.

Personal Health Service

A Routine Tonsillectomy

For public consumption and the enlightenment of their competitors, some of the ever-ready operators still boast that when they do a tonsillectomy, they get every bit of tonsil.

That isn't all they get, in their blind hacking (in a field more or less obscured by blood). As for the pathologist's autopsies on a thousand tonsils removed by representative men in the mid-west city showed, they sometimes "get" pieces of throat muscle and other normal tissues.

Lest there be any misunderstanding I should say here that in my opinion

(1) Tonsillectomy — instantaneous clipping or slicing off the obstructing portion—is adequate and justifiable treatment for children with enlarged tonsils. This is as quickly over with and as safe as extraction of a tooth.

(2) Surgical diathermy— electro-coagulation—is the method of choice for the treatment of infected tonsils.

(3). Tonsillectomy is an atrocity which should be outlawed. There is no justification for even attempting to "get every bit of tonsil." In fact, there is plenty of evidence on record to show that more or less tonsil tissue remains in the throat after 75 per cent of these atrocious operations. Of my reputable physicians who delegate the accuracy of my statement, I'll cite authorities for it.)

In the mail today was a newspaper story of a little boy who had gone through a routine tonsillectomy" without difficulty. He had been returned to his hospital room. Several hours later his heart stopped beating. But the boy was restored to life when a surgeon made an incision and massaged the heart. An inhalator was used, and the boy was kept in an iron lung for several hours. But about forty hours after the operation the heart ceased beating.

I ask every parent and every doctor who reads this piece: Was that major operation necessary?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Toronto is not the only Canadian community that is having park problems. The danger of losing open spaces in the central areas of Belleville is becoming serious, as well, both towns and cities all across the country. And perhaps the basic reason for the loss is ignorance of it. Many citizens of the community is not excited over the city engineer's plan of building on many a civic park is that the motor age has made it possible for the inhabitants of a city to live a head for the open country at will.

There are hundreds of thousands, hundreds of thousands of citizens in all our large cities who haven't been in a park in their home town in fifteen or twenty years. Indeed, there are parts of many cities in which I have lived for sixty years, that I have never even seen. It is astonishing how the motor car has both set us free and imprisoned us. It imprisons us in habit. We seldom depart from a set route we follow in our daily round of the city, or in our departure from the city on our week ends and holidays to the same familiar cottage or resort, year upon year.

What we think of as our common sense tells us that it is only natural that extremely valuable building sites should be expropriated, that a park land should gradually be filled up with baseball diamonds, football fields, picnic tables, then a few shelters, then a pavilion and finally a stadium. But our common sense tells us that parks are valuable, and we forget that despite the increasing highways these weekends, there are thousands of immobile fellow-citizens, especially children, who have to stay in town the year round. A park for them is a necessity, a necessary recreation as possible to the country for which we breed, every Friday afternoon, with trees, water, grass, hills, dales, and air that at least pretends to be fresh.

Park sites are extremely valuable, but they would be irrecoverable.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FOOD AND THOUGHT

How little we realize the effect that food has upon our thinking, and how important are the foods we eat. Worry, anxiety. They are all enemies of health. Food should never be eaten when the mind is disturbed. All the aids to digestion go on strike when evil influences enter the mind.

Much of the best work of an artist or writer is done in the kitchen. The large meal should be the one with friends—when the mind is free to enter into relaxed conversation. Cheerful thoughts have a wonderful effect upon digestion. No one should ever sit down to a meal unhappy. Food is for the strengthening of the body and we should aid this natural program.

If you haven't time to eat unhurried, it is better not to eat at all until you can sit down to enjoy your food. Food is a phase of enjoyment! While in college I always tried to spend at night with a classmate who came from the farm and one of a family of ten boys. There was always anything to cheer the mind and the soul at that table. There never the evil effects that food is was never any unhappiness shown in that home during a meal.

Many a noted physician has written about the bad effect that a hurried meal upon people who are nervous and highly wrought-up. Rest and relaxation should go hand in hand with their food. People who eat right usually think right. Bernard Shaw's long and lively life was largely the result of a perfect diet and that was food for his mind! He was a vegetarian. We need cheerful, happy folks as companions at any meal.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH OUR SOULS?

The population of the United States has increased 5 per cent since 1945, but crime has increased 20 per cent during that time. Over $400,000,000 was lost in property crimes in 1954 alone. It is interesting that year increased 6 per cent —except murder which was "down" about 1 per cent.

Here were the offenses which in 1953 caused over 1952—drunken driving, theft, burglary, auto theft, sex offenses, embezzlement, and rape. We spend in 1953 almost four times as much for alcoholic beverages as for education and research, three times as much for liquor as for religious and welfare activities. Twelve billion dollars was spent that 61 per cent of their arrests were caused indirectly by alcoholic beverages. Juvenile court cases alone were reported for 51 per cent of the arrests for crimes against property. One-half of the persons arrested for burglary were not yet 18.

This is a very startling picture for any nation to confront. In many ways this is the best age human beings have ever experienced, but the disconcerting thing is that for some reason or other the moral life of our people seems to be experiencing corruption at its very center.

There are serious signs. How much are we as individuals responsible for it? What is causing this moral decay in our souls? What's the matter with our souls?

Helicopter Room Service

(London Free Press)

This machine age, plus automation, is amazing. All you need is a telephone, and phobee. In St. Paul, Minnesota, wizards of raechanical razzle dazzle have produced the two-speed revolving door. If you are in a hurry entering the Pioneer Building you push down on a crossbar and pass through a door revolving to nine turns every minute. If you are the leisurely type you just walk through at another fast, but slower, revolving speed.

Why not an off-the-sidewalk elevator which would save you entering the Pioneer Building at all on your round floor? Or helicopter service to the room number? Don't laugh. One day it will happen.

Conservation Briefs

A series of little known facts about conservation, under the heading "Conservation Briefs" will occupy this space weekly. These briefs are being written by the Conservation Authority to let you, the people, know what your Conservation Authority stands for.

Did You Know That:—Pollution, resulting from industrial and municipal effluents, and from siltation due to erosion, is detrimental to public health? Conservation efforts to control pollution and siltation is ruining valuable recreation areas. Pure water is a necessity—polluted water is a menace.

Soil, from which trees and other plant cover have been removed, is subject to floods and to desalcation and is particularly susceptible to the disastrous effects of both wind and water erosion. The topsoil, which produced our crops, is on the average, only a few inches deep, yet from it springs all our agricultural wealth. When the topsoil is lost we come to the subsoil, which is relatively barren. In Canada we have been tragically slow to realize the vital importance of protecting our farmlands from erosion and loss of fertility.

LILACS

Beside the farm-house, old and grey,
The lilac waves its purple plumes,
And blossoms, bright with dewy spray,
Spread all around a sweet perfume.
And as the purple banners toss
Amid the breezes of the May,
The heart turns back with sense of loss
To find an old-time garden gay.

There, lilacs bloomed beside the door,
An enchanted spot it seemed to me,
And one whose voice is heard no more
Was there to share its joys with me.
And ever now when spring returns,
And lilacs bloom beside the gate,
For her loved voice my spirit yearns
While I can only trust and wait.
—Helen B. Anderson.

In lilac time, my thoughts wander back to my childhood home and the old-time lilacs planted by a mother's hand. In the garden here, we have the white lilacs, and making a pretty picture amid the verdant spruces, are my neighbor's bright Persian lilacs. In travelling through the U.S.A. in the spring some years ago, we noticed lilacs growing at many farm homes and wondered if these flowers were a native of America. Whatever their origin, they add much to the beauty and the attraction of the landscape in spring.

Children's Aid Society Gives Work Report

That the welfare of the children in the community is considered of great importance, was demonstrated by the interest shown by the members of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society this week. Representing Belleville, Trenton and the County of Hastings, the members discussed many important subjects introduced by Mr. C. B. Morgan, Chairman of the Board, and Mr. Bruce H. Kerr, local Director of the Children's Aid Society.

The latter, in presenting a statistical report, drew attention to the fact that the figures might seem dull, each one represented a child as real as the members' own children in some cases, their grandchildren.

370 CHILDREN

At present, the local Children's Aid Society is responsible for 370 children. Of this number, 53 are on adoption probation and three adoptions were completed this month.

Mr. Kerr explained adoption policies. The advice of the Children's Aid Society is constantly being sought and the utmost care used under the present staff. Mr. Kerr expressed pleasure in the general progress. An additional worker, however, is still needed.

Mr. Morgan spoke of the conference of the Children's Aid Societies of Ontario held recently in Toronto and made reference to a report of Mr. C. E. Halliwell which will be given at a future meeting.

The financial report, as presented by Mr. C. L. Hyde, was approved.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

A committee was appointed to pass on a proposed booklet entitled, "A Handbook for Foster Parents", which had been prepared by the staff for distribution to foster parents.

The property committee agreed to meet to inspect the premises and check equipment.

Mr. Clarence Graham notified the members that Mrs. Ramsay Park had spoken in such an excellent way to the Kiwanis Club at Tweed about the work of the Children's Aid Society that he considered her visit would have good results.

SPRING CLEANING

I have cleaned out the cupboards and the dressers upstairs,
And have laid aside garments in need of repairs;
And dressy drawers filled from bottom to brim
Now present an appearance unusually trim;
Last year's magazines have been given away,
They will make pleasant reading
on a dull, rainy day;
Old letters I've burned, excepting a few
That breathe of a friendship steady and true;
Much useless litter I've gladly thrown out
It is a relief not to see it about;
But while cupboards and shelves are refreshingly neat,
I must rid my heart's chambers of hate and deceit.
For Spring's cleaning the home is not a small part
If cobwebs and rubbish remain in the heart.

University W.C. Sees Travelogue Of West Indies

The University Women's club of Belleville and district, met recently at the home of Mrs. Finkle, Bridge Street East, where Mrs. Kuntze was co-hostess.

Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, the president, called upon Miss Muriel Gibson for the minutes, of the last meeting.

A motion was passed to donate $25 to each of the three delegates being sent this year, who will be attending the triennial conference in Edmonton during August.

Mrs. Rupert had a report on "What is being done for the bright child," which was discussed at the Easter conference in Toronto, where some 27 delegates from various University Women's clubs studied this question. They sent a brief with their recommendations to the Department of Education, with gratifying results. Some of the suggestions were as follows: encouragement of individual research, education of the public, enrichment programs, and special training for teachers of bright children.

REPORTS GIVEN

Annual reports were given by the secretary, Miss Gibson and treasurer, Mrs. Kuntze.

Mrs. MacKinnon gave an outline of the year's activities particularly the success of the "Spring Fair".

She reviewed the work of the able executive during the past year and stated that had the increased membership testified to a progressive and well organized club.

In her closing remarks, she thanked the executive and all the members for their whole-hearted co-operation.

Mrs. Robinson expressed the gratitude of the club to Mrs. MacKinnon for her leadership as president during the past two years.

1955-56 OFFICERS

Mrs. Doyle took the chair while Dr. L. Finlayson presented the slate of officers for the coming year as follows: past president, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon; president, Miss P. Seibert; vice-president, Miss Muriel Gibson; treasurer, Mrs. Kuntze; corresponding secretary, Miss Katherine Daly; publicity, Miss Jean Thompson; federation secretary, Mrs. J. McArthur; membership, Mrs. George Murray; hospitality, Mrs. J. Nelles; members at large, Mrs. J. Aston and Mrs. J. H. Bateman.

The slate was adopted and Mrs. Siebert took the chair.

Mrs. Mackinnon introduced Mrs. W. H. Gilleland of Ottawa, the speaker for the evening. Mrs. Gilleland, a native of Actinolite and a graduate from Queen's University, is the wife of the Canadian Federation of University Women's executive vital statistics writer and editor of The Chronicle, secretary of the standing committee on publications and as regional vice-president for the coming year.

Mrs. Gilleland was on the original committee for penal reform and is a member of the John Howard Society. She is, also an amateur painter, botanist and a devotee of music.

Mrs. Gilleland explained her work in editing the Chronicle and stressed the importance of clubs sending their news items, with pictures for publication.

WEST INDIES TRAVELOGUE

The club was fortunate in having Mrs. Gilleland give a travelogue of her recent trip to the West Indies. The pictures were distinct in their vivid colors and it was a pleasure to watch the varied scenes of Cuba, Jamaica and Haiti.

Unlike Mexico, the Spaniards obliterated all trace of Indian culture in Cuba. There was the museum of grey blue sculptured President's avenue with sculptured trees; black stone rhumba figures; coconut plantations, rich red soil with tobacco crops; unique mountains and palms about 20 feet high, that took 20 months to grow.

The people associated with the "Hope Diamond" donated beautiful landscaped gardens near Kingston, Jamaica.

The President's palace in Port of Prince, was a unique piece of masonry with huge murals outside. This type of art was much used in the more expensive buildings.

In Haiti, instead of trucks bringing produce to market, buses were used. Here was a successful experiment in Negro democracy.

Pictures of a glass bottomed boat trip were intensely interesting.

DIAMOND IN MASONRY

In Havana an imposing building, a replica of the White House in Washington, had a diamond set in the masonry. This diamond was contributed by the workmen, who constructed the building and from it, distances are measured for all of Cuba. Once it was stolen by a foreign country, but was later returned by registered mail.

It has been under guard constantly ever since.

Cuba—A Good Travel Bargain

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Cuba hasn't exactly been ignored as a tourist haven. But when a DC-7 immediately set its wheels on the runway at Havana International Airport less than four hours after leaving New York on the very first nonstop airline trip, it broke by more than an hour a speed record that no one had taken a crack at since Maj. Alexander de Seversky, leather-helmeted and goggled, slid it in a 1925 fighter plane.

We don't know how many years ago that was, but the PAS was a museum piece before World War II, which gives you some indication of the degree to which one of the most refreshing, delightful and accessible tropical-style resorts on this side of the ocean has been neglected.

We made the trip with 58 other travel writers and editors to find out for you what Havana has to offer and to check the hotel, food and sunmer's package trip offerings, which the airline calls "Sizzy bank tours."

While we won't guarantee you can pay for your vacation by selling Junior of his life's savings, Cuba can be visited with reasonable economy between now and December 15, particularly if you are willing to eat the local delicacies than ever before will be doing the cooking.

FOREIGN BARGAIN

Havana is the nearest foreign capital to any major American city and, therefore, the best bet for Miami than Jacksonville is. All of the airlines make a bargain of the foreign travel bargain going, considering the round trip fare from Miami is only $100, and if you take in Havana as part of a package trip, the $100 includes the excursion fare is about the same as it is to and from Miami alone, by the time you've seen several tropical major cities.

There is also overnight boat service from Miami to Havana.

For climate Havana probably beats even Miami. The average temperature in the summer is in the low 80's, and it's cool in the sun, down to the low 70's at night. Like Miami, the heat is dry so you rarely experience the chill breeze which sometimes detracts from enjoyment of Miami's ocean front is inclined to be a warm one in Cuba. We, the writers, on

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHOULD HER HUSBAND WEAR A WEDDING RING?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'd like my husband to wear a wedding ring, but he won't. I don't know why.

What can I do to make him see that he ought to? — Mrs. Helen T.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Do you really think there is any "ought" about this? If you have a husband who loves you, and is good to you, what real difference does it make whether he wears a wedding ring or not? Lots of husbands don't.

Personally, it seems to me rather a small matter on which to raise an issue. It would be nice if your husband would wear the ring, since you wish him to, but if he prefers not to do so, I'd simply forget it.

MOTHER'S NAGGING IS DRIVING HER AWAY FROM HOME

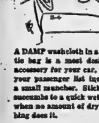
Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old, have a good job and would be very happy if it were not for my mother. The trouble is that she is a constant nagger, and this has driven me from a home as I can remember.

Now things have come to the point where I just can't stand it much longer, because I do come home tired at night after the day's work, and would like a little peace.

I have told my mother many times that if I have to be exposed to her constant nagging, I will leave home and live by myself, but she gets so upset about it that I continue to try and cope with the situation. The only way I can get away from the unpleasantness now, seems to be to stay in my room all evening. — Miss L.H.

Dear Miss L.H.:



If you have a good job and are happy in it, that is a big asset. What I hope you also have is lots of friends and opportunities for good times with them. If you haven't, then I urge you to start immediately to acquire a variety of outside activities in the evenings, and on your weekends, so that you can be away from home as much as possible.

Perhaps, of course, you do have friends and like to go out with them and your mother nags you about it. If so, then I think you should make it quite clear, pleasantly and quietly but firmly, that you feel you have reached an age where you have a right to a reasonably independent way of your own and then you intend to have it. Then keep right on with your leisure-time activities, refusing to quarrel with your mother about them, and eventually it may occur to her that if she made your home a happier place for you to come to, you might like to spend some of your evenings there with her. If this does not happen, however, then I think you would be quite justified in leaving home.

APPEAL FOR AID

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—An appeal was issued Thursday for money with which to finance a delicate heart operation needed to save the life of an unemployed steelworker's 23-year-old wife. Mrs. William Legge is suffering from a valvular condition which doctors attribute to an attack of rheumatic fever.

IODE Urges CBC to Expose All Communist Tactics

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire wants the CBC to broadcast fuller reports on Communist activities to Canadians.

The organization also urged Wednesday that the CBC, through its international service, increase broadcasts from Canada to "assure people in Iron Curtain countries that we in Canada are sympathetic with their struggle for liberty."

The two resolutions were passed during the closing session of the IODE's 55th annual meeting here.

National president Mrs. Kathleen Drope of Toronto said:

"If we don't have the courage of our convictions about showing the whole picture of communism now—our children may not have our privileges of freedom."

USE FACILITIES

The first resolution urged the CBC to make more extensive use of its facilities to bring the "Communist menace" to the attention of Canadians. It suggested that members of ethnic groups recently arrived in Canada broadcast their experiences of suffering to combat subversive propaganda.

The resolutions were moved by Mrs. Doris Dyma, a Winnipeg delegate who was on the Ukrainian Canadian Committee, who said her committee had received letters from Ukrainian broadcasters in Canada complaining they were unable to broadcast the full story of Communistic activities in Europe to Canadians.

Another resolution passed by the IODE asked that the 32,000 members of the order in Canada work in their communities to combat the activities of sexual psychopaths.

WINS RE-ELECTION

LONDON (CP)—Lady Tweedsmuir, daughter-in-law of the late governor-general of Canada, won re-election to the House of Commons in Thursday's general election. Running in the South Lambton constituency of Aberdeen South, she polled 26,817 votes to 19,627 for Mrs. Judith Hart of the Labor party, a majority of 7,190.

FINAL REMAND

WALKERTON (CP) — Dennis Desmond, 20, of Pinkerton was remanded Thursday when he appeared in court charged with the abduction of a nine-year-old Kinloss girl on April 11. Magistrate O. C. McClevis said the remand, to June 16, would be the last. Desmond, is free on $6,000 bail.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

Now and then excessive perspiration is caused by some slight glandular disturbance, and individuals who are highly nervous may have to contend with it. Such cases call for medical attention. Ordinarily, however, simple hygienic measure will overcome it.

The daily bath is essential and, unless moisture clings to flaked skin cells, a well-soaped brush of heavy bristles must be used. Before the scrubbing, there should be a give minute soaking in warm water to soften these scales. One must remember that the human skin is ever doing a hail-and-farewell act—old tissue shedding, new tissue forming.

Soap suds should be removed with a warm shower or spray; after that, friction with a coarse towel.

This thorough routine is necessary because perspiration is not merely a liquid exuded by the sweat glands. It contains salts and other chemicals. The liquid evaporates, but the solid elements remain on the skin surface.

The glands in the armpits are especially active and that is why a deterrent or deodorant should be used on those areas. These preparations come in various forms—liquids, creams and powders. If one does not bring relief, another one will. Be sure to follow directions, and see that the flesh is dry before applying.

Some of the liquid offerings close the pores and it is not necessary to use them frequently. No harm is done. There are thousands of other poses to carry on the work of elimination.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WIDOW'S WEDDING SHOULDN'T HAVE MUCH OF "FANCY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been a widow for several years, and am now to be married soon. The wedding is to be in church. I have always understood that a widow remarrying has every privilege of the bride-for-the-first-time except of course wearing a white dress and a bridal veil.

(1) Would it be correct for me to wear a gown in pink or blue, either floor-length or waltz-length? And may my attendants wear dresses of ballerina-length? How many attendants may I have? Also, I have two little sons whom I would like to have as ring bearers. Would it be proper to have two ringbearers? Or should I have the younger one dressed as a miniature bridegroom?

(2) On our wedding cake should the bride on the top of the cake be dressed in the same color as my dress?

(3) Is it proper for my father to give me in marriage? — J.S.

As a widow you will show best taste if you make simplicity the keynote of all your plans for your wedding. Some of your plans are too fancy. You should not have bridesmaids . . . have only one attendant, a matron of honor (though a maid of honor is permissible). You should not have ring bearers. And it would be a low in bad taste to have your son dressed as a miniature bridegroom.

(1) You may wear a dress of a becoming shade of blue or pink, simple in design, and of either floor-length or ballerina-length. However, today, a widow usually wears at her simple wedding an afternoon dress of street length, with a small harmonizing hat.

(2) If you wish . . . though usually the dress is white.

(3) Yes, if you wish. However, when the bride is of mature age, this is generally omitted.

INFORMAL NOTES OF INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Even though we are having very few guests at our wedding, I prefer to send notes of invitation rather than telephoning the invitations. My girl friend says that if I write these invitations myself, sure will overcome it.

The daily bath is essential and, unless moisture clings to flaked skin cells, a well-soaped brush of heavy bristles must be used. of checks. Would it be proper to send the checks to the girl's home but have them payable to our relative, since we do not know the girl and will not be able to meet her? — Reader

The checks should be made out to the bride-to-be and mailed to her at her home. Not all other wedding presents checks are sent to the bride-to-be. The fact that your family doesn't know her and will not be able to meet her, makes no difference.

HONESTY IN CHECKING STATUS ON APPLICATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In filling out an application which asks one to check whether "single" or "married" or "divorced" or "separated," is it permissible to mark "single" if one is divorced? It seems to me that so many people look down on a divorced person. And it also seems to me to be too personal to ask whether one is "single" or "married." However, I do understand, of course, being asked whether "married" or "separated." — Reader

When filling out an application that calls for the giving of such definite information about one's status, it is extremely important to know that one checks the information details with complete definiteness and honesty. If such definite questions are asked about one's status the indication is that the answers to these questions are important to this application. If a woman is divorced she should, of course, check "divorced," not "single," no matter what her personal point of view is. If she checks dishonestly or carelessly (let's say), there may be the grim possibility of future repercussions about her real status.

QUESTION:

How can buttermilk be made from skim-milk powder? I have seen this mentioned in advertisements in American magazines. Signed, Mrs. A. B., Maniwaki.

ANSWER:

I'm afraid I don't know. Maybe some reader who sees your request will know the answer and send it in. If so I will print it here.

QUESTION:

Would you please print a recipe on how to make homemade soft soap or liquid soap? I made your hard soap and it was very good. I like the useful hints. Mrs. Adolph Z., Otter Lake.

ANSWER:

I have not tried this formula.

HOMEMADE SOFT SOAP

Seven and one-half pounds of Potash, 10 pounds grease, 37 1-2 gallons water. Dissolve the potash in part of the water, add one-third of the grease, and heat. Mix in the remainder of the grease in part in a barrel, and add the remainder of the water, a little at a time, for several days. Stir often. Ready for use in about two weeks. This makes a very large quantity and I would suggest that you use the following proportions at the first. (5 pounds grease, 3 3-4 pounds of potash, and 15 imperial gallons water). The above gallons are not Imperial gallons and hence the difference.)

QUESTION:

I am a constant reader of your column and have good luck with a lot of your recipes.

Now—can you recipe calls for a "cake flour" what does it mean? Does it mean a flour like——

And what is wheat flour and where can I get it? Lots of luck. Signed Mrs. E. S. H.

ANSWER:

Yes, use the brand of cake flour you mention. Wheat flour is ordinary white all-purpose flour as far as I know.

QUESTION:

You have helped me so much in the past, that I am back asking for another favor. Would you have a recipe for a rhubarb preserve? Health and happiness to you and yours. Signed Irene D.

ANSWER:

(I can recommend this more highly than any other rhubarb preserve recipe.)

RHUBARB CONSERVE

Four pounds rhubarb, 5 pounds sugar, 1 pound seeded raisins, 2 oranges, 2 lemon. Wash young stalks of rhubarb and cut in one-inch pieces. Put in kettle, sprinkle with sugar, and add raisins and grated rind and juice of oranges and lemon. Mix, cover, and let stand one-half hour. Place on range, bring to boiling-point, and let simmer forty-five minutes, stirring almost constantly. Fill jelly glasses with mixture, cool, and seal.

Fijians in Danger of Being Swamped by Immigrants

By F.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (CP)—An announcement that the Fijian battalion is to be withdrawn from Malaya early next year carries far wider meaning than appears on the surface. Behind it lies one of the thorniest problems in the Pacific—a story of a fine native race in danger of being swamped in its own land by immigrants from abroad.

The Fiji islands are one of the largest island groups in the South Pacific. They are a British colony of great strategic importance. Also they are of considerable economic value. Sugar exports, of which a proportion goes to Canada, are substantial and there is a large output of gold.

The natives of Fiji are of Melanesian origin and are fine specimens of that race, magnificent physique, sturdy, tall and with great natural dignity.

They are among the most loyal of all British subjects and have always been prompt to support Britain in war. In the campaign against the Japanese they made the finest jungle soldiers on the Allies side. Some of these medals they lived for weeks behind the enemy lines, constantly attacking camps and then melting away into the jungle.

RESPONDED LOYALLY

When the call came to assist in the campaign against the terrorists in Malaya the Fijians were not responded loyally. For more than three years they have maintained a battalion in a full strength. They have proved themselves again as fine jungle fighters and their good temper and ready smile have been a great asset in smoothing out difficulties which among the mixed races of Malaya.

But while these young men have been abroad, the position at home has been becoming more difficult. The Fijians do not like the kinds of work under European conditions. They prefer to live in their own way in their villages.

When sugar plantations were established in Fiji in the last century, great difficulty was found in getting labor to work them. Eventually the plantation owners turned to India. During a period of 36 years up to 1916, large numbers of Indians were brought to Fiji as indentured laborers.

The terms of work and periods of service were strictly observed and large numbers were duly returned to India. But nearly half of those who came elected not to go home and were allowed to remain in Fiji.

BETTER BUSINESSMEN

They soon became the backbone of the sugar industry and also extended their activities to trade and commerce. They are far better businessmen than the Fijians and today they dominate the commercial life of the colony.

Not only that, but their birth rate is exceedingly high and they are increasing in numbers almost twice as fast as the Fijians. Already they substantially outnumber the native people.

Yet the Indians have shown almost no interest in the defence of the colony. Only a tiny handful volunteered for service in the Second World War, even when the Japanese were at the very doors of Australia. Instead they staged a big strike in the sugar industry at a time when Fiji was near the front line in the Pacific war.

The British officials of the colony have handled the difficult situation with much tact and skill. But Indian pressure for a greater share in government, and for more land, is growing.

STRENGTHEN COMMUNITY

In these circumstances it is considered that the only way to keep the outnumbered Fijian community should not be sapped by keeping the flower of its manhood abroad fighting in Malaya.

It is one of the most difficult situations facing Britain in any colony. The Indians are full citizens and have the same rights as such. Yet they cannot be allowed to overwhelm and subjugate the native race.

The situation has served as a warning to Australia and New Zealand in particular among the South Pacific countries to meet with pressure to admit immigrants from Asia, they are what has happened when the high Asian birth rate operates freely as in Fiji.

Australia and New Zealand have large areas of fertile land standing almost empty by Asian standards. The hungry millions in Asia look eagerly at these sparsely-populated lands as a natural outlet for their surplus population.

Many people in Australia and New Zealand maintain that the only answer is a vastly increased immigration campaign from Europe. The empty spaces must be filled, they claim, whatever the disruption that may result.

Okinawa Being Transformed into Fortress by United States

By JOHN RICKARD

OKINAWA (Reuters) — The United States is rapidly transforming this sunny Pacific island, less than an hour's flying time from the mainland of Communist China, into a fortress.

Outwardly the area near Naha, the capital, looks like a peaceful community, with its hundreds of neat homes. But military activity soon becomes evident, with the hundreds of vehicles moving on new, paved roads.

There is no conventional fortress, and fewer than 40,000 military personnel man the island. But fighter-bombers and fighter planes are at the ready. The most modern anti-aircraft equipment is being installed and manned round the clock. Highly mobile troops are here and the island has facilities to house, feed and supply an army in the event of hostilities.

MASSIVE CONSTRUCTION

Military officials call the island —840 miles from Tokyo, 1,200 miles from Guam, 450 miles from Formosa, 440 miles from Shanghai and 367 miles from the nearest port on the Chinese mainland—the "keystone of the Pacific."

Okinawa is 67 miles long and between two and nine miles wide. Since wresting the island from the Japanese, at a cost of 12,250 lives during the Second World War, the United States has carried out a huge construction program.

More than 600 miles of paved roads, many of them four-lane highways, have been built, enabling troops, tanks and artillery to move rapidly to most parts of the island. More roads are to be built in the most isolated parts of the northern end.

To air force strategists, the island is of greater importance than Japan or the Philippines as a base for medium bombers.

Japan-based medium bombers might reach farther into Siberia, their chief. The closing of the council fire was very impressive.

After the vesper song, D.S.M. Ken Moore led the closing prayer and a clear treble voice was heard singing "Abide With Me", while the Scouts silently left the ring.

An all-day hike was held on Monday. Patrols practising their scouting skills. At 3.00 p.m., the miniature city of tents gradually disappeared as tents were struck and the camp site tidied up. The final flag assembly was called at 4 p.m. when the camp chief thanked the Scouts for the grand spirit shown while living together for the three days. Special tribute was paid to the staff for their good scouting.

shown while living together for the three days. Special tribute was paid to the staff for their good scouting.

but they could not reach targets in Southeast Asia. Medium bombers in the Philippines would be nearer to Southeast Asia, but could not bomb targets in Siberia.

Medium bombers on Okinawa could reach all targets in Southeast Asia, the whole of China, the Lake Baikal industrial area, eastern Siberia and southern Kamchatka peninsula.

SHIPPING AREA

Kadena field here was the home base for the big Superforts which flew almost daily to North Korea during the Korean war. The base is ready to receive inter-continental bombers from Guam, Hawaii or the United States if hostilities break out.

Apart from its potential value as a bomber base, Okinawa's main value would be as a staging area for airborne and amphibious operations, according to military officials here.

In making Okinawa a "front line" base in the Pacific, the United States took into consideration political as well as strategic factors, these officials say.

U.S. forces in the Far East at present are concentrated in Korea and Japan. But the forces in Japan are based there under an agreement with a "friendly" government. If an "unfriendly" government came to power, American forces likely would have to leave.

"If we do have to leave Japan, we have Okinawa," one officer explained.

Under the San Francisco peace treaty, Japan has "residual sovereignty" over Okinawa and other islands in the Ryukyu chain. Asked how long it would be before the islands were returned to Japan, officers here said: "At present the question is academic. We are here and there is any possibility of war in this area."

BC POPULATION GROWS

NEW YORK (AP) —Roman Catholics in the United States, Alaska and Hawaiian islands numbered 32,775,102 on Jan. 1, an increase of 827,278 in a year, the official Catholic Directory for 1955 reports. The directory says the new total represents a 10-year increase of 8,612,031 over the 23,963,071 Roman Catholics reported in 1945.

BOOST BOMBER OUTPUT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott announced Thursday that production of the B-52 long-range heavy jet bomber is being expanded by about 25 per cent. The B-52 has a speed of well over 600 miles an hour, and a range, without refuelling, of more than 6,000 miles.

Patrol Leader Peter Robson of the Owl Patrol, 1st Avondale, was presented with the Follwell trophy for 1955 by Asst. Cubmaster Archie Lewis, who was unable to be present, wished every Scout "Good Scouting" ending an annual Moira Camporee.

Ratings of patrols will be published later.

Asst. District Commisioner for Scouts, Don Allan, in his report on the Moira Camporee, held last week-end on the property of Mr. Louis Fobar, near Actinolite, stated one hundred and eighteen scouts and twenty leaders, comprising 20 patrols, took part.

A camporee is a gathering of Scouts in patrols under patrol leaders. The scouts plan, buy and cook all their own meals, bringing their gear with them. Leaders are present only to observe and act as umpires, rating the patrols standing in the practical demonstration of scouting skills.

Scouts registered at 9 a.m. Saturday. Leaders drew patrol areas and established camps, complete with tent kitchen fires and necessary facilities. The day proceeded with surprising smoothness, the boys finding plenty to do. In the evening a council fire was held. Songs and short skits by the scouts were enjoyed.

Sunday — Flag break at 8.15 a.m. Scoutmaster Ron Lane of the 2nd, assisted by Troop leaders prepared an outdoor chapel. The parade was formed by Scouter Herb Middleton and the scouts marched to the skirt of the plaza for service in the chapel, conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan of Christ Church.

Scout Mr. Doug Burns piped the boys in the manner all Scots admire. The Archdeacon gave a splendid address on "Being Prepared." The R. C. Scouts were taken to Tweed to attend Mass.

At 2.30 p.m. the entire camp tried for the' Scouts Athletes Badge. Sixty-eight passed this difficult test. A final council fire was opened with a fireworks display under the direction of Scoutler Bernard Fox of the 5th. Fifteen scouters from Trenton were welcome visitors.

The Camp Chief (A. D. C. Don Allan) praised the boys for the splendid scouting spirit evident during the entire camporee. He told them he was proud to be

Annuals Make Colorful Display

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

If you want a big display quickly, choose these super-sized annuals: Amaranthus tri-color, or Joseph's Coat; Ricinus or castor-oil plant, or Kochia, also called fire bush.

Plants with large colorful foliage are especially useful to new home owners who need screens, or background plants at small expense. They must also be effective early in the season. Or, if your landscape plans are still in the formative stage try the effect of a large shrub at corners and plant a castor-oil bean for special accent. Within a few weeks you will have an eight-foot exotic looking plant with palm-like leaves and red stems to test the plan. The Zanzibar type will grow to 12 feet if given rich soil and plenty of water.

For a quick hedge border to your lawn, or to separate the flower and vegetable garden plant Kochia Childsii. It grows to about two-and-a-half feet high in a conical fine leafed plant, like a compact shrub. It is a bright green, turning to blazing red in autumn. It can be trimmed like a hedge.

TITHONIA PLANTS

If you can find some Tithonia plants at your market they will make four foot high plants in any sunny position. They have large blooms like a single dahlia and are light red or orange in color. This is the variety called Torch; it is earlier and more compact than the yellow type. The yellow is called the golden flower of the Incas. This will grow from four to six feet tall.

Joseph's Coat, or Amaranthus tricolor, will develop its best color effects if planted in a sunny position. Its inner leaves are dark bronze, the outer ones bright green, scarlet and gold.

Coleus grow quickly from small plants, which are always available at your florist or flower market. The colors are brilliant and wonderful; the markings are in rose pink, deep velvety maroon, light chartreuse green, yellow, white flecks of color often appear on leaves margined in light or dark color. They make effective solid beds and borders, as flaming material for shrubs, or accent groups in the perennial border, which often needs splashes of color later in the season.

When there are the Celosias. The old magenta reds have given place to lovely new golden types which are a vast improvement. Fire Feather is a bright scarlet. Giant Plumed is a mixture of many fine colors. Pampas Plum also is a new development in the celosia family, the mixture including old and many copper and red shades which resemble the pampas grass in flower!

Cannas, Dahlias, and Cladiums can be bought in tuber form and will grow into large snowy plants. They also can be had in plant form, started by your 'nurseryman. They will make a show sooner. You can also buy hollyhocks by the plant, or in seed packets. Hollyhocks will make a colorful screen for the back garden.

There are also ornamental grasses which will add a different texture and interest to your leaf designs They are often used with Cannas for heightened interest and rich effects

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Glasses Magee made an engagement to go to the movies Saturday and take the 2 bewty looking twins and live down to the next block, and I was supposed to take Flora and Glasses was supposed to take Dora, and we were on our way to their house, and I said, Hay, how are we going to be sure we're each taking the right one?

Yeah, that's what I was wondering, Glasses said.

Meaning on account of them both looking exactly alike and never wanting to admit whether they're Flora or whether they're Dora, and I said, Heck, I don't want to take them unless I know I'm actually taking Flora.

That's the way I feel, Glasses said. I invited Dora, and if they're going to go and mix themselves up, the heck with them, and I'm going to tell them so, too, he said, and I said, So am I.

And the twins were waiting for us and Flora looked as pretty as much alike as ever, and I said to one of them, Are you Flora? and Glasses said to the other one, Are your Dora?

What do you think? one of the twins said, and the other one said, We'll give you 2 guesses.

And they started to giggel, and I said, Listen, I'm not sure I like you better tell us right, because we aint going to take you unless you greet your parts and hope you'll choke on popcorn in the middle of the picture show, so you can't.

Making them scared, and they crossed their hearts and swore it and told me which was Flora, and I took a hold of Flora's hand and Glasses took a hold of Dora's and we never let go, even while we bought the tickits and the popcorn, and we were inside the Little Grand sitting next to them.

Clarence Stetson Clark

Clarence Sketch by Robert C. Reid

L. H. Ding...an

At his death on July 5th, 1952, Mr. L. H. Dingman, publisher of the St. Thomas Times-Journal and the Ilderton-Herald in Stratford, was the oldest active daily newspaper publisher in point of service in the Dominion. Born on March 12th, 1865, he was active in newspaper work for more than seventy years.

In December 1886 he, with his two brothers, occupied the present office of one of five weeklies published in Stratford, Ontario. In March of the following year the Herald was converted into a daily.

It was in 1899 that Mr. Dingman went to St. Thomas as Manager and Editor of the St. Thomas Evening Journal. He continued with that paper until April 1902 when he left to head a company to purchase the Journal's rival, the St. Thomas Times.

In 1918 he and the owner of the Journal completed the amalgamation. Two years later, in 1920, Mr. Dingman secured control of the Stratford Herald, to be followed in 1923 with an amalgamation with the Stratford Beacon. The first issue of the Ilderton-Herald came on May 1st of that year.

Mr. Dingman never married. His great interests lay in the newspaper. A working man himself all his life, his ambition was to own his own paper. Community minded, he gave many thousands of dollars in free space to communal activities, the Red Cross, Community Chest, Service Clubs and individual promotions.

His interests extended into almost all walks of life, including arts and sports. For the theatre he held a life-long enthusiasm. Civic beautifications and horticulture also claimed his attention. He spent many hours of delight in having beautiful trees in the grounds of his home. He was one of the men who helped introduce golf to St. Thomas. The promotion of horseshows, baseball and cycling were also developed and publicized by him.

During the 2nd World War he was one of a group who underwrote the expenses of the girls who had been bombed out of St. Hilda's College in England to come to Canada. He was one of the prime movers of the new hospital in Stratford.

The development of a community depended upon men who will accept its responsibilities and Mr. L. H. Dingman, a charter member of the Canadian Press, belonged to this group. His newspaper, his activities, his whole being, reflected a public-spirited attitude that always leaves a place better than one finds it.

SYNODICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Mrs. W. H. V. Walker gave some of the highlights of Synodical held in Galt in April. Meeting Highlights were the addresses by Mrs. W. E. G. Rumball, Kobe, Japan, and the Rev. W. E. Rumball, who showed beautiful slides of the country and of his work—Encouraging reports were given indicating the algoinland bed been met.

Mrs. Gould, director of publications, gave many new suggestions re. regarding reporting of items for the press. Moderator of the General Assembly, the Rev. Dr. John McLean told of his recent visit to Formosa. The Rev. Jas S. Roe, Sudbury, moderator of Synod, spoke on "The Open Door".

A piano duet was given by Mrs. Lindsay Sills and Mrs. A. Hassall.

The second chapter of the "Study Book" was conducted by Mrs. E. Haggerty, on "Education in India."

Mrs. Milton Shaw gave an interesting and profitable study of the 5th commandment. "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

This commandment is the first and only one to contain a promise. In days of old, especially among the Hebrews, care of parents was sacred. In this day of haste and neglect of them punishable, scarcely by exile.

LOVE, HONOR, RESPECT

"To honor is not only to love, but to show by our deeds. Not to respect and hold in reverence." In Ephesians 6-14 it reads: "Fathers provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord and children obey parents for this is right in the sight of God."

"In these days of temptations, and shall we say parental delinquency how can our children keep this commandment.

It is difficult for children to honor parents who do not honor each other. Or who neglect their time elsewhere than at home with their children. There is much talk of the problem of delinquent children. The greater problem is the delinquent parents.

"May God help us to be worthy of the honor, love, and respect of our children." Mrs. Shaw was undoubtedly worried about our children and parents in this generation.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

RAWDON

Quinte D.P.C. Hears Talk On Patriotism

RAWDON — Mrs. Walter Warren and Mrs. Percy MacMullen were guest artists at "The Quinte Disabled Persons' Club," which convened Wednesday evening, in the "Queen Elizabeth School," Trenton.

Miss Eva Morrison welcomed the group on their second appearance, as these two ladies presented a program in 1954.

Mrs. Warren sang eight selections, with Mrs. Ray Shortt as accompanist. Among her numbers were: "In the Chapel in the Moonlight"; "The Robe of Calvary"; "Let the Sun Shine In," and a favorite number of both Scotch and Irish." Mrs. Warren's selections, all chosen by herself, were well received.

The program lasted over one hour and Mrs. MacMullen gave six readings, which included "Yes, Got the Mumps"; "The Inventor's Wife" and "The Shaving of Jacob" and "How Miss Dorothy Keeps House."

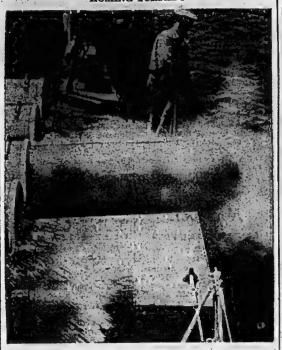
PATRIOTIC ADDRESS

Mrs. MacMullen also gave a brief patriotic address in commemoration of Victoria Day, tracing civilization from the days of Moses and said: "Today we share our British loyalty with such countries as India, Pakistan and Ceylon. East and West have met and now we must be world conscious and assume the responsibility of world citizenship."

She urged that the old-time pioneer spirit be adopted, and spoke briefly of the Indian poetess, E. Pauline Johnson, and recited her patriotic poem, "Canadian Born."

The guests in the party were: Mrs. S. J. Elliott and Mrs. Sid Williams.

Mr. Walter Warren kindly chauffeured the group.



Following the program the Girls' Ranger group served light refreshments and all enjoyed a happy social hour.

The club is to be congratulated on its achievements as it has purchased seven wheel chairs and have only been organized since November, 1953. The Rotary Club has donated a chair and now Miss Morrison is very hard to provide suitable housing accommodation for old age pensioners and disabled persons who are finding it difficult to eke out a living on their meagre allowance, as the rent for an inadequate room is quite expensive.

Miss Morrison is to be commended for her initiative in making the government and the town council aware of the situation.

Mrs. S. J. Elliott voiced thanks to the girls for their refreshments.

HOMING TORPEDO

The Canadian Navy, looking towards the possibility of arming its destroyers with guided missiles, already has a form of guided missile—the homing torpedo. In this photo the coastal escort Sault Ste. Marie, based as Xzquimalt, B.C., fires a homing torpedo during a training exercise. The homing torpedo can miss a submarine on its first run but then turn back and weave until it reaches the target. (CP from National Defence.)

New Destroyers of Canadian Navy Likely to Be Armed With Guided Missiles

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Navy is eyeing the possibility of arming its new destroyers with guided missiles.

Naval headquarters here is watching closely the experiment of the British admiralty which is to build ships equipped with surface-to-surface and space-to-air guided missiles.

It is possible that such armament could be made small enough to fit into Canada's 41 new destroyer escorts, the first of which is tentatively scheduled to be commissioned in November for sea trials.

HAS HOMING TORPEDO

The Canadian Navy already has a form of guided missile—the homing torpedo. It can miss a submarine on its first run but then turn back and weave until it reaches the target.

With other new weapons in its bag of armaments, the Canadian Navy now has the punch to knock out enemy submarines.

The chief problem today is improvement of detection devices to first find the sub.

Sonar, the new name for asdic, has come a long way since the Second World War but there are areas in the oceans, particularly where warm and cold waters mix, where its range is extremely limited.

The navy also has a device called a sonobuoy, which can be dropped in patterns from aircraft. A sonobuoy can detect a submarine and automatically pass the information to patrolling planes or ships.

KED SUB THREAT

[illegible] ... that the anti-submarine role of Canada's navy will be changed by the existence of nuclear weapons. There are modifications in strategy and tactics, of course, but over-all plans remain unchanged.

It is estimated that the Russians have 300 submarines —the Germans had 60 when they started the Second World War—and that they will have 500 in another two years.

Navy planning is based on the assumption that, if war comes, the Russians will use their subs. Otherwise, they wouldn't be building them at such a clip.

The sub threat is considered more dangerous off the North American coasts than in European waters. This is because the Russians presumably would be in a better position to attack shipping off Europe or Asia with air power.

At the distance from Russian bases increased, the threat from subs would grow proportionately.

NEED AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Rear Admiral Frank Houghton, former vice-chief of the naval staff, has said: "The convoy of the future must have with it, as part of its balanced defensive measures, an aircraft carrier equipped with both anti-submarine and fighter aircraft."

The Canadian Navy has only one carrier—it is scheduled to get its new one, the Bonaventure, in October, 1956—so it could not itself provide air cover for all North American-to-Europe convoys.

However, the navies of Canada, Britain and the United States now work as a team in the North Atlantic. It appears likely a barrier could be provided for each convoy is judged necessary.

The role of the carrier is different in the Canadian and U.S. navies.

In Canada, the carrier is used more as a defensive weapon—that is, anti-submarine protection for convoys. In the U.S. Navy, the carrier is primarily a strike weapon. It carries the only possible airfield for planes hitting at the enemy both on land and sea.

OF GROWING IMPORTANCE

This aspect of the carrier has grown in importance with the advent of nuclear weapons. The floating airfields are relatively invisible. They can be moved quickly to where they are needed and they also would be hard for an atom bomb to find.

The Canadian Navy would like to have more carriers, but it's a matter of money. Even a small carrier costs in the neighborhood of $30000,000 and that does not include the cost of the aircraft she carries.

However, the navy says it is infinitely better prepared than it was in 1939, even taking into account improvements in the submarine and the fact that the Russians have five times more subs than the Germans had in 1939.

Vice - Admiral F. R. Mainguy, chief of the naval staff has said: "The advance in submarine warfare is of profound significance, for any possible future global conflict would be a war waged from what are called 'external lines of communication,' I.E., a war waged by a group of nations scattered over a wide portion of the surface of the earth against a relatively consolidated group.

"Four-fifths of the earth's surface consists of water. The external lines of communication, which must be maintained, therefore involve our use of almost every important tract of water on the globe. These geographical realities, together with the technical advances of the submarine, constitute the central factor in naval planning."

100 Candidates Lose Deposits —

LONDON (AP)—One sure winner in Thursday's general election was the treasury—richer by more than £15,000.

The money came from candidates who failed to poll one-eighth of the votes cast in their districts. Each forfeited the £150 deposit demanded from candidates to cut frivolous entries.

Liberals lost at least 60 deposits in 100 seats contested.

The Communists lost 15 of 17 and narrowly avoided forfeiture in the other two. Three Conservatives, one Laborite and small groups such as Welsh Nationalists and independents brought the total forfeits to slightly more than 100.

Your Car

Vapor-Lock Blocks Fuel Flow

By EUGENE MILMOE

When gasoline is overheated by a hot fuel line or pump, it forms vaporized bubbles that actually block the flow of fuel to the carburetor.

This condition we know as vapor lock, and it's common during hot weather. The usual recommendation is to let the car cool off for 30 or 15 minutes. But, in a real emergency, cool water poured on the fuel pump will generally do the trick.

Metal wind deflectors, shields or an asbestos insulating wrap may prevent vapor lock if the fuel pump or lines pick up a lot of heat from the engine. A check should also be made for low pump pressure, kinks or other obstructions in the fuel lines.

A.G. asks: I drive a late model car with automatic transmission. Is it good economy or recommended that I shift the lever into neutral whenever I stop for a red light?

(A) No, except for an extended delay period there is no need to go into neutral. As a matter of fact this is one of the features that enable the automatic transmission to simplify your job driving.

CLUTCH CHATTER

E.R. writes: How would you diagnose this? On my last three new cars, I've had exactly the same trouble with clutch chatter. When I complained to the dealer about my present car, he replaced the parts but this did not cure the condition. Engine and transmission have been checked for possible misalignment or looseness—even though I doubt that all three new cars would have had the very same trouble.

(A) Are you sure you haven't developed a bad habit by allowing your foot to hesitate too much before releasing the clutch pedal completely? Chatter complaints are often traced to the driver's failure to engage the clutch smoothly and quickly.

From C.R.: My 1938 car has been driven approximately 19,000 miles, but [illegible] because of observance of the Whitsuntide holiday.

From C.R.: My 1938 car has been driven approximately 19,000 miles, but long ago I had the engine completely rebored with new pistons, rings, valve stems and guides installed. The car runs well but I burn too much oil. A lot of blue smoke can be seen coming from the exhaust. I am anxious to find out what can be wrong.

(A) My guess is that worn connecting rod bearings are to blame. The excessive clearance permits too much oil to be thrown up on the cylinder walls and the result is that some is drawn into the combustion chambers and burned away.

C.N. asks: Would you advise leaving anti-freeze in the cooling system all year 'round? Some garage men say no, but others have told me that water does damage by forming rust.

(A) Once the cold season has ended, drain out the anti-freeze, flush the system thoroughly and refill with water. Adding a good rust inhibitor (available at any service station or auto supply store) will guard against rust formation.

Find Indian Boy Not Suffering From Smallpox

GOGAMA (CP)—Fears that a 12-year-old Indian boy had contracted northern Ontario's first case of smallpox in more than 20 years were allayed Friday when laboratory tests proved negative.

Dr. R. P. Hardman of Toronto, provincial health department epidemiologist, reported that tests completed this week showed definitely that Stanley Blackbirch hasn't smallpox.

Young Blackbirch first took sick at Timagami about two weeks ago. He spent some time in the Haileybury hospital and upon his release came to Gogama with his mother. He was stricken again and broke out in water blisters.

Although doubtful that the lad had contracted the disease, doctors inoculated about 250 persons in the area last week. The boy is reported recuperating satisfactorily.

London Market Hits Record Peak After Election

LONDON (Reuters) — Industrial share values rose to their highest level in history Friday as the London market responded to a Conservative victory.

Interest was focussed mainly on industries which had been freed from fears of Socialist control by the Labor party defeat. The all-time peak level continued a trend which had been slowly gathering strength since last March, when values dropped before the bank interest rate was changed.

The advance in share values added millions of pounds to the capital value of shares in steel and chemicals.

Gains ranging from a shilling to nearly seven shillings a share were recorded by many issues.

"To Tear Holes in PC Ranks" Oliver's Forecast For June 9; Lib. Platform Trivial--Frost

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver campaigned from the back of a truck in the streets of Belle Ewart Friday night, forecasting that in the June 9 Ontario general election the Liberals "will explode the myth of indispensability" surrounding Premier Frost.

A crowd of 1,000, largest audience Mr. Oliver has addressed so far in the campaign, stood outdoors in this community 20 miles east of Windsor to hear the Liberal leader speak in support of Arthur Reaume, candidate for Essex North.

The Liberal party will "tear great gaping holes in the government ranks," Mr. Oliver said, holes big enough for the party to "drive through to power in the province."

FROST SPEAKS

Premier Frost, meanwhile, told a Progressive Conservative party meeting at Brantford that he has no inclination to talk about opposition election platforms because he has little time for trivialities.

CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald, who was to have addressed a party rally at the Lakehead, remained in Toronto when bad weather forced cancellation of his flight there.

At Belle River, firecrackers exploded noisily at one side of the platform during Mr. Oliver's speech. A street dance was held on the spot following the political meeting.

The Liberal leader accused Premier Frost, of penny-pinching in his treatment of old-age pensioners during the years his party government in Ontario, he said, had squandered millions of dollars annually while "sailing away" $25,000, 000of ordinary revenue in the province's sinking fund.

OTHERS FOUND IT

Other provinces which did not have Ontario's resources, found money enough to increase their old-age pensions paid by the federal government. They must wonder, he said, what's wrong with the Ontario's richest province.

Earlier, Mr. Oliver held a meeting at Leamington in support of Edward Winters, Liberal candidate for Essex South, that the present government has been reviewed in "an unfavorable light." No political leader, he said, can remain a statesman when he makes his administration has dropped as muth in the public estimation.

The unofficial William Murdoch, Progressive Conservative member for Essex South in the last legislature. He said Mr. Murdoch had accused him of stealing the governmentplan for roads.

URGED COMMITTEE

Mr. Oliver insisted he had urged in the House the formation of a committee to study water and irrigation five years before.

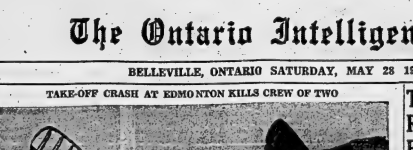
Mr. Oliver said the committee had been formed and had made an exhaustive study of the situation but the government had failed to take action on the report.

"None of the people of southern Mr. Frost says he is aware of the problem of water. He has to supply water to needy areas."

Mr. Oliver named the highway department starting work over certain irregularities last year as the chief cause for many voters' loss of faith in the Frost administration.

Mr. Frost, addressing about 200 persons at Brantford, said his party's aim is to build up industry in the country. He spoke in support of James Rumble, Conservative candidate for Brantford, and Stanley Force, candidate for Brant. Both ridings were held in the last legislature by Liberals.

The premier reviewed the Conservative government record since 1943, when it won power from the Liberals, and said that "it is discussed what they (opposition leaders) said about us, we wouldn't be talking about the things that matter."



The great task facing the people of Ontario and Canada, he said, is to promote work, prosperity and progress.

"That is the issue that confronts us. It is toward that we have devoted our energy."

Mr. Frost said he was one of the persons who vowed during the depression of the 1930s "when democracy seemed to have lost its direction," that such a situation would not happen again.

Mr. MacDonald, in a speech he had prepared for broadcast over the Fort William radio station and which was read on the air late Friday night, said the cooperative of 1,400 workers at the Canadian Car and Foundry plant in the Lakehead city served to indicate something that should not be missed.

"Much of our labor-management trouble in Ontario," he said, "is a product of our poor labor Relations Act, and, as long as the government refuses to refuse to make some obvious changes, we shall have more trouble rather than less."

TAKE-OFF CRASH AT EDMONTON KILLS CREW OF TWO

Laden with defence materials for secret ra- dar bases in the Arctic, a giant four-engine air freighter crashed and burned in Edmonton killing its crew of two, William Highton, 31, of County Durham, England, and co-pilot Donald William Horton, 23, of Fort Garry, Man. The plane, an Avro York owned by Associated Airways Ltd., failed to clear a structure at the end of the runway in take-off, and plowed into freight cars in the Canadian National Railways yards beyond the runway. Its cargo of blasting powder set ablaze and about 16 freight cars and hampered efforts of firemen to extinguish blaze. (Central Press Canadian).

OTTAWA (CP)—Payments totalling $24,665,650 have been made to date to Saskatchewan and Manitoba farmers under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act on 1954 crop losses, Agriculture Minister Gardiner reported Friday.

He said in the Commons that 85,- 136 Saskatchewan farmers received a total of $20,756,025 and 21,822 Manitoba farmers, $3,909,025. Payments covered 2,628 townships in Saskatchewan, 696 in Manitoba.

An ex-Toronto fireman, Enzor said he had been visiting in Victoria, B.C., and was returning to Toronto by bus via the U.S. He claims he was hauled off the bus by Seattle police, and taken to police station where he was kicked and beaten in the stomach. Enzor admitted he had "a few beers but was not drunk." Hospitalized for ten days, Enzor had half his pancreas and entire spleen removed. (Central Press Canadian).

Irish Convicts Win Two Seats In U.K. Election

BELFAST — (Reuters) — Two members of the extreme Irish nationalist Sinn Fein party, which is pledged to unify Ireland by force if necessary, Friday night heard the news of their election to the House of Commons in jail cells.

Both have served only five months of 10-year sentences for taking part in an armed raid on a British army barracks in Northern Ireland last year.

The two successful Sinn Feln candidates are Tom Mitchell, a 22-year-old bricklayer and Philip Clarke, 21, a clerk. They were the youngest candidates standing in Thursday's general election.

Mitchell won the Mid-Ulster seat with 29,737 votes against the 29,477 received by his Ulster Unionist Conservative opponent C. Beattie.

WON BY TAKE SEATS

Clarke received 30,529 votes in the poll at Fermanagh and South Tyrone against the 30,358 of R.G. Grosvenor, his Ulster Unionist rival.

Mitchell and Clarke had stood for Parliament with 10 other Sinn Feiners, but were pledged not to take their seats if elected.

Their present pledge "Care of Her Majesty's Prison, Belfast" ensures that they will not be able to take the seats even if they wanted.

The measure would almost double the size of the upper house, giving the government enough votes for the two-thirds majority necessary for constitutional action on the racial question.

It is aimed particularly at removing 50,000 "Cape coloreds"—ment in the assembly ineffective.

Runaway San Francisco Van Kills 7 in Down-Hill Plunge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A big interstate moving van ran five wild blocks through the heart of San Francisco Friday, killing seven persons and injuring three as it crashed and exploded.

Its brakes gone, the huge yellow Mayflower truck and trailer roared down the steep side of Nob Hill on Clay street at an estimated 80 miles an hour.

It ran miraculously clear for four blocks. All the death and damage came in the final block.

It scraped a half block of store fronts and wrecked a dozen automobiles. At least eight, including three police cars, were smashed into junk. Street signs, lights and poles toppled in crazy confusion.

Pedestrians along the sidewalk scattered but some could not escape in time. The unlucky were crushed between the wreckage and splashed with flaming gasoline from the shattering explosion of the 2,000 gallon fuel tank.

One of the dead was the van driver, identified as William Russel McCandless, Davenport, Ia. Another was a police patrolman. Two women suffered broken legs and a third a possible broken back. The co-driver leaped himself by jumping from the cab.

South Africa Senate Reform Is Step in Apartheid Policy

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — South Africa's Lower House Friday approved in principle a government bill to enlarge the Senate.

It voted 91 to 61 for the measure, which is aimed at giving the government parliamentary power to reduce the voting rights of certain people of mixed blood in Cape province.

The bill now has to go through the committee and a final approval by the House of Assembly before it becomes effective.

persons of mixed Negro and white blood—from the common voting lists of the Cape province.

These people have enjoyed the right to vote as ordinary citizens since the days of British colonial rule. The government says, hitherto blocked in the courts as unconstitutional, the measure will form a separate electoral roll, with the right to vote only for a special group of Parliamentarians.

The opposition has argued that the measure may mean the end of parliamentary rule in South Africa. They say the bill, which necessitates the creation of such a way as to give the nationalists an overwhelming majority of membership, may in the future render any other party governsenate.

Says New Code Makes It Offence To Mislead Parlimentary Bodies

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister or found. The husband is a resident of Aylmer, Que.

Garson says he believes the new criminal code has enough teeth to permit successful prosecution of persons charged with fabricating evidence before parliamentary committees.

He was commenting in the Commons Friday on a decision of the Ontario Appeal Court quashing a 15-month sentence imposed on two Montreal private detectives. The men, Maurice Pichette and Paul Sauterre, were convicted in Ottawa late last year on charges of intent to mislead a court of justice by unlawfully attempting to fabricate evidence.

The appeal court, in quashing the lower court judgment, ruled that "any intention to mislead must have been an intent to mislead the Senate committee or parliament and not a court of justice."

The detectives were charged in connection with alleged activities in gathering evidence to be presented to the Senate divorce committee, which hears divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland, only provinces without divorce courts.

The crown charged the detectives, acting for an Ottawa man who was planning a trial trap for husband into a false position from which adultery might be inferred.

The detectives were charged under an old section of the Criminal Code which was repealed in the new code when it became effective April 1. He believes the new section would "correct" the point covered by the Appeal Court.

The old code restricted the crime of fabricating evidence to the intent to mislead a court of justice or a person holding any such judicial proceedings.

The new code simplies the section by adding that judicial proceedings can be defined also as a proceeding "before the Senate or House of Commons of Canada or committee of the Senate or House of Commons or before a legislative Council. . . ."

REDS SAY

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Friday United States military men faked stories about a huge spurt in Soviet air power. The reason, it said, was to get bigger U. S. Air Force appropriations from Congress.

The paper seized on the current American press discussion over what may have been noted in blueprints or sky diaries during rehearsals for the Soviet May Day celebration.

Tito Rejects Russian Bid For Closer Ties

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito today was reported to have turned down a Russian bid for closed party ties between his independent Communist state and the Soviet Union. He is said to have demanded that the current Soviet-Yugoslav talks here be carried on strictly on a governmental plane.

Tito teamed with self-confidence but Russian delegates were grim today as the second day of the talks opened. Informed sources said the sour Soviet looks could be due to the speed with which the Yugoslav president rejected their efforts to win him back to the Kremlin fold.

The sources said Tito voiced his stand in a speech to the conference Friday.

The remarks apparently were aimed particularly at Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party boss, who took a "dear comrade" approach in appealing to Yugoslav for closer political relations. Khrushchev holds no official title in the Soviet government, but Premier Nikolai Bulganin and deputy premier Anastas Mikoyan accompanied him here.

WILL NOT RETURN

Tito apparently saw in Khrushchev's appeal an effort to lure him back into the Communist fold. Yugoslavia was expelled from the international Communist group in 1948, and Tito has said he never would never return.

It is significant here that Tito is buying only a part of Khrushchev's ideas is bolstered by an editorial in the Borba, the Yugoslav Communist party newspaper.

In the first comment on Khrushchev's speech, made when the Russian leader spoke away Yugoslav public opinion approving of his remarks that the Belgrade meeting should contribute to better relations between the two countries.

But Borba pointedly makes no reference to Khrushchev's appeal for a special "political consolidation."

Borba says Yugoslavia has "created and will further develop very close relations with the Western powers and other countries in Europe, America and other continents."

Snowmaking Machine May Become Sprayer

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)— Four years ago this winter-sports center had a $100-a-plate dinner and bought a $5,000 snowmaking machine for use on the ski slopes. The dinner proved a success, the machine a flop.

Sometimes there was too much rain. Sometimes there was plenty of snow. When it might have been used the snowmaking couldn't get it to work.

Now the machine seems to benefit mankind may have come. A group of farmers is dickering to buy it—for spraying vegetable crops.

U. S. Economist Hits Unlimited Labor Power

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association ended its annual convention here Friday with a blast at unrestricted labor power and a warning to Canadians not to take their ideas wholesale from the United States.

Labor economist Leo Wolman of Columbia University said the U.S. experience many things we would regard with suspicion if I was the country responsible for them . . . particularly wrong ideas."

Referring to trade union ties between the two countries Dr. Wolman termed U.S. labor "the most efficient cost-raising machinery the world has ever seen" and said union chiefs have "nothing to do except sit and think of ways of increasing costs."

For export something to you that is going to cause a great deal of trouble . . . organized labor or private capital.

Dr. Wolman, a former top administrator in the National Recovery Administration which tried to spark recovery in the United States during the depression, said the key to high unemployment is high business activity.

This depends on business confidence and initiative and not on large government spending.

'My Job Is Done' Says Dionne As Four Surviving 'Quints' Reach Their 21st Birthdays

NORTH BAY, (CP)—Five girls were born on a quiet, sunny Monday morning in May, 1934, to Mrs. Olivo Dionne. Today four of them reach adulthood.

It was 21 years ago this May 28th that Mrs. Dionne gave birth in a farmhouse to five tiny sisters —Emilie, Marie, Yvonne, Annette and Cecile. The latter four celebrate their coming of age in the shadow of the death of Emilie.

"My job is done," said the father, Olivo Dionne. "From now on they do as they please."

Olive Dionne, the quints' sole guardian since 1944 and administrator of their business affairs, is hopeful that now public interest, which for so many years has been his chief worry, will wane. He has insisted the girls be left alone to lead ordinary lives.

RECEIVE SHARES

Today, on becoming 21 years old, the surviving quintuplets receive one-fifth shares in the Dionne Quintuplet Trust Fund. The fund totals just under $1,000,000, amounting to about $197,000 each. Also a share in Emilie's fortune, which is to be divided among 14 members of the family.

It is expected by those in close touch with the Dionne family that the four girls, only one of whom still remains at home, will leave their money invested as it stands now and have their first act in trust for them.

It will take five or six months of legal work to transfer the money from the trust company, now held by the Ontario Supreme Court on behalf of the Ontario guardian's commission, to the various corporations prepayments for movie rights, advertising contracts and endorsements and newspaper photo rights during the first few years of the quints' lives. Most of these have been increased through investments.

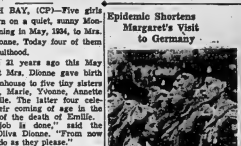
ONLY ONE AT HOME

Today, Marie, shy and reserved, the only one left at home, now lives at home. She has lived with her parents in nearby Callander since she left her novitiate at a Quebec City convent last July.

Yvonne and Cecile are nurses-in-training at a Roman Catholic hospital on the outskirts of Montreal. Annette is completing an accompiano instruction at a convent-college in Hull, Que., specializing in musical bent and qualifying to teach piano.

Emilie died last August of suffocation during an epileptic seizure in a bathtub.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne live in the two-storey, 19-room house built after the quints' birth. Besides Marie, a daughter, Pauline, 22, and two sons, Victor, 17, and Claude, 8, live with the parents.



OLD HOSPITAL

The Dionne mansion is the fence-enclosed grounds of the old Dionne Hospital. There the quints were raised at the expense of what were under Ontario government supervision. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the family doctor who delivered the quints, was in sole control of their health. After bitterest parents, only occasional visitors, have been allowed to see the frame farmhouse where the quints were born.

Now Dafoe Hospital is occupied by the Dionnes' eldest son Ernest and his wife and five children. Ernest looks after the farm.

The long, low nearby building, which was a private hospital is operated by nuns, for the 'teen-aged quints and for the family's workers, is a Roman Catholic mission. The old Dionne six-room house, seen through a mass of shrubs, is five per cent.

Epidemic Shortens Margaret's Visit to Germany

Princess Margaret is shown inspecting the color guard at Wuppertal, Germany, after she presented colors to the first British Battalion of the Suffolk regiment at the British base. The Princess flew to Germany as officiated also at presentation of colors to the 20th Hussars, but that event was cut short by the typhoid fever epidemic. (Central Press Canadian.)

Gals Are in Better Shape Than Man States Sharp-Eyed Sports Expert

TORONTO (CP)—"Physically illiterate" is the description tagged on Canadians in a recent fitness survey which concedes that the gals are in better shape than the men.

"To take the word of the average Canadian himself" said Lloyd Percival, Sports College director who announced the survey finds Friday, "the most unfavorable feels that he is not fit."

Percival, a non-profit organization dedicated to raising Canada standard of physical fitness and sports efficiency. The survey covered a sampling group of some 500 persons.

It tapped average persons—ranging from children—in the age group from 13 to 30.

The findings: Only 13.2 per cent of Canadian males and 27.2 per cent of the females could pass simple tests of physical fitness.

Most able were those in the 20- to 30-year age bracket and the least fit were the teens.

The middle-income group showed a percentage of 9.4 able to pass the tests; the low - income bracket showed 21 per cent and the highest income group showed 26.8 per cent.

Seventy-nine per cent of the 50,- 000 said they "dragged" through everyday life and noticed "bad periods of energy lack." Only 38 per cent claimed they could run a mile and 26 per cent said it "nearly kills me" to run for a street car.

Only one in six of the people studied had "normal" strength degree of physical fitness," Percival said.

Of those who completed the questionnaire in rural areas, 72 per cent claimed no physical requirements, compared to 7.1 per cent for city dwellers.

Many were not sure whether exercise was good for them or harmful and some apparently thought it was a source of heart trouble. Others said exercise is not necessary for fitness. Almost all said their inability to pass the tests stemmed from school, business, domestic, social and recreational activities.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HEADS YOU WIN!

After seeing the motion pictures of the Marciano-Cockell fight at the Mecca Theatre yesterday, we, and two newspaper pals decided the best punch thrown during the afternoon was that tossed by "Mike Hammer," the leading figure in the crime thriller, "Kiss Me Deadly."

Marciano hit Cockell a lot with his head and threw in everything but the Golden Gate Bridge, a two-fisted attack in the seventh and eighth but he couldn't rock the sturdy Briton. What held Cockell up was not shown. But "Mike," sad, he whammed a one-punch at a headbum and sent him rolling down three flights of stairs. Between smooches, Mike clips another bird and the one-punch hero sends his victim half-way across the continent. What a difference between the movies and the movies.

To get back to the heavyweight fight, don't let anyone tell you Rocky did not use his head for other than figuring out his income tax. The Spanish bullfighters might better say him to stay home before some of their El Toros start a Marciano fan club. The Rock was clearly the better fighter, that's what he is and not a boxer, but Cockell was suffering, we thought, from claustrophobia. That size-seen feel ring looks like a sardine can. A wild-swinging fighter could knock off hecklers on each side if he wanted with one punch.

We have never seen Marciano fight, in person, but from his effort against Cockell he can thank his lucky stars he does not have to meet Joe Louis or Jack Dempsey when they were in their prime. Cockell was hitting him all right but there seemed to be no steam behind the attempts. From what we saw Rocky should have gloves on his elbows, wrists and a pillow on his noggin. No wonder the British writers screamed. And how fantastic these radio announcers sound after one sees the scrap via. TV.

TRACK MEET

The cream of Ontario's high school track and field athletes are expected on the Ontario Athletic Commission's camp at Lake Couchiching today to compete in the all-Ontario annual track meet.

About 250 of the province's best will be present for the affair which is the culmination of weeks of competition in the various areas of Ontario.

For the big meet, the province was sliced into eight divisions—western, northern, central, eastern and Niagara sections, plus Hamilton, Toronto and Toronto district. Each trackman will compete as a member of one of these teams and the team piling up the most points wins the Manufacturers Life Trophy.

Records will likely go by the board, as the meets held in the various areas this spring have been productive of mark-smashing achievements, both individually and collectively.

Toronto district schools captured the trophy last year, but they will have to better that fine performance if 1955 records can be judged criterions of other districts' capabilities.

Western Ontario is reputed to be quite strong with Hamilton looming up as dangerous contenders. Their senior relay team is said to be one of the best. It set a new Canadian record this year—and they might better that mark at Orillia.

In addition to the main trophy, individual awards are made to the winners of each event. And equally important, a win today at Lake Couchiching will virtually assure an appearance at the Ajax track meet being held at the Canadian National Exhibition on September 3.

Belleville Collegiate Institute is sending a delegation of its track and field stars. Bill Gault will run in the mile and two miles for senior ranks. The intermediate relay team will vie for the half-mile honors. Glen Marczie is running in the intermediate 440 and 880, with Barry Ray competing in the 220. Graham Beeby will enter the senior 440 and 880. The contingent is in charge of Mr. Fred Brodie.

STREAM IMPROVEMENT

We have just learned from Don MacKinnon, president of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Protective Association that the stream improvement work taken on by the club has not been forgotten. The delay in getting started has been due to the recent resignation of Don Bell, conservation officer for the Moira Valley Conservation Authority. It was under his able direction that the work was to have been carried out. A splendid job was made of stream improvement on O'Hara Creek by Mr. Bell for the authority. Mr. Drysdale who is to replace Mr. Bell, is due to arrive in town about June 15th.

An announcement will be made some time after this date as to when the work on the local stream improvement will commence. Club members will be asked to assist in this project. Mr. R. E. Whitfield, Fish Biologist of the Department of Lands and Forests, Maple Grove, Ont., will also be co-operating in making a survey of the stream.

Robinson Blasts 3-Run Homer To Give Ford His Sixth Win; 'Say Hey' Willie Clips 'Oiskin'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How about that crafty old Casey Stengel? He's got himself pitching troubles, so what's he do but get his guys to belt homers and score their runs early to give the New York Yankees a three-game lead in the American League.

Casey's had only 18 complete games from his pitching staff in 38 contests. And so when Bob Turley, who had five complete games, failed a second time to make it six on May 20, the professor worked out the new formula.

The Yanks were a half game out of first on May 20. Since then, they've scored first-inning runs in nine straight games and hit 11 home runs to win eight times.

Friday night they rocked Baltimore for four runs in the first and Whitey Ford coasted home for his sixth victory 6-2.

ROBINSON HOT

Eddie Robinson put the power in the opening surge, tagging loser Erv Palica for a three-run homer. It was the third homer in the nine-game stretch for Robinson. The 34-year-old first baseman, filling in for injured Eddie Skowron and sick Joe Collins, has driven in 11 runs and batted .339 since May 20.

Yogi Berra's been the big guy in the team-game move, however, with six home runs, a pair of them first-inning blasts, and thirteen home 19 runs while hitting .429.

Mickey Mantle ran his consecutive game streak to 19 with a triple and double. For the streak, Mickey's batting .491, knocking home 20 runs.

DETROIT WINS THRILLER

The Yanks moved up a half game as Cleveland was rained out at Kansas City. Meanwhile, Detroit cago dropped a 1-0 game to Detroit, and Boston clobbered Washington 16-0 to take fifth place as rookie Norbert (Norm) Zauchin batted in five runs with three homers—one a grand slam.

In the National, New York Giants' broke a four-game losing streak by beating Brooklyn and Carl Erskine 3-0 on home runs. That left the Giants seven lengths back of the Dodgers and a game behind Chicago Cubs, who were sidetracked by Milwaukee 7-5.

St. Louis regained fifth place by beating Cincinnati 7-4. Philadelphia won its fifth straight, 5-2 in 11 innings at Pittsburgh.

Billy Hoeft scattered six hits for his fourth victory as Detroit moved to within a half-game of the Sox. Frank Bolling, promoted since May 17 with a .197 batting average, home-red to lead the Tigers' Comeback, who had won five straight.

The Bostons had Ted Williams available for the first time, but a chilly night plus Zauchin's stick work postponed his comeback.

HOFMAN TIES A RECORD

At New York, Bobby Hofman reached a record. His third pinch homer of the season tied the game at 1-1 in the seventh and tied him with Cy Williams (circa 1912-1926) for the major league pinch-homer mark of nine.

Willie Mays cut the props from Erskine's seventh victory with a two-run homer in the eighth, giving Sal Maglie his fifth straight victory. The last 13 runs scored off Erskine, who has lost two, have come on homers.

Milwaukee's Gene Conley won his seventh game in nine with help from Bob Buhl after seven innings. Red Schoendienst lost it.

A three-run 10th extended Philadelphia's streak with Herm Wehmeier the winner after Andy Seminick's two-run homer tied it in the ninth.

At St. Louis, Bip Repulski homered and doubled as the Cards dumped the Redlegs into sixth. Luis Arroyo won his fifth with Paul LaPalme's help.

MAY MATCH WINNER

LONDON (CP)—Swaps, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Phil Drake, French - owned English Derby champion, may be matched in the international race at Laurel, Md., early fall, if so it would be the first time in 32 years the winners of the two big racing classics clashed. Zev, Kentucky Derby winner, beat the English champion, Papyrus, at Belmont Park Oct. 20, 1923.

Extended To Win Tourney

HAMILTON (CP) — Rudy Horvath, Windsor professional, teamed five feet from the pin, with Bill Hodgson of Hamilton, to win the two-day night to capture the Ontario pro-amateur best-ball golf tournament in a sudden-death playoff that went four extra holes before a winner was decided.

Horvath and Hodgson were tied at the end of 36 holes with Gord Delaat and Tom Woodall of Weston with scores of 87-84—171.

As twilight descended into dusk, the blue golfers teed off in a sudden-death extra hole playoff. Each pair carded a par on the first three holes. On the par four 330-140, yard fourth, Horvath, Delaat and Woodall were unable to judge distance because of the darkness and overdrove the green with their second shots. Hodgson's approach went astray.

Delaat and Woodall chipped to the green but both shots fell about five feet from the pin. Horvath's chip was three feet from the cup. Woodall and Delaat missed their putts. Horvath's carefully measured putt plopped in the cup for par, and the championship.

Horvath collected $350 for the victory and Hodgson received $150 in merchandise.

Winners of the pro-amateur tournament in 1954, Lloyd Tucker and Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway golfers teed off in a sud-way, finished a disappointing 10th one-deck strokes below playoff. Each Friday. Bob had trouble with the team carded a par on the first rolling greens and scored 71-68—

Nashua Meets "Gang of Eight"

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nashua, a horse with a pronounced penchant to run just enough and no more to win when he can, meets a gang of eight hoofers he might cut it too fine in the 79th running of the Preakness today.

Some of the trainers themselves were wondering why they and others had entries against the formidable Nashua except that so far he has run away from nobody.

John McCleary, an old Irishman who exercises the big and indifferent colt for Belair Stud, summed up Nashua's attitude:

"If he can against a bunch of pigs, he'd go just fast enough to beat them."

Nashua's eight opponents in the mile and 3-16 Preakness aren't a really distinguished lot, but neither are they pigs so if he gets to footing around he could be taken although probably at an odds-on price.

A big attraction for other owners is the purse that besides the $68,050 for first prize, there is $25,000 for second, $15,000 for third and $7,500 for fourth.

From Don Cockell to Soccer British Sport Takes Jolt

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain's concept of sport has just endured a succession of jolts from San Francisco to Madrid.

Don Cockell has barely become disengaged from the brutal boxing attentions of ex-heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, regarded here as the ranking expert on how to ignore Marciano's Queensberry rules, when the England soccer team took another on the chin in Spain.

It followed a controversial game against France in Paris, and preceded Scotland's incident-marked match against Austria in Vienna. British reaction was warm.

AGE OF BLACKJACKS

"This is the cosh (blackjack) age in sport," lamented The Daily Sketch. Even The Times was moved to remark that "there are two conceptions in the world of how football should be played. It is becoming two different games."

On the other hand, there was the bitter cry: "Soccer's bruising code." "The seemingly eternal British whine that the other fellow did not play fair, gave rise to small say credit won."

In Paris, England lost 2-0—and deserved to do so, it was generally agreed—but what seemed obvious fouls to English eyes were ignored.

In Spain, where 125,000 eager Spaniards sat under a broiling sun, reports indicate that a good Spanish team was aided considerably by an Italian referee who failed to detect flagrant obstruction tactics.

TOO OFF SPIRIT

English reinforcement Nat Lofthouse was downed in a breakaway when a Spanish player grabbed his arm, and finally tore his shirt off, English reporters said. A 1-1 draw resulted.

Spanish players, who get £100 per international match compared with £50 for English stars, had their salaries doubled at half-time to £200.

Veteran Stanley Matthews, the 40-year-old winger who is still regarded as the best in the world, said he had "never played in such a filthy match."

There have been suggestions that England withdraw from tours until host countries guarantee to conform with international rules, but no such drastic step is anticipated.

"You keep telling us you are fair players and we are the masters," said official Harold Shentall after the game, "but we don't want to take the credit for some of the things you showed us."

At Vienna, where Scotland won 4-1 for its first victory over Austria in 27 years, spectators invaded the field to attack Scottish captain Gordon Smith, and 100 police saved the day. That topped a series of rugged tackles, kicks and blows and one Austrian player was ordered off the field.

It smacked to some extent of the worst game on record—that between Brazil and Hungary in last year's World Cup series.

Lawrie Reilly, Scottish forward who felled one Austrian spectator in a "collision" said that apart from the result "it was the happiest moment in the match."

Kay Wins Quebec Open

MONTREAL (CP)—Jack Kay a Mount Bruno Country Club Friday won the Quebec spring open golf championship with a one-under-par 143 for the 36-hole tournament at Elm Ridge Club.

Shooting a four-under-par 68 in the afternoon session, Kay went away three strokes from Bill Kerr of Beaconsfield and Jim Seeney of St. Andrews, each with 146.

The amateur title was won by Ken Banks, Montreal, with 148. He edged Joe Leblanc of Whitlock by one stroke.

Banks, a former Quebec junior champion and member of Quebec's Willingdon Cup team, sent in rounds of 73 and 75.

Jules Huot of Laval and Ernie Boros of Kanawaki drew for third place in the pro section with scores of 147.

Russkys Split Decisions, With Flanagan, Mackenzie

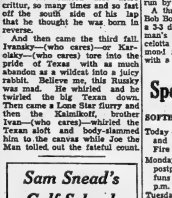
By Geo. H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

The snarling Russkyes, the Kalmkoff brothers, stepped out of town last night, Karlinek (who cares)—and Ivansky—(who cares) each split decisions.

Karolsky, or was it Ivanski—(who cares)—was returned an effort in the third fall of the main bout to whittle towering Tex Mackenzie, the reasing pride of Frankford. It says here—down to his own size and whirled and body-slammed the Lone Star Stater, repeto submission while nearly 1,-500 fans groaned.

In the first bout Karolsky—(who cares)—was it Ivansky—(who cares)—took what this reporter thought was a more-or-less bit of a beating from Pathfick Flanagan before both were disqualified by referee Sam Goodder—(and who cares).

Incidentally there were four midgets squared in the ring for the opener and the main bouts. It was a repetition of last week's show. Little Beaver—(pardon me, sir, is that correct or would your antecedents object)—and also an alleged English type, advertised as Little Lord Fauntleroy Cupid and Ski-Lo-Lo. They put on a good show pretty well patterned after the one offered up last week—after all what else have they got—and with their pint-size activities gave a bit of a respite to the crowd. Keep these pint-sizers in mind—for one or in circus until next year, Mr. Tunney. They have two weeks repetition were out their welcome down thisaway. Well, it's been good to hear you laughs.



While, as we said before, the honors were split between the Kalmkoff brothers, actually, as we thought we saw it, the "langover" between Flanagan and Ivans—(who cares)—produced the best action of the show.

Pat and his Russky pal whirled and whamm-ed their way through 30 minutes of fast action. Then both got into a fast-and-furious outside of the ring and Sammy disqualified both. It was that way.

In the semi-final, the Russky was not feeling. He staged a pile-driver and Mackenzie fell. That's wishing for Davy Crockett before he said "uncle" at the end of 18 minutes.

Ah, but the next fall was different. The rassler' Davy Crockett", that you-all towering man from Texas, gave Ivansky —(who cares)—a lesson in solid fundamentals. He bounced that there critter up many times and so fast off the south side of his lap that he thought he was born in reverse.

And then came the third fall. Ivansky—(who cares)—and Mackenzie—(who cares) tore into the pride of Texas and as much abandon as a wildcat into a jujey rabbit. Believe me, this Russky was mad. He shook and he twirled the big Texan down. Then came a Lone Star flurry and then the Kalmkoff, Ivansky—Ivan—(who cares)—whirled the Texan aloft and body-slammed him to the canvas while Joe the Man tolled out the fateful count.

6. I've struggled long to tell a golfer how he should feel when he is swinging correctly. Now I doubt it can be done. But here's a try. Maybe you can get the idea when I tell you that every time I throw I really am smacking the ball I feel as though my hands were just as far away from my shoulders as I can get them. That means you feel as though you are almost trying to shove the clubhead away from you when you are at the top of your backswing. The idea isn't to feel as though the hands were being held as far as possible from the body but from the shoulders. The is a comfortable feeling that the hands, in the address, and again during the bottom third of the swing, are to fairly close to the body. Try it.

Blake Wins Six For Leafs Royals Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Blake, 30-year-old Toronto righthander, is at the age when there is not much chance of his moving into the majors, but he's showing the International League pitchers that he hasn't forgotten how to hurl winning ball.

The 5-foot, 11-inch veteran, who had two very brief appearances in the majors with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Redlegs, is leading the loop moundsmen with an 8-2 record.

Blake, who had a 15-9 record last season with the Montreal entry in the Toronto Maple Leafs, won his sixth successive game Friday night as the Leafs defeated Rochester Red Wings 6-4.

In other games the second-place Montreal Royals coasted to a 10-4 victory over the Buffalo Bisons, Columbus Jets rallied for three runs in the ninth to edge Havana Sugar Kings 5-4 and Syracuse Chiefs moved into a tie for seventh place by trouncing Seattle Rainiers 9-3, topping Richmond Virginians 6-3.

HELPED OWN CAUSE

Blake contributed a double and scored a run himself as one of his mates batted three Rochester pitchers for 13 hits, including a solo four-bagger by Spencer Roldgues. The Red Wings got all their runs in the ninth on the seventh home run of the season by Allie Clark and Tom Burgess each connected with one aboard.

Southpaw Leon Ernhart, struck out nine men and allowed six hits in gaining his fifth win against two setbacks for the Royals. He also connected for three singles. Rocky Colavito drove in 3 hits as Montreal stuck by hitting his seventh and eighth home runs and knocking in five tallies. The Bisons dropped to now lost 15 of their last 18 starts.

Lou Limmen's ninth - inning single drove in two runs as the Jets uphill victory. It was Limmen's fifth four-bagger of the season and came with a man on. The blow came off Raoul Sanchez who was relieving starter Jim Brosnan. Cal Neeche, Righthander Buck Wheat went all the way for his six and second victory of the campaign. He gave up 10 hits including a home run by Ed Bailey.

A three-run inside the park by Ed Bouchee in the seventh broke a 3-3 deadlock for Syracuse. Bouchee's drive went over Senior Roldgues's head. The Red Wings got all their runs in the fifth on doubles by Allie Clark and Tom Burgess each connected with one aboard.

Controversy Still Raging Over TV in Flesh or on Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How will you have your television—live or on film?

The battle still rages in Hollywood over the advantages of presenting TV in the flesh or putting it on celluloid.

This will probably continue as long as there is TV but at present it appears that film has the edge, at least on the coast. New York is still the citadel of live shows.

An interesting sidelight was offered this week by a famous master of ceremonies of one of the dramatic shows. He didn't wish his name used because his program offers both filmed and live shows, but he made no secret of his preference for film.

TELLS BETTER STORY

"Not only can we tell a better story on film," he remarked. "We can tell more story.

"The advantages of film are obvious. We can use more acts, more actors and more costumes. We can cover a longer space of time in the story. We can take the scene outdoors and stage action that would be impossible if done live.

"And we can actually cover 10 more pages of script on a filmed show. When you cut 10 pages out of a half-hour show, you lose a lot of story."

STARS PREFER FILM

From the stars' viewpoints there are other important advantages of film. They are protected from memory lapses and poor photography. They are allowed to get their performances closer to perfection because of retakes.

And there is the all-important matter of residuals. This is a popular word here, describing the money that can be realized by replays of the films. Residuals can make millionaires of people like Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Jack Web, Groucho Marx, etc.

But there is still a case for live TV. Its greatest asset is that intangible matter of spontaneity.

There is more electricity in seeing a stage play than a movie. Likewise a live TV drama can usually generate more excitement than one that is canned. The memorable dramas of TV have generally been live.

BEATS PEREZ

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmelo Costa, a clever counter puncher with "sit-on-it" eye-catching style, gave dancing Lulu Perez a 10-round boxing lesson Friday night to win a unanimous decision in a televised bout at Madison Square Garden. Perez weighed 126½, Costa 125½. Both fighters are from Brooklyn.

SUES CAMPANELLA

BROOKLYN (AP)—Roy Campanella, catcher for Brooklyn Dodgers, was sued for $9,500 Friday by the surgeon who operated on the player's left hand last fall.

The suit was brought by Dr. Samuel Shenkman, who said the catcher agreed to that fee for services between Oct. 14, 1954 and last Jan. 25.—Shenkman said Campanella asked him to send the bill to the Dodgers but the club disclaimed responsibility.

Campanella referred all queries to the Brooklyn front office. Buzz Bavasi, Dodger vice-president, said he wanted to discuss the matter with Campanella and the doctor before making comment.

SIGNS WITH ARGOS

TORONTO (CP)—Wilford (Whizzer) White, former member of the Chicago Bears Football Club and rated greatest Arizona athlete in history, has signed with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union.

Harry Sandhine, Argos' general manager, said Friday night White had agreed in terms with the Big Four club, and his contract had arrived here. White, who can throw with either hand, agreed to the terms after the National Football League club failed to pick up his option before it expired.

WILLIE THE TOILER

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MAY 29, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —You should be mentally keen, vigilant now. Astuteness in advertising, business moves, sound investments will count. You may have to be more patient with serious tasks, household and family duties.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) —Neither too easy a day nor too restrictive a one. It's really up to you how you feel physically and how you progress. Smart management urged.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Fine aspects today should encourage mental agility and hard work, teaching, study, research, writings; all endeavors that generally require creative and ingenious handling. Give proper time to home.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —The planetary vibrations are not wholly generous where personal matters are concerned, but ti is a good day for sound and intelligent thought and action.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Solar configurations caution against expecting too much today but all indications urge trying, studying and learning, especially in your own field. Family, heart affairs favored.

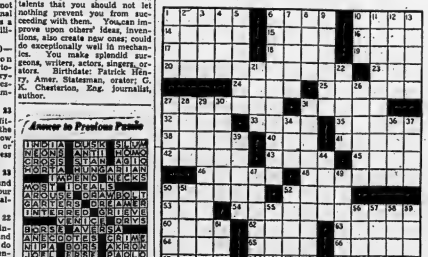
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — This can be a profitable period for building for the future. You can go places now if you don't go to extremes or worry. Originality, cleverness will pay well.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Thought, analysis and careful planning can further your cause. Maintain an even balance and you will gain more.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Finances well invested, and matters managed and motivated unselfishly should carry well, as should purely mental work and other interests. Romance favored.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Benefic rays. Wholesome activities, school and church interests, organizations to benefit mankind and to further spiritual development highly honored. Work to achieve high aims.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Today's aspects are neither entirely friendly nor are they disagreeable. If progressive and conscientious, you can accomplish much. Do not be over-optimistic lest you misjudge, make costly errors.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Mildly favorable aspects now keep bettering until the end of the month. A contact here to advance personal affairs, perhaps add to assets, surely to stabilize present holdings.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Hold emotions and any unruly desires in firm restraint. Carelessness and over-enthusiasm can be harmful. You can be mentally progressive, gain fresh benefits through vigorous action.

YOU BORN TODAY are interesting, clever, talented and very puzzling at times. Restlessness, lack of steady concentration and quick temper could be handicaps; correct them. You have such fine God-given capabilities and talents that you should not let nothing prevent you from succeeding with them. You can improve upon others' ideas, inventions, also create new ones; could do exceptionally well in mechanics. You make splendid surgeons, writers, actors, singers, orators. Birthdate: Patrick Henry, Amer. Statesman, orator; G. K. Chesterton, Eng. journalist, author.

FINAL RESTING PLACE FOR MANY

This sign is all that is left of the Shady Rest Home for the Aged in Udall, Kansas, after a tornado struck and virtually demolished the town. Some 40 inmates of the home were believed killed, while 23 were reported dead elsewhere in the state. Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri were also visited by deadly twisters, which left in their wake 36 dead, 700 injured and property damage in millions. The spring's most devastating tornadoes in mid-continent states, sprang from a squall line that started pushing thunderstorms and heavy rain northeastward from the Texas Panhandle. (Central Press Canadian).

Little Benny's Notebook

The Forrin Intriggers were walking along with their flashlights in their pockits, being me and Pudd Simkins, and we heard somebody yelling, Harry, Harry, 8 o'clock, 8 o'clock.

Being a parrit hanging in somebody's window in its cage, and Pudd said, On the trale, Operater One. That herd can tell us everything we want to know, he said.

That's right, Operater 2, I said. Our secret advice has been training it for years. It's just waiting for us to come along and ask it the right questions, I said, and Pudd said, Oh boy, the big day has arrived.

And the parrit kept yelling, 8 o'clock, Harry, 8 o'clock. Probably being all it knew, and I said, Now think hard, herd, what's the official time to strike?

8 o'clock, 8 o'clock, the parrit said, and Pudd said, Okay, herd, who's got the secret papers with the plans and details?

Harry, Harry, the parrit yelled, and Pudd said, Not so loud, herd, do you want to be overheard?

Listen, herd, what time will Harry arrive, on the dot? I said, and the parrit yelled, Harry, Harry.

Hay, we know his name, I asked you what time, I said, and the parrit yelled, 8 o'clock, 8 o'clock.

That's better, I said, and just then some lady stuck her head out the window, saying, Stop it immeedibly, boys. That sort of thing makes the herd very nervius. He'll think he's bin sed all over the floor. Now go away, she said.

Which we did, going around the block and coming back to see if the coast was clear so we could ask some more questions, but we were foiled on account of the parrit not being there any more.

QUINTS COME INTO FORT UNE BY COMING OF AGE

On the occasion of their 21st birthday, May 28, four of the world's most famous sisters, the surviving Dionne quintuplets—Annette, left, Marie, who has since left convent because of ill health, Yvonne and Cecile—came into a $1,000,000 fortune. Emilie, the quint whose death shocked the world ten months ago, was, as a minor, prevented from spending the money she earned with her sisters as a child movie star and co-endorser of innumerable products. So, by law, her portion will be divided equally among the 14 members of her family including the Dionne parents and her four identical sisters. The coming of age for these girls means freedom for the first time since their birth on a farm at Callendar, Ont., from both government and parental domination. (Central Press Canadian).

MARMORA

Pupils Present Song Festival Under Home and School Auspices

MARMORA — Under the auspices of Marmora Home and School Association, pupils of Marmora public school presented a song festival in the town hall on Wednesday evening before a large and appreciative audience, in which parents were well represented.

Baskets of flowers of the season gave the stage a picturesque setting.

Mrs. Leighton McGinnis fulfilled the duties of chairman for all the numbers; the groups were well trained by Miss Barbara Meiklejohn. This being the first year of her appointment as music teacher for the public schools in this part of Central Ontario, interest was deepened in the venture which had been attempted on a previous spring.

The festival may well be termed a glowing success, revealing as it does in particular—the fine quality of training and in addition, the amount of labor devoted to the enterprise.

The presentation to Miss Meiklejohn was received with hearty applause, the simplest and most effective way to demonstrate appreciation.

A presentation at the same time was made to Mrs. Eldon Killian, who pleasingly fulfilled in an accompanist, also to that intermission. Donald P. Marett, chairman of Marmora public school board, took opportunity to express thanks on behalf of that body for the assist to the community which the Home and School Association has become and added also words of deep appreciation of Miss Meiklejohn's accomplishments, as well as of the work of the teaching staff in general.

A loose collection, taken up, brought in about $30 for the funds of the organization.

During this period, some pianoforte pupils in turn from Miss Meiklejohn's class, played solos at the piano.

PROGRAM

The program of the evening is appended:

Mr. E. C. Prentice's class: "Happy Wanderer," "Kentucky Babe."

Mrs. E. Manchester's class: "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star", and "The Turtle"; "I'm a Little Teapot", "Six Little Ducks"; "Fancy Weency Spider."

Miss H. Taft's class: Rhythm Band, with Castanets.

Mrs. M. Sine's class: "Young Musician"; "Blue Bells of Scotland" and "Open Up Your Heart."

Miss H. Taft's class (group Grade 2 boys): "Comical Puppy."

Mrs. E. Manchester's class: Rhythm band, and "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Miss Taft's class: "Soldier Boy"; "Lightly Row".

Miss L. Brown's class: "Vesper Hymn"; "Four Winds."

Intermission.

Mr. G. Watson's class: Two-part singing; "Venice"; "Were I a Bird."

Mrs. M. Sine's class: Rhythm Band; "Gavotte."

CHATHAM BOY DROWNS

CHATHAM (CP)—A 12-year-old boy was drowned Friday while he was fishing with some friends near a bridge over the Thames river.

Gordon Hart of nearby Thamesville had been fishing for about two hours when he lost his line and waded in after it. He slipped and fell into deeper waters.

His friends, Charles and Larry VanCraveyo, tried to save him but he had disappeared. Police and volunteer workers recovered his body near the bridge.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, May 30, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't look backward for the purpose of regretting, feeling sorry for self or for wishing that things were different. Look ahead. Exist for tomorrow.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Start the day with a prayer, then reflect a few moments to be sure you have decided upon the right moves, the best means or associations. Some sober but not fearful reflections is in order.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You can do more than you realize with this day — and week. Things worthwhile need uncovering, digging for — and who more suitable for this task than a versatile Gemini person!

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — We can all be more adept, take things more philosophically if we try. None of us does his or her best all the time. A good day for improving a skill, a talent.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — There may be people who irk you, situations that irritate. But you shouldn't let either ruffle your disposition. Use the time well; take an interest in children's affairs.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Be determined, but do not override others, be firm but tactful and you will have the recipe for success on this day of mixed influences.

September 24 to October 23— (Libra) — No matter what your obligations, you should consider the necessity for a few free moments occasionally for reviving the energies, reviewing plans, and just plain relaxing.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Look before you start today — to be sure you get off on the right foot, a prayer and a determined smile will run the show.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Don't spend too much time at one thing, too little time at another. Allocate your time and talents sensibly. Relax some. No foolish straining.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Haste can be unnerving. Start on time, do what you do well, rest when you should and trust in God.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Look on the bright side and you will experience more cooperation — perhaps from an unexpected source. Don't take slights to heart. Enjoy outdoor exercise, children.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Look at matters from a commonsense viewpoint. You can help others to do this, but not always yourself. So now practice on you. What you do with your free time affects other interests.

You born today are versatile, personable, determined, independent and lively. You can achieve in a number of activities, but do not take on too many at one time and run down energy, health. You have talent for promotional, artistic interests; could assist in largescale charity drives, functions with much detail and complication. Appreciate little things, and pray always for guidance. GERMANY HONORS "NATIVE SON"

World-famous author Thomas Mann and his wife, Katia, are seen upon their arrival at Lubeck, Germany, where Mann will be made an honorary citizen of Lubeck, the town in which he was born. Mann, who emigrated to the U.S. during the Hitler regime and became an American citizen in 1940, has been living in Switzerland since he returned to Europe about four years ago. While declaring himself a "loyal son" of the West, he has from time to time lent his prestige to activities of the Communists, especially the East Germans. Recently made an honorary member of the Academy of Arts in Soviet-occupied East Berlin, he said he was "proud" to belong to it. He was also made an honorary doctor of philosophy by Jena university "for his services in the German language, for his writings, and as a fighter for peace and understanding between peoples." Drew Declares Harris Reveals Meeting Secrets

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew said Friday night that Finance Minister Harris has given the press most of the information for published reports on what has gone on in secret meetings of the House rules committee.

Mr. Drew made the statement in the Commons as he renewed an earlier criticism of arrangements for Monday's business made by Mr. Harris as government House leader.

He said it is breaking a long-established practice for Mr. Harris to schedule debate on government legislation ahead of the calling of a supply motion, on which members can raise grievances and present non-confidence motions. CAN'T DISCUSS IT

Mr. Harris, a member of the rules committee, said he can't discuss the matter because committee members are not allowed to divulge what goes on there.

He said as House leader he has been trying to get an orderly system for House business through arrangements with opposition parties.

Mr. Drew replied it was "perfectly proper to discuss information which has appeared in the press — and mainly information given to the press by the minister himself."

FOUR AMERICAN AIRMEN FREED BY REDS

See China's Air Power Threat To U.S.

Reds Are Working On 20 Air Fields Once Used By Japs

Buildup Opposite Formosa Alarms U. S. Officials

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official reports from the Formosa strait indicate Red China's air power has reached the point where it represents a challenge to United States air strength in the Far East.

It is no secret that Peiping had pressed its air base rebuilding program without a let-up in the all-out war campaign of softtalk.

The Reds are known to have done work on 20 air fields in the triangle between Shanghai, Hankow and Canton. Not all are ready. Some runways still sprout grass; others are slanted out but not yet built.

Nevertheless 10 of them are believed capable of launching light jet bombers, 18 of sending up jet fighters and the other five of landing jets but not providing enough space for takeoffs of any but light propeller-driven craft.

BUILT BY JAPANESE

Of 20 fields built by the Japanese during the Second World War and being restored by the Reds, 14 lie in easy jet striking distance of the Nationalist island of Formosa. Six others are on the outer perimeter.

Along with this data come reports of more and more swept-wing Russian MiG jets flying for the China Reds.

Without reference to Red China's air strength, Representative George Mahon (Dem., Texas) said Sunday he anticipates that the U.S. air force "will ask for $200,000,000 more soon to accelerate our heavy bomber program."

Mahon, a member of the House of Representatives appropriations committee, said on a television program he recently had discussed the bomber program with Air Force secretary Harold E. Talbott, who announced last week a speedup in production of the U.S.'s most potent heavy bomber, the B-52.

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Mo.), former secretary of the air force, said on the same radio interview Sunday he thinks the Russian air force "now larger" than that of the U.S.

He called for a complete reexamination of the Eisenhower administration's air force program. Democratic Senate leader Lyndon B. Johnson had done the same in an interview Saturday.

While avoiding any talk of when the Reds might strike, speculation is that Red China's air power is superior to Nationalist China in sheer strength. It has more and better planes. Further, Red China's air power may be superior to that of Nationalist China plus the U.S. 7th Fleet guarding Formosa.

Four Kemptville Residents Die In Fire Sunday

KEMPTVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Four persons, three of them members of one family, died Sunday in a fire that crackled through the largest building in this town 30 miles south of Ottawa.

The dead are Oswald Taylor, 37, year-old garage mechanic, his wife Ethel Six-year-old son and Bowser Thompson, 28, a neighbor.

They are believed to have died of suffocation as flames drove it other persons, including five children, from the three-storey Finnerty Block. Two of those who escaped were sleeping in the upper apartment, where the blaze started. They got out just in time.

Damage in the 41½-hour fire was estimated at $100,000. The blaze is believed to have started from faulty wiring.

Smuggling Ring Is Broken Up

WINDSOR (CP) — Six persons were remanded one week when they appeared in court Saturday on charges of illegally bringing cars into Canada from the States.

The six were arrested early Saturday by RCMP officers, who said thousands of dollars worth of new model cars, mostly Detroit, have been smuggled into Canada and sold.

Charged with possession of goods unlawfully imported were William Theuk, 42, his wife Violet, 31, Alfred Lauzon, 52, Bernard Fowler, 45, Sherman Lawr, 45, all of Windsor, and Murray Miles, Leamington, Ont., a proprietor of a car sales agency.

A large number of the smuggled vehicles have been recovered, police said, but some are still missing.

New model cars were stolen in Detroit, given Ontario licence plates and false papers, and then brought into Ontario where they were sold as second-hand autos, RCMP officials said.

ARONSON WISHES HIS GUN HAD KILLED TELLER

Robbery Suspect Arrested at Malton

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur Aronson, 26-year-old holdup suspect arrested Saturday night as he tried to board a plane for Winnipeg at Malton airport, said today he wishes it had been his gun that killed clerk Alan Hannan in the $2,300 holdup of a downtown branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank May 24.

"Then it would be murder and he would be in for me in a matter of months," he told detectives who questioned him after his arrest.

"As it stands now, I know what Boyd got, and I might get the same, I couldn't take a life term."

Edwin Alonzo Boyd was sentenced three years ago to a life term for several bank holdups. The sentence is subject to review in 15 to 20 years.

Aronson, scheduled to appear in court today to face charges in connection with the holdup, said he is positive a bullet from his rifle did not kill Hannan.

MORTGAGES ROSE

Mortgage liabilities tests indicated Hannan was killed by a bullet from the gun fired by bank manager William Jendrick.

Meanwhile, Aronson's father said he is still nursing a sick home near Sault Ste. Marie in pay for his son's defence. He described as "a wonderful thing" a recent gift from Mrs. Doris Herndon of Hamilton, who was credited with spoiling Aronson, had offered to contribute any reward she might receive to Aronson's defence.

An official of the Canadian Bankers Association said his organization likely will pay a reward but that is no indication of how much it may be. There is no standard amount set.

Aronson's father said he has engaged Anthony Vannini, Sault Ste. Marie lawyer, to act on his son's behalf.

Aronson, considered by police as dangerous, was unarmed and gave up without a struggle to police, who got the tip from Hamilton had taken up position at the airport buildings.

REGISTRY PERMIT

Aronson ran out of luck in Hamilton, police said. He had been in the Toronto district since the robbery and bought a liquor permit from a downtown store May 26 that the police said was issued on Monday he took a room in a downtown Hamilton hotel.

Saturday, a woman who knew him by name saw him strolling on a Hamilton bar. She said she called to him but he fled, so she called police.

Hungarian Distance Runner Sets World Record For Two Miles of 8.33.4

LONDON (Reuters)—Hungarian distance runner Sandor Iharos set up a world record of 8 minutes 33.4 seconds for the two miles at a track meet here today.

Iharos, who also holds the world 3,000 metres best, broke two and seven seconds the world record of 8 minutes 40.4 seconds established by Gaston Reiff of Belgium in 1952.

Ken Wood of Britain also broke the old two-mile record by finishing second to Iharos in 8 minutes 34.8 seconds.

The Hungarian clerk had suffered air sickness flying from Budapest Friday and thus missed the first-minute mile of Saturday.

Another Hungarian, Laszlo Tabori—who usually runs second to Iharos in mile competition, won the mile race Saturday in which three runners were clocked under four minutes for the first time in history.

Tabori was timed in 3:59 while Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson of Britain followed, both in 3:59.8. Iharis finished about six yards ahead of Wood while the third-place man, Brian Barratt of Britain, finished third about six yards behind but he turned in the exceptionally good time of 4:45.8.

British Rail Strikers Ignore Eden's Back-to-Work Appeal

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Britain faced its gravest industrial crisis since 1926 today as 67,000 striking railwaymen defied Prime Minister Eden's back-to-work appeal.

Eden's call in an emergency Sunday broadcast got a flat rejection from Albert Hallworth, assistant general secretary of the striking railwaymen's Associated society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. Hallworth defiantly declared:

"We can and will hold out for at least three months. We are determined to see this thing through."

Eden in his broadcast asserted that his Conservative government, re-elected to another five-year term last week, will "do all we can to protect the nation from the worst effects of the strike."

"The government," he said, "will not hesitate to obtain any further power that may be necessary for this purpose."

The rail spirit Saturday midnight. In the first big rail walkout since the general strike of 1926, to back up demands for pay boosts that would give them more of a differential over other train workers.

During Sunday only 200 of 2,600 scheduled mainline trains left the sheds. They were manned by members of the rival National Union of Railwaymen, to which the bulk of British rail workers in other categories belong. The NUR has stood aloof from the current dispute.

Tens of thousands of Whitsun weekend holiday makers were stranded away from home. The big pinch was expected tonight as the long weekend winds up.

If the strike continues any length of time, industrial production will be paralyzed. A spokesman for the United Steel Cor. said its factories would be so piled up with finished products by the end of a week that "we shall have to start closing departments."

The state-owned railway system normally carries 1,000,000 tons of freight each day. On an ordinary weekday it operates 24,000 mainline and suburban passenger trains and 16,000 freight trains. A preliminary survey indicated about one-eighth of normal service could be maintained.

Eden's government announced it had taken emergency steps to ensure food supplies and sufficient fuel for the public services. But authorities urged the public to conserve light and power, to use available transport as little as possible, and to use postal, telegraph and telephone services sparingly.

The government said ample food stocks are available throughout the country and that special meat foods were transported by road. Plans have also been made to move essential foods usually carried by rail—such as milk for London.

The government warned that despite these precautions, it might have to impose severe restrictions on use of gas and electricity. Coal in Britain moves mainly by rail.

Eden said the government has provide 250 trucks to carry mails by highway.

At yet the governmpat spare-parts has made no move—or a general callout of troops, as was

Frost Labels Liberal Poster Absolute, Outright Dishonesty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost has come to the defence of his government's handling of the Ontario highways department irregularities with a strong election campaign speech labelling a Liberal advertisement as "absolute and outright dishonesty."

Noting that he couldn't discuss the subject in a more appropriate place than Fort William, where the highways scandals first came to light, he told a Lakehead Progressive Conservative rally Friday nights Saturday that he had never read "a sillier, a more dishonest advertisement in all my days."

He referred to a Liberal party advertisement on Saturday's newspapers asking "who got your $25,000,000?". He said it inferred that the people of Ontario had been duped in connection with road contracts.

"Such an inference is without foundation, untrue," he said. "The heading is completely and absolutely dishonest."

Elsewhere in the campaigning for the June 9 provincial general election, Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver, in meetings in Wellesley, in Waterloo North riding, called on the Conservatives to join hands with the Liberals who have the best chance of defeating the present administration.

CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald did not make a speech during the weekend. He was scheduled to address a Lakehead meeting, but cancelled when his wife had illness there was cancelled because of the sudden illness.

Premier Frost said Mr. Oliver "should be a specialist in the matter of overruns on highway construction." The premier said he had been a specialist in finding them overpayments when he was there before an unsuspecting audience."

Mr. Frost said in an earlier speech that overpayments were not just what the word implies, but an overrun is the difference between the amount of an awarded contract and the actual cost of the completed project.

Auto Union Cuts Guaranteed Wage Demand by Tenth

DETROIT (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. scheduled a Memorial Day bargaining session today with the union indicating a willingness to modify terms of its demand for a year-round wage.

The session opened Sunday to cut by more than 10 per cent the amount the company would be required to pay—a laid-off employee each week under the guaranteed annual wage proposal.

At the same time UAW President Walter Reuther accused the company of refusing to bargain in the "traditional give-and-take manner." Reuther declared the union was ready to make concessions to avert a strike if Ford would bargain on the guaranteed annual wage.

There was no comment from the company.

CHARGE DRIVER OF BUS WHICH TOOK 4 LIVES

$1,000 Bail Posted By Bus Company

TORONTO (CP)—Ray Hinan, 32-year-old Toronto bus driver, has been charged with criminal negligence in connection with a sub-urban West Hill bus-car collision in which the four persons in the car died.

Hinan, formerly of Peterborough appeared in court Saturday and was remanded to today. He was released on bail of $1,000 posted by the bus company.

Hinan, told police he was driving his Canadian Coach Lines bus towards Toronto at about 40 miles an hour when the car in front stopped without any warning even at a green light at an intersection just east of Toronto.

"I wrenched at the wheel to try to miss it but it was no good," Hinan said. "The corner of the bus hit it and with the back of the other my front wheel I was out of control."

Three men perished in the flaming wreckage, which was driven 120 feet into a lilac grove. A woman died on the way to hospital.

2 SOLDIERS AMONG DEAD

Killed were Mrs. Annie Matson, 65; her son-in-law Bernard A. Fox, 32, both of Toronto and two soldiers who are believed to have been hitchhiking to Galt from the Barnsfield camp near Kingston. Army officials identified the two as signalmen A. Porter, 19, of Galt and K. D. Whitt, 19, whose home is in the Maritimes.

Four passengers in the bus, bound for Toronto from Lindsay, praised the work of Hinan who helped them out of the bus through the emergency door when burning gasoline cut off their escape through the front door.

Passengers were Evelyn Ferguson, 22, and Bert Lee, Sask., both who were returning to Toronto; Sam Wilkin, R. of Lindsay, who is in training at the Hospital for Sick Children; and Frank Bubaglar 22, of Lindsay.

Toronto Bandit Robs Taxi Office

TORONTO (CP)—An armed bandit held up a taxicab dispatcher early today and escaped with $2,500 in cash and cheques.

Dispatcher Don Stanley told police he was alone on duty in the office of Metro Taxi when the bandit walked in. He held his gun on Stanley and then knocked the telephone out of a strongbox.

The bandit left within 15 minutes, three cab drivers came into the office but the gunman warned Stanley:

"Don't say a word or you've had it."

The gunman hid until the drivers left, then resumed his work. When he got the money he ordered Stanley to turn around and knocked him unconscious with a car jack.

Memorial Day Traffic Toll Mounts in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—With the deadliest hours still to come the mounting toll of traffic deaths on United States highways during the Memorial Day weekend prompted the National Safety Council to remark:

"The holiday traffic toll is proving tragically and needlessly on schedule."

The council had predicted traffic deaths would total 360 persons during the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight tonight.

An increasing number of accidents Sunday raised the total of deaths on the highways to 258 early today. That's meaning about 10 per cent ahead of last year's rate when the total was 362. The homegoing hours late today and tonight, when vacationers return from resort areas, may well see the toll surpass that of 1954.

Besides the traffic death list, 87 persons were hurt and 38 died in a variety of accidents, for a weekend total so far of 384.

Peiping Claims Men Suspected Of Spy Activities

Charges Have Long Since Been Denied by U. S.

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio said tonight a military tribunal of the Supreme Court had tried four American airmen and sentenced them to "immediate deportation."

The trial was held May 24. A Chinese language broadcast gave no details.

Peiping charged that the four "committed such criminal actions as flying their military aircraft into China's territorial air to conduct harassment and provocation."

CHARGES HAVE LONG SINCE BEEN DENIED

"Their crimes endangered the security of China and the peaceful life of the Chinese people," the broadcast continued.

The charges have long since been denied by the U. S. state department.

The broadcast identified them as Capt. Harold F. Fischer Jr., Lieut. Lyle W. Cameron, Lt.-Col. Edwin L. Heller and Capt. Roland W. Parks.

They are four American pilots shot down over North Korea during the Korean war.

The statement said they were "suspected of spy activities."

ELEVEN OTHERS HELD

Eleven other U. S. airmen are held in China. The 11 were given sentences up to 20 years.

The Red radio announcement did not say when and where the fliers would be returned. Most speculation has centred on Hong Kong or Panmunjom, Korea.

Fischer, 28, is a double jet ace with 10 MiGs to his credit in 66 combat hops. He was shot down April 7, 1952 near Suibo reservoir, North Korea.

MACKENZIE GLAD.

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP)—"This is the day I've been waiting for," Sqdn. Ldr. G. R. (Andy) MacKenzie of Montreal said today when told that four men imprisoned with him by the Chinese Reds are to be released.

The squadron leader, now based at the St. Hubert field near Montreal, said he was told that the United States airmen held with him at Mukden "probably will be handed over to Hong Kong"—the place where MacKenzie was turned free by the Communists last fall.

"Isn't it wonderful," the squadron leader said when told the news from Peiping.

"I've always thought they would be released and I hope it comes soon.

"I told their families when I visited them in the States after my return that there was no fear they would be executed. But I'm glad of course I couldn't give them any indication that they could expect the day to come."

OPEN SCOUT BUILDING

HAMILTON (CP) — Eight thousand Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies gathered Saturday for ceremonies marking the opening of the new $250,000 Scout building and headquarters. Lieutenant - Governor Breithaupt of Ontario took the salute at city hall and after the parade officially opened the building.

Father of Six Shoots His Wife Then Kills Self

SUDBURY (CP)—A father of six shot his wife to death as she lay asleep in bed with her young daughter Gerann, eight miles north of here, early Sunday, then killed himself with a rifle.

Police at Garson said William Lubin, 45-year-old variety store owner, shot his wife, Marion, 40, and himself apparently after a family quarrel. They said they found several empty beer bottles and a smashed whiskey bottle strewn about Lubin's five-room apartment, above the store.

SHOT IN BEDROOM

Police said Lubin walked into his daughter's bedroom, fired one shot into Mrs. Lubin's head, then placed the muzzle of the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger. He died beside his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Walford, operator of the Garson Taxi, located the bodies when they called with their heard two shots around 3:30 a.m. Then about two minutes later they heard Mrs. Lubin's screams and Jack Lubin, 13, ran downstairs to call for help.

Police said Lubin had been drinking in a beer parlor Saturday night and returned their drinking on returning home.

Besides Jack, the other children are Norma Inez, 18, William, 16, Lorna Marian, 4, Martin, 10, and Gordon, 6.

Smile Replaces Blind Tot's Tears As Helen Keller Lets Her 'See' Her

TOKYO (AP) — Gentle hands reached out to touch the face of the tiny five-year-old girl.

The child bowed her head.

"Never bend your head," came the soft advice. "Always hold it up. That is a sign of strength in the face."

Two of the world's blind had met in understanding — Helen Keller, who has spent all but 18 months of her 75 years in darkness, and Dorothy Ann Ciccoli, blind since birth.

Ever since Dorothy Ann was old enough to understand, her mother has held up Miss Keller as an ideal, mixing chapters from the life of the world famous deaf and blind lecturer-writer with fairy tales to encourage the youngster.

Sunday Mrs. Ciccoli, wife of an army major from Battle Creek, Mich., took her daughter to a reception tea.

Unable to get through the crowd of 300, Mrs. Ciccoli started describing Miss Keller to the child.

"But she's a fairy," she added softly, "I want to see Miss Keller."

Ivy Edmonds, 29, a reporter for the United States Army Stars and Stripes, heard the child. After working his way through the crowd to Miss Keller's lifelong companion, Miss Polly Thompson, he whispered the child's wish.

Miss Keller insisted the crowd make room for the little girl.

Then she bent forward and gently touched the child's face.

The little girl reached upward, hesitated, then traced the worn, kindly face with her fingertips. A brilliant smile replaced the tears.

Miss Keller's face beamed, her voice whispered:

"Mother, I saw her. I saw Helen Keller."

RESIDENT-FINDS FOUR-LEAF CLOVER AND ONE FIVE-LEAF

If fable is borne out, John McCaul, who lives at Cannilton, should be in for a rather fabulous run of luck.

For Mr. McCaul this morning found a four-leaf clover — then seconds afterwards stooped to pluck a five-leaved specimen on the same spot.

Both rare sheafs of the weed were found by Mr. McCaul among the docks on Wharf St. after he had hauled a boat up onto dry land.

Both pieces of clover now are resting at the side of the McCaul household, result of which may mean that the McCauls may also soon be in clover.

Impressive Services Mark St. Thomas' 100th Anniversary Of Laying of Cornerstone

Impressive morning and evening services marked St. Thomas' Church celebration of the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone on Sunday.

In the morning the service was conducted by the rector, the Rev. W. J. Robinson, B.A., assisted by the Rev. J. Canterell. His Lordship the Bishop of Ontario, the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Ph.D., D.D., was the special preacher at the evening service.

The morning service was marked with the presence of Moira Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 11, with Wpr. Bro. Ray Cragg in charge. Mr. Grant read one of the Scripture lessons. The lodge is that whose fraternal forebears assisted in the laying of the cornerstone a century ago. It is believed it was known as Moira Lodge, No. 4, at that time.

Mr. Robinson extended a warm welcome to the congregation, recalling the century-old ceremonies when the lodge assisted with the St. George's Society, clergy and other notables formally laid the stone.

LETTER FROM BRIDGE ST.

The rector also expressed warm appreciation for the letter received from the Rev. H. M. Davis, pastor of Bridge St. United Church, which conveyed the sincere congratulations of a "neighborly congregation" which "is pleased to know that the fine spirit of co-operation and friendliness which has evidenced will continue. He also expressed a warm welcome to the rector or Bishop of Ontario, the Most Rev. John Lyons, who was present.

The evening service was featured with the presence of a large number of the congregation of Christ Church, which cancelled its service to enable the parishioners to join St. Thomas' in celebrating the anniversary occasion. Rev. Mr. Evans preach. The Ven. J. B. Creegan and the Rev. E. F. Smith assisted in the service.

Following the evening service the congregation assembled to hear a special liturgical organ and choir recital offered by the church organist and choir master, Mr. Lewis Bell, and the choir. It was well attended.

Mr. Robinson in his morning address, reminded the congregation that in the building of the church "none of us had anything to do save that it was done for us by the foresight, thinking, courage and sacrifice of those who handed it to us as our heritage.

"It is one of the finer things given us for our salvation and it is the privilege of every St. Thomas Christ is the foundation of religion and just as the cornerstone was used in this church so was religion given us by God to be the only cornerstone and support of life.

"St. Thomas Church has always been a church of God," the Rev. Robinson said. "Here, many young people have been confirmed. Thousands have walked to the communion rail. People of this district over a century have endeavored to teach people to live the religion of Jesus Christ and to make Him the true foundation of this church, for no other foundation man can lay as is laid in Jesus."

HISTORY IN CHURCH

The rector said there is a parable in the church in that the cornerstone was placed just as is Jesus Christ. The fact that the church burned down in 1879 and was restored on the same cornerstone is yet another parable.

"The fire of destruction should cause us to tear down and rebuild on the cornerstone of Jesus."

He recalled the wisdom of nearly two thousand years ago. "The holy spirit of the disciples of that day should be ours." If so, certain things should happen in the future. We should constantly be in touch with God and mold ourselves to His teachings. There should be better family spirit, a fellowship guided by God so that others will know how to build a family of Jesus Christ. There should be a great desire to go out and give the gospel to the world."

Mr. Robinson deplored the fact that in 134 years of service, St. Thomas had only one young man offer to give his life to the priesthood.

"We have at our command the powers of the holy spirit," the rector concluded. "It is our segment to link the congregations who visit this church in the future are so abundantly blessed by the holy spirit, they will have the urge to take the gospel to a world which so really needs it."

In his evening service address Bishop Evans brought greetings from all churches of the diocese and from the Bishop himself to St. Thomas' a life of continuous service in the years to come as has been witnessed in the past. He spoke on the gift of the Holy Ghost to the church in the early years and today.

"Many," he said, "are turning to the church today to seek security and comfort against the fears of the world about them. When the Lord spoke of the Holy Ghost as a "Comforter" in the early days He meant it not as a comfort in the sense of the church set against all the troubles of life. The world needs "comfort" today not in the sense of the word but in a sense of power for this is an age of power, a word that means something powerful, strong."

LAY IN TINY THINGS

Bishop Evans referred to Louis Pasteur, whose efforts in bio-chemistry discovered that the power of life and death lay in the tiny things. "It is the tiny things that ultimately decide fate," he said. "The atom possesses immense destructive power."

"It was this power that Jesus imparted to His twelve disciples. They had nothing. The knew the value of money for what man would sell his friend for thirty pieces of silver but they went out and founded a church that spread all over the world.

"With a terrific impact on public morale, and church attendance in Europe, the church in this country must be used in missionary work at home all over again," the Bishop said. "Every possible opportunity and possible but with the comfort of the Holy Ghost, the church is imparting strength we shall be equal to it.

"I hope St. Thomas' will not become complacent," Bishop Evans concluded. "It will rest upon the Holy Ghost to enable it to grow and present to all the challenge and power of Christ and be witnesses to His loving care at home and by prayers and gifts to those in the uttermost parts of the earth."

Credit Union League Hears Talk on Insurance

The monthly meeting of the Quinte District Chapter of the Ontario Credit Union League was held recently in the Canadian Legion War Vager in the chair. The guest speaker was Mr. Harold Bender, representing the Co-operative Insurance Association. He was introduced by the chapter president Garn Bowlby.

Mr. Bennett said that the co-operative insurance business began in 1946 to supply the casualty and automobile insurance needs of credit union members and their families and relatives. It was another phase in the co-operative way of living whereby members help each other.

He said that C.I.A. endeavored to provide insurance to its members at cost and to cut those costs as much as possible.

Under present laws Insurance companies are required to have assets behind them and this share capital was obtained from the various co-operative organizations such as credit unions, farm co-operatives and this money was in turn re-invested in these co-operative organizations, he said.

VOLUNTARY WORK

Mr. Bennett said that there were 35,000 policies presently in force and that the insurance on farm business such as policies for credit union members amounted to a little over fifty per cent and was growing rapidly. Business men's credit unions, he said was carried out mainly by voluntary contributions from the credit union who did the work without remuneration as a service to their members.

During a question and answer period Mr. Bennett outlined the rate structure on a typical basis which was found to be favorable for the amount to be given.

During the business session the discussion centered on the possibility of publishing of chapter bulletin and a committee of four members was set up to investigate this question and report back.

MOVEMENT GROWING

The credit union movement is making progress in this part of Ontario. In Belleville alone there are seven credit unions in active operation. Trenton has three, Kingston has two and Port Hope one. A charter has been applied for from the provincial government for a credit union in Picton and there is talk of four new groups considering forming one.

The credit union movement was formed up to give its members a method of saving at a reasonable rate of interest and to encourage thrift amongst its members by inviting them to invest in shares in their own credit union. Most credit unions insure their members' savings against death or disability and also their personal loans. Thus in the event of death of a member his family receives an amount twice the value of his savings and the insurance company pays off any outstanding portion of any loan the member may have from his credit union.

The credit unions in Belleville are all employees groups and the seven are formed in them from the following groups: CNR, Northern Electric, Civil Servants, Hospital, Income Tax, Stephens-Adamson, Parsnite Laboratory and Dominion Civil Servants. In Trenton two are from employees groups: CPR, and Dominion Civil Servants, whilst a third is from St. Peter's parish. In Kingston there are Dominion Civil Servants and Aluminum Company of Canada, while the Port Hope credit union is a community credit union as is the one from Madoc.

The local credit unions got together and formed up a chapter of the Ontario Credit Union League. The chapter is called the Quinte and District Chapter and is formed to cover all credit unions within an approximate 25-mile radius of Belleville.

The purpose of the chapter is to get the members of the various credit unions together for exchange of ideas and also for education of the members of the various credit unions in their formative stages in order to get them started on the right lines.

Prince Edward Dist. Masons Hold Annual Church Service

Amid brilliant weather conditions upwards of 400 members of the 17 lodges comprising Prince Edward District, A.F. and A.M., marched to the annual divine service at Christ Church Sunday afternoon.

A capacity-filled church heard the district chaplain, Bro. the Rev. J. Hommerson, B.A., D.D., of Brighton United Church, deliver an inspiring address on "What is man that thou art mindful of him?"

Headed by parade marshal, Rt. Wor. Bro. Jerald Anderson, assisted by the directors of ceremonies of the 17 participating lodges the parade moved off the grounds of Queen Mary School and marched to the church. Members of the church congregation and others filled the edifice to capacity.

ALL LODGES REPRESENTED

All lodges in the Prince Edward district were represented with members parading in order of rank. Some of the parade were Master Masons and junior officers, followed by Masters, Past Masters and senior lodge officials. "Senior officers sat in the front row of the centre aisle of the church. Over-all in charge was Rt. Wor. Bro. Hubert McConnell, Deputy Grand District Master, Brighton, Ont.

The Rev. J. Hommerson, rector of the church, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Bro. Cecil E. Smith. Mr. Creegan prior to the service proper expressed a welcome to the visiting Masonic brethren, assuring them they always would be welcome at Christ Church.

Beautiful organ music played during the service lesson: District Deputy Grand Master Hubert McConnell read the second Scripture lesson. The Rev. A. S. McConnell, rector of St. George's Church in Trenton, said prayers, with Wor. Bro. J. M. Brownlie, former district chaplain, of Harmora, giving the closing prayers and giving the blessing.

Preaching his text from the Eighth Psalm, "What is man that thou are mindful of him?" Mr. Hommerson said: "How much" know" answers have come from many sources as to what man is. He quoted university student's answer to the question "What is Life?" One said it is a jail sentence given for the sin of being born. Another said it was a joke that was not even funny.

"You are not orphans in an orphan world," he said. "You are not like Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin who "just grew up." You are not that. You have come in a world with other people and as builders the shadows of what you create will be the shadows of your deeds.

Dairy Entered, Undisclosed Amount Taken

Safe breakers made off with an undisclosed amount of money early Sunday morning after smashing open the safe in the office of the Acme Farmers Dairy plant at 45 Front Street south.

City police constables K. Wright and J. Minaker discovered that entrance had been gained to the building, while making a routine patrol at 5.00 a.m. Sunday.

The yeggs entered the plant through the front door some time between 3.00 and 5.00 a.m. They broke through to the back of the safe. No explosives were used and no tools were left at the scene.

Police have given no estimate of the number of men involved and company officials declined to estimate loss until they have had a chance to audit the records.

Detective Harold Reid investigated.

Car Plunges Into 16 Feet Of Water as Brakes Release

TRENTON (Special) — An epidemic of traffic accidents in which young children were involved, but none was seriously injured continued to a busy week-end in the local police department.

One young driver experienced the unfortunate luck of being in charge of the family car when it rolled down Elgin Street and dropped out of sight in deep water in the river.

The latter have been difficult for Barry Hart, 16, of Trenton, to explain to his mother, Mrs. Ila Hart, how the accident happened.

The report in the police records describes the driver of applying the emergency brake when he parked his mother's car at the side of Cobley and VanLuven's store yesterday. The machine then went around to the back of Carr's store and suddenly he noticed that the car was in front of his eyes, heading for the water. The lad made a futile attempt to find a rope on the rear bumper of the car slowly edging into deeper water. Finally the car plunged into 16 feet of water and turned over on its top.

Attempts to recover the sunken auto by tow truck failed yesterday. Grapplers, with a diver today, however, renewed efforts to raise the water-soaked machine.

Walter Belnap, 19, of 40 College, Street, told police something went wrong with the steering when his car swerved from the road across the street and knocked down a lamp post east of Kay's factory on Dundas St. East.

NO ONE INJURED

Police indicated it was amazing all of the damage done when the car escaped without getting hurt when the steel post fell on the hood. The car was towed in to cave in under the weight. Belnap was charged with driving on Dundas Street after pulling out of Marmora Street when the car suddenly started to skid down hill in the opposite direction. Passengers in the car included Betty Caselman, Wanda Belnap and Margaret MacIsaac.

Four-year-old Larry Brant ran from the sidewalk into the side of a car driven by Donald Couture of Mill St., Frankford, on Saturday. The child, however, suffered no ill effects and was allowed to return home to his parents after an examination by Dr. J. W. Farley. The accident happened on Front Street, at Water Street.

Paola Lattanzi, 30, of Trenton, was thrown from his motorcycle when it collided with a car driven by Mrs. Grace M. Read, Trenton. The car driver and two witnesses claim the car's directional lights were operating at the time the driver was turning into his driveway at 100 Marmora St. Lattanzi had his pants and shirt torn and suffered abrasions on the left cheek, both elbows and left shoulder. His motorcycle needs at $75 repair job, police estimate.

Clarence Wales, 4½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Wales, of King Street, Trenton, suffered skinned knees and a cut on the upper lip when she ran from in front of a car into the path of a car driven by Gerald Clarence Llewellyn, RCAF, 6 RD, Trenton. Both the girl had been at Sunday school and caught a ride home with Llewellyn. She alighted opposite her parents' home and was making her way across the street when hit. Dr. E. W. Dow treated the injuries.

NICE SALMON CAUGHT

Wesley Miller, of Trenton, came out second best on a fishing trip to New Brunswick recently with a group of Canadian and American businessmen. The Trenton enthusiast landed a 19-pound Salmon from the Miramichi River, 30 miles from Chatham, New Brunswick; about the largest size in the season's record. Another member of the party landed a 28-pounder with his seven-ounce fly rod and that beauty reached Trenton as a gift to Mr. Alyea's wife.

Kinsmen's Band Members Enjoy Varied Program

The Kinsmen's Boys' Band of Belleville held their first annual picnic at Roblin's Lake over the week-end with the members of the band and their parents and families enjoying a varied program.

Host and hostess, Don and Hazel McEvoy, of Elmdale Cottage", provided facilities for the affair.

Bandmaster Alf Cooper conducted the picnic with the aid of bandmen Russ Soule and Melvin Grandmore, while Mrs. Neil Trevaine was in charge of the refreshments.

During the evening bandmaster Cooper and band manager Orliff Lloyd expressed their sincere thanks on behalf of the band to merchants for their donations of refreshments and prizes.

Deer Sighted City Outskirts

A deer was sighted this morning on the outskirts of the city.

This deer, intact, on all fours, and moving under its own steam is first to be seen in such a condition in many years. Usually the animals are fender ornaments for sportsmen's cars in the late fall.

Allan Stapley, of 50 Cannifton Road, spotted the doe in his yard while eating breakfast about 6.30 this morning. He watched the doe for about five minutes before it moved off into a small patch of woods to the north of his property located in the general direction of Canniffon.

Yes, skeptics, there is plenty of light at 6.30 a.m. No skeptics, the man's eyesight is good. Yes, skeptics, it was a deer.

Put down that gun.

FROST LABELS

He said Mr. Oliver had been a member of the Hepburn government whose "over-runs" were 25 per cent larger than those of the present government.

Mr. Frost said his government had instituted modern methods of highway engineering and planning and had managed through "good business practice" to cut the overruns to very little.

Mr. Oliver, speaking to about 120 persons, predicted the CCF will do no better in this election than in 1951, when they elected two members.

"JOIN HANDS"

"I would hope in this election," he said, "that the CCF people, many of whom are sincere supporters of that party, would join hands with the Liberal party, which has by far the best chance of defeating the government."

He said the present government has been in power because of divided opposition.

Mr. Oliver also said that Mr. Frost, if elected, has no intention of remaining premier for the length of the parliamentary term. Mr. Frost, he said, plans to relinquish the post of premier if he is re-elected and move to Ottawa as leader of the federal Progressive Conservative party.

He said it is the intention of Mr. Frost to "go down to Ottawa just as George Drew did". Mr. Drew would give up his post as leader of the federal party to become chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Mr. Oliver suggested.

ASKS STATEMENT

He called on the premier to "tell us down on the premises" Mr. Oliver said. The Progressive Conservatives in Ontario had to be alone, but for the good of the whole province.

The Liberal leader also put in a brief appearance Saturday afternoon at a Liberal Association picnic at Ipperwash beach on Lake Huron. He speaks at Kingston today.

Returning Officer Says Enumerators Did Fine Jobs

Enumerators in Belleville and Trenton, who canvassed for preparations of the voters' list for the forthcoming provincial election did an exceptionally fine job, according to M. C. Burgess, returning officer for Hastings West.

In fact, so well did they do their jobs that only 23 names were added in Belleville and Trenton as result of sittings last week of the revising officers in the two centres. Mr. Burgess noted that only 12 names were added in Belleville and 11 in Trenton.

"The enumerators did a remarkable job," Mr. Burgess noted. "In fact it was the best job of enumerating I have seen during my experience as returning officer."

Instructions given to the enumerators by the canvass were in a large measure responsible for the few omissions in taking names.

Deputy returning officers and poll clerks will be sworn in Belleville and Trenton will meet to receive instructions this evening at the court room in the county court house. The meeting will get underway at 8 o'clock.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD EXECUTIVE?

A good executive must be a fast man with a buck.

That, at least, is the inference to be drawn from advice given by a panel of four experts at a regional meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, held in Toronto recently.

The Jaycees, as these junior-model go-getters are happy to call themselves, received instructions on everything from picking a wife to learning to live with the boss.

It should surprise nobody, however, to learn that one of the key secrets to success is handling money properly.

The successful executive, the panel declared, must live according to his income.

This conjured up visions of a thrifty, wholesome life in the suburbs, painstakingly saving for the day when the one-pip lieutenant becomes a full-fledged captain of industry, or perhaps a best-selling general of finance.

This, however, is the wrong picture. Today the executive's life comes in technicolor. When picking a wife he must select one who is ready to move to Aklavik in the morning, after spending the previous night babysitting while her husband was hitting the night spots with out-of-town buyers. Naturally, therefore, living according to one's income is not the same thing as what was meant in the past by living within one's income. Today "according to" means "up to."

But let Edwin C. Phillips, vice-president of Trane Co. of Canada Ltd., straighten us out. "A man making $10,000, he said, should live like a $10,000 man. This "is not a matter of snobbishness." "The executive is doing his company a disservice if he drives an old hack, lives in a cheap flat." Mr. Phillips was talking to the assembled throng that makes a $10,000 man live like a $5,000 one, or drive a car that is wearing out and shouldn't be on the road, should grab an executive job and make him mean and parsimonious, without the breadth of thought an executive needs.

There is no suggestion here that a man must spend $10,000 a year if he wishes to avoid driving an old hack or living in a cheap flat, a suggestion which, for the sake of executives everywhere, it might be just as well to keep from the ears of their leaders, who on other occasions have been told with emphasis that a man and his family can enjoy a life of luxury on considerably less than $5,000 a year.

On this occasion, though, Mr. Phillips was talking to executives or would-be executives and what is more to the point than the reference to the old hack and cheap flat is his enunciation of a $5,000-a-year style of living for them. Evidently it is undesirable that an executive should endeavor to save a substantial part of his salary with the aim of becoming an employer, rather than remaining an employee. There is no breadth of thought in a man who is willing to sacrifice a few pleasures today in order to help himself and his family a more prosperous future tomorrow.

A RIDICULOUS SUGGESTION

Euthanasia, or mercy-killing, is a highly controversial subject.

Clearly are many whose religious beliefs make such a practice abhorrent.

Many with no religious objections will still oppose the practice.

On the other hand, it is unquestionably true that there is considerable public sympathy for those doctors or close relatives who, upon occasion, are brought before the courts for causing death for pity.

Surely, however, few among even the most convinced advocates of mercy-killing will have much sympathy for a suggestion by Prof. Glanville Williams of London University, that such legislation to protect a doctor acting in conviction on any charge "for an act done intentionally to accelerate the death of a person who was seriously ill, unless it be proved that the act was not done in good faith with the consent of the patient and with the purpose of preventing further pain by a person who was believed by the doctor to be an incurable disease."

This is placing the burden of proof on the Crown with a vengeance! Almost anybody could be murdered in his bed by his doctor under such legislation, without the doctor being in any great danger of the law. That few doctors would turn murderers is beside the point. If euthanasia is to be permitted by a civilized country, surely it should be done under stringent regulations placing the burden of proof that the act was indeed performed for reasons of mercy on the person performing it.

HOW TO BURN A FOREST

We all know the type of man who grinds his cigaret out on your carpet. We have most of us suffered from the man who leaves a cigaret burning on our mantelpiece or favorite piece of furniture.

We know the careless way he throws away a match and taps out his pipe on his heel. This is the man who is setting the brush fires which are now costing taxpayers untold thousands of dollars.

The man who is careless at home or when visiting is doubly careless when he is in the bush. To him, the whole world is an ashtray, and he couldn't care less what anyone thinks about him or his dirty habits. (Sault Ste. Marie Star.)

MEMORIAL DAY

This for all, their last bequest:
Liberty for the oppressed,
Freedom from the tyrant's rule,
Open doors to church and school,
These, their precious gifts, we view
In the flag's red, white and blue.

In Old Glory overhead
Lives remembrance of our dead.
Every joy that freedom gives
Shines within our banner's folds.
Their memorial down the years
In the Stars and Stripes appears.

This remember, passing by:
'Twas for us they dared to die.

Pause a moment through the day
Grateful words to them to say.
Flag and flower above them place.
Pray the Lord to grant them
grace.
And for freedom, come what may,
Vow to be as brave as they.
Just so long as men are free
They will live in memory.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed Reed

Letter to the Editor

CITY AFFAIRS

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

We seem to have a very capable city engineer appointed by popular vote to run the affairs of this expanding City. There is much to be done. Are they doing it or is too much time taken up arguing about unimportant details? Perhaps the Mayor and some of the Aldermen who were so good-natured, but rash at election time, could take time off, on CBC Q or in the Press, to let us know what has been accomplished during their almost half year in office, and what, if any are their aspirations for the next, or remaining half Year?

What is being done about Flood Control or Sewage Disposal? In the Province-planned street with the much needed four lane highway it seems to be almost impossible to get between here and Newcastle. Is it going to stay that way for twenty years like the gates they commenced but never finished near Brockville? Are the Subdivisions going to stand idly by and allow them to spread all their problems on highways running North and West, from Toronto with nothing here but a couple of bus stops for cars on wheels? I know some additional Industries have been awarded. When will they commence work and will they quit like they did before we had them and gravelled? Will this road be given a resurfacing during the life time of any Belleville citizen now living? If so, when?

Are we going to keep in the matter of traffic control? Congestion has become every day our rush hours some of us living in the West End, have to Peter Piper chimee Avenue. Those going east can go home by the Fair Grounds and Victoria Park or Dundas. A new bridge connecting East and West Bridge Streets appears to be a necessity. Will it ever be considered openly? No use on figuring on relief from the four lane highway. On the only highway we have between Toronto and Montreal the bridge at Trenton says "use this by your own risk" so as to that effect. Is there any possibility of arranging parking space for commuters on the four lane business men's cars? Nearly everybody has a car nowadays and there is no place to park it. Must we all pay very high taxes for practically non-existent parking?

If the City Hall clerks can Present Assessment Rolls, and themselves against the Arena, have we, who pay the shot, not got equal rights? Although I should not parking machine money be set aside for parking meters, parking space or is it entirely a money making business and not a traditional taxation. The public might just as well quit trying to attend City Hall meetings as there is no room for parking. Same applies to Exhibition Park. Is it a horse show or even getting tangled up in Sunday Church traffic. Could not those spaces be used used for parking cars? It would not disturb the horses any. There would probably be glad to see you attend. Why not gravel in the Pinnacle Street available for at a very reasonable price and make a parking space? Something it is too late.

The sewage proper is almost completely built up. Are we doing anything about expansion? If so, what? Are we going to continue to build houses and (separately) factories and incidentally some park lands, and then have a big ponding centre.

Could they be persuaded to quit naming new streets "Mary", "John", "Margaret" and "Willie" we have several of those now. Might I suggest Trafalgar, Ironsides, Meadowlea, London, Edinburgh, Eden—anything but "Maggie" and "Willie".

Of course, most of our tax money is being spent on schooling — and rightly so. That always comes after we leave school — of which more anon.

Yours very truly,
Jamieson Bone.

Sneak Parkers Are Problems

(Winnipeg Tribune)

In downtown Vancouver parking lot poaching has reached such a pass that three such parking lots banded together and set up patrols. When these patrols find unauthorized cars, the cars are towed away to a central lot.

Here they are chained until the owner pays both towing charges and parking fees. Whether this is legal or not has yet to be tested. But it is being done.

Surely shouldn't those who rent parking spaces — and at high rents these days — be protected from cowbird interlopers?

Many Changes In Road Rules

(Ottawa Journal)

Motor vehicle drivers who want to keep within the law and avoid troubles and arguments have a lot of new things to learn, as two 30 amendments to Ontario's Highway Traffic Act become effective, changing many of the "rules of the road." Some of these are both important and drastic.

The long-accepted rule of right-of-way where side roads cross a through highway no longer holds good. In future traffic on the main highway will have right of way at all times. There are new and stiffer provisions covering passing vehicles overtaken on the highway, driving to the left of the centre line, passing on grades or curves or within 100 feet of bridges. It is forbidden to pass another car within 100 feet of a level crossing or the approaches thereto. Fines are increased and can be as high as $500.

The driver who mixes alcohol and gasoline in future, and gets convicted, will face a minimum license suspension of six months.

Something totally new for Ontario drivers is introduced with the act. As soon as regulations regarding proper signals on the bus have been adopted the motor vehicles will be required to come to a full stop when they overtake a school bus which is loading or unloading children.

The legislation provides more specific regulations on the subject of "dangerous driving." This is clearly visible at 500 feet, render driving and discernible at 200 feet. All bicycles on the highway after dark must have headlights, a red reflector on the rear, and rear and reflective material attached to the pedals. Motor vehicles must walk on the left side, facing traffic. All new cars sold after July, 1956, must have a left turn-signalling device, which will be required on all motor vehicles after July, 1956. Used car dealers will be required to provide owners with a certificate of mechanical fitness.

The fact these amendments are so sweeping they should be required reading for all drivers. Those who do not may avoid future trouble should obtain a copy.

Need Railway Down North

(Northern Miner)

Great news was made in the House of Commons when Hon. Jean Lesage, Minister of Northern Affairs, said that plans were afoot to build a railway to Pine Point, on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. These plans are nearing completion, he indicated.

A 430-mile railway would have as its main target the development of the Pine Point lead-zinc deposits, found 57 years ago by prospector Tom Ingram, of Fort Providence. These are very extensive, and are believed to constitute the largest undeveloped lead-zinc field in the world today. Pine Point is in the Mackenzie District, in the Great Tri-State field, for long the backbone of American lead-zinc production. Its deposits are in rocks geologically and also the leading European area, that of Upper Silesia. Pine Point is under the control of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, the world's lead-zinc producer in the world, and is developing the property under the parent for it is admittedly good for 10,000 tons of ore per day.

Beyond the magnificent mining objective, the railway extension would have tremendous strategic value in the defence of North America. Hon. Mr. Lesage referred to "down north" and nothing so all-embracing as the Russian system.

The road would give a tremendous impetus to the opening up of the Northwest Territories for it would put railway cars into the heart of supply stretch of what lands beyond Peace River. Here, then, is a railway project of immediate need and one that will attract fire for all Canada.

Rt. Hon. George Drew, Opposition Leader, urged the government to proceed with the project upon the building of this line. Our mineral resources are "fantastic", and the minister's task is not "staggering", he declared.

All the railways that have been built toward mining objectives in Canada have done extremely well. Ontario's northern development nearly doubled the wealth of Toronto in a single year. The building of Ontario the leading province of the Dominion. The Alaska Quebec iron road, we are ready to guarantee, will develop enormous other mineral resources. The Manitoba railway extensions have found one mine after another.

Mr. Lesage's is to be warmly applauded for his enthusiastic advocacy of the Pine Point line and it is to be greatly hoped that not only will he still impede the completion of something that will mean a fresh attack of prosperity to the Canadian West.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man who lost his young son last summer in a boating accident has written the Packsack.

"Write one of your little pieces," he says. "But be easily clipped out of the paper and can be tacked to the wall in every summer cottage in the country. Some kids can see it over and over again. And make it about this:

"If you're upset from a boat or canoe, just hang on. Don't try to swim.

"Hang on until help comes, or until the boat can be drifted ashore."

"There were three boys in an outboard outfit. I had too much engine, as so many skiffs have nowadays, and on a turn, the skiff capsized. Two of the boys could not swim and clung to the boat. The boy, a good swimmer, gallantly decided to swim to shore, a mere hundred yards, and go for help before the parents found out about the upset. Whether the excitement of the accident had exhausted more of his strength than he realized, or whether he got a cramp, we will never know. But he never made the shore. Not fifteen minutes later, the wind had blown the upset boat and the other two boys to shore. But it was too late when we got to him.

"Write one of your little pieces," ed. I am all in favor of every child in Canada being taught to swim and to be at ease in the water. But I believe no child should be taught to swim until the principle of hanging onto an upset craft had first been thoroughly drilled into him."

For four dollars, a friend of mine in the boat and canoe rental business at a summer resort got himself a large rubber stamp with the words: "If Upset, Hang On. Don't Swim." And with universal ink, which won't wash or fade, he stamped this slogan conspicuously on every boat and canoe, paddle and oar in his establishment. Customers in the area caught on and brought their craft in to be stamped.

"We have had a dozen upsets in the past three years," he say, "but so far not a serious accident. I am convinced the slogan works".

Personal Health Talks

One Can't Impugn With Impunity

Tonsillectomy in the overwhelming majority of instances is followed by marked improvement in the health of the patient. In fact, it has been my experience, says Paul Herzog, M.D., in a letter to his home town paper, that in the large majority of children, recovery is prompt, thorough, and gains in weight and vigor follow. The over-all death rate from tonsillectomies is extremely low, and not at all as high as Dr. Brady would have the public believe.

Tonsillectomy is so rarely fatal, Dr. Herzog would have the public believe, that to condemn the operation, as I do, when the benefits accrued are so great and the hazards so minimal is "impugning the medical profession."

Dr. Herzog describes tonsillotomy, which I recommend instead of the major operation for enlarged tonsils in children, as "removal of part of the tonsil," and dismisses it as "obsolete." He opines that an article of mine condemning tonsillectomy "reveals abysmal ignorance."

If you can still bear me, folks, I send this message from away down here in the abyss: Week by week, as the reports of fatalities from this unnecessary major operation come in, I become more and more prejudiced against it.

The fact such scattered fatalities do occur, unnecessary, as I believe, far outweighs the improvement in health and gain in weight and vigor which are commonly ascribed to the major operation.

Children usually gain steadily in weight and vigor as they grow, and this gain usually continues after the brief retardation of growth occasioned by illness, injury or major operation. However, there can be no doubt that the benefits accrued, of the child survives the operation, are equal to any benefits accrued from tonsillotomy.

I have yet to hear of a fatality from tonsillotomy.

Defenders of the major operation, tonsillectomy, ignore two counts in my indictment of tonsillectomy, namely, (1) the most frequent fatalities are the record in regard to the effect of tonsillectomy upon the frequency of allergic attacks in school children, and (2) reports on record showing that in most instances tonsillectomy leaves portions of tonsil in the throat and in some instances portions of throat muscle are removed along with the portions of tonsil included in the dissection.

Since I have aired these charges in the public prints the everready operators have not sounded off so loudly as they formerly about the importance of "getting every bit of tonsil"—as they do when they operate. Dr. Herzog is modest about this. When I indicated that tonsillectomy, removal of part of the tonsil, is inadequate, regardless of the circumstances, he implies that tonsilphoid (tonsil) tissue in itself is beneficial or at least is very harmful to the child's health.

I'm afraid a good many doctors will specialize harbor some such notion and I impugn them for it.

Incidentally, because their colleagues are likely to charge that they "impugn the profession." I don't blame 'em. If I were in practice today I'd keep my mouth shut.

OUR WONDERFUL NEIGHBORS

We had a twister in our town recently. It swooped out of the west, skipped over some broad farming country, and then struck a lumber yard and smashed with immeasurable force into the warehouse of a moving and storage company. Seven thousand square feet of wood swirled into space and two fortess-thick side walls crumbled.

This a college community. People are intent on research and the pursuit of knowledge. But what happened as a result of that twister caused everybody to exclaim in admiration. The community arose as one man and rushed to the assistance of the lumber yard and storage company. Competitors sent in their trucks. One of the business clubs adjourned immediately after lunch and all its men and members were carrying boxes and furniture and even a crowd that had been in banks in the community got in touch with the unfortunate firms and had them store the goods in the banks for any funds that might be required. People whose business was endangered seemed to forget their own loss and to be conscious only of the other's embarrassment and loss the storage company confronted. Lumber yards that had been competing vigorously with the unfortunate firm that was hit by the twister marshalled their forces and sent in all the aid they could.

Sometimes it takes a twister to make us realize how good our neighbors are.

FEMALE FAME

The New York Sun for February 21st 1897 had as one of its reader requests a note asking the newspaper to give the names of the American women liable to live longest in history. The ten names were: Martha Washington, Rebecca Rolfe (Pocahontas), Molly Pitcher, Dolly Madison, Mrs. Blackwell, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Priscilla Alden, Eliza Goose (Mother Goose), Susan B. and Lucretia Mott.

In giving the list, the Sun commented that had it had to say: The deeds and circumstances which made these women known above the ability of their sisters to live in an extremely interesting field of human investigation. We prefer that their names with high regard for their title to the place assigned, but with definite acknowledgement that there may be others."

The achievements of women in the 20th century are most remarkable. The entire world of opportunity has been thrown open for women to develop beyond their mettle, every where. Soviet Visitors Taken by Tito To Adriatic Isle

By EDDY GILMORE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito and his Soviet visitors stepped the publicity limelight today to thrash out the final declaration of their conference.

The Yugoslav president Sunday took Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and their party to the Adriatic island of Brioni, a favorite vacation spot of Tito.

Their chief task on the island was reported to be putting the final touches on a declaration of principles to govern future relations between Moscow and the former satellite who broke with Stalin and the Cominform in 1948.

NO SUCCESS

It appeared clear as the conference drew to a close that the Russians had not succeeded in wiping Yugoslavia back into the Soviet bloc nor had they been able to attract Tito to any armed neutrality such as they instituted in Austria.

Instead, Yugoslav officials reiterated previous statements that their government would maintain and strengthen its defensive alliance with Turkey and Greece, and also would keep aloof from any direct connection with Eastern or Western military alliances.

Plane Load Of Rhesus Monkeys Due From India

TORONTO (CP) — The first plane-load of rhesus monkeys coming directly from India to Canada was due at nearby Malton airport this morning.

The monkeys, being flown here by airwork Atlantic, an all-cargo airline, are destined for the Connaught laboratories at the University of Toronto where they will be used in the production of the Salk anti-polio vaccine.

The plane is carrying 1,000 of the Indian monkeys, whose kidneys are used in the production of Salk vaccine. Their arrival here will complete a 7,000-mile flight from New Delhi, with stops at London, Prestwick, Scotland, and Goose Bay, Labrador. Flight time was expected to total about 32 hours.

The monkeys are worth about $35 each and were purchased by the federal health department through the Canadian Commercial Corporation in India, a government-owned company. They are caught with nets in the jungles of India.

On arrival here, the special passengers will be checked by officials of the agriculture and health departments, then taken over by Connaught laboratories.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

The plan to import the monkeys in large numbers directly from India—they were brought here previously in small quantities from the United States—was drawn up at a meeting of representatives of the health, agriculture, trade and commerce and external affairs departments. The move was taken to speed production of the Salk vaccine.

Many thousands of the monkeys will be brought in under strict health supervision before the end of the year. Some will go to Connaught, others to the University of Montreal's Institute of Microbiology and to the federal hygiene laboratories at Ottawa.

So far, about 750,000 Canadian children have been inoculated with at least one shot of the vaccine. By July it is hoped at least 1,000,000 Canadian children will get at least two shots.

New Concept Yields Statistical Evidence Creation Has Pattern

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

MT. HAMILTON, Calif. (AP)—An enormous photographic map of the skies indicates the universe is an orderly system of galaxies in clusters, and that there also may be clusters of clusters.

This new concept yields for the first time statistical evidence that the whole of creation has a pattern, although only an indeterminate part of it has been seen.

It means there must be some great design in the way galaxies and their component stars, planets and dust clouds are arranged in space, and that they are not scattered haphazardly as some astronomers believed.

These findings are a by-product of a research job begun at the University of California's Lick observatory in 1947 and destined to continue almost to the turn of the next century.

CLUE TO CREATION

The degree or orderliness found is something not previously observed. It may have a bearing on how the universe was formed, said Dr. C. D. Shane, observatory director.

There is a widely held theory that the universe originated when an extremely dense mass of matter exploded with cosmic violence, speeding its particles through space, and that the particles recombined into stars and their satellites to form galaxies or milky ways.

Such an explosion conceivably could have produced galaxies in clusters and groups of clusters, said Dr. Shane, but he added that the findings do not yet warrant that conclusion.

The project began eight years ago when Dr. Shane and C. A. Wirtanen, assistant research astronomer, started photographing the sky from Mt. Hamilton. They covered nearly three-quarters of the heavens, because that much of the sky can be seen from any point on the globe.

They took 1,246 photographs, each 17 inches square. The job took seven years. Each film covers only a small piece of sky but when all are put together they make a picture of the heavens about the size of a skating rink floor.

COVER VAST DISTANCE

The telescope - camera used reached out as far as 200 million light years. A light year is the distance light will travel in one year, or about six million million miles, so the extreme range was about 12 billion trillion miles in all directions.

The complete picture shows clusters of galaxies all over the sky, Dr. Shane reported. Some clusters contain only a few dozen galaxies, others more than 1,000. Each galaxy probably is something our own, which is about 100,000 light years (600 billion million miles) across.

Some 30 or 40 years from now other astronomers will make an identical picture of the sky.

The most distant galaxies, although they may be moving at fantastic speeds, are so far away that they will show no change in position on the future films. But stars in our own galaxy, being relatively nearby, may show some movement by that time.

Any 9,112 x 9,112 images should yield clues as to how our pinwheel-like galaxy is rotating, and how fast.

Americans Will Be Asked To Join Motorcade

KINCARDINE (CP)—Americans who cross the border into Sarnia on their July 4 holiday will be invited to take part in a motorcade through western Ontario.

The motorcade, expected to include upwards of 500 automobiles, will swing from Sarnia along the Blue Water Highway to Owen Sound, passing through about 15 towns and villages.

It will stop at each community to enable civic officials to extol the virtues of their locality. Along the way, eating places will feature cheese and other Canadian foods.

The project has been launched by the Kincardine Chamber of Commerce.

Weddings

BISDEE—LOGUE

A lovely double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday morning, May 14, at nine o'clock, in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Marilyn Bernice Logue, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Logue, became the bride of Robert Carter Bisdee, also of Belleville, son of Mrs. Fred Pyles, of Watertown, N.Y., and the late Mr. Bisdee. The altar was beautifully adorned with lily-of-the-valley, tulips and lilacs.

The Rev. Peter Murphy officiated.

Mr. Robert Burke was the soloist, accompanied by the Rev. Sister Mary Wilhelmina at the console of the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of turquoise linen with white hat, and white accessories, and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Monica Pigden of Belleville, attended the bride, gowned in navy and white figured organdy, with pink and white accessories. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations, white mums and lily-of-the-valley.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Frank Bettiol, of Belleville; while Mr. Michael Smith, of Belleville, and Mr. Robert Colden of Corbyville, uncles of the bride, were ushers.

Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held at the Manor Hall. The bride's mother received, wearing a suit dress of navy with white and blue accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. The hall was tastefully decorated with spring flowers, pink streamers and white bells, for the occasion.

The bride's table was appointed with a three-tiered wedding cake centring the white damask cloth, and flanked by long, white tapers in silver holders.

Following the reception, the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New York State. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Tweed, Corbyville, Rosemore and Ameliasburg.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at several showers, a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Marjorie Colden at the home of Mrs. Carmen A. Caverley, Geddes Street; a miscellaneous shower, with Mrs. Laura Blair, Dundas Street East, as hostess, with the girls from the Avon Jewellers as guests; Miss Monica Pigden and Mrs. D. Jones were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. D. Jones, Lingham Street.

TETTA—DANDENEAU

Tall standards of white gladioli and Calla lilies formed a lovely setting in the chapel of St. Thomas Aquinas, Toronto, on Saturday, May 28, at 10.00 a.m., for a wedding of wide interest, when Milda Helene Dandeneau, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Leonard Dandeneau of Belleville, and the late Leonard Gregory Dandeneau, became the bride of Patrick Paul Tetta, of New York City, son of Mr. Patrick Charles Tetta. The Rev. Father Joseph McHenry, officiated.

Miss Margaret Mary Lyon rendered "Ave Maria", and Mr. Kenneth Carney "O Sacred Heart, O Love Divine".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Paul Leonard Dandeneau, wore a charming bridal gown of ice-blue mousseline-de-soie over satin, appliqued with Alencon lace sprinkled with paillettes. The figurine bodice was designed with an oval yoke of illusion, while Alencon lace formed the brief sleeves. The bouffant skirt drifted into a chapel train, and her matching veil of imported French illusion was caught by Mary Stuart cap of shirred tulle appliqued with lace petals dotted with seed pearls. Opera length gloves in white kid completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of white iris and lily-of-the-valley.

The attendants were Mrs. Lois R. Garcia of Killeen, Texas, Mrs. William D. Lee of Toronto, Miss Mary Doyle of Belleville, and Miss Mary Fiynn of Renfrew. All wore gowns of navy white lace over ice-blue taffeta, in waltz-length, fashioned with princess lines, featuring scoop necklines and three-quarter length sleeves. They wore matching headdresses, and carried bouquets of shaded pink carnations with forget-me-nots.

Mr. Louis Richard Garcia of Killeen, Texas, attended the bridegroom; Mr. Herbert Gormaly and Mr. Basil Mulligan, both of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Newman Club, Toronto, where the bride's mother, gowned in China-tea green with white accessories, received. The bridegroom's mother, assisted, wore in navy blue prepe with matching accessories.

The bride travelled in a linen costume of matching dress and coat in whisper beige with nutmeg colored accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Tetta will reside in New York City following their wedding trip to Lakes George and Placid, and the northeast United States.

Bathing Beauties With Geiger Counters New Tourist Style

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Bathing beauties with geiger counters are a new phenomenon of the Canadian tourist season says Barbara Lamb, a bright-eyed, pink-cheeked "girl Mountie" from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"It's the newest thing," says Barbara, who heads a group of 50 girls in bright tunics and berets who man 14 reception centres in Ontario, dish out aid, succor, information and advice to tourists.

The girls get their nickname from the fact that their colorful uniforms resemble those of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

PROSPECTING IS FUN

"People bring their geiger counters along with their fishing poles and golf clubs, and then when the fish aren't biting or their golf game is off, they go prospecting for uranium," says Barbara.

"Some of them find it, too. And that's all right with the government, because our tourists have the same right to file claims as do residents."

If you plan a prospecting vacation, however, says Barbara, it's smarter to buy your geiger counter after you get to Canada. Costs less, because of customs duties.

Barbara found the best season in the world's most glamorous jobs. She started with a reception assistant for the Ontario department of travel while she was still in college, being stationed at a different resort centre each summer. On graduation, she became a full-time assistant in the Toronto headquarters, and lately has been rushing around the United States, visiting travel shows and making television appearances, all with a assertions about the glories of Canada in general and Ontario in particular.

TIPS FOR TOURISTS

She has learned quite a lot about tourists in the course of her jobbing-around, and a lot of mistakes they make.

"Most vacationers bring along too many clothes, mostly the wrong kind," says Barbara. "If people would only inquire before they leave home about the weather, they would save themselves a lot of trouble. They should find out what kind of a resort they are going to, what the climate is and what kind of clothes they will need before they start packing.

"Many people planning a trip to Canada think they must bring heavy woollens, when actually what they will need is bathing suits and sun dresses. The southern part of Ontario is the same latitude and climate as northern California, and Toronto is nearer to about like New York. So you can see that you wouldn't need fur coats and ski clothes."

Blonde Finds 'Doctor' Has Strange Sound

VANCOUVER. (CP)—When Ann Julia Worth hears anyone call "Dr. Worth," she immediately looks around for her father.

The 23-year-old Vancouver miss thinks her new title is "just wonderful" but admits she is having a bit of a job getting used to it.

Dr. Ann, a sharply blue-eyed blonde, graduated from the University of British Columbia's medical school this spring. She was one of three students in the class of 59 medics to win first class honors.

Getting high marks is nothing new to Dr. Ann while attending elementary and high schools in Toronto, her report cards invariably read "above average" and she maintained the same high standard in Vancouver schools after her family moved here about eight years ago.

NOT MADE REASON

She admits that the fact her father, Dr. H. M. Worth, is in medicine was probably one reason she chose the medical profession for a career. But it wasn't the main reason.

"I always wanted to go into science and to help other people," she says. "I think it wasn't until I got almost through high school in Toronto that I made up my mind that it was to be medicine."

She will begin interning in Vancouver General Hospital in mid-June and hopes to specialize in pediatrics.

Besides being a top-flight student, Dr. Ann is a star tennis and badminton player with a fine collection of silver trophies won in tournaments in Toronto and Vancouver.

"My game is pretty rusty now, but I hope to start brushing it up real soon."

Belgian Chef Whips Up Meals That Are Delight to Gourmets

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Lucien Mathieu is a roly-poly Belgian chef who can whip up orders of ris de veau panees clamard or carre d'agneau boulangere as casually as most people warm up a can of beans.

His specialty, canadon a l'orange (duckling with orange sauce), takes a little longer but the wait is worthwhile.

The duckling, fresh out of the oven, is wheeled in on a little cart to the dining room, sprinkled with cognac and ignited with a match. The flames almost reach the ceiling.

Ceremoniously the flames are put out and the duckling, in a copper chafing dish, wheeled back to the kitchen for final preparation.

PERSONAL SUPERVISION

Le Savoy, owned and personally supervised by Mr. Mathieu, is one of the half-dozen French restaurants in Quebec that delight gourmets.

La Bastogne, La Vieille France, Les Ardenats, La Vendome and Camus each have their own specialties but all cater to the discriminating gourmet and thousands of tourists who visit Quebec looking for something different.

Pioneering the switch from stainless-steel type restaurants to intimate, candle-lit eating places were Louis de Looht and Charles Henderson, two Belgian immigrants.

In 1951, they opened "the Bastogne on one of Quebec's dingiest side streets in a house where Calixa Lavallee reputedly wrote the words to "O Canada."

Customers there have included provincial and federal cabinet ministers and professors from nearby Laval University. Recently, however, the Bastogne moved to a hotel-motel on the outskirts of town and its place was taken over by Les Ardennes.

OF SCOTTISH ANCESTRY

Henderson, whose Scottish ancestor settled near Brussels after the Battle of Waterloo, says one of his main jobs 'is diplomatically ushering out tourists who ask for hamburgers and beer.

"This is vulgarity," he says. "Here we prepare food."

Camus, owned by Pierro and Simone Camus, a middle-aged French couple, is probably the only restaurant in Canada whose owners have been given a high, two-star rating by La Guide Michelin, a European gourmet's index. The couple run a restaurant high in the French Pyrenees before coming to Canada in 1948.

Lauds for interior decorating go perhaps to La Vendome, halfway down one of Quebec's steepest hills leading to Lowertown and the waterfront.

Awnings and checkered tablecloths recreate a Paris sidewalk cafe in one section of the restaurant while signs and posters advertise Parisian wonders.

APPETIZING DISH

The Vendome's specialty is filet mignon, garnished with special fried mushrooms and served with salade vinaigrette. Most restaurants carry a large assortment of French, Italian and Alsatian wines.

A favorite dessert is sabayon, a fluffy mixture containing whipped egg whites and flavored with three or four liqueurs. Crepe suzettes and varieties made with apple, pineapple and other fruits are also in demand.

"Nothing is mass production," Mr. Mathieu says. "Everything is specially prepared to suit the customers and his approval of each step in preparation is often asked.

"Food is not a means to an end, but an end in itself."

His worrying hours, too, are shorter today
Joe never had it so good!
Today he earns more than twice as much as he did ten years ago. His hours are shorter, and the new plant where he works is bright, modern, and efficient — a vast improvement on the old one.
And there's another important change — one that benefits Joe and his family in a personal way. Joe, so long ago, found that many workers in big plants because they had group life insurance. But now Joe's company, though comparatively small, has arranged a similar plan which also provides health and accident insurance, as well as pensions.
This coverage takes a big load of worry off Joe's mind. Especially the group life insurance — which adds extra dollars for his family's protection over-and above the life insurance he has provided on his own.
Joe's experience is like that of thousands of workers in many different businesses throughout the country. Group insurance, little known 25 years ago, has developed rapidly because it meets such a vital need.
It has met this need so successfully that last year, Canadians received a total of about 90 million dollars in group benefits from life insurance companies.
Here's more evidence that life insurance companies, and their representatives, are constantly seeking new and better ways to serve the needs of Canadians in all walks of life!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SECKMAN

THIS BRIDE-TO-BE SHOULD BE ASHAMED

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Please tell me who chooses and makes up the wedding guest list. My daughter is to be married in the Fall and claims it is her privilege and hers alone to make up this list. I wholeheartedly agree s h e may choose whom she likes, but today when I suggested a few of my friends, she again reminded me sharply, that it is her privilege to decide who should be the guests at her wedding and that I had nothing to do with this part of the wedding except to pay for it. I felt repulsed and deeply hurt. Please set me right. — Mother

It is your daughter, the bride-to-be, who should be "set right," dear lady. She should be informed in no uncertain terms that the lists of those who are to be invited to the wedding are made up by the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom. Of course, you should suggest the names of relatives and friends whom you want on your list, and I hope your daughter will have the decency, and I hope eventually the grace, of completely cooperating with you in making this list. It's a sad fact, alas, t h a t a bride-to-be can s o m e t i m e s thoughtlessly do or say things that are "sharper t h a n a serpent's tooth" . . . and here a bit of constructive discipline is certainly indicated. You and or your husband if he is living, should not allow this self-willed point of view, this power to hurt, get out of hand.

DEMITASSE SPOONS THAT DON'T MATCH

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

When my family bought our wedding silver, we decided not to include demitasse spoons, thinking that we probably would receive some of these small spoons for wedding presents. (So many of my friends had!) However, we didn't receive any, and so we haven't had any. But the other day a dear, long great-aunt of mine, whom I love very much, gave me a set of 12 old spoons, a family heirloom. They are very beautiful, slim and very graceful—but they do not all match! There are four t h a t a l most match and then two very little from one another, there are four others that are "similar" in design, and the other four are not at all alike. Would it be considered correct form to use these, even if they don't match? — Aileen D.

Yes . . . Yes, Ma'am! You are mighty fortunate to own such a precious 12 old spoons, cherished heirlooms . . . and of course you will use them with joy and pride. P.S.: The fact that they don't match is just brightly use as a conversation piece!

SOUP BOWLS OF "CONTEMPORARY" DESIGN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently we received as a wedding anniversary present a set of eight soup bowls, of simple "contemporary" design, and of a size somewhat larger than a large coffee cup. (1) Are these correct for me to use when serving the cold or chilled soups I like to serve in the summer? (2) And with these should I serve teaspoons or the medium-sized dessert spoons? — Hostess

(1) Yes . . . these bowls are perfect for this service. (2) Dessert spoons are right with these bowls.

PROBLEM OF USING MAIDEN SURNAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I expect soon to receive my final divorce decree, and I'm wondering about the use of my maiden surname in my new name. What i mean is like my maiden surname is also a man's first name. Let's say, as an example, my maiden name was Elizabeth Alexander, and then my name as a divorcee would be Mrs. Alexander Thompson, which sounds like a man's name. Have you any suggestions about another form of name, to avoid this "confusion?"—Reader.

Yes . . . I suggest you use the initial of your first name before your maiden surname. For example: Mrs. E. Alexander Thompson. This is a correct form.

DISPLAYING PHOTOGRAPHS OF

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a number of photographs of friends who are very near and dear to me. I do not want to hurt these friends of mine by any seeming lack of interest in displaying their photographs, for I do love them. But a friend tells me that it is in very bad taste to display these photographs in various rooms in my home. What is your suggestion about this? — M.D.

My suggestion is that you pay absolutely no attention to the "advice" of your friend who mistakenly tells you that it is in very bad taste to display the photographs of your beloved friends. Give yourself the happiness of displaying these photographs as and where

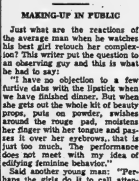
By HELEN JAMIESON

MAKING-UP IN PUBLIC



Just what are the reactions of the average man when he watches his best girl retouch her complexion? This writer put the question to an observing guy and this is what he had to say:

"I have no objection to a few furtive dabs with the lipstick when we have finished eating but when she gets out the whole kit of beauty props, puts on powder, swishes around the rouge pad, moistens her finger with her tongue and passes it over her eyebrows, that is just too much. The performance does not meet with my idea of edifying feminine behavior."

Said another young man: "Perhaps the girls do it to call attention to their charms. Or am I wrong? After all what does it matter? It isn't of an important nature. I can imagine a girl has her appearance pretty much on her mind and if she is making herself lovely for my sake, I should be pleased and flattered."

So, there you have two viewpoints. But there is another important matter to be considered: in the dim light of a restaurant, using a small purse mirror, a girl is apt to make a sorry mess of her make-up. Her lipstick doesn't stay a clear-cut pattern, rouge and powder can't be blended as they should. Why not go to the retiring room, sit down before a large mirror and attempt to do the job properly.

If a girl will use a foundation cosmetic before starting out in the evening, her make-up will stay with her. There will be no need of touch-ups.

you wish . . . perhaps some singly, and simply and appropriately framed, perhaps some artistically grouped on the wall above your desk.

SAYING GRACE AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If we serve a seated luncheon at our daughter's wedding reception, do we have someone say Grace and if so, who? Should the bride's father do this, since he is the host? — M.E.L.

If Grace is to be said . . . and I think it is a fine idea . . . it is customary to ask the officiating clergyman to say it. If the clergyman is not present at the reception, the bride's father, the host, may say it.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE PULLED A BONER—WANTS TO REMEDY MATTERS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago I broke up with a girl I really loved very much, but, at the time, I had lost my job and could not do things for her as I wanted to do. I was too proud to give her the true reason, so I just picked a fight with her and then said we were through.

It didn't take me long to realize that I had done the wrong thing, and that, if she really cared anything for me, she would have been willing to wait until I got on my feet again. So now, I would like to pick up our friendship again where I broke it off.

Do you think it would be a good idea for me to try to do this, or should I just let the whole thing go and forget about her? — John H.

Dear John:

There is certainly no reason why you shouldn't make a try for this girl again if you want to, unless, of course, she has become engaged to someone else in the meantime. In that case, you would certainly be too much of a gentleman to try and break up her romance.

Also, you will have to realize that it would be only natural if she hesitated to renew her friendship with you lest you might break off with her a second time.

You are certainly right in thinking it would have been far better to explain things frankly at t h e time, instead of working up a quarrel with her. So if you do decide now to try and get her interested in you again, and find she is still free, you had better go thoroughly honest and tell her exactly what happened before. And I'd suggest that you assure her you have learned a lot since then, and will never be so foolish and impulsive again.

WHY CAN'T THIS BOY WALK HER HOME?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

On Friday nights, I go to a dance for teen-agers, and there is a boy I met there whom I like very much. This boy asked if he could walk me home, but I had to refuse him because my parents won't let me walk home with any boy.

I would like to ask my parents if I could walk home with him and introduce him to them, but I don't know how to go about it. He has asked me several times.

I am 14 years old. — Jo.

Dear Jo:

It seems to me that your parents should be better pleased if you were brought home from the dance by a nice boy instead of coming alone.

I would suggest that you explain to this boy that, so far, your parents have not been willing to have any boy walk home with you, and then ask him if he won't call your mother up and ask her himself if she would let him take you home.

It might be even better if he called up some night and asked if he could come to the house. Meet your prents, take you to the dance and bring you home. In this way, your mother and father would have an opportunity to meet the boy beforehand, which might well make them more willing to give their permission.

Four Surviving Quints Observe 21st Birthday

NORTH BAY (CP)—The four surviving Dionne quintuplets slipped quietly back into their normal routines today, showing no outward signs of a new wealth that soon will be theirs—at birthday.

Annette, Cecile, Yvonne and Marie observed their coming of age together with their parents at nearby Callander Saturday, spending the day at home except for a visit to the grave of their sister Emilie, who died last August.

The day saw the quints come into their share of a million-dollar fortune, which they left, for the time being at least, untouched in the Dionne quintuplet trust fund. A representative of the Guaranty Trust Co., and father Oliva Dionne's lawyer, R. F. Donnelly of North Bay, sat in on the birthday conference, but no legal steps were taken by the girls to obtain their share of the nearly $1,000,000 inheritance.

WILL SIGN LATER

"They didn't get around to signing anything," Mr. Dionne said. "The signing will be done at a later date."

Annette, Yvonne and Cecile came from Montreal to join Marie and other members of the family for their birthday. They arrived home by car at 4:30 a.m. Saturday and slept late.

The parents gave the four sisters a high-fidelity record player as a birthday gift. After lunch, the girls went to the lonely little cemetery a few miles from their home to visit Emilie's grave. Their sadness at the loss of their sister lent a solemn note to the day's happenings.

"They just spent the day quietly around home and (Annette, Yvonne and Cecile) left on the late train for Montreal," Mr. Dionne, the quints' sole guardian and administrator of their business affairs, said.

STUDYING MUSIC

Annette is studying music at a convent-college in Montreal and plans to teach piano. Yvonne and Cecile are nurses-in-training at a Roman Catholic hospital on Montreal's outskirts.

39 Persons Meet Violent Deaths In East Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two murder and suicide cases within 30 miles of each other in northern Ontario were among 40 violent deaths reported during the weekend in eastern Canada.

Henry Sikala, 23-year-old mine-worker, died of a self-inflicted wound after shooting constable Ernest Paul, 40, and wounding two other men at Creighton, 15 miles west of Sudbury. At Garson, eight miles north of Sudbury, William Lohta, 43, shot to death his wife Marion, 40, and then killed himself with a rifle bullet.

Ontario had the highest death toll with 22, and Quebec was next with 12, a Canadian Press tabulation showed. Three deaths were reported in Newfoundland, two in New Brunswick and one in Nova Scotia. None was reported in Prince Edward Island.

Sixteen deaths occurred in traffic accidents and 12 persons were drowned. Fire took five lives, one person was electrocuted and two died in miscellaneous accidents.

Air Force Cadet College Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Air Force Association Friday urged Defence Minister Campney to consider establishment of an air force cadet college at the Camp Borden or Trenton RCAF stations.

The 8,000-member Air Force Veterans' Association also passed a resolution urging the formation of a girls' air cadet corps. The resolution said such a move would help recruiting for the women's division of the air force.

Air Vice-Marshal K. M. Guthrie of Edmonton was elected president for the ensuing year.

WHO GOT YOUR $28,000,000

WHY DID THE CONSERVATIVES COVER UP ON THE HIGHWAY INVESTIGATIONS?

28 MILLION DOLLARS of your money was paid out by the Conservative Government in over-runs on highway contracts during the years 1949 to 1952. The Conservative Government now blithely tell you that the whole matter has been aired and investigated.

BUT HOW WAS IT REALLY INVESTIGATED?

A Select Committee of the Ontario Legislature was appointed consisting of eight Conservatives, two Liberals and one CCF member.

When the Liberals wanted to subpoena witnesses—the Conservative Chairman flatly refused to do it.

He said in a loud voice that he would not subpoena ALL OR ANY of the witnesses the Liberals wanted.

WHY WERE THE LIBERALS NOT ALLOWED TO CALL WITNESSES?

Who was really responsible? Would this 28 Million Dollars have been spent if proper controls had been used?

How could such a vast sum of money go rattling around for years without the Government as a whole realizing something was wrong?

And so we ask WHAT HAPPENED TO YOUR 28 MILLION DOLLARS? Who's got it?

If such a curious state of affairs could exist on your Fort William section of the highways alone—and your Government take so long to even make an inquiry without witnesses—what may be happening elsewhere? And do not forget that during this period Mr. Frost was Provincial Treasurer.

Your Ontario tax revenues have increased almost four times in 10 years. Your debt—on which YOU pay interest has gone up from $666 Million to over ONE THOUSAND MILLION in 10 years. You pay 30 cents interest on every dollar of your Hydro bill.

What is happening anyway?

How good is this good government the Conservatives say they are giving you?

Obviously, the time has come for a change. And the safest change by far, for you, is a change to responsible Liberal Government.

Some Japanese Soldiers Still In Hide-Outs in Philippines

By ROY ESSOYAN

HONOLULU (AP)—Some of the Japanese soldiers who took to various Pacific hills during Second World War are still there. From the looks of things, they know the war is over but still prefer the hills.

Since 1945 an estimated 32 Japanese Army stragglers have been flushed out of jungle hide-outs in the Philippines, New Guinea, Guam, Saipan and Anatahan in the Marianas. Most of them claimed they didn't know the war was over.

Japanese government officials in Tokyo believe that more are still hiding out, in the Philippines, Guam and New Guinea.

But the belief is growing that these remaining holdouts know full well the war is over. They must know, too, that they have little to fear in the way of punishment or reprisals.

Japanese welfare ministry officials have scattered thousands of leaflets telling stragglers throughout the Pacific the war is over. In one operation in Guam alone 15,000 handbills were dropped from planes and distributed by foot parties in possible holdout areas.

The Philippine Air Force is about to drop another 10,000 leaflets, books and letters asking holdouts on Lubang Island to surrender.

There are no available estimates on the number of Japanese soldiers who took to the hills after Victory. Reports from captured stragglers, however, indicate that many of the original holdouts died of tropical diseases.

Many were killed, some in evading capture, others by native tribesmen and a few by other Japanese holdouts.

Most of the survivors were in good physical condition when captured. Many had shown remarkable adaptability to primitive conditions.

Occasional stragglers break out of the jungle to forage for food. Last March a village housewife five miles south of Agana, Guam, reported one such holdout made off with her banana cake. She said Filipinos and a few other States wheat surplus.

Larger Subsidies For U. S. Wheat Farmers Possible

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—A record 1,000,000,000 bushel surplus and a toughening competition for export trade is giving the American wheat farmer his biggest headache, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson said here.

Benson said the U.S. must meet the world wheat competition on a price, quality and promotional basis or accept a more limited market. And this market, he added, can be maintained only through continuing and "perhaps increasingly larger government subsidies."

Current wheat exports are maintained only through subsidies which have been averaging 80 cents a bushel and costing about $200,000,000 in a year.

He also told a press conference sales to Iron Curtain countries might be a way to slash the United

Germany to Put 1,000 Jets In Air to Support NATO Army

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN (AP)—A new German air force is taking shape on paper at this country proceeds with plans to put more than 1,000 jets in the air in support of its NATO army.

But West Germany's air force won't be called Luftwaffe. And it won't have any long-range bombers.

Tentatively named the Luftstreitkraefte (which, literally translated, means air-fighting-force), and created with Luftwaffe, or airweapon) the new force will include some 1,336 planes. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer agreed in signing the Paris rearmament treaties that it would be confined to an army-support role.

Long-range bombers, along with atomic, bacteriological and chemical weapons, were voluntarily renounced by the federal republic.

PLANES SUPPLIED

All planes except transports are expected to be jets. The types of planes to be used have not yet been finally chosen. It will depend largely on what deals the Germans can make with their allies on delivery of aircraft.

As fighters they are thinking of either British Hawker Hunters, now being produced in quantity for NATO countries, or American Sabres.

All planes initially will have to come from abroad. Making of planes was prohibited throughout the 10-year occupation by the allies. Some former manufacturers, like Heinkel and Messerschmidt, have joined together in an association to promote restoration of the industry. It will be years before German-made planes come off the production line.

There will be about 80,000 men in the air force, including about 2,000 pilots. Enough volunteers to fly the planes have already come forward. Only a few hundred will be war veterans. The survivors of the Luftwaffe are either too old, unfit or unwilling to serve again.

Operational command of the Luftstreitkraefte is expected to be divided between two allied tactical air forces now in Germany. In the south it will be exercised by the 6th allied tactical air force, an American-Canadian outfit, and in the north by the 2nd tactical air force, consisting of British, Belgian and Dutch units.

All the German pilots will be obliged to learn English, the common language of NATO air forces.

POLICE ARREST

Squads of detectives searched Hamilton beer parlors, and at the Royal Connaught Hotel found a bartender who recognized the man's description. He had served him beer earlier the same day.

Then a bellhop in the hotel recognized the description as the man who only minutes before had taken an airline limousine from the hotel to Malton, 20 miles west of here.

Toronto police were notified. Detectives found a big man with a grey tweed hat slogging away from the ticket window in the passenger rotunda at Malton. In his hand was a ticket to Winnipeg.

At first Aronson told police his name was Henderson and produced the Toronto liquor permit to prove it. Then police said, the man turned to them and said: "I'm the man you're looking for, I'm Aronson."

He was taken to jail, where his mother, Mrs. Louis Aronson, met him at the door. He told her he had read all the Toronto newspapers and had seen a police appeal to surrender.

He said he called the telephone number of police inspector Adolphus Payne, but there was no answer.

"Then I had time to think about it and I became frightened," he said.

RAIDED ROOMINGHOUSES

Police had carried out daily raids for 10 days in Toronto roominghouses after the holdup, in which teller Alan John Hannan, 26, was shot to death in an exchange of shots between two gunmen and bank manager William Davidson.

Simpson was captured eight hours after the robbery, found lying on a bed in a roominghouse, a bandage over a bullet wound in his back.

Aronson, who once worked in mines at Sudbury, was released from Marquette penitentiary in Michigan last month. He had served a five-year term for holding up a bar in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in 1950.

Many Relatives In British House

LONDON (AP)—A lot of relatives were picked for the new House of Commons in Thursday's general election.

Sir Winston Churchill, Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan will sit in Parliament with two close kin each.

Churchill has his son-in-law, Housing Minister Duncan Sandys and Christopher Soames. Eden has his nephew, Julian Amery.

Laborite Wilfred Aling, former Socialist postmaster-general, was joined by his brother, William. But Laborite Hugh Gaitskell, former Socialist chancellor of the exchequer, found a relative elected in the opposition ranks. His brother-in-law, Robert Ashton, was elected as a Conservative.

Russia Will Attempt to Loosen Japan's Ties With U.S. at Parley

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese political observers believe Russia will attempt to loosen Japan's ties with the United States when representatives of the Soviet Union and Japan meet in London the first week in June to negotiate a peace treaty.

One of the most important issues to be settled is Japan's claim that the Soviet Union is illegally occupying the Shikotan and Habomai islands. Japan wants the island returned. Russia, which occupies southern Sakhalin and the Kuriles at the end of the war under the terms of the Yalta agreement, claims Shikotan and Habomai are part of the Kuriles.

Japanese foreign ministry sources said they believe Russia might agree to return southern Sakhalin and the Kuriles if Japan renounced her joint security agreement with the United States. American troops are based in Japan under the agreement.

The return of the Kuriles and southern Sakhalin would mean the evacuation of Soviet troops to northern Sakhalin or Siberia. At present, Soviet troops garrison islands within sight of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

A promise to restore relations with Russia was one of Premier Hatoyama's main policy planks in the February general election.

FEARS TRAP

If the London talks fail, a political crisis may follow in Japan. Political crises in Japan during the last two years have helped the socialists, particularly the leftwing socialists who are friendly toward the Soviet Union.

Other points which Japan is expected to raise at the conference are:

1. A demand that Russia immediately repatriate 1,000 Japanese "war criminals" and 1,000 civilians held in the Soviet Union.

2. Russia should promise not to molest Japanese fishing vessels operating in northern waters.

3. Japan will not recognize Russia's right to demand reparations.

4. Russia must promise to respect Japan's sovereignty and not to engage in any action likely to disturb internal order.

5. Russia must not block Japan's admission to the United Nations.

After dinner I got my flash light and went out and met Puds Simkins by special appointment. I'm having his flash light too, by special arrangement, us 2 being the Forrin Intriggers, and we started to walk around the block looking for clews, and I said, Hay, there's the guardian of the national treasure, we're suppose to make a report on him.

Meening the little fat watchman watching the piles of lumber and stuff where the new house is being bilt, and Puds said, G, that's right, Operater One. Oh boy, if he only sirpected that the Forrin Intriggers are on his trale, he'd be pritty worried.

He looks kind of dopey a nd sleepy for a guy guarding t h e national treasure, I said. Let's walk past him and give him the secret signal out of the code book, and see if he notices, I said, and Puds said, Sure, we'll find out if he's really on his toes, so we can make our report to headquarters.

And we walked past him and pointed our flash lights straight at him, turning them on and off in our secret code, and all he did was give a big yawn, and I said, Did you see that yawn, Operater 37 That looked like a secret snarwer, I said, and Puds said, Let's check and dubble check. We'll pretend we got designs on the national treasure, I said.

And we went back and each pretended we were going to pick up a red lamp, and the watchman yelled, Hay, what goes on here? Keep your hands off them lamps. What's a matter with you?

And we quick kept on going, Puds saying, He's on! his toes all right, Operater One, the national treasure is safe.

Check, Operater 2, I said. Being the end of the case.

CANADA'S STRONG MAN COMING

Pat Flanagan, Marse Frank Tunney's man of words, said here Friday night that Canada's gift to weight-lifting, one Thomas Innocenzo and more recently Douglas Hepburn, recently of Vancouver and more recently of Toronto, will be the guest artist at Friday night's wrestling card.

Hepburn, said to be the strongest man in the world, and the world heavyweight weightlifting champion bar none, recently turned to professional wrestling as a means of livelihood, and reports have it that thus far he has left a trail of defeated veterans in his wake.

He turned pro wrestler under Marse Frank Tunney's guidance this season, and has been cresting quite a serenade wherever he has appeared thus far. The guy is built like a four-year-old Percheron or Clydesdale with the exception he doesn't wear iron shoes, has no long hair on his front legs and has not, thus far put in an appearance at a county fair.

At this time of writing, this department had not been advised as to who Hepburn's opponent will be, but you can bet your bottom dollar it won't be any sapling. Anything short of a four-cornered hoss race or a tree with a ten-inch trunk is apple pie to Master Douglas.

Hepburn is being hailed as a second Louis Cyr, 280-pound French-Canadian strong man, who astounded the world with his prodigious feats of weightlifting. Cyr was credited with lifting 3641 pounds, presumably with harness while standing on a platform in a little Quebec town in 1888. He is said to have lifted 2500 pounds in this fashion on several occasions.

A huge table was placed on his chest as one of his stunts. Twenty people would climb on it, each averaging around 150 pounds to make a gross bulk of better than 3,000 pounds. Cyr would then lift himself, the table and cargo.

Another feature credited to Cyr was lifting 545 pounds with one finger but the details were not established.

Hepburn is a huge chunk of man. He weighs well over 300 pounds and has biceps bigger than your thigh. He is well proportioned—but you had better see him for yourself come Friday night.

District baseball gets under way this week with the Paul Haggis juniors prying off the lid against the Picton Lightfoots in Picton on Wednesday night. Young Team Wins Sixth in Row To Strengthen Second Place; Bombers Lead Tribe By Three

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's high time for the rest of the National League clubs to start talking the youth-minded Chicago Cubs seriously.

Six straight series triumphs and 13 victories in their last 17 games have entrenched last year's seventh placers firmly in the runner-up spot today, six games behind Dodgers and three in front of the defending champion New York Giants.

With the only big name—outfielder Hank Sauer—sitting on the bench, the Cubs have been depending mostly upon sophomores and unheralded first-year men. And from the looks of things, the Cubs might wind up with a full rookie-of-the-year and sophomore-of-the-year honors.

Second-year man Ernie Banks drove in four runs with a grand slam homer and rookie Bob Speake scored three times and drove in the first of five runs in the big third inning Sunday to spark the Cubs to a 9-6 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

TOOK THE RUBBER

The Dodgers took the rubber of their three-game series from the Giants 8-5 to maintain their six-game lead on the Cubs as Don Zeider, Junior Gilliam and Jackie Robinson homered. Don Mueller's three-run homer helped the .8C Louis Cardinals whip Cincinnati 7-2 and vault into fourth place as the Braves dropped to fifth, one percentage point ahead of the Reds.

Philadelphia ran its winning streak to seven straight with a 5-3 triumph over Pittsburgh, but the Pirates were leading 5-3 as they came to bat in the seventh when the Pennsylvania curfew law halted activity in the second game. The game will be resumed July 8.

Bob Grim won a brilliant 1-0 hurling duel from Chicago Art Schallock as the New York Yankees stretched their lead straight and their 13th in the last 14 games. Herch Score struck out five to boost his league-leading total to 82 as the Cleveland Indians defeated Kansas City 4-3. Chicago's White Sox thrashed Detroit 9-3 and Boston outslugged Washington 12-7.

Banks and Jackson batted in seven runs between them in the Cubs' victory. Banks' 10th homer of the season was his second grand slammer. Jackson walloped a homer with two mates aboard to give relief pitcher Hal Jeffcoat his ninth victory against a defeat.

ROUTED ANTONELLI

The Dodgers scored five runs in the first three innings, routing starter Johnny Antonelli. Homers by Willie Mays and Alvin Dark paced the Giants' attack.

Robin Roberts spun an eight-hitter for his 20th victory as his Philadelphia mates gave him a 4-0 lead in the first inning by batting Pittsburgh starter Vernon Pepper from the mound before he could retire a batter. Rookie Frank Thomas, who hit his second homer of the season in the opener, also hit a four-bagger in the second as the Pirates amassed 16 hits. Rookie outfielder Roberto Clemente had five hits, three doubles and two singles. Harvey Haddix collected four hits and Del Ennis drove in three runs for the Phillies in the first game.

Ninth-inning singles by Mickey Mantle and Gil McDougald furnished the only Yankee run off Schallock.

A Kansas City crowd of 26,418 that swelled the attendance for 19 home games to 399,515 saw the Athletics come within a whisker of pulling a victory over Cleveland in the first.

Trailing 4-1 in the ninth, the Athletics sent Cleveland rookie Herb Score to the showers with three straight singles that scored a run. Then after a stop and tried another single, reliefer Ray Narleski struck out Gus Zernial and Don Bolenback before Vic Power fanned pinch-hitter Elmer Valo to end the threat.

Larry Doby smashed a 500-foot homer for the Indians to become only the fourth player in history of the Kansas City Stadium to drive a ball over the right field wall.

Mike Fornieles scattered nine hits for his fourth White Sox victory and his third over the Tigers. Jim Rivera drove in two Chicago runs with a homer and a triple three times.

Jackie Jensen batted in five runs with a pair of homers, a single and sacrifice fly and Ted Williams scored a double and triple as the Red Sox outslatted the Senators in a 21-hit spree.

SETS TRACK MARK

FREDERICTON (CP) — Ron Manzer of Fredericton high school ran three miles in 14:26.4 to better the prescribed 880-yard course Saturday in setting a Canadian interscholastic cross country track record.

His time was 1:57. The previous 880-yard record was 1:58 and the only Canadian statistics available here show it was set in Ontario in 1950. The North American record, 1:52 2-10, was set last year by Don Bowden of San Jose, Cal.

Re-measurement of the course run showed that it was under the official distance. Manzer's achievement featured the annual provincial interscholastic track and field meet.

Hawks, Wings Swing Another Deal Eight Players Due to Swap Uniforms

CHICAGO (CP)—Eight second-line players will swap uniforms next season following completion of another in the innumerable series of deals between Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

The Hawks sent defenceman Bucky Hollingworth and forwards Johnny McCormack, Dave Creighton and Leroy Toppazzini to the Wings during the weekend in exchange for defencemen Benny Woit and forwards Tony Leswick, Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson.

Saturday's year goes by without a trade between the Wings, seven-time NHL champions, and the Hawks, who finish five of the same seven years in the league cellar. Apart from the newly acquired quarrel, five men on the Chicago roster once wore Detroit uniforms.

Numerically the weekend deal was the biggest since 1949, when the Red Wings gave up five players to get Metropolitan defenceman Bob Goldman and three others who are no longer with the club.

LESWICK BEST KNOWN

Of the eight involved in the latest deal, the most renowned is Leswick, a five-foot-six 160-pounder whose close-checking play has been the despair of the opposition's top scoring right-wingers for years.

At 32, Leswick's best days as a scorer are behind him. He was a 27-goal man for New York Rangers eight years ago and has still managed to score 10 goals for the Wings last season between defensive assignments.

Skov, a 24-year-old centre, has effectively filled defensive and offensive assignments for the Wings, reaching his goal-scoring high of 17 two years ago. Last season he centred Leswick and Marty Pavelich on Detroit's "checking" line, which produced a startlingly high total of 39 goals.

Wilson, heralded as one of the best of the Wings' rookie crop three years ago when he scored 26 goals, produced 17 the following year and slumped to a disappointing 12 last season.

TEAM UP WITH BROTHER

A 26-year-old left-winger, he is expected to team up with his older brother, Larry, whom the Wings dealt off to Chicago in 1953.

Scarred 27-year-old Hollingworth, has spent four years as Detroit's No. 4 defenceman.

The key man acquired by the Wings is Hollingworth, a 21-year-old youngster whom the Hawks obtained from the Montreal Canadien farm organization last year and who rated among the best rookie defencemen in the league.

Toppazzini, a 22-year-old right-winger who spent two years shuttling between Boston Bruins and their Hershey farm club in the American Hockey League before the Hawks got him in mid-season two years ago, also doubles as a defenceman.

BEST AS AMATEUR

Born at Copper Cliff, Ont., Toppazzini has never matched the form he showed in sparking Barrie Flyers to the Memorial Cup in 1949, his last year as an amateur.

McCormack, a veteran defensive centre, will be moving to his fourth NHL club, having seen terms with Toronto and Montreal during his 10-year career before moving to Chicago last season.

A 23-year-old six-footer, the Edmonton-born McCormack is one of the most effective penalty-killers in the league.

Creighton, a 24-year-old native of Port Arthur, twice scored 20 goals for the Bruins during a six-year stay but was unable to find the range regularly last season with Toronto or Chicago. The Hawks picked him up from the Leafs in mid-season.

Young Sculler Maintains Tradition Jackie Pearce Wins Senior Singles

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — John, his dad's biggest victory.

Jackie's father, Australian-born Bobby Pearce, retired as undefeated sculling champion of the world in the 1940s and began coaching his son when the boy was only eight years old. Jackie's first rowing experience was in a doubles shell with his father.

The elder Pearce, twice winner of the Olympic singles—in 1928 and 1932—and Diamond Sculls champion in 1931, was on hand for Jackie's triumph Saturday and the two traded salutes after the race.

The 23rd annual Amateur Diamond Sculls winner, Jack Guest, Jr., of Toronto, won the U.S. scholastic singles in 1950, just 20 years after "The name of Pearce goes back almost a century in sculling annals. Jackie's great-grandfather, Footy Pearce, represented Australia rowing in the 1800s and finally won the Australian title. Grandfather H. R. (Harry) Pearce held both the amateur and professional Australian titles. Bobby Pearce laid claim to the world championship when he defeated Ted Phelps, one of England's greatest oarsmen, by 200 yards in a three-mile race at Sydney in 1928.

A sculling crew from St. Catharines, Ont., high school took third place Friday in the senior eights. A second St. Catharines eight failed to place and a third was scratched at the last minute.

LOCKE TAKES TITLE

BRISBANE (AP)—South Africa's Bobby Locke shot a final round-of-69 Saturday to win the Australian open golf championship with a two-under-par total of 280.

WOSSA Wins Sixth Annual Federation Track, Field Title

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ORILLIA (CP) — The Western Ontario Secondary School Association won the sixth annual Ontario Federation of School Athletic Association championship Saturday.

WOSSA swept 38 points in the senior events and added another 22 in the intermediate section to win by a 30-point margin over Toronto Secondary Schools Athletic Association and Toronto District Interscholastic Athletic Association, who tied for second place with 50 points each.

A feature of the afternoon was the running of Chuck Hardy, Earl Haig collegiate student in the TDIAA. Hardy set two records—one in the 220-yard run and the other in the 440-yard event. In the shorter distance, he sported across the finish line in a time of 22.3 seconds, breaking the former record of 22.4 set in 1949.

In the 440-yard event, Hardy finished with a time of 50.7 seconds. This mark erased the former one of 51.9 established in 1948.

BREAK FIVE RECORDS

Altogether, five records were broken during the meet and another two were tied. Four records were set and another one was tied in senior competition. One record was broken in the intermediate class with another one equalled.

In the senior 120-yard high hurdles, Don Cole of Windsor's Kennedy collegiate set a record with a time of 15.2, lowering the old record of 15.4 set in 1953 and equalled at last year's meet.

Dundas collegiate of the Central Ontario Secondary School Association eclipsed the 440-yard senior relay mark with a time of 45.5 seconds. It was Dundas which held the former mark of 45.5 made last year.

Don House of Dundas equalled the 100-yard dash time with an even 10-second run.

Ron Headon of Burlington high school broke the intermediate 440-yard run with a time of 51.5 seconds. The old record of 52.1 was made in 1953.

The open two-mile run, won by Walt Reynolds of Galt collegiate, just got under way when rain came and no time was taken for the event.

"Le Gros Bill" Got $20,000 As Amateur

MONTREAL (CP)—If you want to do a little off-season speculating about the hockey salary of Jean Beliveau, start out with this: He got $20,000 in his last season as an amateur.

That's the figure—the contract figure—given by George Imlach, general manager of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League. George should know because he had the big centre-ice star of Montreal Canadiens under his wing when the circuit was amateur—the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

"He was worth it because of the attendance he dragged in, and there's no secret about it now," said Imlach during a fanning session following the GHLA annual meeting Saturday.

Nobody would give authoritatively Beliveau's present salary in the National Hockey League, but the consensus was this Big Jean's five-year contract with Canadiens will enrich him by $100,000, including a obus figure spread out over the five years. Actual figures for salary and bonus were not indicated.

Kingston Couple Wins 'Mr., Mrs.' Bowling Title

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cunningham, Kingston, Ont., are the "Mr. and Mrs. Kingston" champions for the 1954-55 season. The title was decided at the regional tournament played in Deseronto Saturday night with twelve couples participating.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Clarke, Kingston, finished in second place with a pinfall of 1992, just 33 behind the winners while Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Hardwick, Belleville, took third place honors with a 1981. The playing couples who hailed from Kingston, Belleville, Deseronto and Trenton were the'guests at Ernest Lock of the Deseronto Alleys.

Some good combined singles included: Clark (Kingston) 560 and 529; Cunningham (Kingston) 588 and 567; Hardwick (Belleville) 579; Anderson (Belleville) 575; Deller (Deseronto) 562; Bulmey (Trenton) 532; Burnside (Kingston) 525, and Mills (Trenton) 500.

The bowlers were given an official welcome by Mayor Thomas Scott of Deseronto at the Lions' Hall where they assembled following the bowling and the awards were presented with the Herman Trophy. Prizes went to the top three couples.

Joe Carbonetto of the Kingston Circle Bowling Alleys, one of the prime movers of the tournament, outlined the ideas behind the venture. He said it was the second annual tourney of its kind and he hoped next year to include a number of other centres.

Refreshments were served to the visiting bowlers. Next year the regional final will be held in Belleville.

Eddie "The Brat" Replaced By Harry "The Hat"

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Eddie (The Brat) Stanky was fired as St. Louis Cardinal manager Saturday and replaced by Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of the club's Rochester farm team since 1952 and a former Cardinal outfielder.

August A. Busch, Jr., brewery owner and club president, said Walker was signed for the rest of the 1955 season.

No salary terms for Walker were disclosed and Busch said "we will discuss his future after this season is over."

Stanky said he would remain in baseball "if I have to go to a Class D league."

Busch announced that Stanky's still a member of the Cardinal organization but his next assignment hasn't been determined.

The little Cardinal manager said he would go to his home in Fairhope, Ala., for the next two weeks.

Walker said the Cardinals "are a fine young club with a fine future and will go a long way."

Busch, denying that dwindling attendance or fan mail criticism had anything to do with Stanky's firing, declared "we just felt a change might make things work better."

Fan criticism reached a peak when the Cardinals, now in fifth place, dropped six of seven games on a road trip which ended last Thursday. Then the Sporting News, a copyrighted story Friday said Stanky's "turbulent tenure" was "nearing the end of the road."

FERGUSON WINS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (CP) — Rich Ferguson of Toronto, who placed third in the mile run at the British Empire Games in Vancouver last year, won the two-mile race at the Big Ten college track meet here Saturday.

Chicoutimi, Aces Ask Suspension For Next Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Dwindling attendance in Chicoutimi and the inability of Quebec Aces to reach a suitable financial agreement for use of the city-owned Coliseum have forced the two Quebec Hockey League teams to request suspension of operations for the 1955-56 season.

The Quebec and Chicoutimi clubs made the requests at the league's annual meeting Saturday. The meeting adjourned until June 29 at which time, it was stated, the composition of the league will be definitely decided.

A possibility that Ottawa Senators might re-enter the league under Eddie Shore, who was present at the meeting, was seen. It was reliably stated that Shore is willing to put a team in Ottawa if the NHL awards him the franchise taken away by the Quebec cities.

Should the NHL owners met in Toronto last week, steps were taken towards stripping minor circuits through TV blackouts.

It was understood that Shore would like to see the Ottawa franchise of Sherbrooke, which suspended operations at the end of season, and transfer it to Ottawa if that arrangement were more suitable than trying to acquire the Ottawa franchise itself.

Two other Quebec cities, St. Jerome and Sorel, were reported, without confirmation, to be interested in entering the league.

When last season ended the five teams in the league were Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, Montreal Royals, Quebec Aces, Valleyfield Braves and Chicoutimi Saguenecas.

Terriers Edge Panthers 5-4

GALT (CP)—After losing five games, Galt Terriers came through Saturday night with a 10-inning 5-4 victory over Kitchener Panthers in a senior Intercounty baseball game.

Other games, Oshawa at St. Thomas and London at Brantford, were postponed because of wet grounds.

Al Carney was the hero of the night here. When Kitchener switched pitchers, he was sent to first and then with a man on base and in his only time at bat he hit a home run to deep left centre. It was one of the longest homers to be poled in Dickson Park.

It was a pitchers' battle. John Maldovan started for the visitors. When he got in trouble in the eighth he was replaced by lefty Bill Allen. Dan Lewandowski was the starter for Galt and in the eighth made way for Jim Martin, who finished up the game and got the credit for Terriers' first victory.

Manager Dick Welker gave his Panthers a few lessons, getting three singles in four trips, scored two runs and drove in two.

Pete Karpuk paced the Galt attack with a triple, double and single, while Chick Longest had three singles.

Royals Win, Edge Closer To Toronto

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals, runners-up to the International League pennant winner for the past two years, are still in the same second place rut today—but this time they're within a half step of the top rung.

The Brooklyn-owned club rallied for two runs in the bottom of the 11th inning Sunday to nip Buffalo Bisons 9-8. The victory boosted them to within a half game of the front-running Toronto Maple Leafs who were held to a doubleheader split by Rochester.

Toronto won the opener 4-2, but the Red Wings came back to win the second game 3-2.

Syracuse's seventh-place Chiefs swept a two bill from Columbus 6-5 and 3-2 while Richmond went 11 innings to outlast Havana 10-8.

HIS FIFTH WIN

Roger Craig, Montreal relief pitcher, singled in the winning run in the 11th to pick up his fifth victory against one defeat. The loss was the 16th in the last 18 games for Buffalo.

Rochester, managed by coach Lou Kahn until the arrival of Dixie Walker, its new manager, scored twice in the last inning to come from behind and gain a split with Toronto.

Howie Phillips' single drove in Les Richter with the winning run as Duke Markell posted his second victory and the first since his shutout. Connie Johnson hurled a four-hitter through six innings to receive credit for his sixth Toronto victory in the opener.

Ted Kazanski's three-run homer with two out in the seventh off Ozzie Van Brabant accounted for all Syracuse runs in its 3-2 nightcap victory. Pinch hitter Jim Command drove in the winning run in the first game as the Chiefs scored twice in the eighth to overcome a 5-2 Columbus lead.

Rocco Ippolito's two-run homer in the 11th broke an 8-8 tie to give Richmond's Tommy Fine the decision over Havana's Emilio Cueche.

Kingston Takes EOSSA Title

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Collegiates and Vocational Institute captured the senior aggregate Stewart Trophy Saturday in the annual Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association track and field meet.

Fisher Park collegiate from Ottawa, which won the event and meet crown for the last two years, made it three in a row as its 27 representatives took the junior and intermediate titles and placed second in the senior division. Based on a 5-3-2 marking system, the Fisher counted 33½, 25 and 20 respectively.

Kingston won the senior crown with 24 points. The intermediate and junior cups won by Fisher are the Frieman and the Horwitz Trophies.

"Swaps" Favored

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood Park threw open its doors for an expected Memorial Day crowd of 60,000 today, with millionaire Horse Swaps, winner of the 1955 Kentucky Derby, the main attraction.

Last season the race was the $25,000 Will Rogers Stakes at one mile, and it looked like easy pickings for the three-year-old Khaled colt. The feature will be telecast "live" over the NBC network from 7:45-8 p.m. EDT.

Nashua Wins Preakness In Record Time

BALTIMORE (AP)—Figuratively speaking, jockey Eddie Arcaro says Nashua "should last forever."

But it's not going to take nearly that long for him to become the famed $1,000,000 horse in history at the rate he's going today.

Barely past the age of three, Nashua has made William Woodward Jr. $569,990 already and he's built both physically and temperamentally to clean up at least twice that much before he's through with racing.

The $67,350-which he came away with by winning the Preakness Saturday put him about $130,000 ahead of Citation's earning rate at that time in 1948. Citation went on to become the only winner so far of $1,000,000, which he exceeded by $85,000.

Nashua's next big pot is the Belmont Stakes June 11 and no possible opponent in that mile and a half race looks good enough to beat him. Swaps, the Kentucky Derby winner and the only one to whip Nashua in six races this year, isn't eligible.

Swaps wasn't in the Preakness either and only Saratoga of the 1954 juvenile sidelines gave Nashua any trouble.

Nashua's time of 1:54 3-5 for the mile and 3-16ths was a full second and one fifth faster than the old public record set by Tom Fool in the Pimlico Special of 1953.

HUDDERSFIELD WINS

CALGARY (CP) — Huddersfield Town, touring English League first division team, beat two western Canada soccer teams by identical 4-1 scores during the weekend.

On Saturday Huddersfield beat Vancouver All-Stars after trailing 1-0 at halftime and on Monday the tourists defeated Alberta All-Stars before a crowd of 7,000 here. They led 2-0 at the half.

Imperial Oil's new research findings mean extra mileage for Canadian drivers

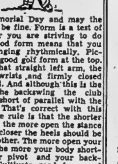
Whether your car is new or old...improved Esso gasolines and new Marvelube motor oil used together—

1. Give you more mileage.
2. Improve your car's getaway.
3. Cut down engine deposits that rob your car of power.

Here's proof from Imperial Oil's research laboratories

Engine deposits handicap your car's performance. Improved Esso and Esso Extra are specially formulated to burn cleaner in your engine, leaving less deposit. Here is one of the many stages of research as these improved gasolines at Imperial Oil's laboratories.

New Marvelube has special qualities that keep engine deposits to a minimum. Three years of laboratory tests prove that when this new motor oil is used with improved Esso or Esso Extra Gasolines there is an even greater reduction in engine deposits.



In addition to the laboratory tests, almost three years of road tests prove conclusively that when the "matched pair" of Marvelube Motor Oil and Esso Gasolines is used the reduction in engine deposits is so great the result is fast getaway, more mileage.

Drive in today—prove to yourself the better performance you can get.

Sam Snead's Golf School

1. Memorial Day and may the weather be fine. Form is a test of whatever you are striving to do well. Good form means that you are swinging rhythmically. Figured is good golf form at the top. Notice that straight left arm, the cocked wrists and firmly closed left hand. And although this is the top of the backswing the club shaft is short of parallel with the ground. That's correct with this club. The rule is that the shorter the club, the more open the stance and the closer the heels should be to each other. The more open your stance, the more your body shortens your pivot and your backswing. Cultivate good form and your game will improve.

CJBQ VOICE OF THE BAY OF QUINTE

(CJBQ — 1290 Kc)

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Millions for defence use the simple overcall in bridge. It is a tribute to the game that such a bid guarantees a definite set of minimum values in several departments.

In the trick department, here are the promises: If the bid is one, five tricks; if the bid is to be two, six tricks; if the bid must be three, seven tricks. So goes the trick requirements.

In the trump department, here it what it promises: A biddable suit of not less than five cards. More than likely the suit has one or more top cards in it that will stand a lead in that suit.

In the high card department, here is what it promises: A sure trick among two high cards or more. This is assurance of one quick trick taker; with another high card of some kind.

The whole mess put together in one sentence makes a rule that is easy to remember. It is: A simple overcall promises five tricks; a five card trump suit, a sure trick in two high cards.

With five tricks, a five card suit; two highs but no sure, you are short. With a five card suit, a sure in two highs, but only four tricks, you are short. So be right you need all in all.

South opens with one diamond when you have this west hand:

♠7 6 5
♥A Q 9 6 4
♦9 5
♣A 8 5

As defender, do you have enough for a true simple overcall? Take stock in all departments and see whether you have all that it would promise to a trusting partner.

You have a sure trick and more than one other high card; a good other. You have a five card biddable suit; a good five carder. But your hand counts only four tricks. Pass.

An expert might take a chance at a simple overcall of one heart with this hand. But you never can tell from year to year what an expert will do. Even in his book.

First Golf Title To Finsterwald

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald capitalized on short iron shots in spite of high winds Sunday for a one stroke win in the major golf tournament, the $15,000 Fort Wayne Open, in 269. He won $2,400.

The pro from Bedford Heights, Ohio, started the final round two strokes ahead of Doug Ford of Kissimmeta Lake, N.J., the 1954 winner, but two early bogeys gave Ford a par-72 for 272 and second place. Finsterwald birdied three of his four first holes, and his 269 was 19 under par on the Elks Country Club course.

Ted Kroll of Utica, N.Y., steadied down to 68 to win third place with a 272. Another 68 by Bob Rosburg of San Francisco gave him 275 for fourth.

Jerry Kesselring of Toronto and Kitchener shot rounds of 67-74-71-73 to tie with three others for 12th place and pick up $115.

Landy Satisfied With Mile Mark

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — John Landy, holder of the world record for the mile, said Sunday he "was not overjoyed" to hear three men had finished inside four minutes at White City Stadium.

The three were Laslzo Tabori (Hungary) Chris Chataway (England), and Brian Hewson (England). Tabori's winning time was just one second off Landy's record of 3 minutes 58 seconds set up in June last year.

"It was only a matter of time," said Landy, "there are more talented runners about today and they are putting more work into their training."

He added there were at least half a dozen "milers" who might break his world record but as he had more time to train seriously he did not expect to set up any records at present.

Four-Minute Mile Still Eludes Wes Santee

READING, Pa. (AP)—The four-minute mile eluded Wes Santee again Sunday but the Kansas cowboy won the seventh annual Gerry Karver mile almost as he pleased with a clocking of 4:05.4.

Santee was a good 30 yards in front of Horace Ashenfelter, Olympic 3,000-metre steeplechase champion, when he breasted the tape.

It was felt that the fact three runners in London Saturday pushed across the four-minute barrier in one race might be an inducement to Santee Sunday.

But he finished far from his best time of 4:00.5.

British Amateur Opened Today

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Britain's biggest amateur golf championship ever opened today and as usual a handful of Americans were among the favorites.

There are 45 Yanks entered and any of a dozen could win it. Optionally, Americans intended to try their luck over the 6,657-yard Royal Lytham and St. Annes course but 15 scratched.

Three quarters of the draw play their first round today and the other quarter will get started Tuesday. British sports writers gloomily predict an all-American semi-final.

AT THE McCARTHY

"A Man Called Peter," Booked to Open Here."

The management of the McCarthy Theatre announced today the booking of "A Man Called Peter," a 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope production in De Luxe color, for presentation starting Wednesday. This picturization of Catherine Marshall's biographical novel, which has been on the best-seller list since it was first published in 1951, has been hailed as one of the most unusual pictures to come out of Hollywood in a long time.

Richard Todd and Jean Peters are the stars in the role of Peter Marshall, the Scottish immigrant who came to America, dug ditches, stoked furnaces, corrected proofs on a Southern newspaper, was stacked to $50 a month by his Bible class for his first two-years at Columbia Theological Seminary at Decatur, Ga., preached in Covington, Atlanta and within ten years of his arrival in the United States became the minister of the New York Avenue Church in Washington, D.C., where eight presidents, including Abraham Lincoln, worshipped.

Peter Marshall, known as "the charming young Scot with the silver tongue," wound up the elected chaplain of the U.S. Senate and was known as "the conscience of the Senate."

20th Century-Fox mounted this tender love story with Howard Keel and Algel touches with every possible advantage in talent and production value. Henry Koster directed from a script by Academy Award winning writer, Eleanore Griffin, based on the ·egis of Producer Samuel G. Engel. In the stellar cast are Marjorie Rambeau and Jill Esmond.

BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN

Starts Wednesday

"ROAR OF THE CROWD"

Before she'll consent to marry Howard Duff, a rising young race driver, Helena Stanley makes him promise that he'll quit after participating in the next 500-mile event at Indianapolis. Where Howard is seriously injured in a race, he hangs up his helmet and goes to work as salesman for an automobile supply firm, but he and Helena soon realize that he'll never be successful in this line of business. Aware that only at the wheel of a race car will he ever be happy, Helene secretly arranges for the construction of a car which he qualifies for the Indianapolis event. Still not completely recovered from his injuries, Howard nevertheless refuses to quit. He is by fate his near the end of the contest, but he holds on to finish second—and Helene consoles him with the reminder that they'll "win it next year."

"WORLD FOR RANSOM"

Because of his friendship for Patric Knowles—and the fact that he is in love with Marian Carr, Knowles' wife—Dan Duryea, a professional adventurer, becomes involved in a plot to kidnap for ransom Arthur Shields, a nuclear scientist, on his way to Singapore. Shields is one of the few physicists who knows the secret of the hydrogen bomb. Heading the plot is Gene Lockhart, with whom Knowles is secretly associated. The kidnaping is effected, and Reginald Denny—of British military intelligence—is drawn into the case. Now dangerously entangled, Duryea joins forces with Denny. Knowles, in panic as the law closes in, kills several of his associates. Duryea is forced to slay Knowles, and the scientist is freed. Marian spurns Duryea's love and he goes his solitary way.

WITH TIGER-CATS

HAMILTON (CP)—Jerry Sazio, brother of Hamilton Tiger-Cat line coach Ralph Sazio, has signed a 1955 contract with the Big Four Football Union team, it was announced Sunday.

Jerry, 22, weighs 228 pounds. He played tackle with William and Mary University for four years.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, May 31, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — With a proper understanding of your problems, good organization rewards. Be alert, and a good and initiative you will reap good listener as well as a talker. Promote good will, harmony — always.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — No trifling with assets, chores or personalities now. There's hard work ahead. Don't permit inactivity or lack of ambition to rob you of opportunities. Consistent application can win.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may have to change plans unexpectedly, act quickly. Be sure you're on the right track and are using the right methods to reach your objectives. You must know what you want as well as how to get it.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your configurations are good for business, investments, contract-making, legal and general matters. Do things directly, with principle. Get, and also give, a square deal.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Fine rays for those of you who are alert and ready to sacrifice personal pleasures for more important gains. Keep your enthusiasm high, your mind keyed to essentials. Romance, marriage sponsored.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Be ready to make changes, to slacken your pace if necessary, to observe, to revamp schedule. Accept no invitation unless it is a truly, worthwhile one.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Matters demanding mental work, scientific and professional endeavors, need careful handling. Better unity with associates, family urged; will greatly further your interests.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You can serve your best interests by going slowly, studying each item on your agenda carefully. Some unfavorable trends. Keep your standards high.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Some uncertainties — especially during the early hours. Be reasonable and not too effusive or vulnerable to flattery, false praise.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Stellar aspects suggest a rest, or assistance in all matters of money, business, family, budget, community. Accept only those responsibilities which are within your capability to carry out. Have faith in you.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Personal affairs are not uppermost in this day's setup. The accent will be on business, industry, labor and legal activities. Trust in God, be confident and half your battle is won.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You ought to be a match for anything that comes up now. Wade right into things with an air of "I can do this is no time." Smile through the tedious tasks; be astute with the difficult ones.

You born today are of the intellectual Sign, Gemini. Restless, versatile, but sometimes flighty, you can do many worthwhile things and achieve in the pinches. Stick to a job or idea if you would attain top success. Your natal planet, Mercury, plus the Sun's influences, now greatly favor jewelers, publishers, editors, manufacturing, professional matters. Do not strain mind or body. A sane, healthy striving in all activities is best. Cultivate your charm and many talents; pray; be tolerant of others' faults.

Little Benny's Notebook

This morning at breakfast ma said to pa that I wasn't going to say anything about it, but I cant be expected to sit like a frozen statue of patience till the end of time. Tomorrow happens to be the occasion of my birthday date is my personel history, she said.

Well of course, just my birthday, naturerly, pop said, that means that you think I'd forgotten? I was planning a surprize, dizzie. Some electrify you tomorrow morning by wishing you a happy birthday with out a single hint from you. And now you've gone and spoiled my big serprize, which is terrible, he said.

That would sound like quite a pitiful story to anybody that didn't know you, ma said, and pop said, Oh, I dont mind being unjustly accused. I'm used to it, and my shoulders are broad. The thing that makes me feel so bad is having my little moment of glory nipped in the bud and my pride bubble shattered. But my shoulders are broad, as I said, he said.

Yes, I heard you, ma said. And now to finish my own little tail'of woe, I'll specify the exact occasion I was referring to. Tomorrow will be precisely 3 days after my birthday, she said, and pop said, Yes gosh.

Oh, dont take it hard, ma said. My shoulders may not be as broad as yours, but they're comfy slippery so I'll forgive you as usual; she said.

Being the partly happy end, and this afternoon pop sent ma a big bunch of roses with a funny fied on it, saying, Roses are red, but my face is redder. There's only one perfect woman and I was a smart enough to wed her.

Being the really happy end.

Miner Terrorizes Town, Kills Policeman

Terror reigned for 36 minutes in the mining town of Creighton, near Sudbury, Ont., when a "maniac" young miner shot to death Police Officer Ernest Paul, left wounded two other men, and then put a bullet in his own brain. The miner, Henry Sikkala, 22, is shown above, left, with his mother and family. Sikkala reportedly had been taking a mail-order detective course. After shooting Constable Paul, Sikkala ran down the main street at 130 in the morning, brandishing his pistol. (Central Press Canadian).

Govt. Criticized For Choice Of Name For Hotel

HALIFAX (CP) — The Hotel Association of Canada criticized the Canadian National Railways Saturday for its choice of a name for its new Montreal hotel, and placing it under management of a United States firm.

The association said it felt the $25,000,000 hotel—to be named the Queen Elizabeth—"should be under Canadian management. . . and we strongly urge that the federal government . . . review all the circumstances leading up to the leasing and management of the hotel to other than Canadian interests."

On naming the hotel, the group said "we appreciate permission having been granted for the use of the name Queen Elizabeth' to the hotel."

"We are nevertheless convinced that it is an error in judgment to use the name for a large and leading hotel in the city of Montreal, and for the province of Quebec, and be urged the Canadian government to request that the name be withdrawn and in its place a name be given more in keeping with the tradition and the history of the city of Montreal and the province of Quebec."

Thinks Denial Should Be Made If Story Untrue

LONDON (AP)—The Sunday Express has called on Buckingham Palace to issue "an authoritative denial" if it is untrue that Princess Margaret wants to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

John Gordon, editor of the newspaper, writes in his column "Current Events":

"People in exalted circles, of course, take the view that newspapers shouldn't discuss this matter. And their opinion is shared by those who think that what happens around the throne is no concern of the hoi polloi.

"But I take a different view. I think if there is no truth in the story that Princess Margaret wishes to marry Group Capt. Townsend, then it would be better if an authoritative denial were issued.

"On the other hand, if there is substance in the rumor I think for the good of all concerned the drama should be played out in public."

West German Minister Will Open Trade Fair

TORONTO (CP) —Dr. Ludwig Erhard, West German economic affairs minister, today opens the eighth annual Canadian International Trade Fair in a ceremony attended by representatives of the 31 countries exhibiting this year. Trade Minister Howe will introduce Dr. Erhard.

A wider variety of products than ever seen at the fair is on view this year. On every hand there is evidence of greater attention to color, style and appearance in exhibits.

Members of a special pre-fair press tour admired elaborate displays, with more extensive and expensive arrangements of wares, in the rule this year.

Dr. Erhard's country, which previously had offered only a small display, ranks near the top, closely rivalling Britain and Czechoslovakia in the amount of space taken. Japan also has increased its space.

A Russian delegation, attending a Canadian fair for the first time, was increased at the last minute from six to 12 specialists in various fields of industrial production and design.

Japan, participating for the fifth time, sent a special message from Tokyo that Ishibashi, international trade and industry minister, expressing pleasure at the "privilege" of exhibiting at "one of the most significant (fairs) held throughout the world."

"I sincerely hope this trade fair will contribute to increasing the volume of trade between our two countries and also to bringing closer the friendship existing between us," Mr. Ishibashi's message said.

Along with the message, Japan sent two attractive young visitors who speak fluent English—the first Japanese air stewardesses to visit Canada. They will be in attendance at a booth of the Japan Travel Promotion Association.

Jailed Sinn Fein Candidates Pose Political Puzzle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (Reuters) — Political confusion blanketed much of Northern Ireland today, created by the victory of two jailed Sinn Fein candidates in the British general election.

The immediate question is whether the defeated Ulster Unionist candidates will appeal to the courts against the election of bricklayer Tom Mitchell, 23, and office worker Philip Clarke, 21, both serving long prison terms. The Unionists could claim that as convicts they are "disqualified persons."

If the Unionists go to the high court, the question then is: Will the court award the two seats to the Unionist candidates? Or will it call by-elections?

If another election is held, predictions have been that the Sinn Feiners will again put forward Mitchell and Clarke as candidates.

CENTURIES-OLD TROUBLE

The situation points up the centuries-old bitterness between Britain and Ireland, now concentrated in the division of Ireland into the Independent Irish Republic and Northern Ireland, a part of the United Kingdom.

The Sinn Fein—the name means "ourselves alone"—is the political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army. It has pledged to bring about the union of Northern Ireland with the independent republic, by force if necessary.

Mitchell and Clarke are each serving 10-year sentences for taking part in an armed attack on a British army barracks at Armagh last year in which five soldiers were wounded.

In last week's election, the Sinn Fein contested all 12 seats in Northern Ireland, polling 150,000 votes largely at the expense of Irish Nationalists who also advocate union with the republic but are more moderate. Sinn Fein won only the two seats. The Nationalists, who formerly held the two seats, did not contest them this time.

Mitchell won the right to represent mid-Ulster and Clarke topped the poll in the Fermanagh and South Tyrone constituency, defeating a wealthy landowner, Lt.-Col. R. G. Grosvenor.

NEITHER CAN SIT

Neither winner would go to Parliament in any case: Their platform included a pledge to renounce their seats as a protest against the partition of Ireland.

Both Sinn Feiners defeated candidates of the Ulster Unionist party, allied with Sir Anthony Eden's Conservatives. It supports the link with Britain.

Prior to the election, Unionist leader W. W. B. Topping, promised that, if Sinn Feiners were elected, an application would be made to unseat them as "disqualified persons."

TO STUDY NEXT MOVE

Executive committees of Unionist associations in both constituencies are expected to meet within the next few days to consider the situation.

They face a hazardous choice. If they oppose the disqualification of the Sinn Feiners, they risk stirring up fresh trouble among the supporters of Irish unity.

If they decline to take the action they threatened during the election campaign, they face charges of "moral cowardice."

"Well Treated" Say Four Airmen Released By Reds

Now on Way to Hawaii For Reunion With Families

By FORREST EDWARDS

HONG KONG (AP)—Four American fliers, released by Communist China after more than two years imprisonment, reached Hong Kong today. Less than three hours later they took off for Hawaii and reunion with their families.

The men, most of them shot down in the Korean war, appeared tired but in good, if subdued, spirits. They said they were glad to be airport that they had been "well treated."

The men followed the same route to freedom as did Sodo. Lt. A. R. (Andy) MacKenzie of Montreal, who also was shot down in Korea two years ago. MacKenzie, who later told of meeting—imprisoned U.S. fliers in Communist prison camps, was freed at the Hong Kong border last fall.

Lt.-Col. C. H. Simpson, who greeted the fliers at the border, said their mental attitude "was extremely composed and they gave no evidence of being brainwashed."

The four, all fighter pilots, are Capt. Richard W. Andrew, 28, of Swea City, Iowa; Lieut. Lyle W. Castleman, 25, of Lincoln, Neb.; Lt.-Col. Edwin Heller, 36, Wynnewood, Pa., and Lieut. Roland W. Parks, 24, of Aloha, Ore.

"We are all terribly glad and happy to be back," Castleman told reporters. "What more can I say?"

The four men arrived just after border village of Shumchun. They crossed into British territory at 2:33 p.m. (12:33 a.m. ADT). Less than three hours later, the special Cathay Pacific transport took off with them.

U.S. Air Force officials indicated the plane would fly direct to Hawaii, where the men will be given a complete physical under the Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott announced a special 30-day holiday their closest relatives to Hawaii for a reunion.

The four said at the airport they were first told last week that they were going to be sent home. They refused to say where they had been for prisoners.

The airmen were dressed in Communist blue trousers and padded blue jackets, which they wore when they crossed into Hong Kong territory. They changed there into white shirts and grey slacks at the Fan Ling Jockey Club, en route to the airport.

Simpson, U.S. air attache in Hong Kong, told them: "I welcome you in the name of the U.S. government and the American people. We have been waiting a long time for this."

The have we," one of the men blurted out.

Simpson had bought the clothes earlier on the basis of the men's height and weight before they were taken prisoner. All the items fitted extremely well, suggesting that the Communists have got both their physical condition as before.

Fletcher sat in bed with a mattress at the Jockey Club, ordered on it, and "bounced up and down with a bang," as Simpson and Cameron ran for the showers and Coca-Cola.

Briton Forced To 'Confess' To Spy Charges

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Robert Ford, 31-year-old British radio officer captured by the Chinese Communists when they invaded Tibet five years ago, said today his captors told him he wouldn't get out of jail unless he confessed to spy charges.

Ford was deported from China last Sunday and has been in hospital here.

He told reporters he had confessed to "various charges including spying." But he asserted that his Chinese interrogators had told him during one six-month period of solitary confinement that he had no means of getting out of jail unless he did "confess."

TLC Convention Straddles Fence On Annual Wage

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR (CP)—Officials of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today straddled the fence on the issue of the guaranteed annual wage for workers.

A top-level committee of the TLC brought before its annual convention a tightrope-walking report mentioning the guaranteed wage favorably but loaded with its and buts.

The report was due to be dealt with during the day by the 750 delegates at the 70th annual session of the TLC. It was prepared at the direction of last year's convention, held at a time when the guaranteed wage was coming into prominence.

Indians Told Not to Vote In Election

BRANTFORD (CP)—More than 300 recently-franchised Six Nations Indians may be disqualified by their hereditary chiefs to boycott the June 9 Ontario general election.

The order came in a resolution passed by the Council of Hereditary Chiefs meeting at the Onondaga longhouse on the nearby reservation.

The council is the ancient constitutional authority of the Six Nations Indian Confederacy.

Council members asked their people not to vote in the coming election because they have their own constitution "by which our chiefs wish to protect and safeguard" their treaty rights.

The government gave the Indians liquor and voting rights some months ago but the chiefs maintain they never asked for such rights.

MENON TELLS U.S. REST OF AIRMEN SOON TO BE FREED

Release of Four Pilots Said Just First Step

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials informally expressed confidence today that 11 more American fliers held by Communist China will be released in the near future.

Indian diplomat V. K. Krishna Menon has advised the state department that freeing of four fighter pilots was but the first step planned by the Peiping regime to ease Far East tensions and seek an improvement in relations with the United States.

He indicated release of the others could be expected to follow fairly soon. A letter from Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold raised further hopes of early freedom for the remaining 11. State department experts believe the Communists have found that their imprisonment of the fliers has become a liability to them.

Officials said the Chinese Communists apparently are seeking to serve several purposes. They want to counter moves of free nations which have widely condemned holding of the fliers. They also hope to make a show of peaceful intentions toward the United States and possibly promote negotiations on Formosa.

South Viet Nam Guerrilla War Is Now Raging

SAIGON (Reuters) — Fighting which broke out in southwest Viet Nam last week has developed into a guerrilla war with dozens of skirmishes and ambushes every day.

The private armies of the pollo-religious Binh Xuyen and Hoa Hao sects, which have been in fear of annihilation by Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, have severed communication lines and seized outposts with guerrilla hit-and-run tactics.

The government-backed premier last week assembled 24,000 army troops and police with a view to an ultimatum to the Hoa Hao. But though the ultimatum was rejected, it has hesitated to launch a general offensive.

Reinforced travellers arriving here from the war zone, the strategic Mekong delta province, hope it is to push between the Hoa Hao army and the Cambodian frontier, to try to cut their forces in two and destroy and a possible way of retreat.

Kremlin Triumvirate Is Astonished As Unguarded Tito Drives Their Car

By EDDY GILMORE

BRIONI ISLAND, Yugoslavia (AP)—Soviet President Tito and his Soviet guests set out for Moscow yesterday on the Yugoslav mainland today after two days of talks on the ice-land vacation spot of Brioni.

A joint communique issued Monday night said negotiations between the Yugoslav and Soviet delegations were continuing "in an atmosphere of mutual understanding," but gave no details.

From the north end of the Istrian peninsula, Tito...Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan were to make a special visit to Ljubljana and Zagreb before returning to Belgrade.

The Soviet delegation arrived in Yugoslavia last Thursday to patch up the Soviet bloc's bitter seven-year quarrel with the Yugoslav government.

An informed source said Tito in the talks was pressing for specific guarantees on a number of points including a concrete pledge of no interference in Yugoslavia's affairs.

This source added that the Russians wanted only a "hazy" general statement of Soviet - Yugoslav friendship and promises of more economic co-operation.

Other things seem to be very much more specific," the source added.

Authoritative Yugoslav sources already have said that Tito rejected Soviet overtures to the Moscow turn of his country to the West's side in the cold war and proposed that Yugoslavia accept a neutral role between the countries.

Tito himself acted as chauffeur for Khrushchev, Bulganin and Mikoyan on a tour of Brioni island on Monday afternoon around Brioni. The small, three-mile-long, one-mile wide, is a favorite vacation spot for Tito.

The three top Soviet officials appeared amazed by Tito's informality. The marshal's car was followed by carloads of Russian security men, but Tito was the only Yugoslav in sight.

During their stay on Brioni, Tito also took Khrushchev and Bulganin in his yacht Podgora to visit the Adriatic ports of Rovinj and Pula.

Debatable Election Issues Get an Airing on Hustings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald said Monday night the high cost of living is the biggest problem facing families in the province.

He entered the stretch drive of the campaign for the June 9 Ontario general election by telling a group at Hamilton that his party will continue to fight for price controls to keep living costs in line with incomes.

A CCF government, the 41-year-old CCF head said, would recognize the problems caused by unemployment in Canadian industrial centres and would give its support also to farmers, workers and professional people by means of consumer organizations to protect good consumers."

Other keynote of CCF policy will be to help consumers organize for their own protection."

Mr. MacDonald spoke to an audience of 250 in the heart of the steel city of Hamilton.

At Kingston, Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver accused Premier Frost of desperation in claiming that $28,000,000 in over-run payments during his administration were normal and similar to overrun payments under the Mitchell Hepburn Liberal government before 1943.

Mr. Oliver said over-run payments under the Hepburn Liberal administration consisted of extra money paid for additional pieces of road. Over-run payments under the Frost government, were all "one piece of ground."

Mr. Frost spoke at Welland. He said that prior to 1943, when the Liberals were in power, they could not make up their minds on the principle of collective bargaining which is the "very heart and basis of Ontario's labor legislation."

At Hamilton, Mr. MacDonald said a recent Gallup poll showed the largest number of voters listed the cost of living as their greatest concern.

"That doesn't really come as news to the CCF," he said. "We fought almost alone from the end of the war for price controls to keep living costs in line with incomes."

Police Continue Investigation Into Man's Death

STRATFORD (CP) — Crown attorney W. E. Goodwin said today he has not yet had a report from Listowel on the death of William Smith, 63, who was found dead in his bed Sunday.

Mr. Goodwin said he expected to confer with authorities there as soon as they complete their investigation.

"Our investigation isn't completed yet," said Listowel police chief C. F. Rocher. "And until it is I have nothing to say."

Chief Rocher said he expected to be able to make a statement some time tonight or Wednesday.

The chief was in Toronto Monday conferring with officials at the attorney-general's department, a rolling pin and other evidence were submitted for expert examination, the chief said.

Smith was found dead in his bed Sunday afternoon when his two sons, William, 8, and Richard, 6, went across the street to the home of Robert Vance and asked him to come in and see his father.

Police said Vance told them he found Mrs. Smith sitting downstairs crying. Mr. Smith was upstairs lying on a bed.

Coroner W. C. Pratt ordered a post mortem which was conducted Monday. He said no inquest has been ordered.

Begin Work on Dam

KITCHENER (CP) — Ontario's biggest water conservation and flood control project, the harnessing of the Grand river, moved a step forward Monday when Planning Minister Warrender turned the first sod for the $5,000,000 Conestoga dam near here.

One school and eight concession roads will be wiped out before the 45,000 acre-feet of reservoir is formed. An acre-foot is an acre of water one foot deep.

Ford, UAW Still Deadlocked On Wage Demand

DETROIT (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. has promised to answer the wage demands of the CIO United Auto Workers to let 140,000 Ford workers decide between the union's guaranteed annual wage and the company's plan for employees to share in Ford ownership and profits.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the UAW, proposed a binding secret vote of Ford workers on the two largest number of days starting a strike after midnight Wednesday. The union reported last week that 96,541 Ford workers voted to strike to win a guaranteed annual wage and only 2,828 voted against the strike.

Reuther made the proposal Monday. The company asked for and the union agreed to a recess in negotiations until today.

Reuther proposed the ballot question be conducted two years around pay against three proposals in the Ford "package" that include reports on what the company calls its "partnership in prosperity" plan, "Ford Fund" stock participation, income stabilization and separation allowance plans.

The vote would be taken by an independent agency within two weeks. The strike contract would be extended on a day-to-day basis. Negotiations would continue on other parts of the contract.

Result of the vote would bind both parties to negotiate which over plan the employees choose.

The UAW has reduced its annual wage demand from 100 per cent of take-home pay to 80 per cent, or $28 per cent for a 40-hour week.

Thus far, the company has indicated no willingness to accept the principle of the guaranteed annual wage.

General Motors talks were scheduled to resume today after a brief recess. The GM pact (now with the UAW expires June 7.

FORMER MEMBERS HAVE RIGHT TO JOBS—GARDINER

Denies He Is Running Political Machine

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner says it is no disgrace for former members of Parliament or a legislature to hold government jobs.

He made the statement Monday after listening to an oft-repeated charge that he runs a political machine in Saskatchewan.

The accusation against Mr. Gardiner, who next month completes his 41st year in politics was made in the Commons by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) and three CCF members, including party leader, M. J. Coldwell.

Debate was on a bill amending the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act. Mr. Diefenbaker said the PFRA administration under Mr. Gardiner, who represents Melville in the Commons, "is becoming a political machine." It has become patronage for "retired, rejected or defeated politicians."

"POLITICAL MACHINE"

Mr. Coldwell said it was "more and more a political machine directed by the minister of agriculture."

Mr. Diefenbaker referred to two PFRA appointments of former Saskatchewan Liberal MPs: Austin Bevan, former member for Qu'Appelle, and G. M. Ferrie, former member for Wood Mountain.

Mr. Dewar resigned from Parliament in 1953 after it was reported he had engaged in cheque-kiting with Harvey Lunam, a Regina contractor who had difficulties at the time.

Mr. Gardiner said Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Ferrie are PFRA field inspectors, among several in western Canada.

Liberals Called "Churkendoser" By CCF Pres.

TORONTO (CP)—Eamon Park, president of the Ontario CCF Association, Monday night described Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver as a "political chicken churkendoser."

He introduced the new word while addressing a CCF rally in Toronto Dovercourt in preparation for the June 9 Ontario provincial election.

"A churkendoser," he said, "is a kind of farm bird I learned about reading bedtime stories to my children. It's a cross between chicken, turkey, duck, and goose."

He said Oliver's followers "say they have been 'chicken' everytime the old boys tell them to 'churkendoser' ideas. Their recreat from hospital and health insurance. Certainly my wife can talk 'turkey' on any of the issues of the campaign.

"All I can show how to do is to 'duck' every time a genuine political question arises. The Liberal program for Ontario adds up to one large 'goose-egg' for the people."

Strolls Through 'Tunnel of Love' May Ease Bachelors Into Marriage

ECAUSSINES, Belgium, (Reuters)—Bachelors were feted with champagne and taken for walks in a wooded "tunnel of love" here Monday.

Five hundred single girls from all over the country turned up to take bachelors of their choice through the tunnel, a romantic winding path overhung with tree branches.

And if the 62 previous Whitsun Monday excursions are any yardstick, Monday's strolls will result in about 50 weddings.

This annual mate-seeking is an annual event at Ecaussines and two other villages near here. It starts with a "matrimonial test" though only coffee was drunk Monday.

In Ecaussines and the village of Tracegnies, it is the ladies who invite the men to the tea and later the ball.

At nearby Rosquieres the bachelors are invited to choose or urge them out.

Ecaussines went all-out for converts to the connubial cause Monday. Bachelors coming to the town hall were welcomed with champagne.

Banners proclaimed such slogans as "you must be married to be happy," and "you'll never be married if you keep sucking your thumb."

The day's schedule included a speech by the unmarried president of the Hopeful Society of the Ecaussinettes. Then came the "theories of matrimony." Then a large open-air dance went on well into the night.

Queen Gives Eden Emergency Powers To Handle Strikes

Signs Royal Proclamation Declaring Emergency Exists

LONDON (AP)—The Queen today signed a royal proclamation declaring a national emergency to take effect tonight in strike-bound Britain.

The Queen, vacationing at Balmoral castle in the Scottish highlands, gave Prime Minister Eden widespread powers to deal with the rail and dock strikes slowly paralyzing the country's economy.

The Queen signed the proclamation at the request of three members of the Privy Council—her advisers.

Lord Salisbury, lord president of the council, then left for London. There the Great Seal of the realm must be affixed to the proclamation before it can take effect.

Salisbury made the trip to Balmoral earlier today along with Lord Munster, minister without portfolio, and Fuel Minister Geoffrey Lloyd.

Eden sought the powers "to protect the nation" as the strike of 70,000 railway engineers and firemen went into its third day with strike leaders asserting defiantly "our men are determined to see this through."

In another strike, now entering its second week, a walkout has crippled six major ports in a union jurisdictional fight. Eden's move was no peace in sight.

Under a national emergency, the prime minister can call out troops and requisition transport and supplies if necessary to maintain the nation's essential services.

Eden now has a free hand to deal with the strikes, but just how many of the new powers he will invoke remains to be announced. He can give the orders piecemeal as the situation develops.

The first industrial plant to feel the effects of the strike was the South Durham Steel Co., which laid off 350 shipbuilt workers because of lack of coal.

Two of Britain's biggest steel-producing firms, the United Steel Companies and Colvile's, announced they were forced to close by the weekend unless the strike is settled.

Officials agreed that Britain's booming economy would be hurt plenty if the strike continued for even a few days.

HUGE TRAFFIC JAM

London was threatened with the worst traffic jam in its history. Hundreds of thousands of suburbanites who normally ride to work by train were expected to use their afoot or by automobile.

Long lines of trucks carrying goods ordinarily moved by rail added to the congestion.

The metropolitan police called in special constables to help deal with the expected 700,000 more official vehicles and private cars—four times the normal daily flow.

All central London was declared a no-parking zone. Hyde Park and other parks will be thrown open for parking.

Many businessmen, mindful of Whitsuntide holidaymakers were stranded overnight at bus and railway stations, urged their organization home from seaside resorts.

Two Fishermen Treed 7 Hours By Hungry Bear

PORT ARTHUR, (CP)—An emergency call by bear trapped two fishermen in trees for more than seven hours in this area last Friday.

William MacKay, fishing a stream near Pine While Otter river with George Marcx, climbed a tree when he was attacked first by the enraged bear. His companion also hit the tree tops for safety. The 400-pound bear sent up the tree after them and hung onto a branch with its teeth while it clawed at MacKay's legs.

MacKay then leaped, Tarzan-style, to a nearby tree. Marcx climbed down the first tree and up the next. This went on for about two hours, before the bruin tired after it received a few kicks in the snout.

The two men were rescued when a logging truck driver stopped and fired a few shots at the bear. But when the two men came down out of the trees, the bear chased them to the truck.

8th Anniversary Of Congregation Is Observed

Wesleyan Methodists marked their 8th anniversary in their new location at the corner of Forest and Henry Streets on Sunday. Very gratifying congregations were present for the two services of the day. The guest preacher, Rev. W. H. McConnell, Newington, Ont., commended the people for their vision and growth, which was evidenced by the massive church extension now well under way. He spoke and urged upon his listeners the great necessity of clinging tenaciously to the "faith of our fathers," and the 'importance of a "strong faith in Jesus Christ."

At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. James S. A. Spearman, gave a brief review of the origin and growth of the work in Belleville. He cited the encouraging features and thanked the congregation for their loyal support, co-operation and generous support given through the years.

Faithful Christian stewardship," said the pastor, "should always result in immediate spiritual blessings."

Special feature of the day was the assistance given by the choir and the solo numbers rendered by Miss Donelda Day.

Returning to his car parked at the rear of the theatre, Mr. Kerr was surprised to find a piece of rubber hose hanging from the exhaust and leading into a can on the ground. Apparently his returning scared away would-be thieves.

Council Takes Initial Steps To Provide New Traffic Artery

Belleville city council at a special meeting Monday evening took initial steps to provide a new traffic artery leading from the new location at the corner of Forest and Henry Streets on Sunday.

Motions were presented for the two services of the day. The guest preacher, Rev. W. H. McConnell, Newington, Ont., commended the people for their vision and growth, which was evidenced by the massive church extension now well under way. NEW ROAD PROPOSED

Instead, it was suggested that a new access road west of No. 14 highway be provided with an underpass carrying it over railway tracks. The actual route of the proposed access road would be decided following a survey.

Alderman Keegan said the land required had been acquired at little cost and the recommendation for the planning board to take up the necessary options "at no cost to the city" was passed.

There was little discussion on the question of deepening the channel at Telegraph Light. Alderman Keegan said a deeper channel would allow larger boats to get up the bay and would reduce water freight rates into Belleville.

"The present channel allowing a maximum draft of 14 feet seriously affected industry," he said.

Mayor J. Both noted that matter had already been brought to the attention of the federal government and was being considered. So far no word had been received from Ottawa as to whether the dredging of the channel would be done.

In opening discussion on the matter of policy for the suburban planning board, Ald. Keegan said this body was not set up properly as Belleville was the largest contributor and should have the largest representation. At the present time Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow have equal representation. Belleville is expected to pay 85 per cent of the costs.

He suggested the board should include representatives from hydro, school boards and others.

TAXES NOT PAID

There was no further discussion however when Ald. Keegan asked if the city's share of the Belleville and Suburban Planning board was included in the $1,940 were voted the city should have no say in how it was spent.

Alderman Enos David sought to register a protest regarding the city's participation in the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association, pointing out that a zone meeting of this organization was being held in the city at the same time as the council meeting.

He said the council meeting had been called at the same time as the regional development meeting whether by accident or design he could not say.

"What do you mean by design," interrupted Mayor Both.

In reply Ald. David asked the Mayor if there was a communication from the regional development association inviting council to their meetings.

"This council meeting was called at the request of one of the council members and the council chambers were in use last week," replied the Mayor. "There was no address to the Mayor but it was received after our last council meeting."

Ald. David's motion for suspension of the rules to allow discussion on matters other than that for which the meeting was called was lost when on a recorded vote it failed to receive the necessary two-thirds majority.

Zone Directors of Regional Development Assoc. Named

Zone three of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association comprising the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington was officially set up at a meeting held in the county town of Belleville.

Although the Belleville council has still to give its official okay for participation in the Association, two of the six directors from Hastings are from the city.

Chosen to represent Hastings on the zone board of directors was Alderman Jane Forrester and P. C. McGuire of Belleville, and Treasurer R. Jim Hollywell and J. MacDonald of Trenton; Reeve Cecil Ketcheson of Thurlow township, and E. W. Jones of Tweed.

Representing Lennox and Addington are Napanee councillor Harold Lasher; Wilfred Cressy, of Napanee and Fred Vandervoort of Bath.

Prince Edward members of the directorate are Sam Gentile of Picton, J. Guie of Consecon and Harold Wilcox of Wellington.

O. W. Larry was chosen chairman of the zone board of directors and with Mr. Gentile as vice president, P. C. McGuire and H. Vandervoort will be director on the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association board of directors.

The Region is divided into three zones, Zone 1 comprises the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, Northumberland and Durham and Northumberland making up Zone 11 MUNICIPALITIES REPRESENTED

Eleven municipalities were represented at last night's zone meeting. These were Wellington, Sidney, Thurlow township, Trenton, Picton, Bloomfield, Napanee, Belleville, Tweed, Frankford and Sidney township.

While not represented at the meeting written notification of participation in the association was received from the village of Bath, Belleville, Frankford and Sidney township councils had not given definite authorization of participation. All others approved.

Purpose of the Association is to promote industrial and other development in the region. Each participating municipality is assessed on the population with Belleville share set at $1,400 per year.

Both Potts, representative of the Trade and Industry branch, attended the meeting and answered questions relative to the Association. He noted that participation by municipalities should be for a period of at least three years as definite results are expected in a shorter period.

He noted that the Association was not intended to dispense with individual effort on the part of municipalities and local industry but was intended to augment the work of municipal industrial development efforts. Participation in the Association was voluntary but should be for a period of three years.

Want Meat Sold On Retail Markets To Be Graded

OTTAWA (CP) — Farm spokesmen in the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties joined forces Monday in demanding that meat be sold on retail markets be graded for the housewives.

They said in the Commons that when farmers are required to sell livestock by grades, the grades should be passed on to consumers.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner replied he can see how the government can safeguard everyone who buys meat, but points out that he doesn't believe housewives any fooled often by butchers.

"Housewives know about as much about meat as the man who's selling it," he said.

SELL BY GRADE

G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) said hog producers sell animals by grade, taking a lower price for low-grade animals. But there was no assurance that the meat would not be sold to a top-grade pork. There were no grades marked on retail pork cuts and the buyer could not distinguish.

"I can tell" replied Mr. Gardiner, who said he does much of his family's shopping, "but you'll have to yourself."

The discussion arose during consideration of a measure, later passed, to consolidate standards and grading legislation for interprovincial and export trade in dairy products, livestock, fruit, vegetables, meat and canned foods.

FOR LOW GRADES

John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) said meat producers are docked for low grades.

"We would like to see those grades follow through to the consumer."

Mr. Gardiner said the measure will not change the present procedure of grading farm products being laid interprovincial and export trade.

In reply to a suggestion by Davie Fulton, QC, Conservative, that federal standards should conform to provincial grades, the minister said present federal gradings already apply in all provinces on most products. In some instances, the same inspector acted for both the federal and provincial governments.

Quinte Players Prepare For Summer Plays

Belleville's summer theatre soon will be in the process of presentation to playgoers.

Right now it is in the process of production.

Focal point of the theatrical activity is Trinity County Gardens across the bay at Rossmore where the Quinte Players now are readying for their second season of summer plays.

At this stage of the game bulk of the work is being concentrated on the stage itself.

Up this year again is constructed a full stage at Tobe's larger than the one built for its initial presentations last year and one better equipped with backstage facilities.

At the moment the set for the opening production, "Three's a Crowd" has been erected. Responsible for the decor again this year will be Phillipos Faulkner well-known Belleville artist, who has contributed to most productions in the city.

Backstage business is being supervised by Bill Jardine, husband of the director for the season, Elaine Jardine. Busting under his orders is a full crew of workers advised by assistants Roy Bisset and Ed Rickards.

Come the beginning of June the players take over where they leave off and Belleville will begin into its second season of summer theatre.

Blacksmith Shop At Holloway Burned to Ground

One of a few such shops remaining in the district, the blacksmith shop at Holloway, north of Belleville, was completely destroyed by fire Monday evening with a loss of stock and implements estimated at $5,000.

Origin of the blaze was not determining but when the fire was noticed shortly after nine o'clock it was already too late to save any of the contents. Burned in the blaze were power saws, a lathe and other machines as well as blacksmith equipment. A car was also burned.

Mr. Emerson worked at his blacksmith shop only part time doing horse shoeing and general repairs for farmers in the Holloway district. He worked days at the Stephens Adamson plant in Belleville.

Belleville firemen were called to the blaze but the fire had too great a start and nothing could be done to save the structure.

Miss Hazel Farley Honored By Trenton Legion Branch

TRENTON — (Special)—Members of the Trenton Legion, the Women's Auxiliary to the Legion, relatives and local and out-of-town guests gathered in the auditorium of the Legion premises last night when Miss Hazel Farley was awarded the Meritorious Service certificate and an honorary membership by Trenton Branch 110 in recognition of the great work she did during World War II, sustaining the morale of Trenton men and women serving in all three services. Miss Farley, a high school teacher with long service, gave of her time and effort unfailingly and unselfishly, keeping up a constant flow of letters and parcels to former students of the Trenton High School whether they were in Canada, in prison camps or in the front lines. Newspaper clippings and pictures of "my boys", as she likes to call them, fill many scrapbooks.

"It is with a deep sense of honest humility and utter unworthiness that I have been chosen here tonight," declared Miss Farley following the ceremony. The lapel badge of the Legion was presented to the new honorary member by Branch President E. Donaldson. Padre A. S. McConnell presented the certificate with some outstanding service. The honorary membership card was presented by Mayor Ross Hinchey — at — arms Angus Duffy of Belleville, one of Miss Farley's students, presented her to a seat at the right of the presidents table.

MAKES HUMOROUS SPEECH

Miss Farley said she realized she was only the representative of the high school staff and the citizens of the town. She injected a note of humor into her initial, arousing a long outburst of laughter, as she explained that in taking the solemn oath pertaining to the principles and aims of the Canadian Legion she was given her only chance in life to say "I will."

Miss Farley apologized for talking about the experiences of some of her students and paying particular mention of the ones who did not come back.

She revealed how she collected money for the sock fund. "If a student got a letter she shewed gum he paid a quarter or did one of my questions. Not one of my questions was ever done." These remarks prompted more laughter.

250 Attend X-Ray Clinic On First Day

Approximately 250 persons, the majority of them Belleville housewives, attended the free TB X-ray clinic, which commenced yesterday at the Belleville Arena.

The TB X-ray survey in Hastings is being conducted by the Belleville Kinsmen club as sponsor of the Hastings County TB Association.

While a portable X-ray unit in charge of Wilfred Dorion, mass X-ray technician for the Ontario Department of Health, is operating in Belleville a mobile X-ray unit is operating at smaller centres in the county.

Butcher Offered Demonstration To Prove Point

OTTAWA (CP)—A butcher offered Monday to wield his cleaver in Parliament to prove a point to Commons debate.

Lucien Lamoureux, 66-year-old Social Credit member for Jasper-Edson, told the Commons he has been a retail butcher at Barrhead, Alta., "for more years than I care to remember."

"If I had the privilege of operating on a carcass of beef here, I could give you a bit of a lesson" he said, "if I had a hog here I could prove you a few things."

He was replying to John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) who said that when a farmer's hog is sold as C grade, the grade should be carried through to the retail sale.

Mr. Yuill said that when excess fat is trimmed from a grade C pork loin, no one could tell the difference from top-grade pork.

"I have cut tons and hundreds of tons of meat. I know what I am talking about."

Alderman Mrs. Herbert McCabe, worker in the Liberal cause for many years, was elected president of the Belleville Women's Association at a reorganization meeting held in the committee rooms on Front Street on Monday evening. There were about fifty women in attendance and after the election of officers, the meeting was addressed by the candidate, Irving McGaughey and the Federal member for South Hastings, Frank S. Follwell. The election of officers was caused by the death of the president, Mrs George Wilson, nearly a month ago.

A. Tucker; membership secretary, Mrs. Hugh Flagler; press secretary, Mrs. Carl Sallsbury; social convener, Mrs. Charles Ford; chairman ways and means committee, Mrs. Carl Marks. Other committee chairmen were elected by the directorate.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Ben Burley, secretary of the Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association, who in opening stated that through other committments, it would be impossible to accept any office in the organization but would assist in every way possible. She concluded by turning over the chair to the newly-elected president, Mrs. Burley paid tribute to work that the late president had done for the Association. She said that Mrs. Wilson had left the world a better place to live in."

Both the candidate and Mr. Follwell thanked the women for the interest taken and that although the time was short before the election they were sure all would assist in the tasks that were ahead. Mr. McGaughey also paid tribute to the late Mrs. Wilson for her interest in Liberalism and her community through the years.

At the conclusion of the meeting coffee and refreshments were served.

PEOPLE AND PROSPERITY

Prosperity and progress depend upon population. Particularly is this so in Canada where a limited domestic market results in the national economy being unduly dependent upon exports.

Disquieting, therefore, are the latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures which reveal a substantial slowing down in population growth. In the 12 months ended February 28th, Canada's population was a mere 2.6 per cent higher than on the same date a year ago. Total gain in population was only 399,000, including natural births. The biggest drop was in the number of "New Canadians" acquired through immigration.

Those who regard that immigration should be curbed, as in fact it was during the business recession of 1954, should ponder carefully the cause of such recessions. So far as Canada is concerned, business was slack in 1954 because export markets for Canadian farm products, notably grain, were weak, and because the domestic market for Canadian manufactured goods was undermined by cheap imports entering the country under GATT.

If dependence on export markets is to be lessened, the only way of accomplishing this objective is to encourage greater immigration. Likewise, if immigration is to be encouraged, Ottawa will have to give serious consideration to adopting trade policies which offer some assurance that Canadian industry's domestic markets will not be undermined by foreign imports of a type which contribute to unemployment in Canada.

MORE COMMUNIST CANDIDATES

The official nominations for the Ontario election on June 9 contain one surprise. The party has nominated 26 candidates. In the last election it nominated only six and in the 1948 election only ten.

What is the reason behind this increase in the number of Communist candidates? It is certainly not the result of any hope that many of these candidates will be elected. There has been no upsurge in the popularity of Communism. Unemployment is still small in Canada. Some protest votes, but few of these votes will go to the Labor-Progressives. Yet we may be sure that there is a reason behind this increased political activity. It is in keeping with the officially party line, not the outcome of a series of decisions at the local level.

Meanwhile the chance that the Ontario Legislature may be without a single Communist member after the election does not look too bright. J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrew's is facing four candidates, a Progressive-Conservative, a Liberal, a C.C.F.-er, and a woman running as an independent. With the anti-Communist vote split four ways, Salsberg would appear to have a good chance of avoiding again the fate which overtook A. A. MacLeod in the last provincial election. Aside from Salsberg, though, no Labor-Progressive candidate appears to have a ghost of a chance.

HURRAH FOR THE "OLD SCHOOL"

Harry Long, of Toronto, president of the National Home Builders' Association, says that he is "one of the old school."

"We weren't able to handle the depression and we old-timers lost our shirts," he told a contractors' meeting at Windsor.

There are those who will consider this a confession of failure.

If, however, Mr. Long is a failure, which we doubt, he is a failure for whom we have considerable respect, for he spoke in slighting terms of a type of success which is apparently the hallmark of "the new school."

Canadian contractors, it seems are "beating it off to Florida for the winter" and letting their workers go on the dole.

Builders, he said, are shirking their responsibility during the winter months when construction activities slacken. A considerable decrease in building activity is inevitable during the Canadian winter, but Mr. Long evidently thinks that contractors' failure to counteract work assumes higher proportions than is necessary. A man with such an outlook deserves better of the industry than the loss of his shirt and it is, to be hoped he has succeeded in recouping his depression losses during the post-war years.

PROTECT THE CHILDREN

Summer is here, regardless of what the calendar says. Days are spent in play. For many this means the public streets. They ride their bicycles there. Play ball and other games will prevail and it is almost impossible to keep them in their own yards.

This brings an obligation to motorists which must not be neglected. Driving in residential sections they should never lose sight of the possibility of a youngster popping out in front of them.

Parents should watch them as carefully as possible. Drivers must watch the extra care, lest the youngster, happy in play, will be injured or killed through negligence. Protect the children. (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder).

TEACHERS ALL

"Beware of members," said the pyre.
"And stay behind their reach.
Because if close to them you go
They'll promptly start to teach.

Golf changes in a curious way
Both brilliant and the dumb.
Regardless of the way they play,
Instructors they become.

"Upon the course they will be met
And on the practice tee.
They'll give advice that you'll regret,
And give it to you free.

They're found in numbers everywhere.
Your faults they plainly view,
And they will tell you then and there
Just how and what to do.

"They'll name the club you should have used
The hole in par to score,
But they will leave you more confused
Than you have been before.
Those self-made teachers never heed.
They only think they know,
If it is golf advice you need,
You'd better see your pro."

Mrs. C. Harris has returned to her home in Madoc after visiting friends here.

From our file copy of this time in 1895: "Dr. Yooley of this city has purchased from the estate of the late Dr. Wilson, the property on the southeast corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets and extending east to the open space at the top of the hill at the corner of Bridge and Church Streets. It is stated that the price paid was $4500. Possession of the property will be given next spring. Past Glories of Food

(By Prof. Arthur L. Phelps of the University of British Columbia in a talk on the CBC)

I bought a loaf of big baker's bread. It burnt my finger into it. I closed my fist and had in my hand — doughy white muck. I sighed for the past glories of real food I didn't have in my hand the staff of life. I had in my hand a chemical synthesis of denatured inadequacy. Or so it seemed to me in my nostalgia for the bread my mother used to bake.

It isn't only bread. It's potatoes and oatmeal porridge and spare ribs and turnips and cake mixes and honey and sausages and candies. The basic foods don't seem what they used to be. Mass market production and commercialization and synthetic chemicals seems to have left our tables bereft of the satisfying vitality of honest food. I cry out for past glories.

I don't think I am alone in this. I think anybody over fifty feels as I do. I don't suppose any of us can do a thing about it; we must be as the times.

For years, every July, I have wailed for the taste of new potatoes as I bought the old. Describing it, I almost persuaded myself that the flavor I was praising was a creation of my romantic memory and no reality at all. Then, unexpectedly, a neighbor's car beside a cottage in Grosmorne Park, Newfoundland, I found on the look of the garden and the lady of the house, and decided to stay with them. And so I did. Next day I remained for a week because that night for dinner we had new potatoes with exactly the aroma, the texture and the flavor cherished in memory. I have never had such a good per-adventure that I am right in my conception of what new potatoes can be like.

I don't think honey is like it used to be. I was inclined to assume that this at least must be pure, but when I went to market the day we stumbled on an incidental item which stated that the use of honey for flavor was to be restricted but broad gave some disquiet to the health authorities. We were moved to wail again and to cry, "Honey gone, too!"

Then there is the matter of oatmeal porridge. What in the world has happened? On our transcontinental trains — on one of the systems at least — we used to get a fluffy glutinous porridge with aroma and a delectable flavor I can't find now. We were told once of a mill where we could get oats ground simply and unprocessed which would give the ideal texture and flavor but we never found that mill.

And what about ice cream? Is it true that seaweed is its main constituent? I remember — but I had better not remember else I shall soon begin to dream of that gelatinous concoction which, if left for a few moments on a dessert plate, slithers down into a shapeless mess of sticky denatured non-entity.

One more wail and I have done. In my high school entrance days, a group of us used to be juvenile delinquents on Saturdays. We used to roam the farm country round about our little town and rob farms. We made an exciting study of it — and I think it did us no harm — we raced across fields. We hid in barns. Our party once broke into a barn with no one in sight. Finding such, we entered and hunted for loot. Our party was divided about a code. We never took more than one item from any one place. When we had gathered a hatful of eggs or sometimes a bluecoat (the container of the time) had to wait very carefully) we hurried back home, for 'ten minutes before that, not the slightest discomfort or im-

My mother, age 89 years, has shoulder bursitis (wrotes Mrs. H. T. A.) and thinks it is from lack of calcium in her system. That's ridiculous, as she never drinks milk, never eats eggs, eats very little fruit and hardly any salads. Her evening meal is usually potato, vegetable. The rest of the time she lives on bread and coffee. She won't listen. . . .

(Mrs. H. V. A.)

If mother's bursitis is as painful as the right shoulder bursitis I had some years ago, I can sympathize with her. Two or three times I cried so piteously with it that a medical colleague came in and gave me a shot of morph—at least I suppose it was morphine.

It was not until my bursitis was over with that I learned about the needle treatment (and I don't mean morphine), but that's a subject for a piece by and by. In the course of six weeks, under diathermy (deep heat) treatments, passive movements by physical therapists and gradually increasing active movements or exercises (which were somewhat painful, but necessary if I were to regain full use of the shoulder) I made a complete recovery.

A year later I suffered a fracture of the opposite shoulder. X-ray films of both shoulders (for comparison) revealed a calcium deposit in the right shoulder, bursa — calcification. Mind, for ten months before that, not the slightest discomfort or impaired use of the shoulder. Whether the bursa is still calcified I don't know or care. An X-ray film would probably show the calcium deposit, or possibly it is no longer there, but no matter. What I'm trying to make you understand is that despite what the neighborhood fishwives, the salesvarmens, Ben Todd, Mrs. Sumsay, the trick specialists or the "clinic" racketeers may say about calcium, the deposit of calcium or calcification anywhere in the body is the consequence of inflammation, infection, or injury and not the cause of it.

Long study of pathology gives me the assurance to say this, and I challenge contradiction by any qualified physician or pathologist.

How much "too much" calcium or "too much" vitamin D may be harmful, Packers, et al, are careful not to specify.

How much calcium and/or vitamin D may be the proper medicinal dose in any circumstance is a question for the bleeding physician. It is not in my province.

In this column and elsewhere I recommend no more calcium and/or vitamin D than a person should get from his everyday diet and/or exposure of naked skin to sunshine and fresh air.

It is absurd to imagine that one can get an adequate daily intake of calcium and/or vitamin D is more likely to have calcified tissues than a deficiency of calcium than one who doesn't.

Watch Out For Hitchhikers

(Reader's Digest)

Hitchhiking crimes have become so common that only the most bizarre get nationwide attention.

Before the summer is over you are sure to see many hitchhikers. Most will be innocent enough — soldiers on furlough, youngsters without bus fare. But how can you tell the honest ones from the vicious? Shag who is waiting to steal your car and money and perhaps even kill you? Others are sore when you "to find out," the Digest observes. "Pick up a lonely-looking girl and run a chance to rob, knife, black-jack, shoot or kill. If he does none of these things, he may rape you."

The article cites case after case of robbing, killing and kidnaping on the nation's highways. Some of these crimes have been committed by teen-agers. Others by hardened youths mistaken for college boys. In Pennsylvania a boy and girl gave his son a college picked up a young hitchhiker only a block from the son's fraternity house. This was the motorist's kindly custom as a "thank you" for a ride to his own son. The next day his sedan, beaten and mutilated body was found in a hedgerow snowbank on a back road.

In areas near penal or mental institutions, a large proportion of all hitchhikers are escapees. Some of these places are marked for motorists' protection, but most are not, drivers unfamiliar with the area cannot know they are entering a critical region.

Even the non-criminal hitchhiker

Wood Range Thing of Past

(Boston Herald)

In the less hurried, more flavorful 1910 era, a farm lad never dreamed that one day wood-burning ranges would become stylish. A burning issue to humanity's growing junk pile of outmoded accoutrements. The battered woodbox at the side of the kitchen range was forever becoming empty. Modern victim-of-circumstances sisters were always happy to remind a brother that the box needed filling. Before sore was healed.

Mother was particular about the wood. She liked the dry, and fathers always planned to have a good supply well ahead. In the fall, before the first snow, the summer, for quick, hot fires, mother favored poplar or rebellious drivin' rain raking their time around forty, and, of course, the more ambitious characters trying to get sixty every chance they got ie cut down.

It was not easy to cut out around some a shock, because, there was a fairly busy upstream traffic. But every time a gap did occur, half the other cars would impulsively step out of line and speed ahead, despite the fact that there was no room for them in the precession. And when an upcoming car forced them into the next line, there was the usual backing and filling in the procession until the ambitious ones were kindly accommodated. They have passed four or five car lengths in each of these most disturbing enterprises, creating nerve-strain, anger and distress to maybe two dozen of their fellow-motorists each time they cut out. But I very much doubt if, in the whole seventy-five can cause financial trouble. A driver may be held liable for injury to a hitchhiker. One collected the Digest reports, has been sued for $100,000.

U.S. Ducks Invade Russia

(Watertown, N.Y.)

American ducks have invaded Russia. These are not to be confused with the revolutionary type of landing craft employed by the United States navy. Rather, they are of the waterfowl species and not under the control of the joint chiefs of staff.

Just the same, it was feared that the fact that ducks were "free" and could go where they pleased might result in some sort of international incident.

The Russian embassy reported that some two dozen pintail ducks and a few snow geese and brants from the United States had been found in the Lena basin section of Siberia. They had the bands put on them by U.S. bird banders to prove it. The Russians did not claim that our ducks had defected to Communism, although it is by might have entertained such a possibility had any of the birds been Redwings or Redheaded Woodpeckers.

Apparently, however, the Russians do not feel that these winged invaders are a new type of spy being used to snoop out Russian naval secrets. A Russian official relayed the news from Moscow to Washington that a duck, handed to the Siberian Pass wildlife refuge near Corpus Christi, Texas, in 1951, was reported killed at Kresta

Jet Engine Burns Coal

(Telegraph-Journal, Saint John, N.B.)

A new, coal-burning jet engine that produces both electricity and heat has been developed in Britain and tried experimentally in Scotland. One of the main objects at present is to assess its commercial possibilities.

Fuel Minister Geoffrey Lloyd, speaking to a Conservative party meeting in Birmingham, explained that it burns pulverized coal, drives a turbine to generate electricity, while its exhaust operates a central heating plant. It is based on the kerosene-burning aircraft jet engine.

If found to be commercially efficient, this new development may have something to offer areas such as New Brunswick where the production of power from coal is an important factor in the existence and progress of a long-established primary industry.

Bay in Russia, just south of the Arctic Circle, last spring.

This would seem that maybe the Russians are just a little enthused over the long flight of the migratory bird -made and wanted to tell us about it. Otherwise they would have merely listed the duck as having been shot down while flying off course over Soviet territory.

TODAY'S TALK

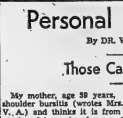
WHY FIRST EDITIONS?

For fully a third of my life I have been a rather enthusiastic collector of first editions. I can recall when such an idea seemed foolish and silly. But we get over that sort of thing as we grow old and when we get to the meat, or heart, of life.

And so I began to see the light that had brought such joy to so many. I began to read a book as never since I can remember. I began to read it slowly. I began to library that interested me, and after my chores after school I could be found in the book's small library. This continued until I was 16 years old. Then I began to build a library of my own as soon as I began to earn even the small salary that I did. A book store always smelled good to me.

I began to collect when I first began the collecting of first editions. I read somewhere a statement by the eminent writer Hilaire Belloc that after he had read a great book in its first edition, all material.

other editions were spoiled for him. I don't go so far as that, but a first edition, is a precious treasure to me because of many things. First, it represents the dream, the struggle, the disappointments, and the hopes that hold on to me before that day of joy when someone says the magic words.



On one of my visits to the Yale University library I asked to see the first Bible printed in the Colonies, the "Bay Psalm Book" by name. I had been interested in it at Yale for something like $150,000. As I carefully handled it I could see why it should be so precious! I believe there have been but one or two others preserved. It was published in New England in 1640.

I am glad to see the books of authors that have stood the test of time. I am interested in seeing how their first editions in our libraries compare with the later ones that can be learned by studying all he has created and especially his first editions.

THE SNAKE GREW

We were sitting on a beach and a little two-foot rat snake slithered down out of the bushes and started to crawl over the sand.

The boys attempted to capture it up by the tail and threw him back where he had come from. An hour and a half later, at the other end of the beach, I heard this episode recounted, and the rat snake had become an eight-foot boa constrictor. It had already attacked a man and had swallowed a baby in ingese dog.

Many years ago I recall hearing an elderly man tell how his life had been warped and embittered by a slightly exaggerated story which got started about him in his youth. To make matters worse, his father as to murder his body.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With seventy-five miles to drive, I turned in on the two lane highway and joined the procession of mid-weekend procession homeward. The average speed of traffic would be near fifty miles an hour, despite its density, with occasional flurries of two or rebellious drivers raking their time around forty, and, of course, the more ambitious characters trying to get sixty every chance they got ie cut down.

It was not easy to cut out around some a shock, because, there was a fairly busy upstream traffic. Burma's Premier Prepared To Urge U.S. to Accept Red China's Offer of Negotiations

By DAVID CHIPP

RANGOON (Reuters)—Burma's plain-speaking prime minister, U Nu, is going to Washington in June prepared to urge the United States to accept at face value Communist China's offer of negotiations.

Sources close to the prime minister say U Nu will stress that the United States has "nothing to lose" in agreeing to try to ease tension in the Far East through bilateral negotiations as suggested by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai at the Afro-Asian conference in April.

U Nu always has maintained that tension between these two countries could be lessened "if only China and the United States would try to understand one another better." Diplomatic observers here believe his talks with American leaders will center on this theme.

But U Nu has stressed that his world tour, which also includes visits to Israel, Yugoslavia, Egypt, Britain and Japan, is mainly a "goodwill" trip during which he will study the way other countries have tackled post-war problems.

NO FORMOSA ANSWER

The Burmese prime minister has said he is not going to Washington with any ready-made solution of the Formosa dispute—"even the Gods cannot solve." But since his visits to Communist China last December, he frequently has expressed the wish to go to Washington in an effort to bring about better understanding.

As the first Asian leader to visit the United States since the Bandung conference, U Nu is expected to give a first-hand report of the views of the uncommitted Asian countries.

Some quarters here believe U Nu may tell Americans, both privately and publicly, that Communist China "is not as black as has been painted."

In Peiping, at a banquet attended by many leading Chinese Communists, he praised Americans as a "courageous and generous people," who had it in their power to do much good for the world.

LIKES SOME PHASES

In Washington, he is expected openly to praise those sides of modern Chinese life which he has found most admirable—the discipline, the cleanliness and the industry of the ordinary people.

Burmese leaders have said repeatedly that they are willing to accept the Chinese protestations of friendship and to believe in the good intentions of the powerful Communist neighbor with whom Burma has a 900-mile-long common frontier.

Since she won her independence over seven years ago, Burma has remained neutral in international politics. Her leaders have maintained that only by extension of "third area of peace" and by encouraging more countries to become "uncommitted" can tension be relaxed in the world, and especially in Asia.

Soviet Union Out-Smarts Rivals in Argentine Market

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The Soviet Union appears to have outsmarted its competitors in the scramble for the Argentine market.

Ever since the government became the country's main purchaser, foreign nations have been dispatching trade delegations to Argentina. These invariably spent weeks, often months, in the conference rooms of the foreign ministry trying to balance elaborate lists of imports and exports.

The Russians took a step ahead of the others. Soviet officials who came to Buenos Aires in May for routine negotiations brought with them a team of salesmen and two shiploads of samples.

The display of goods constitutes one of the biggest industrial shows ever staged in Argentina and one of the biggest the Soviet Union ever has presented abroad. About 20 Russian engineers are busy demonstrating machines and keeping them in order.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT

The Russians spared neither time nor trouble in choosing showpieces to take to Argentina. They carefully picked out equipment best suited to the specific conditions of the Argentine market.

Pointing to an all-riven electric welder, a Russian engineer explained: "See how few controls this machine has. Any unskilled worker can handle it after a 15-minute explanation. We have sold 40 of these in this country."

As the Argentine labor force is only in the early stages of specialization, simplicity is an essential feature to attract the attention of buyers.

The Soviet Union has gone out of its way to comply with the wishes of Argentina. In 1953 so-called renewed last year, when interchange reached more than $21,000,000 each way, has been 80 per cent fulfilled.

In addition, the Soviet Union granted Argentina the possibility of buying up to $20,000,000 worth of capital equipment on a long-term basis. No other country has offered such financing for so large a proportion of the over-all trade volume.

Farmer Resumes Hog Sale Fight After Case Ends

STRATFORD (CP) — Theodore Parker said Monday he will continue to campaign against the Ontario hog producers marketing board and United Livestock Sales Limited.

"I am against controls and I am satisfied that 90 per cent of the farmers of Ontario are with me and I will keep on fighting until this costly nonsense is discontinued."

Mr. Parker's legal case against the marketing board and the company was dismissed "by consent" in Supreme Court Monday and the two associations were ordered to pay him $100 and costs.

The Elliot township farmer brought an action challenging the right of the company to be appointed marketing agent under provisions of the Ontario hog producers' marketing plan and to fix minimum prices for his hogs and direct where they should be sold.

Recent amendments to the Farm Products Marketing Act, which were made retroactive, "pretty well washed up the legal side of the case," he said.

Mr. Parker said later: "I am glad to have this case out of court because for three months I have kept quiet and said nothing. Believe me, I am now have plenty to say."

He said it was a "shame the government didn't let things stand and have the case aired completely in court because people should know how United Livestock Sales Ltd. "waxed fat on the farmers' hogs. That is what I wanted to show them."

He claimed the ULS made a profit from hogs which the organization did not market. The agency handled only 9.68 per cent of hogs in Ontario but collected 26 cents on 100 per cent of markings.

"Here is the biggest scandal of this whole case:

"ULS has told farmers that they were getting better prices for the farmers. But in their defence, filed at Supreme Court, they solemnly deny they were fixing prices at all and say prices were established in accordance with the laws of supply and demand.

"That's what we had before controls. If this is true, what was ULS doing for the more than a million dollars it collected from us?"

MADOC

Travelling Art Exhibit Shown In Village

MADOC—During the past week Connor's store has been the centre for the display of the East Central Ontario Travelling Art Exhibit. This is the work of amateur artists in the area bounded by Kingston, Cobourg, Lindsay, Haliburton and Bancroft.

The purpose of this display is to encourage painting as a leisure time enjoyment, foster the advancement of those already painting, create a community interest in art and develop by degrees, a higher standard of art appreciation among artists and art lovers.

OPENING NIGHT

The opening night of this exhibit was held in Madoc on Friday evening under the patronage of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Connor, who through their generous efforts have made this exhibit possible here.

One entire section of the store was given over this week for the art display.

Among the many out-of-town guests present for the opening night was Mr. Weir of the Community Programs branch of the Department of Education, which is sponsoring the work.

After viewing the art, the guests were served refreshments in the Connor apartment, which was beautifully decorated with lilacs and spring flowers.

Miss Lamoine West and Mrs. Thomas Rupert assisted the hostess.

The exhibit will move on to Bancroft for display during the last week of May 28th to June 3rd.

Asked to Reject Catholic Offer For Classrooms

PICTOU, N.S. (CP) — Twelve citizens of predominantly Protestant town have petitioned the board of school commissioners to reject a Roman Catholic offer to lease the town four classrooms.

The petition said a proposal by Stella Maris parish for religious instruction before or after school hours constituted "segregation of pupils on religious grounds."

It also said the plan "can drive a wedge in the public school system."

The parish offered to construct a school and lease it to the board which would pay salaries of two lay teachers and furnish heat, light and water for the building.

Several Maritime communities make similar arrangements with separate Catholic parishes and allow use of the schools for religious instruction outside school hours.

640 HAVE TYPHOID

HAGEN, Germany (AP)—Health authorities Monday listed 640 persons as ill in a three-week-old typhoid epidemic in this Ruhr district. The number included 30 cases taken to hospital in the preceding 24 hours. Three persons have died in the outbreak, which an official announcement has blamed on a contaminated well in a dairy plant.

Chemical Institute Says Canada Should Do More Research Work

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian chemical industry is beginning to realize the value of research programs, said A. R. Rowzee, outgoing president of the Chemical Institute of Canada, at the institute's annual meeting today.

Dr. Rowzee spoke at a ceremony during which Laval University awarded him an honorary degree.

He said Canadians have been able to adapt already-known processes to Canada's needs, but haven't done much in the way of original research.

"A men of science we are expected to deal in facts," he said. "It is even more important that we be accomplished in handling ideas. Canadians have demonstrated ability and skill in adapting existing processes to this country's needs, but we have not yet achieved similar distinction in the generation of new ideas."

MAY GO TO U.S.

He said promising Canadian chemists look for work in the United States. The most capable Canadian companies are connected with much larger U.S. companies and research was concentrated in the U.S.

But Canadian firms are starting to realize the value of independent research and many have begun to finance their own research.

Canadian chemical industry growth has been most rapid during the last 5 years, he said. Before wartime demand arose for trained men, many Canadian universities did not even recognize chemical engineering as a separate and distinct branch of science.

Some 60 technical papers are being presented at the three-day meeting that opened Monday.

Montreal researchers Dr. Claude Allard and Dr. Gaston de Lamirande reported on chemical research in the cancerous body cell.

They said when cancer-producing agents are injected into a rat's liver, the formation of certain tiny particles called mitochondria in liver cells was inhibited.

In healthy cells, they said, the composition of ribonucleic acid differs in the nucleus and in cell particles.

In cancerous liver-cells, they said, the composition of the acid is the same in all parts of the cell.

1st Belleville Brownie Pack Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

Last Thursday evening, the 1st Belleville Brownie Pack closed an eventful year's work by a sumptuous "mother and daughter" banquet held at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill church.

The tables, laid in the form of a large rectangle, were especially attractive with white cloths, brown streamers and pretty arrangements of spring flowers. The individual place markers were Brownie emblems, tiny gnomes, fairies, keipies, imps and pixies for the Brownies and little "toadstools" for the mothers.

Seated at the head table were, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Divisional Commissioner; Mrs. Ian Samuels, Camp Commandant; Mrs. K. E. Moult, Brown Owl; Mrs. W. A. Eakins, Tawny Owl, and Mrs. G. A. Bradford, president of the local Girl Guide Association.

OFFICERS INTRODUCED

Each Brownie stood and introduced herself and her mother. Then Mrs. Moult introduced the officers and also thanked all the mothers for their assistance given during the past year. Tawny Owl Eakins gave the invocation. Following the delicious repast Brownie Faye Courtemanche proposed the toast to the mothers, to which Mrs. E. D. Alyea replied. Mrs. R. Potter, social convener, thanked her helpers and also the ladies of the Guild.

Brief speeches were given by Commissioner Arnott, and Captain Samuels. Mrs. Arnott explained the Brownies were dependent upon the leadership of their Brown Owl, but upon becoming Guides were expected to think and act on their own initiative. She invited those finishing Brownies to continue on into Guides. She also spoke on Guide camp.

Mrs. Samuels pointed out the different badges worn by Guides and told how each was won. She said that by passing all tests required to obtain the Golden Hand that each Brownie "flies" into Guides and is allowed to wear her "wings".

Before obtaining the Golden Bar, Brownies must pass tests which include intelligence, handicraft, health and service. The Golden Hand badges must be earned for by a leader other than her own, and includes cooking, knitting, sewing, grooming plans and learning of semphore signals to be able to send or receive short cards.

Mrs. Bradford spoke on local Guide Association work and the need for mothers of Guides and Brownies to take an active part. She told about the search going on for a camp site for the use of Belleville Guides and packs.

Alliance Pioneer Girls Receive Various Badges

The second Pioneer Girl Encampment program for 1955 took place Friday evening in YMCA. There was a good attendance of the girls, along with their mothers and interested ladies of the congregation.

A warm welcome was extended to all by Miss D. Alyea, chief guide. "We are Pioneers for Jesus," the Pioneer Girls' theme song, was sung, followed by prayer. Eleanor Millard gave the motto, watch, keep your seal and salute.

A song service was led by Miss Eleanor Baragar, who explained what was required of a girl, in order to receive her song badge. Each and every badge is based upon a portion of God's Holy Word.

"I will sing a new song unto Thee, O God," Ps. 144: 9, is the basis for the song badge.

Juliet Withers received Pioneer 23 and 24. Mrs. A. E. Smith and Pioneer Girl, daughter, Gael, favored the gathering with a duet in song, "When He Reached Down His Hand."

Mrs. H. Whittaker briefly described what was necessary to pass the Servant badge, which is based upon Rev. 3: 10, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might."

A short discussion on Camp Cherith, the Ontario Pioneer Girl Camp, to be held at Fair Havens, near Trenton, took place. At least two girls will be attending this camp from Belleville.

BADGES PRESENTED

The highlight of the evening was the awarding of badges. These were for kitchencraft, handcraft, servcraft, nature, loyalty and safety. The Scripture foundation for each of these is as follows:

Kitchencraft—". . . Feed me with food convenient for me"—Prov. 30: 8.

Handcraft—". . . and let her own works praise her in the gates"—Prov. 31: 31.

Loyalty—"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord"—Ps. 122: 1.

Nature—"The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handywork"—Psalm 19:1.

Safety—"The fear of man bringeth a snare; but whoso putteth his trust in the Lord, shall be safe"—Prov. 29: 25.

Those in the Voyagers' rank receiveth awards were: Shirley Blakely, Eleanor Millard, Marilyn McConnell and Gael Smith.

Those in the Settlers' rank were: Mary Burfoot, Beverley Lough, Catherine Millard, Annette McDonald, Nancy Robinson, Beverley Ramp, Mary Simpson and Juliet Withers.

Those in Townsman rank receiving awards were: Lenore Dixon and Gloria Townson.

A ladies' trio, three of the leaders, Misses Eleanor Baragar, Dorothea Atyeo and Ruth Brintnell, rendered "My Saviour's Love," accompanied by Mrs. Robert Brown at the piano.

A short message based upon Mark 16: 15, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" was given by June Whittaker, who has recently returned for the summer from the Western Canadian Bible Institute.

Miss Ruth Brintnell, who has been in charge of the nature badge and study, showed some of her specimens and mounted slides taken here and there around the city. These were especially interesting as some of the Pioneer Girls were seen cooking their meal at the "Scuttle Hole."

This was followed by a thought-provoking contest.

Mrs. K. Dixon, Mrs. H. Whittaker and Mrs. G. Byers were in charge of the refreshments which were served by the pilots of each column.

Samples of the girls' work were on display.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF THIS YOUNG WOMAN AS MATURE AS SHE SHOULD BE?

A young woman old enough, I think, to know better, wants to add her complaints about the behavior of modern men to those of an 18-year-old who wrote me not long ago.

She says:

"I read your column recently I read a letter from a girl in which she stated that she can never date a man without his having ulterior motives. I know exactly what she means. I have had the same trouble, and every girl I know says the same thing.

"Recently, I took a train trip to another state to visit relatives, and during the trip I met a young man who rode with me all the way then. He seemed like a perfect gentleman. He didn't say a thing outof the way, and I tried to let him know casually that I'm a respectable girl.

"As soon as we got to our destination, he immediately suggested that we go to a hotel. When I refused, he got indignant and just wouldn't believe that I had never done such a thing. I was so surprised and disgusted, Saturday he didn't make a date with me, as he said he wouldn't use the telephone number which I had given him on the train.

"And one other experience—two weeks ago, I met a man who had it nerve to keep his wedding ring on and suggest something indecent. How low can you get?

"I have no intention of changing, yet I can't help wondering if I pay to be good. I am 23 years old."

Well, there is something I can't help wondering, either, and that is, this girl's judgment regarding people—and men, more specifically, since we're talking about them—is as mature as it ought to be by now. While it is perfectly possible for any woman to make a mistake now and then about the character of a man she has just met, I can't imagine a young woman of 23 feeling that all the men she meets have "ulterior motives" unless she makes a mistake of judgment every time.

Another thing I can't help wondering concerns her own behavior with men, and lets take the instance of the man she met on the train. While she may have thought everything turned out differently conventional, wasn't it a little casual, let's say, to give her telephone number to a stranger she just happened to talk with on the train? Even after he had insulted her, what she says gives me the impression that she was a little disappointed he didn't make a date with her and that he made it clear he didn't intend to telephone her.

Somehow I just can't believe that a girl who keeps a polite distance from men who are complete strangers to her. And who is discreet and reserved until she has a pretty good idea of what sort of person a man is, and who, moreover, has developed the ability to size a man up on relatively short acquaintance, is likely to have so many unfortunate experiences that she thinks there are no real gentlemen left in the world.

Maybe I'm just terribly, terribly old-fashioned about these things, but somehow I still think the average man takes his cue on behavior from the woman's own, and that if there is all it should be, in most cases his will be, too. I'm not suggesting that this young woman's attitude deliberately invited a proposition. I'm merely wondering if there isn't something a bit naive and immature about her, that could make a man feel she might at least be sounded out.

It was understandable that the 18-year-old girl to whom letter she referred had not had time to develop the judgment that would enable her to tell the sheep from the goats among human beings. But if, at 25, one cannot do so, then it's time to bring one's attitudes and judgment up level with one's years.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

POUCHES UNDER THE EYES

One beauty problem faced by many women of middle age is puffiness under the eyes. This is a hateful affliction for it makes one look tired and makes the eyes look small.

Sometimes these pouches are a family inheritance, for which the victim is anything but grateful. Very seldom are they a sign of physical condition, as appears to be the popular belief.

When they come and go they may be caused by fatigue, loss of sleep or a digestive disturbance. By exercising her powers of observation and checking on a few health habits, a woman may come to a fairly accurate conclusion as to what makes the glands puffy.

Local treatment often brings temporary relief and for that the victim of this trouble should be grateful.

She should fill the wash bowl with water as hot as the flesh can comfortably bear it, dip in a heavy wash cloth, press the cloth to the eyes, repeating the applications several times. Model well with the fingers tips to shrink and tighten. Friction with an ice cube should follow. After a facial cream or astringent should be applied. The emollient should be spread over the upper lid, starting at the inner terminal, coming back under the eye to starting point.

There are make up tricks that will camouflage the pouches. There should be two shades of powder, one in the natural tone of the skin, one darker. By using the dark powder under the eyes it will form shadows, and the pouches will not be so noticeable.

Pass the rouge pad over the upper eye lids and when coloring the cheeks, place rouge high and far out at the sides.

YOUNG GIRL REPLIES TO WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have a wonderful cousin who is to be married soon. A large, formal church wedding and a large reception. She is my favorite cousin. My mother and father received a "Mr. and Mrs." invitation to the wedding. I received a separate invitation, addressed both on the outside envelope and the inside envelope to "Miss—." I am 16 years old. How should I reply to this invitation—with my mother and father, or separately? And do you think I should send a separate present? — Carol S.

How thrilling for you to know that your cousin, whom you love so much, wanted to make a special and devoted bow to you by sending you this "very own" invitation! I'm sure you'll always remember this cousinly goodness and grace.

Since you received a separate invitation, you should write your own reply. In your very good looking and clear handwriting (I liked it so very much!), and on the first page of white or cream-colored note-paper, write your acceptance (like this spacing the lines as I indicate):

Miss Carol Smith
accepts with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Williams for Tuesday, the seventh of June

After you have written this formal reply, you may if you wish (and I hope you do wish) write a warm-hearted and cousinly little note to your favorite bride-to-be, thanking her for the invitation, telling her how happily you are looking forward to her Great Day, and wishing her every happiness on that day and always.

Although it is not necessary for you to send a separate present, you may if you wish and I think it would be a wonderful idea during to send a special little present for your cousin's new home. She'd like that!

GRANDMOTHER'S WEDDING CORSAGE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Ken and I know that he is expected to send wedding corsages to both grandmothers for my mother. His grandparents are dead, but your grandparents are living and will come to our wedding. Who provides her corsage to wear to our wedding? — Sue M.

Your bridegroom provides the corsage for your grandmother.

Serve it With Mint

By Mary Moore

Everytime a new summer season rolls around, I view with fresh joy the few herbs that return so faithfully to add pep and flavor to my salad and other mixes; and none is more welcome than my bright patch of mint. If you don't have a bed of mint in some corner of your garden, you should beg, borrow or steal a root and start one. For those cool, fragrant green sprigs can hand so many different kinds of food more appetizing to look at and more delicious to eat.

A few jars of sparkling green mint jelly on your shelves will stand you in good stead to serve with roast lamb, lamb chops or even lamb croquettes (from left overs, you know!). Through the summer while mint is available, pluck it from your own lot or buy it on the market and try this:

MINT JELLY

Three cups of fresh mint leaves (pulled from the stems), 2 1-3 cups of water, 1-4 cup lemon juice (fresh or canned), 1 box of powdered Certo or other fruit pectin, 5 1-2 cups sugar, green food coloring. Crush mint leaves and add the water to them in a saucepan. Bring just to the boiling point and remove from the heat. Pour into a bowl and cover. Allow to stand one hour, then strain. Measure 2 1-4 cups into a saucepan and to this add the lemon juice. Place over high heat. Add the pectin and stir until it comes to a full boil. Add the sugar and stir. Bring to a full, rolling boil, then boil hard for exactly one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat; add green coloring drop by drop until shade desired is obtained. Skim off the foam with a metal spoon and pour at once into hot, sterilized glasses. Cover jelly with a layer of hot paraffin. This quantity will fill six 8-ounce jars.

But that's not all that mint will do to spark up meals. Remember that old favorite, Minted Carrots? Try Minted Carrots and Peas the next time you want a Sunday-night supper. Cook a small bunch of carrots leaving them whole, and two cups of fresh peas or a package of frozen peas. Brown a quarter-cup of butter slightly, add it to the drained, cooked vegetables, add 3 tablespoons of chopped fresh mint leaves, and a half-teaspoon of salt and toss lightly. Goes grand with a cheese souffle.

Once in a while a new homemaker asks me about the right proportions of sugar, vinegar and mint for a mint sauce. Just remember a quarter-cup of each of the three things—sugar, vinegar and chopped fresh mint. Heat the first two ingredients to boiling and pour over the mint. Serve it hot. (Folks who really like vinegar might appreciate a tablespoon or two added to this mix.) Whatever's any left over mint sauce try adding to salad dressing. This is specially good on fruit salad.

Mint jelly goes just as well with ham as it does with lamb, I've discovered, and so this isn't a bad time to remind you of one of my favorite meat dishes for the family or for a company dinner. Here's a—

BAKED HAM SLICE

Have the butcher cut your ham steak a good inch thick, if it's from the large part of the ham (it will weigh about 1 1-2 pounds and should serve four generously. Mix together 1 tablespoon light brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, and 1-8 teaspoon powdered cloves. Spread this mixture over the meat and, using the back of the spoon, rub it steak a few times, treating both sides. Place in a baking dish and pour over 1 cup of milk. Bake in a slow over (325 deg.) for 30 minutes. Spoon some of the liquid over the ham once during the cooking—then serve it with the meat when it is done.

Indian Nurse Likes Canada

TORONTO (CP)—A nurse from India in a Toronto hospital paid a familiar compliment in a strange tongue to the proud mother of a new-born baby.

"Harki, Ma!" said 21-year-old Blessina Merwein. In her language, it means the baby is a doll.

Miss Merwein is one of eight nurses from India studying graduate nursing at the University of Toronto. Their training is financed under a Colombo plan project and work in Canadian hospitals is included in their schedule.

One of the sight is a man, since male nurses are not unusual in India.

Others here come from France, Thailand and Peru.

One of the group from India, Rhyamani Doriaswamy, summed up their beliefs: "We love Canada, but we are really needed in India."

CHILDREN all have routine shots and boosters, and it's a good idea to keep a special book with dates and types of inoculations. Include, too any other medical treatment or reactions, and notes about major or minor illnesses. You'll find it invaluable if you move and have to change doctors.

QUEEN EXPECTED

Eden pledged in a broadcast Sunday that his Conservative government, re - elected d!o another five-year term last week, will "do all we can to protect the nation from the worst effects of this strike." He said the cabinet would not "hesitate to obtain any further power that may be necessary for this purpose."

The army detailed more than 250 trucks manned by 720 soldiers to help the postal service keep the mails moving.

"CASH ONLY ANSWER"

The strike was called Saturday midnight by the 70,000-member Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. The union is demanding a raise of eight shillings in the present base weekly pay of £9 15s to restore traditional wage differentials between locomotive crews and less skilled workers.

The government, which operates the nationalized lines, has refused to grant the increase for fear of touching off a new wage-cost spiral.

James Baty, executive secretary of the union, told reporters: "We have made our position clear—that a cash settlement is the only answer."

The National Union of Railwaymen, which includes 37,000 engineers and firemen as well as some 360,000 other rail workers, declined to join in the stoppage. A few of its train crew members staged a sympathy walkout.

But even with them on the job, rail officials had no hope of providing more than skeleton freight and passenger service.

Officials said it would be only about three days before the coal mines begin closing down for lack of rail wagons to put the coal in. Depleted coal stocks would cut power production, and so affect nearly every industry.

Milk is a critical item. Other food supplies would not be affected at first.

FORECAST FALL-OUT AREAS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning Tuesday, the United States weather bureau will forecast what areas would be affected by atomic fall-out in case of nuclear attack on major target cities. Val Peterson, federal civil defence administrator, said Sunday the forecasts, based chiefly on wind directions, would enable communities to plot the safest direction in which to evacuate their populace.

Mines Minister Seeks Indians' Votes in North

ATTAWAPISKAT, Ont. (CP)—Before, when the Swampy Crees gathered to hear the words of the white man, the talk was either trade or treaty.

They didn't know quite what to make of it Saturday when a sign was tacked on a warehouse at this trading post on James bay, where the ice floes offshore still defy the spring, and the stranger signalled that he wished to speak.

The man was Phillip T. Kelly, mines minister in the Ontario Progressive Conservative government, and as he talked, his words were repeated in the high singsong of a native interpreter.

He was asking for their votes in the June 9 provincial election.

It was the first time the Indians have had a vote to offer. It wasn't until after the last provincial election that Ontario's treaty Indians were given the franchise, already granted in British Columbia but nowhere else in Canada.

FORMER MEMBERS

"It seems to be a disgrace for anyone to have ever been in this House or the Saskatchewan legislature and then get a job from anybody, particularly the government," said Mr. Gardiner, former premier of Saskatchewan who first entered the provincial legislature in 1934.

RESENTS IT

"If that is the attitude we are going to take towards men who have served their country as members of a legislature or members of the house of commons, then I rather resent it."

The opposition charges of PFRA political appointments developed out of a debate on a bill to empower Mr. Gardiner to award PFRA contracts up to a maximum value of $15,000 without prior cabinet approval. The authority currently is limited to $10,000.

The measure was given second reading—approval in principle—after a vote of 85 to 44 in favor. Voting against it were Progressive Conservatives, CCF and four independent members. Liberals were supported by the Social Credit group.

Later, when the Commons went into committee discussion of the bill, John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) asked Mr. Gardiner for a list of projects costing more than $10,000 as justification for raising to $15,000 the amount he could authorize for a single project without prior cabinet approval. Mr. Gardiner replied he could not provide such a list.

When Mr. Diefenbaker and Opposition Leader Drew pressed for one example of where the increase would be needed and how many times in the past he had to submit a project of more than $10,000 to the cabinet, Mr. Gardiner said he would have to check.

Mr. Drew termed the minister's words: "a masterpiece of evasion"

Finally, Mr. Gardiner said he has not "a single reason" to ask for the change except that the Cabinet wants it and he is going along.

OLDTIMERS' ASSOCIATION

A few months are the Belleville Hockey Oldtimers' Association held a meeting and elected Hank Fenn as president. At that meeting many plans were made, among which was the proposed purchase of a permanent hockey trophy was the proposed purchase of a permanent hockey trophy to be known as the Bill Green Memorial Trophy.

It was the consensus of the meeting that the Green Memorial Trophy would be not only named after one of the association's better known former members, but would carry memorial plaques of those members who have passed on, as well as those who leave this mortal coil in the future.

Membership dues were set at two dollars per annum, and hockey players of the past, as well as those of the "not so past," but who are not in active participation, were ruled eligible.

Plans were laid to hold several smokers, whereby funds could be raised to purchase the proposed memorial. Unfortunately circumstances arose whereby the first of these proposed get-togethers was postponed. Interest in the club appeared to wane. Some of the more interested developed, it seemed, a lethargic attitude. Activities in securing memberships slowed down.

Now President Fenn would like to get interest revived and plans laid for fall association activities.

"I feel the boys are still interested in the association and the proposed memorial," Hank told us the other day. "I feel we should do something now about getting things started for next fall, because with summer and vacations coming on, I don't think the boys would want to be bothered with smokers or meetings."

"But," added Hank, "there is something they can do now —and it is mighty important. And that is, pick up their memberships at Bill Cook's Tobacco Store, or from the secretary, Dick Bearn. I believe with some fifty or more memberships, plus the money we have, the Memorial trophy can be purchased, so everything will be in readiness for the autumn activities."

So how about it you old and young "timers." Drop in at Cook's and pick up that membership ticket and pave the way to a good start for the fall. The association executive has planned some good times for next autumn and winter, so by getting in those membership dues you will be helping assure yourself of some pleasant evenings, but aiding greatly in the securing of the Oldtimers Memorial Trophy and helping young hockey players, as planned.

THEY'RE HERE

Remember Loering Lou Pimmper; the rambunctious toughie, who teamed with Dick Raines in a tag-team match a season or two ago? Well, he's here Friday night in the main bout against Roy McClarity. His erstwhile badman mate, Raines, is here, too, taking on Sammy Berg, while Doug Hepburn, the "Strong Boy," tangles with Pat Fraley, no stranger to city fandom.

NOT THIS YEAR!

Chances are practically nil of the proposed Peterborough Memorial Community Centre being ready for use next winter, but that fact won't deter the "Petes" from operating a senior "B" hockey club, according to Marse Perdue, Peterborough sports scrivener. Non-receipt of governmental grants plus the fact sufficient steel would not be available at this time are given as the reasons.

However, as Marse Perdue says:

"Reports that this delay will wash out OHA senior "B" hockey here next winter are denied by officers of the Peterborough Hockey Club. In fact, they've had three meetings this spring, and have arranged to stage the re-organization meeting of the senior "B" grouping at Viamede the week-end of June 11-12. Delegates will be on deck from Cornwall, Smiths Falls, Kingston, Whitby, Belleville and Peterborough, with Clinton also a possibility. And the OHA will be represented, as well. Plans for the coming season will be dealt with them and the fates will be back in the fold."

Whiffs Nine Bucs "To Boot" In Dodgers' Fourth Straight; Lemon Wins 7; Turley Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's reserve corps—the unsung utility players — celebrated Memorial Day Monday by enjoying their biggest day in the sun.

Such fill-ins as Bob Speaker, George Crowe, Roy Smalley, Gene Stephens, Elmer Valo, Harry Simpson, Jim Delsa and others made their managers glad they kept them around.

Speaker was a one-man riot as the sizzling Chicago Cubs bombed the St. Louis Cardinals twice in extra innings 9-5 and 4-3 for their 14th and 15th victories in the last 19 games.

Crowe's bat provided most of the fireworks as Milwaukee captured two hitting sprees from Cincinnati 7-6 and 8-2, and moved into a tie in Philadelphia's split with the New York Giants. After dropping the opener 8-5, the Phillies rallied back to win the second game 3-1.

DODGERS WIN

The nine didn't get a chance as Brooklyn's regulars swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 8-4 and 8-3.

Utility outfielders Simpson and Valo led the parade of pinch-athletics in a double-barrelled triumph over Detroit 9-8 and 5-4, enabling the New York 3-2 when substitute Juan Delis sent the tying run to third with a single. Gene Woodling scored the winning run on another single by pinch hitter Andy Carey.

The Yankees took the second game 7-3 on pinch hitter Irv Noren's two-run single in the seventh.

The other two American League wins both came in extra innings. Billy Pierce pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 5-0 victory over Cleveland after the Indians massacred the Sox 9-1 on 16 hits in the opener. Ted Williams' single scored Boston 8-6 but the Red Sox bounced back with an 8-7 second game victory as Ted Lepcheus drove in four runs with a double and triple in support of the four-hit pitching job by Ike Delock.

REPLACED SAUER

Speaker, who batted only .264 with 3 Ike Maines in the class A Western League, continued his sensational slugging which has replaced the then injured Hank Sauer in the Cubs' outfield. The Springfield, Mo., youngster hit his 11th homer of the season and the second of the day in the 15th inning of the first nightcap. His two-run homer in the ninth of the opener saved the way for Chicago's winning four-run rally in the 10th.

Crowe, substituting for the slumping Joe Adcock at first base, cracked a bases-loaded single to centre with Hank Aaron with the winning run in the first game. His three-run homer, his fourth since he got into the lineup, got the Braves off to a fast start in the first of the nightcap. His two-run homer in the eighth of the opener gave the way for Chicago's winning four-run rally in the 10th.

Gibson, the Cleveland discard, banged two doubles and drove in two runs as a centrefield replacement for Bill Wilson to account for the winning margin in Kansas City's first-game triumph over Detroit. Valo, Enos Slaughter's replacement in right field, drilled a 10th inning double—his fourth hit of the nightcap—and scored the winning run on a single by Gus Zernial.

Dave Philley, playing in place of the slumping Ralph Kiner in right field, featured Cleveland's first game victory over Chicago with his first home run of the season and a single. His hitting made it easy for Bob Lemon to register his seventh triumph. Pierce scattered seven hits and struck out eight for his fourth White Sox victory in five starts.

The key hit of Delis, subbing for the ailing Eddie Yost at third for Washington, paved the way for Bob Porterfield's sixth success in a pitching duel with New York's Bob Turley. Noren's hit as a substitute batter for Hank Bauer gave Tom Byrne his second 1955 triumph in the nightcap. Both have been over the .500 mark.

SCORED THREE RUNS

Cal Abrams, used in right field in place of Gil Coan, scored three runs in Baltimore's victory over Boston that took some of the glitter off from Ted Williams' first home run of the season. Stephens took over centre field when Williams was rested in the second game.

Pitcher Don Newcombe turned slugger, connecting for one of the longest drives of the year—a 450-foot clout into the centre field stands—in the fifth inning of the second game. Newcombe's homer, his third since the start of the season, was the only run he needed as he scattered seven hits and struck out nine batters.

Grant East-West Hockey Series Two-Year Stretch

MONTREAL (CP) — The East-West professional hockey series for the Edinburgh Trophy was given the okay Monday night for another two-year stretch by representatives of the Quebec Hockey League and the Western Hockey League.

The series, first suggested by the WHL, was begun two seasons ago. It brings together the teams winning the playoffs in each league, the venue shifting each year. Calgary Stampeders won the inaugural series, played in the West, and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts the series this spring, played in the East.

Renewal of the agreement for another two years was reached without difficulty and the series was pronounced a success. Both league presidents, Al Leader of the WHL and George Slater of the QHL—were present at the meeting.

Continuation of the series as a five-of-nine basis was agreed upon. There will be a guaranteed sum for winning and losing clubs.

For the first two series the "prize" pool was fixed at $10,000 for the winning club and $7,500 for the loser. It may be revised to make the amounts $10,000 and $5,000, or the total may be increased as the division will be $12,000 and $6,000.

"High Gun" Pops In Suburban

BELMONT, N.Y. (CP)—A closing burst by William Helis-sey's Heliosope was the four-year-old colt a victory by a head over the favored High Gun in the $75,000 added Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park Monday.

Top-weighted at 133 pounds to Heliosope's 128, High Gun stayed close to the leader all the way and took the lead briefly in the stretch before Heliosope thrust his nose a sixteenth in front for the victory. The time, 2:00 3-5 for the 1¼-mile distance, was three-fifths of a second off the track record.

Leafs Split With Bisons; Royals Divide

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It finally got hot enough in Richmond for the Virginians to catch fire and the worst was out to the rest of the International League by day to keep an eye on manager Luke Appling's club.

The Virginians, last season's seventh - place finishers, staged late-inning rallies Monday to beat the Havana Sugar Kings 6-5 and 4-2 and move into fifth place. Richmond chalked up its third straight victory in a four-game series with Havana and the slight gain pushed the Virginians' ninth in their last 13 games.

In other Memorial Day doubleheaders, the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs split a twin-bill with the lowly Buffalo Bisons. Toronto won the opener 7-4, but Bob Schultz blanked the Leafs 1-0 in the seven-inning nightcap.

The second-place Montreal Royals and Rochester Red Wings also divided a doubleheader, Montreal taking the first game 5-4 in 10 innings and Rochester the second 8-5.

Syracuse Chiefs swept their five-game series with the Columbus Jets by taking both ends of a twi-night doubleheader, 4-2 and 6-1.

FINISH STRETCH

Richmond tallied five runs in the last two innings of the opener as three Havana hurlers gave up 10 hits. Willie Powell, second of three Virginia pitchers, drove in the game-winning run with a third Richmond pitcher, gained the victory.

Ed Sain, starter, Mike Goliat drove in five of the seven Toronto runs as veteran Johnny Heiki racked up his first win of the season. Stevens had a two-run homer in the second inning and Goliat drove in three with two doubles.

Buffalo collected only five hits in recording his third win of the season.

He drove in the game's only run with a single and also hit a double in the Leafs' two-baser only five hits eh Ken Johnson and Alex Landeck.

NELSON WINS FO RROYALS

Rocky Nelson's tenth - inning homer gave Montreal the overtime opener. Nelson's eighth circuit of the year beat Ralph Beard, while Glenn Mickens, who pitched scoreless innings of relief, got his third straight win.

Mickens's no-hit relief pitching gave Rochester the second game as he limited the visiting base runner to reach first base in the last four innings. Stan Lok homered and tripled and Jackie Brandt hit a homer in the Rochester 11-hit attack.

Bob Micelotta's squeeze bunt in the fifth inning of the opener drove in the tie-breaking run for Syracuse in the opener and a wild throw that scored two runs gave Jim Owens his first win of the season for Syracuse in the nightcap.

Bob Sweikert Wins Indianapolis Classic; Vukovich Dies In Flaming Car

Will Pick Up $75,000 Prize Lone Accident Injures Eight In Bloody Memorial Day Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Curly-haired, boyish Bob Sweikert of Indianapolis will pick up a check of about $75,000 at the 500-mile auto race victory dinner tonight and somebody will accept at least $7,500 for Bill Vukovich's widow.

Vukovich, an intense little Slovenian mechanic from Fresno, Calif., was feeding his exhaust fumes to the field for the fourth straight year when he died in a flaming wreck that took five cars out'of the race Monday.

He won the first 56 laps before he died, at 8130 a lap.

There were seven casualties in the bloodiest Memorial Day race since 1930, when seven cars smashed up in a single accident. The wrecks brought the speed down to 123.209 miles an hour, compared with Vukovich's record 130.84 set last year.

PRONOUNCED MEMORIAL

Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., had time to comment against Vukovich, unknowingly pronounced his memorial before the race.

"Vuky is the greatest race driver in this era," Faulkner said in a casual conversation. "You can pester him only if his car fails or he wrecks. You'll never beat the man."

Vukovich's death was the 46th since the first races at the speedway in 1909, two years before the first 500-mile event. They included 23 drivers, 18 mechanics, six spectators and one workman.

Monday's race started off as a tremendous duel between Vukovich and Jack McGrath of Hollywood, Calif., the early leader in four of the last five Memorial Day classics.

McGrath's ignition system failed and he was through at 135 miles. Sweikert, Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., Sam Hanks of Burbank, Calif., and 1954 national champion Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix were chasing—not gaining on—Vukovich when the big wreck happened with stunning suddenness.

Rodger Ward of Los Angeles lost control coming out of the southwest turn. Johnny Boyd, fellow townman of Vukovich driving in his first 500, hocked over Ward. Al Keller, another speedway rookie from Green Acres, Fla., and both cars flipped.

NOT A CHANCE

Vukovich didn't have a chance. His Hopkins Special plowed into the wreckage and bounced end over end. It went over the wall, hit a safety patrol car and stopped upside down, in flames.

Ed Elisian of Oakland, Calif., a friend of Vuky, skidded his car into the infield and ran across the track in an effort to help. But the swarthy, nerveless little man was dead — probably before the car came to rest.

Vukovich, 36, turned to the big cars, and big money, after winning the national midget racing championship in 1950. He led in 486 of the last 800 laps raced at the speedway.

SCRAPED NOSE

Ward escaped with a scraped nose. Injuries of Keller and Boyd also were relatively minor. Richard Wells suffered a fractured collarbone and Charles D. Mallender a broken ankle in the Tykrel car- hit by one of Vukovich's wheels.

Driver Cal Niday, 39, of Pacoma, Calif., also was injured severely when his car hit the wall on the northwest turn, late in the race. The car bounced into the infield and caught fire. Niday suffered burns, concussion and fractured ribs.

Sweikert drove a smart, steady race and deserved the victory that came when the early front-runners were wrecked or slowed by mechanical troubles.

2. Let's pretend that here you stand ready to start the swing section with a slight preliminary wiggle. The idea of the wiggle is to take the tenseness out of the swing, to relax. After that little preliminary wiggle the back swing is under way with the hands all together (arms, hips, shoulders) movement. Not all good players use this method of starting the stroke but it's a good one for players who tend to become too tense and rigid in the address position. Others are content to get the tenseness out of their stroke simply by a preliminary wiggle of the club over the ball. Either method will help you get your swing flowing smoothly but I think the one described first is best for most players.

NHL Top Brass Speculates On Habs' Coach

MONTREAL (CP)—Hockey men began arriving in Montreal Monday for a busy series of meetings largely among the professional organizations, that will wind up Wednesday with the annual meeting of the National Hockey League.

There was the usual pre-meeting chat and some talk about the four-for-four swap, announced Saturday, involving Detroit and Chicago and Chicago Black Hawks. If any more deals are in the making nobody was talking yet.

There was also speculation, more or less nominal in Montreal for the last month, as to who will succeed Dick Irvin as coach of Montreal Canadiens. Irvin goes to the Hawks next season.

No new names have popped into the guessing. If managing director Bill Ryan of Canadiens has a sleeper to spring he has kept the secret well guarded. Indications are the choice won't be made known until some time after the meetings.

BLAKE MENTIONED

Names most mentioned so far are Toe Blake, Roger Leger and Billy Reay, all former Canadiens players and more recently with Montreal Canadiens organization.

The joint rules committee, with representatives from the professional Canadian and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, gets down to business Tuesday.

The annual draft meeting gets under way today. This is the interleague draft, not the league's own draft which comes later in the summer. A joint relations committee of all pro clubs also meets today.

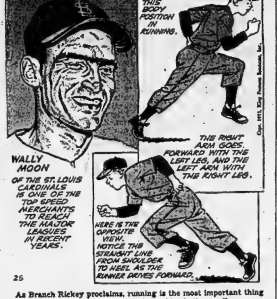
FIRST CHOICE

Under the draft, NHL clubs first have the opportunity of drafting from the Quebec Hockey League clubs, then from the QHL and WHL. After that, the AHL can draft from the QHL and WHL.

Order of choice is the reverse of the order of protection—so the other club will grab a player.

Hamilton Wins Over Fergus

HAMILTON (CP)—Jack Dorney and Larry Ruse each scored five goals Monday night to lead Hamilton Lincolns to an 8-14 victory over Fergus Thistles in the highest-scoring game in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's Senior League this season.



Lincolns, who lost their first two games of the season to Peterborough Trailermen, broke a 9-9 deadlock in the third period with a nine-goal outburst.

Meeke and Harris scored two each for Lincolns with Doyle, Digby, McIntyre and Jim Brown getting singles.

Jim Hill was top man for the Thistles with four goals, while D'Amico, Shbold and Watkiss each got two. Gear, Burr, Mann and Smith scored the others.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

25

As Branch Rickey proclaims, running is the most important thing a baseball player does, because it helps him both on offense as a base-runner and on defense where running speed enables the fielder to get in front of ground balls and catch up with more flies.

Unfortunately most boys don't get the instruction in running which is available to older athletes, but there are some basic fundamentals which every player can follow.

When you learn to run, you should lean forward without swaying or weaving. All your motion should be straight ahead, and your chin should be up and eyes on the base to which you are running. The arms should be bent at the elbow and the forearm should move directly forward and backward beside the body. The right arm should go forward with the left foot, and the left arm with the right foot. Most good runners swing the arm forward so that the hand swings almost as high as the shoulder and then spring it to the rear to the side of the hip. The arms should be relaxed.

Not every runner will have the same body action, and it is desirable for the boy to run naturally and these basic fundamentals mentioned here in his running style. If you do this you are very likely to improve your running speed and thus increase your value as a baseball player.

Chicago Black Hawks Buy Ciesla In Shuffle Deal With Habs, Leafs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League announced Monday they have given up their rights to Alex Ciesla, leading scorer last season in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A division.

Ciesla played with St. Catharines TeePees, and Canadiens' statement said the Montreal club's rights were surrendered because of a prior claim Toronto Maple Leafs had on all players signed to deals in St. Catharines.

Under the arrangement, however, Ciesla winds up as property of Chicago Black Hawks and there is a shuffle of two other junior players.

The statement said Canadiens wanted to retain Ciesla if possible but the Leafs insisted on their claim being honored. Last week the Black Hawks started bidding for Ciesla's option. Leaf general manager Hap Day finally agreed to let the Hawks purchase Ciesla from Canadiens if the Montreal club would transfer Gary Collins of Kitchener juniors to the Leafs who in turn would transfer Bob Duncan of the junior Toronto Marlboros to Canadiens.

Canadiens, who get $15,000 from Chicago for Ciesla, agreed to the Collins-Duncan transfer "to keep everyone happy." The upshot is the Hawks get Ciesla, the Leafs get Collins and Canadiens get Duncan and cash.

The TeePees were sponsored by Buffalo of the American Hockey League in the East and had territorial rights and the option to purchase in that area from Buffalo for $15,000.

Buffalo transferred its rights to Ciesla to Canadiens in settlement for some obligation. But the Leafs indicated they would exercise their option rights, putting Ciesla on a tryout option. Such options expire automatically July 31, so the three-way deal was made.

Don Cockell "Walks Out" On Manager

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (Reuters)—Heavyweight contender Don Cockell, defeated two weeks ago by world champion Rocky Marciano, walked out on his manager John Simpson at a press conference aboard the liner Queen Mary Monday night.

During a 10-minute interview aboard the liner, Cockell sat nervously while Simpson criticized Marciano's "fouling tactics" and the way the Britons were "done up good and proper" in California. The manager said Marciano "would not beat an average heavyweight" if kept from fouling.

When he revealed that Cockell's share of the purse had come to $33,600, the fighter became angry and protested. Asked Simpson disclosing the figure.

"I'm telling the story," Simpson said.

Cockell retorted: "All right. You tell it," and stalked from the stateroom with his wife, Irene. He declined further interviews.

Bobby Green Throws 1-Hitter In Orfuns' Win

Behind the one-hit hurling of Bobby Green, the Belleville Orfuns scored a 6-1 victory over the Frankford Merchants under the lights at Frankford last night to bring their total to 4 in the 1955 Belleville and District Softball League schedule.

Bill Spafford's crew were never headed as they played errorless ball afield and pounded three home runs to account for all their tallies. Fastballer Bob Green was in command all the way and was robbed of a no-hitter when Bill Rankin's infield ball hit third base and bounced over Harry Wentlaugh's head for a single, the Merchants only hit.

Green struck out eight and walked the same number while allowing only two balls to reach the outfield. He received excellent support from his fielfield. Frankford's lone tally came when Green walked three and the infield missed a double play by a step, getting one man but allowing the runner on third to score.

The Orfuns collected six safe hits off starter Bill Rankin and Doug. Radner, while the Frankford club committed two errors.

Dave Jones opened the scoring for the winners with a base — empty homer and John Batchelor stretched the lead when he followed Don Barclay's single and a walk with another circuit blast. Doug Hull and Glenn Young each crashed singles but died on base before Vic Bromley slashed a home with one on via a walk to make the score 6-1.

The loss was the first for Frankford in two starts. Games tonight find the two Belleville clubs, the Orfuns and Bobcats hooking up at the C.N.R.A.A. Park while Pt. Anne makes their first start, playing host to Madoc. The Merchants' next game is Friday when Madoc will be the visitors.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

SUPERTEST FOR POWERFUL GETAWAY!

This column rejoices at the sudden and surprising decision of the Canadian Rugby Union to transfer the Grey Cup game of 1955 from the traditional site in Toronto's to the British Empire Games stadium in Vancouver.

It may be a move toward an objective this column has been advocating for the past three years, namely a two-game series for the Grey Cup annually, in the cities represented by the eastern and western winners respectively, total goals to count.

Hitherto the western champions were obliged to travel east, whether they liked it or not, meet the eastern champions in Toronto's fine Varsity Stadium. We don't claim that this one game clash of east and west was a bad one — with color, drama, background, everything. It was all of that — wonderful. Wonderful, that is, for those who could get in.

But what about those who, for one reason or another couldn't get to Toronto to watch their heroes in the crowning football game of the season? Those who, in many cases were getting the short end of the stick in this one-city deal.

Taking the Grey Cup out to Vancouver breaks this one-city tradition, and also is a smart bit of promotion. Vancouver is new in professional football. Annis Stukus fought an uphill battle there last year and in the city's first venture into the game, his club got amazingly fine support.

It was a throw-back to the long-ago days when professional hockey, as new to the west coast then as football was last year, invaded Vancouver. Victoria and New Westminster and became a tremendous game overnight. But Vancouver, in football, can do with the shot-in-the-arm the Grey Cup game will provide.

We trust this isn't just a one-year move. Other cities, east and west, would like to be hosts to the Grey Cup finals. And they deserve it. But we still believe in our own idea, a two-city play-off between the two champions. Baseball does it. Hockey does it. It's good for them. So why not for football? . . .

THINK
How valuable is your driver's licence?
Does your job or business depend on it?
Do you really need to drive?
Does that vacation you are planning include the operation of your car?
THINK Don't take your licence for granted. The operation of a motor car or motor truck is a privilege which can be suspended.
REMEMBER Your driver's licence will be suspended if you are convicted of a criminal offence or of any offence arising out of an accident. 21,000 licences were suspended in 1954. Many of those whose licences were suspended lost their jobs—others had to find a new line of business. What would YOU do without a driver's licence?
THINK and keep your licence.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge players never learn the rules they break. Some players never break the rules they learn. Some players learn the rules only so that they may know when to break them.

A simple overcall promises a minimum of five tricks, it suit of not less than five cards, two high cards among which is one sure trick. These are the minimums in all three departments.

Knowing all this, some players will make a simple overcall if the hand has only four tricks; or only a four card suit; or only one high card; or only two highs without a sure.

Is this bad? Not necessarily. It is wrong so far as rule is concerned. It is wrong so far as being dependable is concerned. It is wrong so far as misinforming partner is concerned.

But it is not necessarily bad if done by a player who has the capability of knowing when. Under certain circumstances, a clever player will break a rule and make it pay.

He may do so even if he knows it will result in defeat. But he has it figured out that his loss will be less than opponents could have made if they kept on bidding.

He may do so even if he knows the loss will be greater. But he is willing to take the gamble for a possible advantage; the hope of signalling for a favorable lead if opponents keep on.

South opens with one club when you have this west hand:

♠ 9 6 2

Your west hand is not a sound simple overcall of one spade by any known standard. If you stick in a spade bid right there you are laying yourself wide open for a terrific sock.

But some players have been known to do it against certain type of opponents. And they have been known to get away with it. But if you dabble in such things you must get your points out of a pump.

Kerima Stars in Title Role "The She Wolf"

Savage Drama of Woman's Passion

An entirely new note on the dramatic scale is struck in "The She-Wolf," super-charged emotional film starring Kerima in the title role, and introducing May Britt in an important part.

The Jules Levey picture, which opens on Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre for a two day engagement, concerns the career of an earthy, passion-driven heroine savagely in love with her daughter's husband, capable of any action which will further her emotional ambitions, and incapable of any restraint.

Ettore Manni plays Lasca, the dashing young soldier, enmeshed in her plans, and married to her daughter, contrast to that of the strange and exotic Kerima.

Verga wrote of wild and tempestuous people who reacted to circumstances they themselves made. The current film tells the story of a woman who falls madly in love with a young stranger, and subsequently arranges a marriage between him and her daughter, the better to further her diabolical plans.

Ettore Manni plays the part of Lasca, the hero who is torn between two loves. Direction by Alberto Lattuada, who also wrote the screenplay, maintains the tense atmosphere of the highly charged drama.

"Green Scarf"

A daring and exciting story—not merely a thriller but also a poignant love story woven with murder: Michael Redgrave, brilliant star of "Way to the Stars", "The Browning Version" and "The Lady Vanishes" stars in the added attraction "The Green Scarf" See it at the beginning of your complete enjoyment starting at 8.45.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, June 1, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A very stimulating, benefic day—especially for home interests, the culinary arts, canning, packaging, handling foods, beverages, for our armed forces. Be careful in finances, real estate, making promises.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Though purely personal interests may have to take a back seat in favor of more important matters, it is a fine day for all wholesome activities, artistic and mental work.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Particularly good influences for your talents and occupational goals. Start new projects, go after new clients, customers, hold conferences. Don't neglect unfinished work.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon, Mars and other planets in splendid positions favor your specific interests, occupation, family and personal affairs. Avoid extravagance.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You face bright prospects not only to-day but, for the balance of week, but you will have to use initiative, of course. Be sensibly ambitious. New and unfinished business both favored.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — This should be an ideal period for your talents, all-round capability, and for those assessential but delightful interests we all enjoy occasionally to brighten humdrum periods. Work, play in turn.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Heed Taurus: Day has fine prospects but don't indulge in extravagance or time-wasting when urgent matters wait your attention. New gains possible.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — An invigorating, productive day, promising generous returns for smart effort. Intelligent management, cooperative methods. Don't delay getting started nor waste time with unessentials.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Be amenable, but not docile, with those with or for whom you work. Right principles, intelligent know-how must be accented; this can be done by straightforward action.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Make up your mind early what you intend to do and how you will go about it. There is no need to force unwisely but be firm about accomplishing what you know to be right. A good day on the whole.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — If you will avoid useless changes and stick to a well planned schedule, you can really go far and enjoy your free hours more contentedly. Splendid aspects for work and recreation.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Your Neptune is mild in influence but Mars, the Moon and Mercury are favorably aspected; you can garner much good through good planning, effort. Think, then proceed to gain.

You born today are versatile, always busy, ever seeking more knowledge and trying your hand at something different. You like to travel and can adapt readily to new places and situations. Often unpredictable, you are a puzzle to yourself and to others — a delightful personality usually, but not always consistent. (You have a dual nature, a constant desire for change). You have so many fine points that you should aim to recognize and curb your failings. Concentrate on your regular occupation, and regard avocations only as supplementary and you will attain the success and contentment that can be yours. Prayer is your greatest ally.

FAST RELIEF FROM PAINS OF RHEUMATISM ARTHRITIS

When you suffer from the pains of Rheumatism or Arthritis you want relief and you want it fast . . . That's Aspirin! A tablet starts disintegrating almost the instant you take it—so starts to relieve that pain fast.

A CCF government would provide services to assist in development of consumer organizations controlled by consumers. Also, a consumers bureau would be established as a public service.

Such development would help the people of Ontario "more than any single issue before us in this election."

"It would represent a serious tackling of many related problems about which both old parties have done a lot of talking but merely toyed with them. for years."

OLIVER ON HIGHWAYS

Mr. Oliver said he could not "remember any story saying there was anything wrong with over-run payments and highway contractors under the Hepburn government." He added:

"Unless you under Mr. Frost's administration are so full of extensions and irregularities that he is unwise to even repeat his charges against the Liberal government in power."

He referred to last year's highway contract irregularities hearings by the legislature's select committee. Mr. Oliver, as an opposition member of the committee, walked out on the hearings.

"Mr. Frost cannot say how much of your $28,000,000 was spent legislatively or illegally," he added immediately," he said. "During the highways hearings the Tories were desperate and afraid of Mine Co. to go to any length to stifle the truth and keep hidden from you what happened to all that money."

IN PC RIDING

He spoke to about 225 persons in support of Robert D. Walker, PC candidate for Frontenac. William Mickle, provincial treasurer, held the seat in the last House and the Progressive Conservative candidate for re-election.

Mr. Oliver said the Huron Construction Company of Blenheim, Ont., was one construction firm which had "circumvented pre-qualification" to get a contract for a government road building contract although they had never built more than a mile of highway before."

Mr. Oliver said he had learned that the secretary-treasurer of the firm had been president of the East Kent Riding Progressive Conservative Association in 1948. The defeated East Kent Progressive Conservative candidate in that election was president of the company, he added.

"Mr. Frost has said my charge that $28,000,000 of your money was misspent is dishonest, untrue and trivial," Mr. Oliver said. "He has not told us where that money went."

CLAIMS MEN FIRED

Mr. Frost said the last Liberal government in Ontario discharged 500 war veterans from the provincial civil service and that they were appointed by another government.

The premier, speaking in support of Ellis Morningstar, Progressive Conservative candidate for Lincoln, was referring to statements made recently by Mr. Oliver.

Mr. Frost quoted Mr. Oliver as saying that he, Mr. Oliver, would take a broom to the civil service if the Liberal party were successful in the election.

Adding to his charges that the government of Premier Hepburn had discharged thousands civil servants because of their political affiliations, Mr. Frost said the people for a long time will not forget that "cruel patronage."

The Progressive Conservative party had abolished "that sort of thing" and had built up a civil service manned by men appointed on efficient work. WO 9-2314. J1-1m

Surplus Butter To Be Offered At 56 cts. Pound

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government now is offering to the entire dairy trade its surplus butter at a price below cost, in efforts to rid itself of a huge winter stockpile.

Officials said Monday the government is selling storage butter at 56 cents a pound wholesale, reduced from the winter price of 61 cents. They said they believe the trade generally is passing along the reduction to the consumer.

They said similar action to reduce government prices to encourage greater use of storage butter was taken in two previous post-war years: 1954 and 1950.

The butter was purchased by the government from producers at 58 cents a pound wholesale. Winter storage and freight increased costs to about 61 cents.

CONTINUES OFFER

In addition to offering the surplus butter to the general Canadian trade at 56 cents, the government is continuing its offer of selling the butter to hospitals and similar institutions for 40 cents a pound. This latter program has stimulated sales by only a few extra million pounds, officials said.

Meanwhile, the government will continue to accept surplus butter from producers this summer at 58 cents a pound. It has agreed to maintain the floor price at that level until March 31, 1956.

The government entered the 1955 butter production year last month with a record surplus of 80,000,000 pounds, up 20,000,000 from the previous year. Efforts to sell some of this on the world market have so far not been successful so far.

The administration now is considering a small export but generally the world trade has been too receptive to Canada's butter. The world butter price is about 40 cents a pound. One reported Iron Curtain offer to buy Canada's surplus at 35 cents a pound was rejected.

Canada's creamery butter production in the 1954 calendar year rose to 312,854,000 pounds from 302,783,000 in 1953. Consumption totaled 292,398,000, a gain from 285,723,000 in the previous year.

100 Scientists To Watch Eclipse Of Sun June 20

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)— More than 100 scientists and astronomers will converge on Ceylon to watch an eclipse of the sun June 20.

Teams of astro-physicists from Britain, the United States, Canada, Japan, Switzerland, India, Holland and Germany will set up camps in jungle areas.

According to Prof. von Kluber of Cambridge university who leads the British team, the total eclipse will last four minutes in Ceylon.

"It will be the longest eclipse for centuries," von Kluber said. "What we learn during that time we shall not be able to tell for another two or three years. The main work will be done afterwards, measuring, calculating and working on our results."

The British and Ceylon teams already have left for Hinguraksoda to erect their huge telescope. This task will take several weeks. The entire equipment for the experiments weighs 20 tons.

Australians Likely to Oppose Ship Rate Boost

SYDNEY (CP)—The Australian government may clash with British shipowners over their demand for higher freight rates between Australia and Europe.

The shipowners have announced that they will increase freight rates from Britain to Australia by 10 per cent from July 1.

They wish to increase rates by the same amount on cargoes from Australia to Europe, but under arrangements existing in Australia such an increase would first have to be agreed to by representatives of the main exporters and the government.

Commerce Minister J. McEwen said the rates are already "unduly high" and a direct deterrent to Australia's efforts to compete for overseas markets. Some members of Parliament are urging the government to use non-British ships to transport Australian exports to Europe.

The director of the Associated Chambers of Manufactures, Lawrence Withall, said the proposed increase would cost Australia £35,000,000 a year. It could not come at a worse time, he said, because the high level of costs in Australia is already forcing her goods out of world markets.

RUSSIA RIDE FOR MEAT

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia has asked an unidentified British firm to see if it can obtain 100,000 tons of meat for the Russian market, it was learned today. The query was put to representatives of the firm when they visited Moscow recently.

SHELL

The Greater the need for High Octane
The Greater the need for TCP

Today's engines deliver more power than ever before—and with greater economy, too!

They're high compression engines. They're built to squeeze more power out of every drop of the high octane gasolines they require.

But high octane alone will not keep these engines delivering their full power. They must be protected against the harmful effects of deposits that build up in combustion chambers.

The reason is this...

When your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!
